THE DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS.

W. THORNHILL & CO., Sole Agents.

The Reputation of the "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS," originally introduced into England by W. THORNHILL and CO. is now permanently established. The success of their enterprise has surpassed their most sanguine expectations. DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS afford the only instance hitherto attained of the absolutely perfect representation of the real diamonds by artificial means. These remarkable stones, by their purity and brilliancy, support comparison with diamonds of the first water, and are undistinguishable therefrom. They are infinitely superior in every respect to real diamonds of inferior quality. DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS were exposed side by side with real diamonds of great value in the Paris Exhibition, 1878, and were awarded a Prize Medal and the highest recompense awarded to imitations. They attracted universal attention and admiration, and forthwith became much in vogue with the grande monde and elite of society. They are now worn at the Court balls, and upon all occasions in London, Paris, and St. Petersburg. They are invaluable for intermixing with and replacing purines and other costly diamond ornaments. DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS can be worn at all times, even by daylight, with confidence and absolute security. They possess the penetrating brilliancy and lustre peculiar to real diamonds, and the concessionaires guarantee the surprise and pleasure of purchasers. The perfection thus attained is the result of investigations and experiments extending over two generations. The cost, nevertheless, of the DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS is about 1-30th that of real diamonds.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay June 9; Madras and Allahabad, May 9; Calcutta, May 8.

The agitation against the Simla system of "government by picnic" gains strength, and has already borne fruit. The Government of India has checked Mr. Grant-Duff in his desire to extend the system by locating the military accounts at Bangalore. Lord Ripon has properly exercised his power of veto, in preventing Mr. Grant-Duff from thus subordinating the public interests to the comfort of a few highly-placed officials. To the native subordinates, who form the vast bulk of those who are thus yearly carried up to the hills, the exodus is an unmitigated affliction; they are torn away from their homes for the greater part of the year, and forced to shiver in a climate that is not only uncongenial but positively unwholesome to them.

The enormous and growing burden on the public revenues that is caused by the exodus is a serious consideration; but we agree with those who say it is a consideration that ought not to weigh heavily against any advantages (if such there were) of more efficient administration. But do these advantages of more efficient administration really exist? We are quite willing to admit that the Secretaries and Under Secretaries may be able to get through a little more work in the bright air of Simla than they would in Calcutta, though the energy displayed by the judges of the High Courts, and by the officers of the administration in the plains generally, seems to show that even this advantage may be over-estimated. But the experience of the last two years seems to be absolutely conclusive on one all-important point; and that is, that such minor advantages as that of the increased physical vigour of the Secretaries are absolutely as nothing when compared with the enormous disadvantages entailed by the mischievous seclusion, during the greater part of the year, of those who direct the policy of the empire. At Simla the Viceroy lives in an atmosphere heavily charged with the noxious vapours of sycophancy and adulation. His conversation one day is chiefly with Mr. Ilbert and Dr. Hunter, and the next it is chiefly with Dr. Hunter and Mr. Ilbert—of course we use these names as types, and in no personal sense; and the obvious result—the necessary result whenever the Viceregal mind happens not to be a particularly strong one—is a Mutual Admiration Society of the worst order. If, for instance, the Viceroy is understood to fondly cherish some of those Socialistic fads that are harmless and amusing in an English Liberal peer, forthwith those fads become the mainsprings of a great and far-reaching policy. Ilbert Bills and Bengal Tenancy Bills spring up, in such a soil, as naturally and as rapidly as toadstools in a sunless and noisome dungeon; and the inevitable result must commonly be such orgies of legislative debauchery as those which have shaken the Empire to its foundation during the past two years.

We are glad to learn that some of the native associations, as well as the Chambers of commerce and kindred organisations, are joining in the general protest against "government from the hills."

The Bombay folk have done wisely in invoking the aid of Sir Richard Temple and Sir George Birdwood for the formation of a London Committee for the Bombay Exhibition of 1886. Under such auspices the Committee ought to be a strong one.

The Indian Government have decided to retain the services of Colonel C. A. Moore, of the Bombay Cavalry, until the 30th September next, for the special duty on which that officer is engaged in connection with the revision of the Bengal Cantonment regulations.

The Indigo and Tea Planter's Gazette, reproducing an article from the Morning Post, entitled "The Indian tea industry endangered by the Bengal Tenancy Bill," says:—

"The facts contained in the article are perfectly known to all who have any knowledge of Bengal; and the special powers which the Tenancy Bill would give to coolies in common with all who rent, occupy, or till land, to become virtual proprietors, has been dealt with by the Indian Press. It is satisfactory to see that already the press of England is being so well kept abreast of current Indian affairs as this article indicates."

The Civil and Military Gazette has the following very just remarks on the criticisms of the Times on Mr. Buckland's letter regarding the Tenancy Bill:—

"The Times comment on Mr. Buckland's letter in a somewhat disparaging tone, but is merely misleading its readers in saying that the class of natives now calling out against the Bengal Tenancy Bill is just that in whose favour the notorious Ilbert Bill was introduced. The 'Baboos' for whom the Ilbert Bill was constructed were a noisy rabble of disappointed place-hunters, those who oppose the Tenancy Bill are the landed aristocracy of Bengal, who certainly have very great and special claims on the good offices of the country and of the Government."

A WELL-KNOWN advertisement has made the public familiar with a composition that is known as "Rough on Rats." The Indigo and Tea Planter's Gazette is very rough on Dr. Hunter, whose deputation to England it looks upon as a gross job of Lord Ripon's. It says:—

"The Honorable W. W. has left the shores of India once more to sojourn for a while in England and to draw Indian pay. As Director General of Statistics he is supposed to know something of railways. At all events he has been primed with facts and figures, and the Railway Committee are now to have the benefit of his cleverness in assimilating facts collected by other men and reproducing deductions made by other brains. He played a farewell fantasia on his own horn before the Bengal Chamber of Commerce. With his usual adroitness he arranged for the sucking of the brains of the merchants of Bombay, and now he goes to England to represent the Railway Department and the Bombay Chamber of Commerce. The versatile W. W. has from a very early period of his career manipulated with an adroitness almost amounting to genius, the public press. Who does not remember the splendid ru-tat-too-tat-too despatches which in the form of telegrams, were scattered to the press of India during the progress of the great showman's stumping tour as president of the Educational Committee? More recently still, when a very wicked newspaper man from the midst of the city of dismal stinks ventured to question the fitness of the great official Panjandrum to be examined as an expert, the poor proser was silenced by cleverly written telegrams extolling the exceeding fitness of W. W. to travel at the country's expense to say his lessons, carefully learned beforehand, before the Railway Committee. You are a remarkably smart man, W. W., you can humbug the press, hoodwink superior officials, effectively suck the brains of many more superior men than yourself, get yourself appointed to all sorts of delightful posts, and on your way to England to disgorge your statistics, be chased by a Queen's birthday decoration. W. W. is a very fair example of the wonderful idol—gold, silver, brass, shoddy, and clay—set up by the great Nebuchadnezzar of modern days, the competitive system of examination, for the mob to fall down and worship."

"There is an unusual unanimity in the regret which is finding expression on all sides that advantage was not taken of the opportunity afforded by the Birthday Gazette to confer upon one of the worthiest servants of the State in India the fitting reward for his long and conspicuously successful labours in the public weal. On all sides it is admitted that Mr. Rivers Thompson has first claim to the next K.C.S.I., and when Sir E. Olive Bayley's death rendered a place in the order vacant, most people thought that the Gazette of May 24 would announce his appointment. But the Gazette was silent regarding Mr. Thompson—a silence which has been the subject of general comment during the past week. Certainly, no other appointment is made over his head, as was the case when Sir Evelyn Baring became a K.C.S.I., and it may be that the vacant place is reserved for him. It is urged in excuse of the Government, and in support of this view, that the death of Sir E. C.

Bayley being so recent, there was no time to nominate a successor before the Gazette was drafted. But these things can be done by telegraph in case of necessity, and it is unfortunate that the omission in this instance should be calculated to give rise to the reflection, which has found free utterance also, that things might have been different had Mr. Thompson been an out-and-out supporter of the present Government of India. But Mr. Thompson has opinions of his own, and holds to them, as his long experience of India entitles him to do. That experience led him to take a very decided position, not on the side of the Viceroy, upon the Ilbert Bill question; and the interpretation the public naturally gives to the tardiness shown in conferring upon him the honour which is his due, is that he has not yet been quite forgiven the independent expression of his honest opinions on that occasion.

THE Times of India says on this :

"If Mr. Rivers Thompson had been as strong a supporter of the Liberal Government as, say, the Hon. William Wilson Hunter, B.A., LL.D., C.S.I., C.I.E., &c., we suspect that with the aid of the electric telegraph the vacancy would have been filled up easily enough."

WE entirely agree with the following remarks of the Indian Daily News :—

"We congratulate the Government upon the honour it has conferred upon Rai Kanaye Lal Dey, Bahadoor, and Baboo Doorga Churn Laha. In each case the honour is more than well deserved; but when, we would ask, are the public services of the Hon. Rai Kristodas Pal to be fittingly acknowledged? We may differ on many points from Rai Kristodas; but this does not prevent us from appreciating the great services he has rendered to India, in which respect we regard him as the foremost man in the three Presidencies. As for the other rewards conferred by Lord Ripon, they proceed upon no principle that we can see, except absolute favouritism—or, it may be, a sort of lottery was held in the recesses of the Foreign Office."

THE Punjab Times says :—

"Whispers are floating about to the effect that seditious journalism in India is being supported by Russian money. Can such a thing be possible? Can we not 'rest and be thankful,' confident in the assurances of Mr. Gladstone that our relations with Russia are satisfactory? Some circumstances which have transpired at Umritsur are suggestive, and we hear of something curious nearer the frontier. Our local police are doubtless on the alert."

A NEW reason for the Honourable Mr. Hunter's deputation to England has been found by the Times of India :—

"The idea that the case of the Public Works Department (whatever that may be) will not be complete without his advocacy will be news, indeed, to that much-abused department. At Simla it is an open secret that the Honourable Member has a more ambitious and, it must be admitted, a more arduous brief. A voluble tongue and a facile pen are wanted—not for the Public Works Department, which is already amply represented—but to prop up a reputation never very brilliant and now in hopeless decadence. The time has not yet come to review Lord Ripon's career as a whole; but whatever he may do, or attempt to do, in the few months that remain to his Viceroyalty, he can hardly hope to give clearer point to the moral that there can be no more dangerous and, indeed, impossible pursuit for a Viceroy in India than the quest of class popularity. This is the rock on which he has most seriously stumbled, with the result of embittering every class, one after another, whom it was hoped to conciliate. The Europeans will never forgive him for his short-sighted and mischievous novelties; the natives will never forget how he abandoned the promised concessions which they had already begun to consider their own. In England, while the Conservatives denounce him as a man who, in an essentially Conservative Empire, has shown no reverence for the past, the Liberals have been forced to give him up as a broken reed that fails at the crisis, and only pierces the hand that would support it. The recent attempt to throw upon Lord Kimberley the sole responsibility of stirring up the Church Disestablishment Question is on a par with the struggle to saddle Sir Ashley Eden with the Ilbert Bill. Mr. Hunter will, indeed, find his work cut out for him, and we shall be surprised if the narrow and jealous limits of privilege leave are not specially relaxed to enable him to accomplish it more effectually. In any case it may be hoped that this supreme effort to conciliate public opinion may not meet with the condign punishment awarded to its predecessors. It will be hard, indeed, if some better explanation cannot be found to questions which are certain to be asked in the House than were found for the garbled telegrams and suppressed despatches of 1883."

OUR Radical contemporary, the Western Morning News, thus notices the St. James's Hall Demonstration against the Bengal Tenancy Bill on Wednesday last :—

"The Indian Constitutional Association and the Liberty and Property Defence League have joined hands in opposition to that 'ungodly measure,' as the Hindoo Patriot terms it, the Bengal Tenancy Bill. In support of the demand for a Commission of Inquiry, to take evidence in public, before the Bill becomes law, a meeting was held at St. James's Hall this afternoon, but was not, despite wide publicity and a parade of sandwich men in Piccadilly, largely attended. The Earl of Wemyss and March, however, aroused much enthusiasm by his fervid attack on the Bill, in which he drew a parallel between the legislation proposed for India and that which had been put into force in Ireland. His lordship asked whether, in face of the results of passing laws of that character near home, it was politic to extend them to our empire in the East? Very cleverly the Earl elaborated a criticism both upon Mr. Gladstone and remedial measures for Ireland out of the immediate subject of the meeting, and insisting that across St. George's Channel a vast amount of property had passed from the hands of the loyal to the disloyal, he with fiery vigour roundly condemned the Bengal Bill as being based on injustice and framed on a bad model. Sir J. Hay, M.P., and Mr. D. Onslow, M.P., wrote letters of sympathy with the object in view, and Mr. J. Lowther, M.P., sent a telegram protesting against the confiscation of property in Bengal. Lord Bramwell and Lord Stanley of Alderley were among the other critics of the measure, and Mr. Roper Lethbridge, Conservative candidate for Whitby, eloquently urged objections to its becoming law. One point was that promises given by Government, however long ago, should be solemnly kept."

WE take from the Journal of the National Indian Association for July, the following items of personal intelligence, relating to our Indian visitors :—

"Mr. A. Chaudhuri (St. John's) was one of the successful candidates in the Cambridge Mathematical Tripos, Parts I. and II., and was placed among the Junior Optimes. Mr. C. Golaknath, B.A. (Christ's), has been approved for the degree of LL.M. Kumar Shri Harbhamji (Trinity) has been allowed an Ordinary B.A. degree. Mr. S. Nabi Ullah (St. John's) has been allowed an Ordinary B.A. degree. Mr. Ramdas Chubild. (Christ's) has passed in the Additional Subjects of the Previous Examination in the Second Class, and has been elected to a Scholarship of £30 for proficiency in Sanskrit, from the result of the College Examination. Mr. Inayatullah (Trinity Hall) has passed in Part II. of the Previous Examination of the University of Cambridge in the Second Class. Mr. Jamsetjee Framjee Kolopurwalla has passed the LL.B.C.S. (Edinburgh) Examination. At the recent Examination of the Inns of Court, the Council of Legal Education awarded to Mr. C. Golaknath a certificate of having satisfactorily passed a public examination. Dr. J. A. Simoens has obtained a Qualification in Sanitary Science in the University of Durham, and in the Competitive Examination in the College of Medicine, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, he gained the Silver Medal and First Certificate of Honour. Arrivals.—Mr. and Mrs. Cowasjee, Jehanghier from Bombay; Mr. Mahomed Ali Rogay, Mr. Bomonjee Ardesseer Wadia, Mr. Ardesseer Nowrozjee Daver, Mr. Furdoonjee Limji Batliboi, Mr. Dhanjibhoy Bomanjee Mistry, and Mr. Pestonjee Hormusjee Patack, all from Bombay; and Mr. C. C. Lalkaka, from Ahmedabad. Departure.—Mr. G. C. Bose, Bengal Agricultural Scholar, 1881.

THE Times of India gives the following obituary till the departure of the Mail, June 10 :—

"Lieut. H. M. Chapman, R.E.; Major E. Newbery, Personal Assistant to the Inspector General of Police, Punjab; Captain Henry Richardson, Port Officer of Calicut; Rae Bak-tawar Singh, Rao Bahadoor, Subordinate Judge, Meerut; Mr. Arthur Vincent Roberts, Assistant Engineer, Benares Cuttack Railway Survey."

THE Indigo and Tea Planters' Gazette says :—

"The superior person who is called His Excellency in Madras, has made another speech, nothing extraordinary for him, indeed we should say that one of the things which he sadly misses in this India of ours is the occasion, so frequent at home, of making a speech. He has made a speech after the ru-tat-too-tat to style of that great artistic humbug, W. W. Translated into ordinary prose, it is as follows :—'We are a great Empire, Sirs, we are progressing amazingly, and I know it better than anybody else, for I have compared Sir Auckland Colvin's budget with the one I laid before the House of Commons a quarter of a century ago; receipts have gone up, taxation has gone down.' There are only three persons of the slightest importance in this world to the honourable gentleman who draws the salary of the Governorship of Madras, there are 'me, myself, and I.' Everybody and everything are mere adjuncts to this great personage; and yet these shallow-br men succeed because the bulk of their countrymen take them at their own estimate of themselves."

THE Englishman gives the following account of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected up to Saturday June 7:—

"Rates for steam tonnage have had a hardening tendency during the past week and have risen 2s. 6d. per ton all round. There is no change whatever in quotations for sailing vessels. The demand is moderate. Two ships have been berthed for London, one for Liverpool, and another obtained a charter for the Bristol Channel. Our unfixed tonnage stands nearly at the same figure as last week, viz., 38,000 tons."

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

THE following are the general remarks of the Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ended May 28:—

"During the past week rain has been general over British Burma, Assam, and Bengal proper, and at Rungpore. Akyab and Thongwa the fall has been heavy. Rain has also fallen over Mysore, Coorg, and the southern districts of the Madras Presidency. Over Central and North Western India the weather continues dry, and hot west winds are prevalent. Agricultural prospects are unchanged in Madras; rice and millets are being harvested, and standing crops are in fair condition. Locusts have appeared in Kurnool, and want of rain is felt in Chingleput. In Mysore prospects are favourable, but the rabi crop in parts of Coorg has suffered from want of timely rain, and the coffee berries have been injuriously affected by the same cause. Kharis sowings have commenced in several districts of the Bombay Presidency. More rain is required in Dharwar, where a scarcity of water is still felt. In Hyderabad the rabi harvest is not quite over, but kharif preparations are in progress there and in the Berars. In Central India and Rajputana agricultural operations are in abeyance, and water is scarce in Neemuch and Ulwar. The rabi harvest is approaching completion in the Punjab, and kharif sowings have begun in parts. In the North Western Provinces and Oudh sugarcane and indigo are being irrigated, and kharif sowings continue. Water is scarce in three districts. Winnowing of the rabi harvest is nearly finished in the Central Provinces, and fields are being prepared for the kharif. In Bengal standing crops promise well, but rain is urgently wanted in some districts. The boro paddy is still being harvested in places. Prospects are generally good in Assam, but rain is needed in parts of Gakhati. In British Burma the monsoon appears to have set in. Considerable damage has been done to stocks of paddy in Akyab by a hurricane which occurred during the preceding week. Cholera has appeared in the Kangra district of the Punjab, and is on the increase in the Allahabad district; but there has been a general improvement in the health of the northern provinces. Both small-pox and cholera are still prevalent in the southern presidencies. Prices are on the whole stationary, though local fluctuations are common."

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

FROM the correspondent of the Standard, Calcutta, June 27:—

"The Defence Association has issued invitations to the different representative bodies, European and native (including the Chambers of Commerce and the Trades Associations), to concert a movement against the annual exodus of the Government to the hills. Already the agitation has borne fruit, by checking the growth of the evil."

"The Government of India has forbidden the Madras Government to remove the Military Accounts Department to Bangalore. It will be remembered that the proposal to make this transfer was the immediate occasion of the present protest."

"The Supreme Government has also refused to sanction the arming of the Mofussil Police with Snider carbines."

"It is now almost settled to hold the Bombay Exhibition in 1886. The Viceroy has consented to be patron. It is proposed to request Sir Richard Temple and Sir George Birdwood to form the London Committee."

"Camps of exercise are to be formed in the cold weather at Delhi and at Hossan Abdul."

THE following is the usual weekly telegram from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated June 29:—

"It is reported, apparently on good authority, that owing to the fact of the existing number of cavalry regiments being found insufficient for frontier duty, the Government contemplates the raising of two or three new regiments. It may be remembered that some two or three years ago, the number of regiments in the native army was reduced; although the total strength of that army was left intact. If it be true that the Government intends to increase the number of the regiments, it will be generally admitted that this is a step in the right direction."

"If there be anything regarding which all Indian officers are practically agreed, it is that the Indian Army, European and native, as at present constituted, is wholly inadequate for the threefold duty which it may at any time be called upon to perform—namely, the despatch of a strong corps beyond the frontier, the detailing of another strong corps to hold the frontier and communications, and the provision, in the country, of a force, sufficient to overawe the troops of the feudatory States, and the disaffected element of the people. The defects of the existing military organisation have long been a matter of comment. The subject has recently been brought into special prominence by reason of the rapid advance of the Russians in Central Asia, and it now furnishes matter for almost daily articles in all the Anglo-Indian journals."

"There is a consensus of opinion on most points. Thus, it is admitted that the short-service system supplies India with an inefficient and costly European garrison; and that the local European regiments of the Company's days should be revived; or, at any rate, that soldiers for Indian service should be enlisted for a period of twelve years. It is admitted, too, that service in the native army should be made more attractive, so as to secure a better class of recruits; that the strength of that army should be very greatly increased, and that steps should be adopted to form a Reserve, by retaining a claim upon the large body of trained soldiers who take their discharge after five years' service. There are also various details which urgently require attention, such as the organisation of a Transport and Commissariat fit to take the field at once."

"Another step which should be taken without delay is that of insisting upon a reduction of the utterly useless armies maintained by the native States. Many of these armies are badly armed and only half trained, while others are in a high state of efficiency. But be their armament and discipline what they may, the very number of these troops, amounting, as it does to about 380,000 makes them at all times a source of anxiety, and would have the effect of locking up a large proportion of the British forces in the event of the outbreak of a foreign war."

"The agitation in Madras against the removal of the Government to the hills seems likely to have some effect, as it is rumoured that the Supreme Government has directed the Military Accounts Office to be retained in the capital for the present. Meanwhile, the agitation shows no signs of abating in the southern Presidency. A requisition, bearing 1,700 signatures, has been presented to the Sheriff of Madras, asking him to call a meeting for the purpose of recording a public protest. The Calcutta newspapers, European and native, contain strongly-written articles on the subject, and the organising of a public meeting is spoken of, although no steps have yet been taken to call one. A few feeble and evidently inspired defences of the existing system have appeared. These generally begin by repeating the old and idle threat that if the people of Calcutta agitate in the matter the Government will altogether abandon this city and fix itself permanently at Simla."

The only really serious argument is that the giving up of Simla as the summer headquarters of the Government will render the Indian service less attractive, and thus greatly restrict the field of choice in obtaining Viceroy's. This argument entirely overlooks the fact that before Simla became the summer capital India was able to secure men like Lords Wellesley, Dalhousie, and Canning. It may be answered, too, that no one would grudge the Viceroy a two or three months' residence in the hills, and that what is objectionable is the removing thither of the whole paraphernalia of Government."

"A memorial praying the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal to exercise the powers which he possesses under the Calcutta Municipal Act and to appoint a Commission to inquire into the action of the Corporation in respect of sanitary measures is in circulation, and is being largely signed by influential persons. Mr. Thomson will return from Darjeeling on Wednesday next, and will spend a month here. It is to be hoped that during his stay he will institute a searching inquiry and take measures for compelling our very easy-going municipality to do its duty. At present the city is fairly healthy. But it is the opinion of all experts that unless radical methods of sanitation be adopted at once the fatal months of March and April will next year witness an alarming increase of preventable epidemic disease."

"Mr. Blandford, meteorological reporter to the Government, has published a second note on the Himalayan snowfall. He says that the fall on the inner ranges north-west of the Sutlej was unusually heavy and continued late. The fall was lighter to the South-east of the Sutlej. Regarding the probable effect on the rainfall he thinks it necessary to speak with diffidence, as his experience has been so small, but he is inclined to expect a somewhat "retracted" or weak and interrupted monsoon during the earlier months in North-Western India, and, possibly, also, in Rajputana and northern Bombay. He holds it to be unlikely that the whole of this area will be simultaneously affected, or that the conditions now existing will provide during the whole of the monsoon. He adds, that the present season in many respects resembles the early part of 1876; which, it will be remembered, was the year of the Madras famine.

"The Bonnerwails tribe, on the Hazara frontier, lately threatened to attack the British village of Roostum; but hearing that a detachment of Guides had been sent to the spot, they wisely gave up the idea.

"The expedition charged to punish the Hakar Pathans of the Zhob Valley, who raided on Dhuki some weeks ago, will start as soon as the weather permits. The composition of the force has not yet been definitively announced, but General Tanner will be in command.

"Several influential chiefs of Maimena have just reached Cabul. The Ameer received them kindly. They asked that Mir Hossein Khan might not be restored to the Mirship, as he was generally disliked. The Ameer replied that he would appoint a Governor who was liked by the people.

"The rumour that the Indian Government was about to subsidise the Ghilzai tribe is quite unfounded.

"The news received from Meshed goes to show that unusual activity prevails along the Russian territory east of the Caspian, and that Russia is making good her claim to pose as the protector of the nomad tribes in the Heri-Rud and Murghab valleys, by moving troops into those districts. Everything indicates a further move southwards.

"The prominence which the Indian native newspapers are giving to the subject of the Russian advance, proves how great has been the impression made on the native mind. All my information is to the effect that this advance is a topic of common discussion in every bazaar in the country; and I am told of one large city in Bengal where it is confidently asserted and believed that the thunder of Russian guns has been heard in Cashmere.

"The Mengwoon Prince, Pretender to the Burmese Throne, who for some years past has been living in retirement in the French settlement of Chandernagore, recently contrived to effect his escape. It is said that he was conveyed in a box on board a Messageries Maritimes steamer at Calcutta. He has, however, arrived at Colombo, and is about to be sent back to India.

"Disorder and anxiety continue to prevail at Mandalay, and throughout Upper Burmah. The King is said to have made an unsuccessful attempt to poison the Queen's mother. He has married the Queen's sister, and the influence of Queen Soopyalat is believed to be declining.

"The time seems to have come when the Indian Government should no longer delay the work of restoring order, and of reasserting its influence in Burmah. The necessity for such a step has been increased by the recent French acquisitions in Tonquin, which bring the French sensibly nearer to Mandalay, and raise the possibility of future complications. Suspicions are not wanting that the escape of the Mengwoon Prince was connived at by the French authorities; and bearing in mind the anxiety which King Theebaw has always shown to secure alliances with foreign European Powers, it would be well for England once for all to assert her position on the paramount Power in Burmah."

OPINIONS OF THE ENGLISH PRESS ON THE ST. JAMES'S HALL DEMONSTRATION AGAINST THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

THE St. James's Gazette says:—

"Another Indian grievance. 'Zemindars,' 'ryots,' 'occupancy rights,' 'Permanent Settlement,' and all the rest of it. Surely, these things may be left to the Indian Government. Intolerable to ask plain Englishmen, worried to death as they are with matters they can comprehend, to cultivate an interest in questions so manifestly beyond the scope of ordinary understanding." Unreasonable as the design may look, the attempt was made in all seriousness yesterday, and on grounds we hope to make clear.

"Let us say, first of all, that, in spite of the perverse affection of Anglo-Indians for the technicalities of Indian questions, they are in their essence as intelligible as any we have to deal with at home. And this particular controversy bears, as the speakers from the Liberty and Property Defence League were perhaps over careful to show, a very close relation indeed to some burning and as yet unsettled questions of home politics. In a word, the Bengal Rent Bill is in some respects an exaggerated, in others an attenuated, version of Mr. Gladstone's latest Irish Land Act. The conditions are not precisely the same in Bengal and in Ireland; but the considerations which apply to one country apply to the other. And there is a special reason why Englishmen should give good heed to the voices heard yesterday. Modest as is the place which the report of yesterday's meeting holds in our English journals, it gave expression to a sense of wrong which is felt acutely and bitterly throughout the length and breadth of Bengal, and which, by the confession of every one, may lead to political results of the gravest moment. Let us note, moreover, how moderate, how distinctly practical is the plea advanced. The landholders and their friends do not ask the Government here in England to put a peremptory stop to all that is being done or proposed at Calcutta. They do not ask us to place implicit faith, or any faith at all, in their assertions. They do not require that anything should be determined for them or against them at Whitehall. They appeal simply from the arbitrary will and secret councils of the Viceroy and the officials who control legislation. They ask, in fine, for a full inquiry by a Commission 'comprising unofficial Englishmen, which shall take evidence and examine into all the circumstances of the case.' It needs no special knowledge to see that there is sense in the request. Granted that interference with the discretion of the Government of India is as a rule to be deprecated, granted that India cannot be governed by public meetings, still, where such tremendous issues are involved, where the tension of feeling is so extreme, is it wrong to desire that the responsible rulers of India should not merely take the fullest steps to enlighten their judgment, but should convince every one that they are doing so? That there is need of ampler and less prejudiced inquiry hardly admits of doubt. The whole project of legislation grew out of the desire to give the landlords more efficacious means of receiving their rents. From this germ the scheme of revolutionising agrarian relations in Bengal was hatched in the bureaux. There have been, no doubt, no end of references to local governments; and opinions of district officers have been taken without stint. But the manipulation of results lay with a few pedantic votaries of tenant-right; and the criticisms and suggestions received, though to unbiased minds they would suggest the utter badness of the original draft, have simply availed to modify it in no very favourable sense as regards details.

"To condemn the proposal of Lord Ripon we need not dispute or deny the historical basis of the conception on which he proceeds. There was a time, no doubt, when the lands of Bengal were the property of the cultivators; when the only dues they paid were the revenue claimed by the State. But that condition of things has, for more than a century, been extinct. At the Permanent Settlement we recognised as owners the men who, up to that time, had been intermediaries for the collection of the State demand. Since then they have exercised the ordinary rights of landlords. Their rights have passed from hand to hand, just as the holdings of the cultivators have been transferred from family to family. The village community has, for all practical purposes, died out; though it suits a certain school of Anglo-Indian believers in tenant-right to invoke the conception when they want a pretext for transferring property from the owner to the tenant. To quote a brief summary of the scheme, the charges 'operate to enlarge immensely the right of the cultivator as a member of the village community in contradistinction to his former right as tenant of a particular holding. Cultivators whose right of occupancy is recognised and empowered to sub-let and transfer their interest, and the maximum of rent claimable is fixed at one-fifth the estimated average annual value of the gross produce in staple crops.' The impairment of the landlord's existing rights is clear. Instead of getting the market value or the customary value of his land, he sees it passed over at an arbitrarily reduced quit-rent to the existing lessees. If the tenants were really benefited in proportion to the owner's loss, there would be less to be said. But we know by the saddest experience that to give the cultivator transferable rights in the soil is simply to place him in the toils of the money-lenders. This was the result in Bombay, where the State—who was the landlord—made over proprietary right to the holder; and it will be the same in Bengal when the State has completed the spoliation of the proprietors. Not the tillers of Bengal, but the money-lenders, will 'bless Lord Ripon's name.' And with them the lawyers, who will find in every line of the new project a mine of wealth. It is the old story. Political economy will avenge itself on benevolent intentions."

The Morning Advertiser says:—

"To a more general audience than that which he addressed yesterday at St. James's Hall, Lord Brougham's speech on the Bengal Tenancy Bill ought to offer attractions. Liberal as he is, it was a telling and almost merciless exposure of Liberal theories about land and land legislation, whether in Ireland or in India. Nothing could have been more conclusive than the way in which he showed up the mischievous nature of the principles which have been applied to Ireland and are in course of application to Bengal and Behar; and nothing could have been more stinging and more true than his demonstration that the policy of the Government in the distressed country, and in the valley of the Ganges, is to all intents and purposes identical in its aims, and is based upon not only fallacy, but fraud. In both cases it leads to confiscation and litigation, for its authors do not dare to lay down in their Acts all that they intend, and they leave the working out of the measures to courts in which no one can do anything without, as Mr. Roper Lethbridge said in his very able speech, 'the omnivorous lawyer.' The settlement made by Lord Cornwallis, which lasted from 1793 to 1839 undisturbed, and which did not work unsatisfactorily till it was tinkered at then and ten years subsequently, was intended to be a permanent settlement, just to the zemindars or land-owners, and favourable to the ryots or cultivators. Of course it goes without saying that permanence is impossible in legislative enactments. When circumstances change, laws must be changed to allow for them. But here is a wanton, wholly gratuitous piece of legislative meddling with the solemn, fundamental compact made between ourselves and those over whom, through the East India Company, we assumed sovereignty in Northern India. The zemindars are to be robbed of what is beyond all doubt theirs, in order that the ryots, without capital to tide over bad times, such as famines, may, by squatting on the land, obtain rights of occupancy, the onus being thrown on the owner of the land to prove the negative. Then what is called Fair Rent is in Bengal and Behar, as in Ireland, to be not what the land will bring in the open market—the only true criterion of value, as Lord Bramwell said—but what ‘the Court may order.’ Indeed, the Bill is so overloaded with reference to the Court and the Revenue officers, that Mr. Lethbridge is fully justified in his sarcasm that the officials may do what they please, and ‘the landlord can hardly salaam to his tenant or the tenant salaam to his landlord without the consent in writing first obtained of the policeman, and the Revenue Officer, and the Civil Court, and the Government.’ Then freedom of contract between the landlord and tenant is to be abolished, but the worst part of the measure is that in which the ryots are to be allowed to sell rights which are not theirs but their landlords’ without the landlords’ consent. The zemindar is no longer to have the right of choosing his own tenant, and, as Mr. Lethbridge puts it, the Bill ‘cuts away the very principle by which twelve years’ undisturbed occupation was supposed to give the tenant an occupancy right as being presumably a good tenant, and it enables every malicious enemy of the zemindar to obtain a secure footing on that zemindar’s own land whence to assail and annoy him.’ The right of free sale given by the Bill to the ryot will undoubtedly throw the whole land of Bengal into the hands of the money-lenders, and the last state of the cultivator will thus be worse than the first. Instead of having relations of mutual benefit with his landlord, he will be the serf of the usurer, whose only object will be to grind the last anna out of him. It is bad enough now as between the ryot and the usurer; it will be infinitely worse if the Bill is allowed to be carried into law against the votes of the non-official members of the Legislative Council by the votes of those who are dependent upon the nod and beck of Lord Ripon.

“We believe the true way to meet and defeat the Bill through the action of public opinion in England is to show that it is a Socialistic measure, based upon a mischievous principle, which will ruin those whom it pretends to benefit, and in any case is sheer confiscation of rights guaranteed in the most solemn fashion by the State which, in point of fact, will have obtained possession of Bengal and Behar as much by fraud as by force if it now upsets the fundamental basis of the Cornwallis settlement. The result can hardly be other than the ruin of the zemindars in even a greater degree than the Irish landlords have been ruined, and the transfer of their property to the members of a class which has no capacity for doing well with it, for the benefit either of themselves or of the community. The zemindars, as we have pointed out long since, correspond to the Irish gentry in more respects than one. Not only do they possess an indefeasible and guaranteed right in the land, but they have been loyal to British rule through any and every emergency, just as in Ireland the loyal, orderly, and law-abiding classes are to be plundered for the sake of giving a sop to those who have not always been loyal or orderly, and whose support is really not to be bought by gifts which, it is demonstrable, will do the receiver no good, but will even do him harm by depriving him of the support of the landlord on whom he was able to lean in hard times. And the agrarian revolution that is attempted is not even justified by any general demand on the part of the ryots. It is denounced wholly or partially by every man who has held high administrative office in India, and is not under Lord Ripon’s thumb, or looking to him for advancement in the public service, and the landowners declare with one voice that it is a vile breach of public faith, as, indeed, it is. Far be it from us to say that some measure was not needed to give the ryot protection for the labour he put into the soil. We think had Lord Lytton remained in office he would have taken some steps in this direction. But that is a very different thing from setting up a Court to do what it pleases with the property of the zemindars, and lays down no fixed principles for the guidance of the Court. And there is no need for the wild schemes put forward by Lord Ripon, and already somewhat modified in deference to the outburst of official and public opinion in India. The peasantry of Bengal and Behar are not an oppressed and over-driven people. They have been continually advancing in prosperity under the existing law, and if that law is to be changed it should surely not be in favour of a policy which shocked even Lord Hartington, who told the Viceroy that, after a careful consideration of his arguments, he was not satisfied that a measure is advisable which appeared to ‘make so great and so entirely novel a departure from both the ancient custom and the existing law of Bengal.’

“Though modified, as we have shown, the Bill is still righteously opposed by the native landowners and numbers of English officials, because it goes against the ancient and existing land law of the country, takes away the rights of the landowners and confers them on the cultivators, assumes what judicial decisions have negatived, and takes for granted as facts statements which have not been proved. It does not do what was really wanted—namely, simplify the relations between landlord and tenant in respect of fixing and collecting rent. On the contrary, it is calculated to flood Bengal and Behar with litigation, to which the native mind is already far too greatly inclined; it will turn many of the peasantry into day labourers, and it will place all landed property at the mercy of lawyers and revenue officers, so that, in the words of a native member of the Viceroy’s Council, it will ‘neutralise the vital principle of self-reliance in the agricultural population and destroy its backbone.’ We were told by Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues that the principles of recent Irish land legislation were quite inapplicable in England or Scotland, or elsewhere; but here we have them travestied and exaggerated in India by the nobleman who let us in for the Alabama indemnity by the very use of vague phrases which are so evident in the Bengal Tenancy Bill—vague phrases which leave everything to the Courts, as they left us at the mercy of the Geneva Tribunal. Legislation of this sort is a curse and not a blessing to any country, and if Lord Ripon persists in forcing his Bill upon his Council he will have left an indelible print of evil upon India, and will have destroyed the confidence which the most loyal and law-abiding classes have hitherto had in the justice and fairness of the Government of Calcutta. No further progress is likely to be made with the Bill before November, and we trust ere that time arrives means will have been found, either through the pressure of public opinion upon the Government at home or by the direct action of the Secretary of State in Council, to put an end to the measure of confiscation, and to compel the introduction of a simpler Bill which will effect, without robbery of the rights of the zemindars, all improvements that are really acquired by the ryots.”

THE MEETING OF THE BENGAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

It is usually stated, and no doubt with a great degree of truth, that what is known as the “Opposition” amongst party politicians at home is in this country represented by the press. But there are other bodies besides the press, who also feel it their duty frequently to oppose measures of the Government, as well as to give the result of their practical experience in the shape of advice on measures projected by our legislators. Notable amongst such bodies are the Chambers of Commerce and the Trades’ Associations, and an example of how well one of these bodies performs its duties as a member of the Opposition may be seen by a reference to the report of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, which was presented to the recent meeting. There can be no doubt that the activity of the Chamber in a great measure depends upon the personal qualifications of the President, and during the period covered by the report above mentioned, the Bengal Chamber has had the benefit of the great experience and strong common sense of Mr. J. J. J. Keswick in that capacity. A glance at the index of the report will show to how many important subjects the attention of the Chamber was directed during the year, for they amount to no less than twenty-six in number, and include such important items as the Bengal and Central India Railway, gave manufactures, the law relating to steamships and inland steam vessels, the inspection of prime movers, the different questions relating to pilots and the pilotage fees, the docking accommodation of Calcutta, Government stock notes, stamping duplicate receipts, and wheat cultivation.

The President, in his address to the members of course only touched upon a few of the most important topics mentioned in the report, the principal of which is, no doubt, that of railway extension in India. On this head the President observed, and all those who have read the evidence hitherto given before the Parliamentary Committee at present, sitting in London will, probably, agree with him—“That no satisfactory progress will be made in opening up this country with railways, until Government recognise that the necessary capital cannot be raised without a permanent guarantee of interest.” It is satisfactory to learn that in the opinion of the President, the Bengal and Central Provinces line will be one of the first undertakings. The direct route has, on more than one occasion, been advocated in this paper; and the President expressed the strong feeling of all mercantile men in Calcutta, when he said that it was not only the saving of distance which was a matter of consideration, but that the experience of the traffic management of the East Indian Railway was not such as to make them desire to see it command all the traffic west of the Hooghly. It is true that the Port Commissioners have provided increased accommodation on the Howrah side of the river connected with the railway wharves from which goods can be landed or shipped. But that was not the work of the East Indian Railway Company. The new bridge at present being constructed at Hughli will also enable the railway to have a place for the delivery and receipt of goods on this side of the river as well as at Howrah, which will also afford increased accommodation. But, as the Chairman says:—

"The E. I. R. Company has not in the past been managed with the requirements of the times, and I do not expect it will be so managed in future, so long as it has the monopoly of transport from the country west of the Hughli to Howrah or Calcutta. In the past it has not increased its carrying powers in proportion to the increase of trade. Many years ago we heard of grain lying rotting at its stations through its inability to carry it, and the recent complaint against it by the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway shows what little effect past experience has had on it. I believe the fact is that the E. I. R. has been so greedy of profit that it has not readily faced the outlay for additional rolling-stock and engine power required to cope with its increasing traffic. Instead of keeping pace with the growing trade, it appears to have acted when the pressure of trade has compelled it to do so. It has allowed its safety in monopoly to beget a short-sightedness inimical to its own interests. I look upon it as of very great importance to the country and to the mercantile community in Calcutta to have another railway system from the North West with independent access to Calcutta, and until there is healthy competition, you are not likely to see the East Indian Railway Company reduce its rates further than Government can compel it to reduce them. Its coal rates require to be reduced now, and if it has sufficient rolling-stock it appears to be in its own interests to reduce them, but I understand Government has not the power to insist on a reduction."

The President next alluded to the successful working of the Port Commissioners, who have, in ten years, made a reduction in the port charges equivalent to eight and a quarter annas per ton, which represents a saving on the present nett tonnage of sea going vessels entering the port, of about seven lakhs and a half per annum. In connection also with the port, the President specially alluded to the pilot service on which the Chamber had lately received a communication from the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce. It appears clear enough from what the President stated that at present the Government makes a considerable annual profit out of the pilot service, even though the profits of the pilots themselves have been reduced some fifteen per cent. within the last few years. The accounts for one year show that there was a balance in favour of Government on account of pilotage of Rs 94,890, and it is conjectured that there has been almost as large, if not a larger balance for several previous years. The President was in favour of the transfer of the pilot service to the Port Commissioners, as he was of opinion that such a change will, probably, result in a considerable reduction of the pilotage charges at no distant date, and that without in any way affecting the pay of the pilots. If this latter observation could be carried out, the pilots themselves would, probably, not object to the transfer, provided their rights to pension were duly secured to them. Under the same heading the President also read an extract from the Englishman of April 6, with regard to the pilot brigs, which caused the Chamber to address the Government on the subject. In reply the Government admitted, as was stated in this paper, that owing to the late accident to the Coleroon, and the fact that the Cassandra was still under repair, there was at present but one brig, the Sarsuti, at the Sandheads.

Another question connected with the shipping interest of the port was the excessive amount of hospital dues charged on the ship whilst in port. That these are excessive there can be no doubt, from the facts and figures brought forward by the President, who showed that there was an usual surplus of some Rs. 30,000 after paying the actual hospital fees, and that on several occasions the hospital dues fund had been applied to the support of objects with which the shipping could have very little connection.

These were the principal subjects of interest touched on in the President's address, and they furnish a fair example of the other subjects dealt with by the Chamber during the past year.

The following changes have been made in the Hyderabad Contingent:—Major Kennedy, S.C., has been appointed Commandant 2nd Infantry at Hingoli, vice Col. Conway-Gordon, deceased. Captain Proudfoot, W.O., 2nd Infantry, received his majority in April last, and has been appointed Officiating Commandant 3rd Infantry at Jalna, in the place of Colonel D. Shaw, who has vacated; and Captain Salmon has been appointed the 2nd in command. Major Cummins acts as Officiating Commandant 4th Cavalry at Aurangabad, vice Colonel A. A. Johnson (M.S.C.), vacated; but on arrival of Colonel Eustace Hill from furlough he will give over the command to him. Captain F. D. Welchman (now on leave) has been appointed 2nd in command 4th Infantry at Bolarum, and Lieutenant D. W. Purdon, wing officer.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE IN CENTRAL ASIA.

(From the Indu-Prakas.)

THE success of Russian diplomacy in Central Asia must always be a cause of great disquiet to our rulers, and no less to ourselves. The reported cession of Sarakhs and the so-called submission of the Merv-Turkomans to the protection of the Czar, bring the advanced guards of Russia within a few hundred miles of Hirat, the most Western outpost of the British Government. How loving is the submission of the Merv-Turkomans and other tribes to Russian protection is well described by a correspondent of the Times of India, who explains willing submission to be a Russian euphemism for conquest. But whether or no the Russians have a permanent hold on the affections of the Tartar races they have subjugated, one fact is clear, that in spite of promises, treaties, or declarations of Russian Ministers, and Czars to the contrary, the Russians are advancing slowly but steadily towards India. This supposition is greatly strengthened by the dream of Skobeloff, recently published. This dream of one of the greatest of Russia's modern generals, if genuine, illustrates very clearly, like the will of Russia's greatest Emperor, Peter the Great, how the heart of the Russian nation is set upon the acquisition of India, how each foot of ground gained in Central Asia is looked upon as a step onward towards the final goal, and how a struggle with England is looked forward to as inevitable. This threatening attitude of Russia is a source of considerable anxiety. The political creed of Russia seems to be that the end sanctifies the means. Hence her promises and solemn assurances are as fragile as gossamer thread. Each further advance arouses England from her fancied security, and sets her thinking how to defend India from Russian designs. Afghanistan is greatly relied on as a neutral zone, but it is very questionable whether supposing Abdul Rahman remained firm and truthful, he will at all be able to relieve the British Government from their danger. To our mind the best strength of our Government lies in the contentment and loyalty of their subjects.

AN INDIAN TEAM FOR WIMBLEDON.

THE Government of India have lately had before them a proposal to send home a team of picked shots from the Indian volunteers to compete at Wimbledon, and we are informed, have stated their inability to sanction the proposal. Perhaps it is too much to expect of the Government that they should bear the whole of such an expense annually. But the suggestion is an excellent one from many points of view. For one thing, it would certainly add to the popularity of volunteering in India. And we believe if a properly representative team could be got together, and sent home to Wimbledon, it would do credit to Indian volunteering. There are in the ranks of the Indian volunteer corps men who are able to hold their own with the service rifle against probably any riflemen to be met even at Wimbledon. At present it is a reflection on Indian volunteers that an Indian prize, the Kolhapore Cup, should be competed for at Wimbledon, and won year after year by an English or Canadian team. When Canada can afford to send a rifle team over to England yearly, India ought to be able to do the same. It is scarcely a matter in which the country generally is interested; but the volunteers themselves, and the supporters of the volunteer movement, should be able to arrange with the assistance of Government, for sending a team of, say, ten picked men home each year. The Government, for instance, might fairly be expected to grant passages for the chosen team at least one way in a troopship; and no doubt some one or other of the great steamship companies would be willing to arrange to take them to, or bring them back, from England at special and tolerably easy rates. The majority of the men would not be put to much expense while in England, and in addition to the passage-money, there would remain but little to provide for, beyond the entrance fees at the National Rifle meeting. Each volunteer regiment in England sends some twelve or more of its members to Wimbledon annually, and pays their entrance fees and expenses, the men being selected by special competition. On the same principle, each Indian corps might contribute something towards sending a team of Indian volunteers home every year. Many individual volunteers also, we have no doubt, would be glad to contribute, and the Anglo-Indian public might reasonably be expected to support the movement. As to selection, each corps might nominate a limited number of its best shots as candidates, and from the men so nominated, the team might be selected by some competent central committee. Perhaps, the Council of the Northern India Rifle Association would undertake this duty, the date on which each man's nomination by his own corps was founded being supplied to them to guide their decision. There would occasionally be a difficulty about the men chosen getting leave; but we think both Government and private employers would be found willing to do all in their power to meet the arrangements. It would, not be necessary for the same men to be sent every year, as amongst Indian volunteers at least fifty men much on a level and all in the first flight, could be found to choose from. The team would have to get home in time to admit of a week or two's practice in England, and to do that they should leave India early in May, the meeting being usually held in July. They could, of course, return as soon as they pleased after it was over. To give the idea practical shape, and afford a test of its workableness, we suggest that a subscription list should be opened towards the cost of sending a team home to next year's Wimbledon meeting, so that an idea may be framed of the amount of support it is likely to receive. We shall be glad to contribute our mite, as warm admirers and supporters of the volunteer movement, and shall be happy to receive and acknowledge any subscriptions that may be forwarded to us for the Indian Wimbledon Fund.—Indian Daily News.

JUSTICE—AN OPPORTUNITY.

THE condition of the country between Quetta and the British frontier seems to call for the careful attention of the Government of India. The foray of the Zhob Pathans, and, latter, the murder of Lieutenant Dupuis, are matters requiring more than a mere demonstration to put right. The Government ought not to allow the grass to grow under their feet in punishing the perpetrators of such an outrage as the unprovoked murder of a British officer. But whilst there is this cause for immediate action, there must also be taken into account the possibility of the whole tribe of Kakars taking the field in support of the septs who have provoked the anger of the Government. The folly of reducing the establishments on an exposed frontier to the very lowest peace-footing has now been exemplified by the difficulty thrown in the way of prompt action in upholding the authority of the Government and the prestige of its powers. The Viceroy is anxious that an immediate expedition should be organised to proceed against the offending tribes; but the wishes of the Viceroy can only find their fulfilment when the Military Department is able to report favourably of the means at its disposal. Men alone are not what is wanted; it is the means to move the men and to feed them, which appears to be lacking. The Military Department, if it back up the wish of the Viceroy by sending a well-equipped force into the field, will not only enable the Government to recover its political position on the frontier, but will enable the Home authorities to give satisfactory replies to otherwise exceedingly awkward questions. For there can be no doubt that the insane way in which the policy of military reduction has been carried out in India has left the Government helpless at a point where it ought to be strongest. The expedition against the Zhob Kakars has, perforce, been postponed, because the Government had not the transport or the provisions necessary to enable an expedition to take the field. Of course, the weather has been blamed; but this excuse will scarcely hold good when we find regiments, in spite of the weather, moving from point to point in Beloochistan, in order to assume a sort of protective position until such time as an expedition shall be ready to start. We think that these outrages give the Government an opportunity for doing more than simply executing vengeance or inflicting a certain amount of punishment. Circumstances have made the country from Thul Chotiali to Quetta of great strategical value, and it is necessary that the tribes, especially the Pathan tribes, should be effectually bridled. To do this, it is necessary that the more fertile and open valleys should be in British possession, or should be so commanded by British forts as to compel the tribesmen either to a willing allegiance or an unwilling peacefulness. If the present system is to be followed, then the mere keeping open of the road will require the constant presence of a large number of troops. It is far better and wiser from a military point of view—and in Beloochistan the political and military considerations which should guide the Government are nearly identical—that such a system should be followed as should make the local supplies of the country contribute in the largest degree to the support of the troops necessary to keep the country in subjection. If this point be lost sight of, then the Government must resign itself to an ever-recurring necessity for an expedition; and amongst other evils, to the fact that by means of these very expeditions, it will teach the tribes something of soldiering. Whilst, therefore, every man in India will support the Government should it take prompt action, it is to be hoped that the action when taken, will result in such a permanent subjection of the tribes as shall prevent for many years such outbreaks as the Kakar raid, or such outrages as the murder of Lieutenant Dupuis.—Indian Daily News.

WHY ENGLAND MUST GO TO KHARTOUM.

THE state of affairs in the Soudan would seem to indicate that the superficial hold of Egypt upon the tribes has entirely broken up. There was no base to the authority of the Khedive in the habits or the interests of Arabs, Nubians, or Negroes; and the result is that the authority has simply passed away like a fog tried by a fierce sun. The Egyptian Governors of the Nile towns fell into difficulties, and fall out of them in a manner which proves nothing if it do not prove that they have in reality no influence and no true power beyond the walls of the towns over which they are appointed to oppress the people. The saying of General Gordon, that the Government will whether or no, have to smash the Mahdi, is but a popular and forcible way of expressing a very great truth. The question is whether civilisation is to retire, and barbarism to be reinstated in the countries on the White and Blue Nile; whether Egypt is to be safeguarded from the eruptions of barbarians; whether an infamous trade in slaves is to be stamped out at the only place where its suppression can be of decisive effect, that is, at the place where it has its origin; and whether a brighter day and a nobler life is to be taught to the myriad tribes who now fill a vast and most productive region with untold and unending tragedies. Khartoum is to equatorial Africa far more than Allahabad is to India. Allahabad occupies one of those natural strategical points where a small display of physical force produces the very maximum of political effect. It holds the terminus of a natural highway into Central and Southern India, it commands the Doab of two great rivers, and it threatens whosoever may set up for authority at Lucknow. It is the key, therefore, to the Upper Ganges Valley; and an armed force stationed here can make its presence felt, and make its influence obeyed over a wider area than could be influenced from any other point in Upper India. Khartoum is in even a larger degree the key of Nubia, Sannar, the Darfour, and Kordofan Provinces, and of the Great Lake Provinces farther to the south. Unlike Allahabad, it is closed in by deserts in such a way as to multiply and enhance the military, political, and commercial advantages of its almost unique position. It is quite impossible that such a position can be given up to such a leader of barbarism as the Mahdi, or such a prince of savagery as Zubeir Pasha. It must be held not for Egypt, but for England; not for oppression, but for development; not for barbarism, but for progress. It must be a strategical point, a base and an arsenal for civilisation as well as for arms. It must be a fountain of improvement as well as a centre of authority; and hence England, which has an interest in these things, sets such mighty store by the man who now defends it, and fixes such mighty hopes upon his power to maintain his defence. Fortunately, the position of Khartoum is strong by nature against its present enemies. It is held by a man whose indomitable spirit reflects the best of the hereditary courage of his nation, and to whom no odds can be of effect to alter his determination to stand by his post. What made the defence of Lucknow so glorious to England makes Gordon now gloriously hold Khartoum; but it will not be sufficient to merely relieve or rescue the one Englishman whose life has been a long romance of war and warlike exploits. The position of Khartoum must be appreciated, and its relations to the countries behind it not only recognised, but practically developed. To simply relieve Gordon and to retire would be to produce a greater mischief than would arise from leaving him to his fate. England possesses too many Mahomedan subjects to trifle with a large Mahomedan question and she owes it to the tranquility and the loyalty of Mahomedans in India to—as Gordon phrased it—"Smash up the Mahdi," that is, decisively condemn his pretensions by that test of battle which he must elect as the best proof of their truth and divine origin. The question of the Mahdi, even if it were only a question affecting Egypt, would still make it incumbent upon England to remove such a danger as the impulsion of the desert tribes upon Lower Egypt. But the question has wider issues than this, because the fame of the Mahdi has penetrated to every Mussulman home in India, to the Court of the Shah, the tents of the Bedouins, and to the valleys and forests of the Caucasus. It is a question which has awakened attention throughout Islam, and which may awaken a disturbance as widespread as the knowledge of the Prophet. It is not enough to preach the falseness of the Mahdi's claims; for even if this be admitted, he is just now the greatest and most active champion of the Faith, and a Ghazi, who, in a most mysterious yet awful way, achieves unlocked-for and altogether absolute victories. These victories appeal not only to the imagination, not only to the admiration, but to the religious pride and ingrained fanaticism of the Mahomedan world; and it is this very remarkable and most important consideration which must of necessity drive any English Government, or any Government whatsoever ruling at Cairo, to "smash up the Mahdi."—Indian Daily News.

The surplus and old materials in the Ordnance Depot H.C. are to be at once sold by public auction, owing to the abolition of this institution. Honorary Lieutenant and Assistant Commissary E. Fleming retires from the service on the abolition of his appointment.

There is a probability of the vexatious restrictions upon the general leave of officers in India being abolished. The regulation, as it at present stands, allows an officer to take six months' general leave to half the remote corners of the globe, but reduces his pay should he wish to go to London.

The Lahore paper announces the death by typhoid fever, at Murree, on the 2nd instant, of Lieutenant E. M. Chapman, of the Royal Engineers. Lieutenant Chapman only arrived in this country last December. He was a son of Lieutenant Colonel A. R. Chapman, Commandant, 1st Bengal Cavalry.

The two companies of the Bombay Sappers and Miners employed on the Hurnai Works are at present at Quetta recruiting health, almost 50 per cent. of the men having been knocked down with fever contracted at Kohandilani and incapacitated for work. When reported fit for duty, the companies will be moved on to Mangi.

We regret to hear that Major G. R. Gambier, commanding J-2 Royal Artillery, Allahabad, has met with a severe accident, and will probably not be fit for duty for some time. Capt. A. H. Whitehorse has been placed in command of the battery, by order of the officer commanding Royal Artillery, Allahabad Division.

From November 1, 1885, all officers who, on completion of twenty years' service as squadron and wing officers in the H.C., fail to pass or qualify for promotion will be removed from regimental employ and placed on general duty, and will further be dealt with as specified in G.G.O. Vo. 332 of 1861, paragraphs 98 and 104.

Colonel C. A. Moore, of the Bombay Staff Corps, has for some time been engaged on special duty in Simla, in connection with the revision of the Indian Cantonment Law. It is now stated that the new draft rules will shortly be considered by a committee, who will also direct their attention to certain amendments proposed in the Act.

Brigadier General Sir Hugh Gough has been appointed permanently to the Brigade Staff, vice Brigadier General Blair, vacated, and posted to Mooltan, but will continue in command of the Eastern Frontier District until General Hill's return from leave. Colonel Hudson, 28th Native Infantry, meanwhile officiates for him at Mooltan.

Lieut. Colonel A. L. Holmes, Bengal Staff Corps, has been appointed to officiate as second in command, 1st Bengal Cavalry, vice Lieut. Colonel Glasscock, proceeded on general leave. Lieut. R. Gartside-Tipping has been appointed to officiate as second squadron commander, and Lieut. R. C. Broome as third squadron commander.

The Government of India have sanctioned the conversion into a grass farm, as an experimental measure, of as much cantonment land at Meerut as will provide for one year's supply of fodder for wing of the British Cavalry regiment quartered at that station. Major Rind, executive commissariat officer, Meerut, will be entrusted with working out the scheme.

Between June 2 and 25 about 100 men at Cherat will be relieved by a similar number from the troops at Peshawur and Nowshera. The men, before leaving Cherat, will be inspected by the medical officers in charge, as to their fitness to do duty in the plains; and any of those at Peshawur and Nowshera who are recommended by the medical officers will be included in the relief.

Those military officers who are interested in the study of the native languages are probably not aware of the exact conditions which apply to the reckoning of leave taken for the purpose of studying the languages, as duty. Under the army pay regulations an officer is allowed to count such leave as service to the extent of six, twelve, eighteen, and twenty-four months, respectively, according to the standard of examination and language in which he passes. If the officer fails to pass the prescribed examination on the first occasion it is generally supposed that the leave occupied in studying for the examination is absolutely lost, or in other words, counts against service for pension. It has lately been decided by the Government of India that, if an officer avails himself of leave to study, and fails to pass the examination, such leave will not count against him if he passes a successful examination on a future occasion, in which case all the leave he may have taken with the object of studying will reckon as service, provided the leave does not exceed, in the aggregate, the periods referred to above.—Englishman.

EDUCATION.—Mr. C. B. Clarke, M.A., Inspector of Schools, Presidency Division, will avail himself of leave shortly, or as soon as the question as to whether the period of his deputation to England to make certain scientific inquiries at the Royal Botanical Gardens at Kew is to be reckoned as a part of his Indian service, shall have been finally settled by Government. During his temporary absence, the assistant inspector, Baboo Radhika Prosono Mookerjee, will probably act for him.—Indian Daily News.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT IN A BOILER.—On the afternoon of the 16th instant, twelve Mahomedan boys were inside of a boiler at the Bhowanipore Ice-Factory, engaged in cleaning it, when steam rushed into it from another boiler and scalded six of the boys. Two of them were severely burnt and were removed to the Alipore Hospital. The other four were slightly injured. The remaining six boys escaped unhurt.—Ibid.

TUESDAY, JULY 1, 1884.

THE ST. JAMES'S HALL DEMONSTRATION AGAINST THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

"What has happened in Ireland will happen in Bengal with certainty, if this kind of measure proceeds."

THESE were the words of that great lawyer, Lord Bramwell, uttered at the St. James's Hall meeting last Wednesday. And his lordship went on to prove that the principle underlying the Bengal Tenancy Bill is a delusion and a fraud. It will be difficult for Lord Ripon or Mr. Ilbert to thrust aside words of this weight and this import, coming from one who is at once a Liberal Peer, and a legal authority of the very first rank. The melancholy fact that Lord Bramwell had to confess that though well acquainted with most English lawyers of any note, he had never heard of Mr. Ilbert until he "heard of him as a subject of execration on the part of all the Englishmen in India," may, we fear, tend to diminish the weight of the noble lord's authority with the Legal Member of the Viceroy's Council. But we trust that, as Mr. Ilbert is great, so also he will be merciful; and that he will not attribute as a fault to Lord Bramwell that which, after all, is only Lord Bramwell's misfortune. Not to have heard of Mr. Ilbert's early fame is really only a minor disqualification; which is shared by a good many other persons; and, as a set-off, it may be pleaded that Lord Bramwell is evidently well acquainted with the demands of Lord Ripon on his country's gratitude, as the hero of the "indirect claims" and the famous Alabama settlement. We cannot help thinking that both Lord Ripon and Mr. Ilbert will give that consideration to Lord Bramwell's criticism of their pet measure which will assuredly be accorded to it by English public opinion; and inasmuch as Lord Ripon and Mr. Ilbert, in the absence of Dr. Hunter, are probably the only persons of weight in the Empire who still think that the Bengal Tenancy Bill is anything better than either a nuisance or a fraud, we hope that the happy result may be the prompt withdrawal of this unfortunate apple of discord. The establishment of the Indian Constitutional Association is a clear proof that the disintegrating effects of the "Ilbert Bill No. 1,"—the "Machiavellian policy" of Lord Ripon, alluded to by Lord Stanley—on the opposition to the "Ilbert Bill No. 2," have not been sufficiently enduring to ensure the success of the latter measure; so the withdrawal, for which we plead, is obviously the wisest thing that can be done with the Bengal Tenancy Bill.

But such a withdrawal may, perhaps, interfere too much with that very important factor in recent and current Indian politics, Lord Ripon's own amour propre. It seems to be an understood thing in India just now, that if the Viceroy has unhappily observed that "it is a fine day" when the day has perversely turned out to be stormy, the Indian world is to be turned upside down until the Simla courtiers have devised some plausible method of harmonising the Viceroy's remark with the obstructive facts. Luckily, in the present case the strain on the gigantic intellects of Simla need not be excessive. Any ordinarily decent inquiry into the actual facts of the demand for the Bengal Tenancy Bill—decent, we mean, in the sense of public and impartial, where the investigators are not dependent on the beck and nod of the Viceroy, and where the inquiry is carried on formally and in public, with cross-examination and a due sifting of evidence—will most certainly expose the whole business, as a Fenian dream that has been tricked out with a sufficient amount of Radical tinsel to captivate the foolish fancy of a vanity-stricken Viceroy and the undisciplined ambition of an inexperienced Legal Member. It must, we imagine, be impossible for the Government to refuse the very modest and English-like request of last Wednesday's meeting for such a public inquiry "as shall command the confidence of all classes interested in the questions at issue." As the St. James's Gazette aptly points out, the opponents of the Bill "do not ask us to place implicit faith, or any faith at all" in their objections to the measure; they "appeal simply from the arbitrary will and secret councils of the Viceroy and the officials who control legislation." They ask that the Commission shall be not a mere affair of pegs and cheroots, varied by more or less relevant talk, such as the inquiries on which Lord Ripon has been pinning his faith, but one conducted with such formality and decorum as befits an inquiry on which hang the fortunes and the prosperity of the whole of rural Bengal.

The speeches of Lord Wemyss, Lord Fortescue, Mr. Roper Lethbridge, and Mr. Dacosta, fairly covered the whole question from the general point of view; and the general objections to the Bill brought out by them were emphasised by the special and unrivalled experience of Mr. Buckland as a Commissioner and a Member of the Board of Revenue, and by that of Mr. Ward as a Judicial Officer. Dr. Berry White could speak with an authority belonging to no one else, on behalf of the planting interest. The names of those Peers and M.P.'s who were on the platform, and of those who had written to express their sympathy, show clearly that the question can now, if necessary, be carried into Parliament with every certainty of a full and intelligent discussion: But since the published papers prove that the vast majority of the experienced Civil Officers of Bengal look on the Bill, as the Chief Justice of Bengal does, "with horror and dismay," it may be hoped that Lord Ripon will for once be content to suppress that famous unruly member of his, his amour propre, and that he will frankly withdraw the Bill.

HOME NEWS.

OBITUARY.—General George Warren, of Her Majesty's local Indian Forces, died on Sunday, June 22, at Southsea, aged eighty-four. He entered the Army in 1818, and served with the 1st European Bengal Fusiliers at the siege of Bhurtpore in 1826 under Lord Combermere, commanding one of the two companies selected to escalate at the Jungenna Gate, when he was severely wounded. He was promoted to the rank of captain in 1830, became major in 1837, and in 1839 served with the Army of the Indus in Afghanistan, under Lord Keane, being present at the siege and capture of Ghuznee, where he was again severely wounded. For this service he received the brevet of lieutenant colonel, the medal, and the third class of the Dorian Order. The wounds which he had received caused his temporary removal from active service. Having been specially brought to the notice of the Governor General of India by Sir Willoughby Cotton, commanding the Bengal troops in Afghanistan, for gallant conduct at Ghuznee, he was nominated Town and Fort Major of Fort William. On the breaking out of the Burmese war in 1852, Colonel Warren was nominated to the command of the Bengal Brigade of the Expeditionary Force. He was on board the steam frigate Tenasserim with two companies of the 18th Royal Irish during the naval action and destruction of the enemy's stockades on the Rangoon river, but was removed from the scene of action during the second day's attack on the Great Pagoda by the effects of a sunstroke. He attained the rank of major general in 1854, of lieutenant general in 1863, and of general in 1869.

Captain P. Buckland, of the Bengal Staff Corps, has been appointed a Deputy Assistant Adjutant General on the staff of General Sir Donald Stewart, G.C.B., Commander in Chief in India.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—The tenders for Rs.25,00,000 on bills on India and telegraphic transfers were received on June 25, at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were:—in bills on Calcutta, Rs.24,700, average rate 1s. 7'524d.; on Bombay Rs.4,90,000, average rate 1s. 7'5d.; and on Madras, Rs.1,83,400, average rate 1s. 7'5d. In telegraphic transfers on Calcutta, Rs.8,50,000, average rate 1s. 7'5625d.; and on Bombay, Rs.10,00,000, average rate 1s. 7'565d.; or a total of Rs.25,48,100. Tenders for bills on all Presidencies at 1s. 7'4d. will receive about 70 per cent., and above in full, and for telegraphic transfers on Calcutta and Bombay at 1s. 7'9-16d. and above in full. Between April 1 and last night the total amount of remittances sold had reached Rs.4,34,32,000, and realised £3,583,043.

Under the style of the American and Colonial Exchange an establishment has been opened at No. 8, Haymarket, London, which will doubtless prove of great use to such of our readers whose stay in London does not justify the expense of joining a club. The proprietors being agents of all the steamship companies, tickets can be obtained of them on advantageous terms, and travellers can have their luggage stored and forwarded to them when convenient, thereby avoiding considerable annoyance and expense. The majority of travellers are to a certain extent uncertain of their movements until their arrival in England, and are at a loss to know where to have their letters, telegrams, etc. directed. By giving instructions before starting to have them sent to the care of the American and Colonial Exchange, all letters, etc. will be retained until called for, or forwarded in accordance with instructions written or telegraphed. Residents abroad can also leave to the Exchange the execution of commissions to make purchases for them of articles that cannot be procured abroad; also the conduct of any business of a financial or private nature to which they cannot themselves attend. For the convenience of those travelling in Europe and elsewhere, circular notes are issued, and banking facilities provided. Ladies travelling alone will find the special accommodation for them at No. 8, Haymarket of the greatest possible use. Those going to the United States can be met on their arrival at New York by the agent of the Exchange, Mr. Edwin H. Low (late of the National Steamship Line), who will give them every information and assistance in his power. To those who use the Rooms regularly a small subscription is charged, but for the general transaction of business no such subscription is required. The proprietors, Messrs. Henry Bray and Co., are anxious to cultivate relations with professional and other gentlemen and ladies in India and the Colonies, as they provide accommodation more complete and better than anyone not a member of a regular London Club can find elsewhere in England.

EUROPEAN PAUPERISM IN INDIA.—Under the auspices of the East India Association, a meeting of officers and gentlemen interested in the affairs of the British Empire in the East was held at Exeter Hall, on Monday, June 23, Sir Richard Temple, G.C.S.I., presiding, for the purpose of considering the question of European Pauperism in India. The subject was introduced by the Venerable Archdeacon Baly, who pointed out that the total European population of India has been computed at between 200,000 and 300,000, and that it is increasing rapidly, owing to the extension of the railway system and the development of the resources of the country. But the increasing pauperism has made it become a very serious problem how the indigenous European population of India shall be maintained as a self-supporting and profitable community, and aided in their struggles against the natural difficulties of an unsuitable climate, and competition with cheaper native labour. Archdeacon Baly urged that the first measure for the solution of the problem is to provide education for the children; and secondly, to provide employment for the adults. But, at present, at least half of the European boys in India are not receiving an education which will fit them to get their living, and the means do not exist; although there is every reason to believe that there is a sufficient amount of employment available for every able-bodied, sober, industrious, intelligent, and honest European in India. The rev. gentleman therefore strongly urged that more schools and colleges should be provided for the European population, and that the peculiar position of this class in India gives them a strong claim for liberal assistance from the Government. A discussion followed, closing with the customary votes of thanks.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the United Services Proprietary College, Westward Ho, took place on Thursday, June 26, General Sir H. C. B. Danbenny, G.C.B., in the chair. The chairman congratulated the shareholders on the continued success that was attending the school, both financially and educationally. The balance-sheet showed that they might safely have distributed 5 per cent., the maximum allowed by the articles of the Association; yet, as the school was wholly founded for educational needs, and not as a commercial speculation, the council recommended that they should content themselves with a dividend of 3½ per cent. The resident teaching staff of the school now numbered fourteen, of whom two were foreigners; the proportion of masters to boys being unusually large, in order to secure plenty of attention to individual cases. As a proof of the excellence of the tuition he pointed out that at the last Woolwich and Sandhurst Examinations three boys direct from the school were successful for the former, and four for the latter. Considerable building improvements had been carried out, and were still in progress at the college, including a laundry, a library, an additional reservoir, and two new fives courts. Surgeon General Longmore, C.B., had made a visit of inspection of the college, and had written a valuable report, expressing high satisfaction at the sanitary arrangements. Major General Lowry, C.B., moved, and Colonel Armstrong seconded, the adoption of the report, which was carried unanimously.

BOMBAY, BARODA, AND CENTRAL INDIA RAILWAY COMPANY.—The fifty-seventh half-yearly general meeting of this Company was held on Friday at the City Terminus Hotel. Lieutenant Colonel P. T. French presided, and stated that they were enabled to pay a dividend of 2s. 1d. per cent., in addition to the guaranteed interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum. Although this distribution was very small, it was very significant, for it was the first time they had paid a surplus dividend in what might be called the bad half-year—that from July to December. This result was attributable in part to the development of goods traffic exchanged with the Rajpootana-Malwa Railway, which had been about 45 per cent. of the whole goods traffic receipts of the company. With regard to the current half-year, he might state that there would be a dividend of £1 6s. per cent. in addition to the guaranteed interest. He concluded by moving the adoption of the report. Mr. William Hartridge seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously, and resolutions were afterwards passed declaring the dividend recommended, and re-electing the retiring directors and auditor. An extraordinary general meeting was held subsequently to consider the heads of agreement accepted by the directors and the Secretary of State as the basis of negotiations for working the Rajpootana-Malwa Railway. The chairman stated that the subject they had to consider was of very great importance to them. For a long time they wished to have the construction of the Rajpootana line—on their own gauge, of course; but in this they failed. They then did all they could to get the working of it, having full faith in the advantage to the undertaking of unity of management. The directors had been in negotiation for some time with the Secretary of State for India, and he must say that they had been treated most generously and fairly. He concluded by moving a resolution expressing the opinion of the meeting that it would be to the advantage of the company to work the Rajpootana-Malwa Railway, and authorising the directors to enter into a contract for that purpose with the Secretary of State for India in Council. Mr. Hartridge, while readily seconding the motion, said he thought the bargain was as good for the Government as for the company. The Government would retain out of the earnings of the Rajpootana line 5 per cent. on the cost of its construction and four-fifths of the surplus profits, this company receiving the remaining one-fifth. In return for that, they were to have all the anxiety, trouble, and responsibility of working the line. He confessed, therefore, that he was not so sanguine of the result as some gentlemen were. The resolution having been carried unanimously, the chairman said they would now have the largest line in India. By the proposed agreement, 1,400 miles would be added on to the management of the company, and they had not spent, nor would they be called upon to spend, one penny in respect of that addition. There would be no rivalry between them and the Rajpootana Railway, and they certainly were sanguine of the results which would attend the unity of management.

SOUTHERN MAHRATTA RAILWAY.—The second ordinary general meeting of this company was held on Wednesday, at the City Terminus Hotel; Sir T. D. Forsyth, K.C.S.I., C.B., presiding. In moving the adoption of the report the chairman stated that they could fortunately show a considerable improvement in their financial position. At the date of the last meeting the guarantee of 4 per cent. was only for five years, but they had since been enabled to obtain an extension of it for another two years. Immediately after the shareholders sanctioned the issue they were able to raise money on debentures for carrying out the West Deccan Extension. The actual expenditure to the 31st of December last had been £1,120,414 including part of the outlay incurred by Government previous to the 1st of October, 1882. A considerable abatement had been made on the claim of the Government for work done and the value of the stores transferred to the company. An important witness had stated before the House of Commons Committee, which was sitting on the subject of Indian railways, that he considered that a railway constructed as the Southern Mahratta Railway was being constructed was the best system to adopt to check the extravagance of companies, because it was said the money having been subscribed by the shareholders, the latter had no further concern in the question of its expenditure. In the present case, however, if there had been no directors, and the shareholders had been entirely in the hands of the Government, the board knew for a fact that they would have been saddled with a very heavy extra expenditure, which the directors had considered most improper and had rejected. With respect to the progress of the works, they would be able to open out the whole line quite as soon as was expected at the outset, and certainly in some parts sooner. The West Deccan line was commenced last February, and they hoped it would be ready by the time the rest of the line was opened for traffic. Major General J. S. Trevor, R.E., C.S.I., seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously; and resolutions were afterwards passed authorising the directors; subject to the concurrence of the Secretary of State, to create a provident fund for the benefit of the employees of the company, and to subscribe to it a sum not exceeding 1 per cent. on the net revenue of the company; and re-electing the retiring directors and auditors.

THE SILVER MARKET AND THE EASTERN EXCHANGES.

MONDAY.—Bar silver has again been dealt in at 50 11-16d. per ounce, but only in very small quantities. The arrival, which is just announced at Liverpool ex the Magellan from Chili will be available to-morrow. No business has been done in Mexican dollars, and some days must elapse before any fresh supplies of them can be received. Indian rates for telegraphic transfers are dull at 1s. 7 9-16d., but China exchange quotations and the prices of Rupee Paper are unaltered.

TUESDAY.—The Ohilian remittance of bar silver which was received to-day was disposed of for India at 50 11-16d. per ounce, showing no change. About £30,000 was sold, the market being scantily supplied at the last. No business has been done in Mexican dollars, but there is a good demand for them on China account. It is thought in some quarters that the amounts to be received from Mexico will be smaller than they have been. Exchange rates from India are dull, but unaltered at 1s. 7 9-16d., and Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Rupee Paper has fallen  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 83 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 83 $\frac{3}{4}$ , the Four per Cents. remaining at 82 to 82 $\frac{1}{4}$ .

WEDNESDAY.—Bar silver is not now worth more than 50 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per ounce, this being the nearest nominal price. This fresh decline is the result of a further reduction in the Bank of Bombay discount rate from 7 to 6 per cent. making a reduction of no less than 5 per cent. since the beginning of the month, when the discount charge was 11 per cent. The available supplies of silver bars are still very small, but with money becoming cheaper in India and the exchange rates being dull at 1s. 7 17-32d. to 1s. 7 9-16d., buyers will not give more than the above price. No Mexican dollars have come to hand yet, but in view of the existing demand some of the brokers quoted 50 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per ounce as the nominal price. Were this quotation to be obtained for any considerable amounts it would represent a rather higher premium on the parity of bar silver. Rupee Paper is unaltered, and business has been very quiet.

THURSDAY.—The discount rate of the Bank of Bengal has been reduced from 6 to 5 per cent. and the rates for telegraphic transfers in both Bombay and Calcutta are now quoted at 1s. 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. Despite this renewed decline in the value of money in India, bar silver was steady to-day at the reduction submitted to yesterday, a small amount of business being done at 50 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per ounce. The price of Mexican dollars is still quite nominal at 50 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per ounce. China exchange rates are unaltered at 3s. 9d. in Hongkong and 5s. 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ d. in Shanghai. Rupee Paper has been dull owing to lower prices from India, the Four-and-a-half and Four per Cents. closing at 83 $\frac{3}{4}$  83 $\frac{3}{4}$ , and 81 $\frac{1}{4}$  82 respectively.

FRIDAY.—Two arrivals of bar silver, per Nile and Buffon, amounting together to rather more than £100,000, were available this afternoon, and were taken by buyers on Indian account at 50 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per ounce, the market remaining steady. The Mexican dollars brought by the West Indian packet have not yet been sold, but the market for coined silver is firm, and the nearest price is still 50 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. All Eastern exchange rates are unaltered, but Rupee Paper has been weaker again at 83 $\frac{1}{4}$  to 83 $\frac{3}{4}$  for the Four-and-a-half, and 81 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 81 $\frac{3}{4}$  for the Four per Cents.

SATURDAY.—Bar silver, Mexican dollars, the Eastern exchange rates, and rupee paper are all unaltered. Very few transactions in silver bars have been heard of, and the consignment of coined silver per Nile was not received in time to be dealt with to-day.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

THE CHOLERA.

Mr. O'DONNELL asked the Under Secretary for India if complaints had been made by European Governments of the laxity of the supervision of cholera by the Indian authorities; whether cholera of a severe type had been raging recently at Bombay and Calcutta; whether 578 deaths from cholera took place in Calcutta during the four weeks ending May 10 last; and whether a military transport vessel was allowed lately to leave Bombay for Europe via the Suez Canal, although three cases of cholera had declared themselves on board the ship while still in Bombay Harbour, one of the patients dying of the disease and being buried at Bombay.

Mr. J. K. CROSS: I am not aware that any complaints have been made by the European Governments as to the laxity of supervision of cholera by the Indian authorities. There has been a good deal of cholera, both at Calcutta and Bombay, since the beginning of the year. The Calcutta deaths are correctly stated by the hon. member. During March they were 435; during April they rose to 811; but during May and the first week of June they fell to 382. From the official report of the proceedings of Her Majesty's ship Crocodile communicated to the India Office by the Admiralty, it is clear that there was no outbreak of cholera on board the troopship while still in Bombay Harbour, and that there was no case among the crew or troops for some days after she had sailed.

Mr. GRAY asked the President of the Local Government Board whether he had any information as to the reported outbreak of Asiatic cholera at Toulon; and in the event of its having appeared in France, whether he intended to take any steps to enforce early precautions against its importation and spread in this country.

Sir C. DILKE: The regulations which were issued by the Board last year with reference to ships suspected to be infected with cholera are still in force. The Board in July last issued circular letters to the several sanitary authorities with reference to the precautions to be taken against the infection of cholera. The Act of last year is still in force.

In reply to Mr. O'Donnell, The Marquis of HARTINGTON said: A sergeant-major of the 2nd Norfolk Regiment died in Bombay Harbour of violent diarrhoea; the man had neglected to seek medical aid, and his case was much aggravated by the fact that he had been drinking freely. The medical officer in charge reported the case to the surgeon-general at Bombay, who agreed that the case was one of diarrhoea and not of cholera. Nevertheless the same precautions had been taken as if the case had been cholera; the bedding, &c., being destroyed, and the hospital ward fumigated and disinfected. No quarantine, therefore, was imposed, and the ship left Bombay on the 3rd of April. Between the 6th of April and the ship's arrival at Malta eight cases of cholera occurred, and six of them terminated fatally, the third case having occurred after the Crocodile entered the Canal; she coaled in quarantine at Port Said. The Governor of Malta refused to allow the women and children to land in quarantine at Malta, as recommended by the medical officer in charge of the troops. No case occurred after leaving Malta.

Mr. O'DONNELL asked whether after the case of the sergeant two members of his family were not also attacked with choleraic symptoms, and was there any explanation of their cases.

The Marquis of HARTINGTON: I have not heard of that. We have received voluminous reports on the subject, and I do not believe any case of that kind occurred.

Mr. O'DONNELL said he would supply the noble lord with the extracts from the newspaper.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

INDIAN GAOLS.

Mr. O'DONNELL asked the Under-Secretary for India whether his attention had been called to the continuance of high rates of mortality in a number of Bengal gaols during the last year; whether the average mortality in the Bengal gaols had exceeded 60 per 1,000, being much higher than the average among the general population; whether the death-rate in Sinchboom Gaol was 102 per 1,000, in Morshedabad Gaol 107, in Beerbhoom Gaol 111, in Purneah Gaol 114, in Dinagapore Gaol 117, in Lohardugga Gaol 119, in Bogra Gaol 122, in Burdwan Gaol 142, in Chumparan Gaol 154, and in Mymensingh Gaol 226 per 1,000; whether he was aware that no local unhealthiness accounted for this excessive mortality, and that, for instance, while the death-rate in Beerbhoom Gaol was 111 per 1,000 it was 24 per 1,000 in the Beerbhoom district; and while the death-rate in Burdwan Gaol was 142 per 1,000, in the Burdwan district, it was 35 per 1,000; and what facilities would be given by Government for a thorough examination of the causes of the excessive mortality in Indian gaols.

Mr. J. K. CROSS: The Bengal Gaol report for last year has not yet been received, but the figures given in the question show that it is based on the report for 1882, in which year there was a great deal of sickness. As regards every one of the gaols mentioned in the questions except that at Lohardugga, the report states expressly that the surrounding district was suffering severely from malarial fever; and as to Beerbhoom, which is expressly referred to as having a mortality higher than that of the district, it is stated in the report that the mortality of the general population, though far below that of the gaol population, was higher than any on record. Government are not in possession of any trustworthy statistics as to the death-rates of the general population; and therefore all these comparisons are more or less misleading. Of the deaths which did, in fact, occur in gaol many were caused by ailments not specially induced by residence in gaol; for example, the actual number who died in the Burdwan gaol in the year was fourteen, of these five were in bad health when admitted to the prison and never did any work; and as regards Moorsheadabad the report shows that of the seventeen prisoners who died during the year, thirteen were in bad health when admitted. The rate of mortality however, has certainly been very high and is not clearly accounted for, although the subject has been receiving constant attention. The Secretary of State directed last year that the whole subject should be thoroughly investigated.

In answer to Mr. Buchanan, Mr. CROSS said that if the hon. member desired to move for any extracts from the report he should be happy to furnish them.

In answer to Sir R. CROSS, Mr. CROSS said there seemed to be considerable misapprehension as to the real state of affairs, and taking the number of persons who passed through the gaols the mortality did not appear to be very large as compared with the rest of the population.

Mr. O'DONNELL understood that the Under Secretary admitted that the mortality exceeded 60 in the 1,000, and in some cases went up to 100 or even 200 in the 1,000. Was it not the case that the wholesale mortality to which he had called attention had been brought for a long succession of years to the notice of Government, and that, nevertheless, this wholesale assassination of prisoners continued year after year? He wished to know whether the Under Secretary would answer his last question—what facilities would be given for a full examination of that excessive mortality?

Mr. CROSS had already said that the Secretary of State last year directed that a thorough investigation should be made, but the report had not yet been received, and he would rather wait for it before answering that question.

MINING SPECULATIONS IN INDIA.

Mr. O'DONNELL asked the Under Secretary of State for India whether further report upon the connection of military and uncovenanted, as well as covenanted, officials in mining speculations, which was promised last year, had been received from the Madras Government.

Mr. CROSS: The correspondence regarding the alleged participation of British officers in Mysore gold mining transactions has already been laid on the table, and distributed. No further report has been promised or received.

FOOD GRAINS OF INDIA.

Mr. O'DONNELL asked the Under Secretary of State for India whether he could state or undertake to give a brief return of the average prices and the annual exports of the principal food grains of India during the past twenty years.

Mr. CROSS: The annual exports of the principal food grains of India for the last twenty years are given in the statistical abstracts relating to British India, and in a greater detail in the Indian Trade Returns, both of which are annually presented to Parliament. A tale of prices of food grains for past years is now being prepared, which will, I hope, be included in future statistical extracts.

SANITARY PRECAUTIONS IN INDIA.

In reply to questions from Mr. O'DONNELL, Mr. CROSS said: It is not true that at Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay there is a complete absence of the most elementary sanitary precautions. In each of the three Presidency towns there was an organised Municipal Health Department, and last year the expenditure of the three municipalities on sanitation and sanitary objects was over £225,000, out of a total expenditure of less than £800,000. There has been a bad epidemic of small-pox in Madras during the present year, but at the date of the latest returns received it had greatly diminished. The sanitary state of Madras is not good, but much is being done to improve it. There is no permanent epidemic hospital in Bombay. On the occasion of epidemics isolated temporary hospitals are erected, and burnt when no longer needed. A portion of the sewage of Bombay is discharged into the harbour. Both the municipality and the Government have long been anxious to get rid of this system, and several commissions have inquired into possible alternatives, but there are great physical difficulties. The Government of Bombay have lately given the municipality formal notice to discontinue the system.

Mr. O'DONNELL asked the Secretary of the Local Government Board what steps he proposed to take to preserve the people of this country from the dangers of constant communication with pestilential localities in India, especially at a time when there was so much contagion abroad.

Mr. G. RUSSELL: We rely for defence against cholera, in the first place upon the efficiency of our customary sanitary operations; especially upon purity of water-supplies and upon the removal of excremental matters and their products. As cholera in England is for the most part spread by means of foul water and of infected excrements, these are the most important securities. In the second place we rely on provisions made at our ports for the detection of imported cases of sickness and for the seclusion of such cases until danger of infection is at an end. And as regards small-pox, which is a disease not peculiar to foreign countries, we have confidence in the power of vaccination and re-vaccination to limit its spread. These various measures properly carried out afford the best practical protection to this country against the danger of constant communication with pestilential localities abroad.

LONDON PRODUCE MARKETS.

TUESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—The market remains exceedingly quiet pending the arrival of the Glenogle with "new season's teas." This is expected on Thursday or Friday. Sales of about 18,000 packages took place to-day "without reserve." Prices show no improvement and the auctions passed flatly. To-day's China auctions, comprising about 10,000 packages of Congou, 4,000 boxes of seasons 1884 and 1885, new make Congou, and 1,900 boxes of scented Caper, passed, with a slightly better tone, at about previous rates. The auctions of Indian tea consisted of 3,493 packages, including 169 packages of Ceylon tea, and (excepting these latter, which met with good competition) passed rather flatly.

SUGAR.—Since last week the market has been flat, and crystallised Demerara by auction to-day went fully 6d. in favour of the buyers. Very little has sold beyond 3,000 bags, part by auction, at 19s. 6d. to 22s. for low to good yellow Barbados said to have sold to some extent by private contract; 1,603 bags Madras Jaggery, 2,665 bags Natal, and 1,042 bags Egyptian; 148 hhds. Porto Rico in public sales were bought in or withdrawn. A cargo of 1,740 tons Java off the coast sold at 17s. 3d. for this port, and in Liverpool two West India at 13s. 3d. and 13s. 6d. Beet can only be sold at easier rates. Refined goods are easier to-day, and in the Clyde market prices show a fall of 3d. per cwt.

COFFEE.—There has not been any increase of demand at to-day's public sales. East India went flatly, and of 96 cases 1,120 bags, only small part sold—medium to good Naidooatum, 57s. 6d. to 68s. 6d.; bold, 77s.; medium to bold pale Neilgherry, 56s. to 65s. 6d. Plantation Ceylon, with the small supply of 61 casks 20 barrels and bags, unchanged—small to low middlings grey, 53s. to 58s.; middling colour, 64s. to 67s. 6d.; bold, 79s. 6d.; to 85s. 6d.; and fine, 99s. 6d. 1,497 bags Guatemala brought steady rates for the portion sold—foxey greenish, 47s. 6d. to 48s.; fine ordinary, 50s. to 55s. 6d.; middling to good middling, 59s. to 64s. 1,027 other foreign bought in, except a lot or two fine Honduras, which sold at 80s. 6d. 232 packages Mocha withdrawn at 80s.

RICE is very flat. A steamer cargo of 3,800 tons Rangoon sold at 8s. 1½d. for a near port.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—To-day's auctions of Indian teas were exceptionally small, comprising only 307 packages of Indian (mostly out of second hand), and 543 packages of Ceylon teas, which passed steadily at former rates. To-day's China sales consisted of 300 boxes of Ping Suey gunpowder, which realised 10½d. to 1s. 3¼d. per lb. 1,300 boxes, 1884-1885, scented caper, 10½d. to 1s. 3¼d., and 700 boxes, 1884-1885, scented orange Pekoe, from 9¼d. to 1s. 1½d. per lb. The steamer Glenogle, with the first cargo of Northern new season's teas, is expected to dock to-morrow afternoon.

SUGAR continues flat, and no transactions reported in West India. Beet has sold at easier rates—viz., 13s. 9d. prompt shipment. No alteration in the Clyde markets.

COFFEE.—The public sales have been too small to affect the market, which is quiet. 56 cases 510 bags of East India sold at about previous rates—low medium to good medium, 58s. 6d. to 65s.; bold, 77s.; fine, 86s. 6d. Thirty-eight bags Guatemala sold at 48s. 6d. to 49s. 6d. for foxey greenish.

COCOA.—Business has been done, including the Ceylon, ex yesterday's public sales.

SPICES.—At the weekly public sales the tone was dull. 946 packages Cochin ginger sold with irregularity, but at easier rates—ordinary to good rough, 44s. 6d. to 51s. 6d.; one lot extra bold, 57s.; washed, 46s. 6d. to 52s. 6d.; part scraped, small to medium, 52s. to 56s.; mixed to good bold, 68s. to 74s. 6d.; fine bold scraped, 93s. 200 packages Jamaica mostly sold—common, 46s. to 53s. Black and white pepper very dull; and 1,741 bags bought in at nominal rates; 45 packages Tellicherry white sold—good to fine, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 10¼d.; Curiana kind, 11½d. to 1s.; one lot 10¼d. per lb. Nutmegs and mace slow, and barely supported last week's rates; 43 packages of the former mostly sold—62½s., 3s. 2d., 60s., 2s. 4d. to 2s. 5d.; rather smaller, 2s. 4d. Of the latter, 11 cases red, 1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d.; chips, 1s. 1d. 655 bags Pimento chiefly bought in 2½d. 50 barrels Zar zibar cloves, at 5½d.; 17 packages Penang ditto, at 1s. 6d. per lb. 447 boxes cassia lignea, at 28s. per cwt.

SAGO dull. 433 bags small grain partly sold at 11s. 6d. to 12s., and part of 160 bags bullet pearl tapioca at 13s. 6d. 250 bags medium brought in at 12s., and 175 bags seed at 11s. 6d. to 12s. per cwt. 2,116 bags flake small, part sold—fine Penang 2d.; small Singapore, 1d. to 1½d. 41 barrels Rio sold at 5¼d. to 5½d. per lb.

THURSDAY EVENING.

Messrs. W. J. and H. Thompson say there is no change of importance to notice in the markets since the 20th inst., a feeling of distrust generally prevailing, and business has therefore been of very moderate extent. At the public sales of coffee, East India and Plantation Ceylon went at 1s. 2d. reduction in many cases, part of the latter being withdrawn. Central American description unsettled, and Brazilian moves slowly, with quiet advices from the leading foreign market. A few parcels of Ceylon cocoa have realised full rates for fine descriptions. Rice continues flat. In the sugar market there is, if possible, increased depression. Importers have accepted a further decline of 6d. to 9d. per cwt. for crystallised Demerara, and a few cargoes, including two of West India, have sold at very low prices. The latest sale in cane Jaggery has been at 9s. per cwt. Paris leaves have fallen 6d. per cwt. English stored goods are easier. Beet has sold at a price on a par with the lowest point in May. Tea remains without improvement. Importers have offered further supplies of last season's tea by auction, which found buyers at current low prices. Scented tea sold with irregularity. The Glenogle, from Hankow, is expected to arrive early to-morrow. No alteration has transpired in Indian teas. All kinds of spice are unsettled, but Cochin ginger has met a steady demand at last week's rates to 1s. per cwt. under. There will be no public sales of cinnamon next Monday on account of the very light arrivals.

TEA.—To-day's China auctions, which only comprised 1,220 packages of Congou, 410 boxes new Mate congou, and 830 packages of green and scented teas, passed at previous rates. The Indian auctions of 849 packages mostly out of second hand, show no alteration. The first steamer with new season's Congou, is expected to arrive early to-morrow (Friday) morning. From Messrs. Hawes and Hertz's fortnightly Indian, Ceylon, and Java Report:—"Indian, 14,331 packages have been brought to auction, comprising 908 packages new season's, most of which showed better quality than the early imports of last season. A small invoice of Poobongs realised 2s. 2¼d. for Pekoe, and 1s. 8½d. for Pekoe Souchong. Sixty packages Lizzieport sold at—broken Pekoe, 1s. 10¼d.; orange Pekoe, 1s. 6¼d.; Pekoe, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3d.; Pekoe Souchong, 11¼d. Several invoices of last year's import were offered, but met with poor competition, and a considerable quantity was withdrawn in absence of fair offers. There is a fair inquiry for good liquoring souchongs, but undesirable kinds are difficult of sale. Broken teas show rather easier rates for common descriptions. Medium Pekoes and broken Pekoes sell at about previous prices, but fine and finest are in limited inquiry. Ceylon teas have come to hand in comparatively large quantities, and have met with ready sale. Many of the invoices have been of indifferent quality, and prices compare rather unfavourably with those of last year, but fine and thick liquoring sorts still command high rates. The importance of sending over only large breaks cannot be too urgently put before planters, as many of the disappointing prices obtained are attributable to the fact of the greater part of the trade not caring to buy small parcels. Java Teas—Since our last report of the 12th inst. sales have been unimportant, 702 packages only having been brought to auction. There met with good demand at previous rates, Pekoes especially being readily taken for export. 480 packages Bagelen, ex Utrecht, showed good quality, and sold readily at 9½d. to 10½d. for Pekoe Souchong; 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 1½d. for Pekoe; 11¼d. to 1s. 0½d. for broken Pekoe. At these prices they still offer good value to buyers, compared with either Indian or China growth. 1,811 packages per Chyebassa are printed for sale next week. 2,675 packages are offered for sale in Amsterdam on Friday, the 27th inst."

SUGAR.—A few sales have been made at very low prices, including 300 tons native Penang at 8s., and 100 casks 800 bags West India. Beet quiet at yesterday's decline. Dried refined goods have sold at some reduction. In the Clyde market prices were slow. M. Bertrand Si z, writing from Paris on Wednesday, states that their market had a firmer tendency at the beginning of the week, but was soon influenced by the weakness reported in the U.K. markets. Buyers having withdrawn, those interested for a fall had their own way, and with their offers succeeded in bringing about a depreciation of 50c. (say 3d. per cwt.) compared with prices quoted a week ago.

COFFEE.—The market is exceedingly flat, and importers had to buy in numerous parcels at to-day's public sales. For part of the Plantation Ceylon a decline of 1s. to 2s. for the week was accepted. 173 casks, 109 barrels and bags mostly sold—small, 50s. to 53s. 6d.; low middling to middling, 60s. to 65s.; good middling, 67s. to 69s.; bolder sorts, 75s. 6d. to 78s.; fine bold, 81s. 6d. to 82s. 127 cases, 2,769 bags East India showed similar reduction for some of the common to middling qualities—medium pale, 57s. to 58s.; coloury, 60s. 6d. to 66s.; bold, 70s. to 74s.; fine bold, 84s. 6d. Good Guatemala steady, 1,384 bags mostly sold—foxey greenish, 47s. 6d. to 49s.; fine ordinary to low middling, 56s. to 58s. Of 3,811 bags Costa Rica considerable portion withdrawn—ordinary to fine ordinary sold at 46s. to 51s.; low middling, 52s. 6d. to 56s. 6d.

BLACK PEPPER.—Business in Singapore, at 7 1-16d. to 7¼d., and for arrival at 6 9-16d. to 6¾d. per lb.

FRIDAY EVENING.

TEA.—The steamer Glenogle, from Hankow, with the first new season's monings, arrived last night, and docked this morning about four o'clock. 12,000 packages have been sold to-day without reserve at prices from 8½d. to 1s. 4¼d. for half chests, and 1s. 7d. for boxes. Only a moderate quantity of the teas offering have been disposed of privately. Prices for good to fine quality 1s. 6d. to 2s. 2d. per lb.

SUGAR.—A further decline was taken for the crystallised Demerara to-day, making the fall since last Friday 6d. to 1s. per cwt. Low to fair yellow sold, 19s. to 21s. The week's business in West India is 709 casks 6,100 bags. 300 tons Palmyra Jaggery sold at 9s. per cwt. Beet again easier. In the Clyde Market a better demand for pieces, &c., to-day.

COFFEE.—The public sales have gone with great heaviness, several parcels being taken in. Common to middling qualities of Plantation Ceylon and East India are 1s. and 2s. lower for the week. Fine about steady. 245 casks, 158 barrels and bags of the former sold to-day at 62s. to 65s. 6d. for middling; 69s. 6d. to 76s. for fine middling to bold; and 80s. to 95s. for good and fine bold. 1,030 bags East India chiefly bought in, but subsequently the greater part sold. Guatemala unchanged, 1,188 bags part sold; foxey greenish, 48s. to 49s. 6d.; fine ordinary to low middling, 54s. to 57s. Rio dull of sale. 344 bags washed bought in at 58s. to 63s.; one lot selling at 61s. Part of 103 bags Honduras, at 83s. 6d. to 90s. 276 packages Mocha bought in at 85s. to 90s.

Captain R. J. Francis, 2nd Punjab (Simla) Volunteer Rifle Corps, has been promoted major.

In consequence of Brigadier-General Blair's promotion he vacates command of the Rohilkund District, and will be succeeded by Brigadier-General T. E. Gordon, C.B., C.S.I., from Rawul Pindi, the latter district being taken by Brigadier-General J. J. H. Gordon, C.B., from Mooltan, leaving the latter station to the command of the next senior officer, Lieutenant-Colonel A. J. Birch, 22nd Punjab Native Infantry.

The composition of the committee which has been ordered to assemble on the organisation of the Indian Sappers and Miners is as follows:—Colonel Hudson, 28th P.N.I., C.B., President; Lieutenant Hamilton, R.E., Madras; Lieutenant Colonel North, R.E., Bombay, and Major L. F. Brown, R.E., Second in Command, Bengal Sappers and Miners. The detailed instructions for the committee have not yet been drafted, but generally the Committee will have to report on the whole question of the organisation of the Sappers and Miners in India. The committee will assemble shortly at Roorke.

THE BOMBAY WATER FAMINE.

BOMBAY, in addition to an ice famine, is threatened, it would seem, with a scarcity of water also. The Bombay papers are filled with letters complaining of the present state of affairs. Miss Edith Pechey, the lady doctor, draws a moving picture of her woes in the Times of India:—

I am deeply grateful to you for commiserating my sad plight. Fancy one's feelings in this weather at being told that the dhobie has had to suspend operations for want of water? This morning, as an answer to your prayers on our behalf, I heard the welcome sound of running water, though it continued, alas! for only one short hour. For weeks our supply has been not only deficient in quantity, but so foul, that even boiling and filtering could not remove the smell and taste, even the tea and coffee have been undrinkable, and had it not been for such public benefactors as Kemp and Co., and other soda-water manufacturers, our condition must have been deplorable in the extreme. But there must be numbers of people who are still greater objects of pity than myself. It makes me quite unhappy to think what the sufferings of the poor must have been if water has been doled out with as stingy a hand. They cannot afford to substitute soda-water and other drinks, and many must, I fear, often have suffered from actual thirst during the past hot days. The natural salubrity of the Bombay climate is a matter of frequent reflection to me. In the hottest season of the year the Corporation give us a limited supply of foul water full of decaying matter; they also choose this time for opening up sewers and cleaning out gully traps, so that one has to hold one's nose the length of several streets. The scavengers also in some quarters apparently take their holiday at this time of year; in short, a general invitation is given to cholera, typhoid fever and all the hosts of diseases attendant upon foul air and water, and yet how few of us comparatively die? It is not fair, however, to trust too much to healthy breezes and a salubrious climate; and those of us who take an interest in life would like to have the maximum and not the minimum of chances. It cannot be too prominently borne in mind that the supply of wholesome water in abundant quantity is a fundamental sanitary necessity, and that nothing tends so much to lower the death-rate of a city as the introduction of pure water, practically unlimited in quantity and constant in its flow. The ancient city of Rome is said to have been supplied at the rate of 300 gallons per head daily, a large portion of which was used in her magnificent public baths. The climate of India calls for a supply of water not inferior to this; and though at present we cannot hope for such costly works as the Roman Empire reached with so lavish a hand, we have a right to demand that everyone in this city shall be able at any hour of the day or night to procure a reasonable quantity of pure water fresh from the pipes.

THE SONEPUR RACES.—All lovers of racing in Bengal will, it is certain, be glad to learn that the Sonepur races are not likely to be abandoned, as was at one time anticipated. Anteus-like, they seem to have arisen all the stronger from their near contact with failure. The prospectus holds out every prospect of good racing, for good prizes are offered for horses of all classes, as well as ponies. To those who are not specially attracted by the love of racing, the pleasures of the camp, with its many balls, lawn tennis matches, polo, &c., always afford ample enjoyment. No every one should wish success to the Sonepur meeting.—Id.

A LASKARI DICTIONARY,

OR,

ANGLO-INDIAN VOCABULARY OF NAUTICAL TERMS AND PHRASES IN ENGLISH AND HINDUSTANI.

Chiefly the Corrupt Jargon in use among Laskars or Indian Sailors.

Originally compiled by Captain Thomas Roebuck, Madras Infantry, Professor of Hindustani, Examiner, &c., in the College of Fort William, Calcutta. Revised and corrected by William Carmichael Smyth, Esq. B.C.S., and now carefully re-edited and enlarged by GEORGE SMALL, M.A. MISSIONARY, Formerly of the B.M.S. at Calcutta and Benares, now to the Laskars, &c., in London, in connection with the Asiatic Strangers' Home, Limehouse.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We have received a copy of what we venture to predict will prove one of the most useful books that ever fell into the hands of a ship's officer—a vocabulary of the sea jargon of Indian laskars. In the brief space of eighty-two pages Mr. Small has given us some 1,400 nautical terms, embracing nearly the whole vocabulary of native crews. We congratulate Mr. Small on the completion of a book which, if it is the least pretentious, is, to our thinking, the most useful and the most enduring of all the books he has yet written."—Statesman, Calcutta.

"Of the value of the present edition, for the intended purpose, it is difficult to speak too highly."—Home News, May 26, 1882.

CATECHISM OF SHORTHAND;

Being a Critical Examination of the various Styles, with special reference to the question, which is the best English System of Shorthand?

By

THOMAS ANDERSON,

Author of "History of Shorthand," &c.

"That Mr. Anderson should be able to arrive at a sound and practical conclusion may be inferred from the fact that he has been a writer at intervals of phonography, Melville Bell's, Gurney's, Taylor's, and his own system of shorthand, and has also written a full and valuable history of the art."—Manchester Courier.

"We must say that there is a great deal of information crowded into small compass. At a time when shorthand is gaining an ascendancy in public attention previously unknown, we are sure that this little book by a practical man and an enthusiastic student of the history of shorthand, will be largely read."—Metropolitan.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE.—Dr. J. C.
BROWNE (late Army Medical Staff)
DISCOVERED a REMEDY to denote which he coined the word CHLORO-DYNE. Dr. Browne is the SOLE IN-VENTOR, and, as the composition of Chlorodyne cannot possibly be discovered by Analysis (organic substances deriving elimination), and since the formula has never been published, it is evident that any statement to the effect that a compound is identical with Dr.
Browne's Chlorodyne must be false.

This Caution is necessary, as many persons deceive purchasers by false representations.
DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE.—Vice Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was UNDOUBTEDLY the INVENTOR of CHLORODYNE, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.

GENERAL BOARD OF HEALTH,
London, REPORT that it ACTS as a CHARM, one dose generally sufficient.

LY CURED ME OF DIARRHŒA."
Frost, Stevens & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Simla, Jan. 5, 1880.
To J. T. DAVENPORT, London.

DEAR SIR,—We congratulate you upon the widespread reputation this justly-esteemed medicine has earned for itself all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from the sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but transient. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of DR. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE in Diarrhœa, and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power.

IS
SPECIFIC
CHOLERA.

We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a deliberate breach of faith on the part of the chemist to prescriber and patient alike.—We are, Sir, faithfully yours, SYMES & CO. Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S

The CHAIRMAN: My Lord and Gentlemen. The first thing I think I ought to do, is to explain to you how it happens that I have the honour of presiding at this meeting. You have probably most of you heard of a league which is called the Liberty and Property Defence League. (Cheers.) Well, I happen to have the honour of being chairman of that league. (Cheers.) It has become pretty well known, although it has not yet been two years in existence, and I think it has done a good deal of good parliamentary work already. It is so well known that 900 notices in the course of the year with regard to it have appeared in the press; but, further, this league has a European fame, because two days ago I got a letter from a gentleman, one of those distinguished men of Geneva, saying that he had seen in the English papers a report of the annual meeting of our league, and that it appeared to him that things in England were going on exactly upon all fours—he did not use the expression, but that is what he meant—with what they were trying to do at Geneva, in Switzerland, and he wished to know what our rules and our publications were. So that, you see, in Switzerland, in free Switzerland, you find there the same dangers which attend us in this country: those dangers being these. Those whom we put over us to govern, I do not care on which side of politics they are, receive from us very good salaries to do our business and to protect our liberty and our property; but what are they doing? They are betraying liberty and property in this country for the sake of party and for place. (Cheers.) And the same thing you see is happening in free Switzerland, where liberty even, as well as property, appears to be in danger. Well, but I go further as regards this Liberty and Property Defence League, for the knowledge of it—perhaps it is too much to talk of fame—but, at any rate, the knowledge of it is extending to distant India. About a month or six weeks ago we received a letter from Mr. Roper Lethbridge, stating that, in India, what was called the Indian Constitutional Association had been established, and that they wished to federate with the Liberty and Property Defence League in this country. Well, when we came to inquire about the matter, and to meet Mr. Lethbridge, who will later on explain to you all that is necessary with reference to this Bengal Tenancy Bill—we found that it was founded very much on the same principle as our league in this country—that it had the same objects in view, and that in India the same dangers, which we are endeavouring in this country to guard against, threatened property. (Hear, hear.) So that having in view the federation of associations, whether they are all in England, or whether in other parts of the British Empire, which are founded on the same basis—viz., the protection of liberty and property, that being the object which we have in view, I am happy to say that the Indian Constitutional Association and the British Liberty and Property Defence League are one in the matter of federation. (Cheers.) Well, now, it is in that capacity, and as representing the Liberty and Property Defence League, that I have the honour of presiding at this meeting. What Mr. Roper Lethbridge was anxious for, on the part of the Constitutional Association, was that there should be a meeting held in London to protest against and to discuss the Bengal Tenancy Bill, and that this meeting should be held under the auspices of the Liberty and Property Defence League. Well, gentlemen, that is the reason of our being invited here. That is the reason that has brought us all here to-day, and I shall leave it to Mr. Roper Lethbridge, who understands all the details of this measure, to move the first resolution upon this Bengal Tenancy Bill, and to explain to you its provisions, because his personal knowledge of the question enables him to make that explanation in a way that I could not do, and which is not desirable I should attempt to do. But, I must say this, that though here I am fulfilling the duty of chairman on this occasion, it may be well, without entering into detail, that I should point to what appears to me to be the striking provision in this Bengal Tenancy Bill. On looking at the Bill, what strikes one? Why, the strange similarity between this legislation which is proposed for India and the legislation which we have already had such sad experience of in Ireland. (Cheers.) Now what is this Irish Legislation which is now being imported into India? In the year 1870, a Bill was introduced which gave the tenant what was called compensation for disturbance, that is that if anybody wished to resume his land in Ireland—which he had let on fair conditions—or whatever the conditions might be—conditions at any rate the tenant accepted, and was anxious to hold his tenure under—if the landlord wished to resume his tenancy below £50 he had to pay sums varying up to seven years' value. Further than this, you then have that system of breaking of contracts and forbidding of contracts brought into our legislation, and I am sure there is not a gentleman who hears me who will not admit that security of contract, and the power of free men to make free contracts, lies at the base of our national prosperity, whether it is in trade, in commerce, in land, or in anything else. (Cheers.) Now, this measure in Ireland was introduced as a final measure; mark that these measures are always final. (Laughter.) What was the result? Time ran on. The year 1880 came. There was a great election, and a great many speeches were made, especially in the county which adjoins my own, and which county rejoices in the name of Midlothian. (Laughter.) Well, in one of those many speeches made in that now celebrated county, we were told that Ireland had never been so prosperous, so contented, as she was in the year 1880. What followed? In the year 1881, a new Irish Land Bill is introduced, giving effect to what are called the three F's, viz.: fixity of tenure, fair rents, and free sale. Well that measure has had this result, that those who are conversant with the subject tell me that it is simply transferred from A to B, from the landlord to the tenant (I mean those two measures of 1870 and 1881, put together), property rights to the actual value of between two and three millions sterling, and that without any compensation whatsoever. And, from whom is this transfer or this redistribution, for that is what it comes to, of property by the State been made? It has been taken from the orderly, from the law-abiding and loyal, and been given to the disorderly, the law-breaking, and the disloyal—(cheers)—who are only making the Irish Land Question a stepping-stone, as we are told with the utmost candour (and I am bound to say I admire above all things, the candour with which Mr. Parnell and his followers have from the very first told the Government and the people of this country what they mean and what they want), a stepping-stone to separation, and the disintegration of the Empire. (Cheers.) Well, gentlemen, those are ugly features, and if we turn to the Bengal Tenancy Bill, what do we find? We find there the very same features which are to be seen in the Irish Bill. Here they are! Here is a paper which was read before the East India Association by Mr. Lethbridge on Oct. 31 last. Here are the leading features of the Bill, as described in the analytical table of contents: "The Bill contains occupancy rights over entire holdings, even when only an infinitesimal fraction has been occupied a statutable period," and this notwithstanding any existing contract to the contrary. Domain land cannot be increased, and presumption as to land being "domain" is to be always against the landlord. Domain land to be surveyed and registered (at great cost, and probably with general extortion). All existing contracts, authorising enhancement of rent, are to be swept away. All existing contracts forbidding enhancement of rent are to remain valid. No new contracts "for enhancement to be valid, except with sanction of revenue officer, who is to satisfy himself, &c., revenue officer (in certain districts) to draw up 'Table of Rates of Fair Rents.'" I shall not dilate on fair rents, but I think there is a noble friend of mine here who will have something to say upon this question of "fair" rents as applied in the new Government way of estimating and fixing rents. (Hear, hear.) Then, what are the further provisions—"Enhancement of rent," only to be obtained by costly suit in civil court; and then only under stringent limitations. And, finally, "Rent always to be limited by maximum of one-fifth annual produce of land." "Sudden and wholesale introduction of free sale"—there you have the Irishism of free sale—"of occupancy rights." Illusory privilege of pre-emption given to landlord. Abolition of summary distress, and substitution of tedious and summary process. Tenants at will to have compensation for disturbance at an enormous rate. Then, as regards the landlord, "he becomes a mere annuitant, all effective control of land passes into the hands of the middlemen (chiefly moneylenders) who will at once purchase the occupancy rights." He is still subject to the inexorable Sunset law. He is not allowed a free market. Every legal presumption being against him, he is always fighting battles in court, in which he is not allowed to gain, and may often lose. Continually forced to pay blackmail, he will be at the mercy of his enemies, and of speculative landjobbers, until he is ruined. The vast majority of landlords—very poor men, with incomes of less than £8 per annum—will be chief sufferers. Results of Bill to tenant: will become a serf, because the transferability of his tenure (hitherto virtually unknown in Bengal) will everywhere tempt him to kill the goose with the golden eggs. This certainty, admitted to be a possible danger by Lord Ripon's Government. Actual cultivators are to have no rights whatever against the middleman. That is the Bill which is for the benefit of the tenant! And mind you this, the original intent of this Bill was that it should be nominally for the benefit of landlords. It was introduced with a view to the landlord being better able to collect his rents, and yet it has grown strangely (by some process which is perhaps known in India, but which we do not quite understand here as yet), until at last it has become a measure which will effect the objects which you have heard described. Now what is the public opinion in regard to this Bill in India? I find that the Hindoo Patriot, the leading native paper of Bengal, calls it (and I would rather give it hard names from India than from myself) "that ungodly measure of wholesale robbery, and a measure which threatens to create an agrarian revolution." Then the Behar landowners in their petition to Parliament say, "The effect of the Bill is simply to deprive the Zemindars of their proprietary rights and to render them mere cyphers upon those estates." The Chief Justice of Bengal writes this about it—what I have already read has been from Indian opinions. This is an English opinion from India. The Chief Justice writes, "I confess I view with horror and dismay the revolutionary provisions of the present Bill." . . . A native, a late member of the Viceroy's Legislative Council, the Honourable Maharajah Sir Jotendro Mohan Tajore, says, "Our rights, our social position, nay, our very means of living are at stake!" These are pretty strong expressions of opinion with reference to this Bill, and I think when Mr. Roper Lethbridge comes to move the first resolution he will show to you by entering into those details how very well justified those expressions of opinion are. And the most remarkable part of it is this that this revolution which it is proposed to make in tenure of land in Bengal follows after a settlement which was made in 1839; but above all, it follows after such a charter was given to the proprietors of land in India as was given by Lord Cornwallis's settlement in 1793. Turning to that settlement I find that Section 7, Cl use 2, is as follows: "The Governor General trusts that the proprietors of land sensible of the benefits conferred upon them by the public assessment being fixed for ever" (that is the final measure, as you see, in Ireland), "will exert themselves in the cultivation of their land under the certainty that they will enjoy exclusively the fruit of their own good management and industry." (Cheers.) I say that was a charter to the people of India, and you see of what value that charter is when it is followed by such a measure as a Bill of the character described by these quotations which I have ventured to make to you. Now, what I will only now ask you to consider is this, whether the results of this kind of legislation at home are so satisfactory that it is—I will not talk of justice, I will not talk of anything but policy—whether it is politic to establish in India anything at all resembling the Irish legislation. Why, what has been the result of this Irish legislation? That was a "remedial" measure. It is a very pretty and euphonious term and sounds very nice, but when you gauge and test it, what does it mean? The result of all this legislation has been simply this: that it has ended in the most stringent Coercion Bill that has ever been passed for Ireland. (Cheers.) I do not say for a moment that that Coercion Bill is unnecessary; if that Bill were to be repealed you would have this last state of Ireland worse than the first. Then it was not only to be remedial, but it was to be final. Since 1881, including that Irish Coercion Bill, in every year there has been a fresh Land Bill of some kind or another, sometimes to pay the tenants' debts, under the name of arrears which they declined to pay themselves; and now we have even this Session a new Bill which is to be the great final step in Ireland by which the Irish tenants are to have money advanced to them—the money I suppose of the taxpayers of this country, of the ordinary hard working taxpayers of this country, the loyal well-behaved taxpayers of this country, in order to enable the Irish tenant to purchase his holding. There is this further fact, and in all these matters about Ireland do not forget this, that the Bill was introduced in Ireland to prevent rack rental; but it did this. Rack rental really means taking the market value of your rent. It can mean nothing else. (Hear, hear.) It is not always wise to take the highest offer for rent; not at all. In Scotland you advertise farms to know really what their value is, but you do not take the highest bidder. You take the tenant you believe to be the most solvent, and the one who will do most justice to your land. But still on that principle you may say that we rack rent; we take in Scotland what is supposed to be the value of our land. Well, that is what rack renting means really. But it is a bad name, and this Bill was produced, as it was stated, for the purpose of preventing rack renting in Ireland. What is the result? It has left rack-rent-right absolutely untouched, and what is the result? That whereas the landlord is pulled down in Ireland to a certain fixed rent by the State, the tenant is under no control whatever, and may sell his holding in the market for the highest figure that he can get. And what is the consequence again of this remedial legislation? It is this, that the peasant in Ireland, the labourer, the working man, is absolutely divorced from the soil forever, because unless he can afford to spend a sum in buying the tenant right he has no chance of getting a farm whatsoever. Well, that is the result of all this legislation in Ireland, and I ask you, gentlemen, who are conversant with India, and I am sorry to say that never having been there I cannot speak with any authority on the subject, I can only discuss general principles; I ask you whether—looking to the character of the Irish legislation—looking to those results, you think it will be for the benefit of Bengal or any part of India, whether for the landlord or the tenant, or for the cultivator of the soil that a measure such as the Bengal Tenancy Bill should pass into law? (No, no.) Well, at any rate, this meeting is not called for the purpose of asking you to throw out that Bill, if you had the power to do so. It is simply called for this purpose, to press for an inquiry into this Bill. It is proposed that before it becomes law there shall be a bona fide inquiry. I believe the Bill itself is said to be founded on an inquiry; but those who are conversant with it tell me that there was practically no inquiry at all, it was more of a foregone conclusion than anything else; and what this meeting is intended to do, as I understand it, is to press for an inquiry before the Bill becomes law; and that that inquiry, instead of being a make-believe inquiry, shall be a bona fide inquiry—a public inquiry by a properly constituted Commission, holding their meetings in public and publishing the result. (Cheers.) That I apprehend to be the object of the meeting, but at the same time I also apprehend that your wish and desire is by your presence here to day, to protest against the principles which are to be found in this Bill. India I hold to be the Koh-i-Noor of the British Empire. We hold that great country for the good of its people and for the glory and good of our own country. To keep your hold upon that country the Government—I do not care which side of politics it represents—must administer the affairs of that country, not on any theory, but on sound principles, and above all upon the principle of justice; justice to all, justice to the landlord, justice to the occupier, justice to the native, justice to the Englishman; above all if we wish to hold that country, measures such as these must not, I hold, be introduced; not a measure founded, as I venture to say, in many respects the Bengal Tenancy Bill is founded upon injustice, and framed on a bad model, the model of the Irish Land Bill. (Cheers.) I have nothing more now to say, gentlemen, but to thank the meeting for listening to these few remarks, and I will now call upon Mr. Roper Lethbridge to move the first resolution.

Mr. ROPER LETHBRIDGE, C.I.E., who was received with cheers, said: My Lord Wemyss, lords and gentlemen, in rising to address you this afternoon as the accredited representative in this country of the Indian Constitutional Association, I desire first of all to tender the warmest gratitude of the Association to the Chairman and members of Council and members of the Liberty and Property Defence League, and to those gentlemen who have in many cases, at some sacrifice of their time and convenience, come together here to-day to enable us to lay our doubts and fears before the tribunal of English public opinion. Not a few of those who had intended to come here to-day, and whose valued names will appear on the list of our supporters, have written or telegraphed to me to explain how it is that various unavoidable circumstances have prevented them from being with us. Amongst those I am glad to mention the name of the Right Hon. James Lowther, M.P., who telegraphs these significant words: "I regret that absence from London prevents my attending the meeting to protest against the confiscation of property in Bengal." (Cheers.) I am also glad to mention the names of the Right Hon. Cecil Raikes, M.P., Mr. Denzil Onslow, M.P., Mr. Stanley Leighton, M.P., and Sir John Hay, M.P., and I might mention very many others; but to all of these I feel that the thanks of the Indian Constitutional Association are warmly due. The Indian Constitutional Association, my lord, claims to be the representative, and is, indeed, the embodiment, of the doubts and fears that have been aroused throughout India by the sensational legislation of the present Government. (Cheers.) Such an association was, unhappily, impossible during that unfortunate period when controversy arose between Englishmen and Indians in India regarding the merits of the Ilbert Bill. During that period there were indeed defence associations and reform associations, and associations of various kinds; but those were distinctly class associations, or race associations, or associations to protect or defend particular interests. Gentlemen, the Indian Constitutional Association claims to be no class association, not to represent any class or race, but is an entirely comprehensive one. I make bold to say that in the list of our members will be found the names of every one of the leading and more prominent representatives of native public opinion in Bengal, and not only so, but we have amongst us every one of those non-official Europeans, who, being untrammelled by the ties of official duty, are able to express an independent opinion on current politics. (Cheers.) And, my lord, the Indian Constitutional Association, consisting thus, as it does, of Hindu maharajahs and rajahs, and of Mahomedan nawabs and princes, and of Bengal gentlemen of all sorts and conditions of life, and of European gentlemen domiciled in and strongly interested in the affairs of Bengal, comes to-day before the tribunal of English public opinion, and it declares in its published manifesto that it is formed to resist the introduction into India of dangerous measures altogether unsuited to the country—(cheers)—it declares that it is formed solely in the interest of good government, but that it will endeavour to protect from encroachment the vested rights, landed and otherwise, of all classes of the community—(cheers)—and amongst those vested rights it declares that the first thing that occurs to them now to protect is the rights of the landed classes in India, and of the poor ryots, who are dependent upon those landed classes for their subsistence; and the Indian Constitutional Association is determined to protest with all its strength and with its power against the Bengal Tenancy Bill. When the Bengal Tenancy Bill was first introduced by Mr. Ilbert last year, it was described in the terms which have already been quoted by our noble chairman in the Press of India. It was further described by the Bengal landholders in their somewhat pathetic petition to Parliament in these words: "The Bengal Tenancy Bill, the manifest tendency of which seems to be to revolutionise the present relations between landlord and tenant in the provinces of Bengal and Behar, to re-distribute landed property on a new and inequitable basis, and to fetter the freedom of action of all classes interested in agriculture by driving them at almost every step of their mutual transactions to courts of law and to physical force, and to foster dispute, litigation, and animosities in lieu of peace, harmony, and good-will among them." My lord, that is a serious indictment, and I will now endeavour to show you that that indictment is by no means an exaggerated one. You will all admit the importance of the subject which we are met to discuss to-day. The whole of Bengal virtually consists of an agricultural population, and that population is as big as the united populations of England and France put together. Even in the parts of Bengal peculiarly affected by this Bill, even among the classes to whom this Bill will directly refer, the population is no less than 55,000,000, or larger than the population of any State in Europe except Russia. Now, gentlemen, as has been already pointed out by the Chairman, the charter on which the liberties, and the franchises, and the privileges of that vast agricultural community depend is that glorious enactment known as the Permanent Settlement of Bengal, which we owe to Lord Cornwallis, in 1793. If I were to dwell upon its details, time would fail me, and I should exhaust your patience before I could enter into all the controverted circumstances of that settlement. As to what were the rights that pre-existed that settlement, and as to what rights were confirmed or conferred by that settlement, and as to the wisdom of that settlement, opinions have differed; but upon the last point, upon the point of the wisdom of that settlement I would venture to quote the remarks of no mean authority upon such a question, the Duke of Argyll, who in a recent article contributed, curiously enough, to the Nineteenth Century, upon the writings of the famous prophet of San Francisco (Mr. Henry George), thus represents the diverse opinions upon the wisdom of the Permanent Settlement of Bengal. He says: "Many Anglo-Indian statesmen have looked with envious eyes at the wealth which has been developed in Lower Bengal" (that is one side of the question), "and have mourned over the policy by which the State has been withheld from taking it into the hands of the Government. There are two questions, however, which have always occurred to me when this mourning has been expressed—the first is, whether we are quite sure that the wealth of Lower Bengal would ever have arisen if its sources had not been thus protected?" (Cheers.) "And the second is, whether, even now, it is quite certain that any Government, even the best, spend wealth better for the public interests than those to whom it belongs by the natural processes of acquisition? These questions have never, I think, been adequately considered. But" (and this, gentlemen, represents the other side of the question, as to our dealing with that Permanent Settlement), "whatever may be the true answer to either of them, there is at least one question on which all English statesmen have been" (hitherto, I am afraid we must say) "unanimous, and that is, that promises once given by the Government, however long ago, must be absolutely kept." (Cheers.) That, gentlemen, is the sole point upon which I would ask you to fix your attention with regard to this covenant between the British Government and the agricultural classes of Bengal: it is the solemnity of the engagement into which the British Government then entered. (Hear, hear.) With regard to the proprietary rights of the landowners, the quotation that was made just now by the noble Chairman, I think, is sufficient to persuade any honest mind that those proprietary rights are indefeasible ones. I would venture further to quote one passage which seems to me even more forcible in the same direction. Section 1 of Regulation 2 in the great Permanent Settlement says:—"Government must divest itself of the power of infringing in its executive capacity the rights and privileges which, as exercising the legislative authority, it has conferred on the landholders. No power will then exist in the country by which the rights vested in the landholders by the regulation can be infringed, or the value of landed property affected." (Hear, hear.) I ask you, gentlemen, could anything be more definitely distinct, more solemn, than these declarations of Lord Cornwallis? I do not contend for a moment that these declarations bar the right of the Government to interfere by legislation, even to the extent of confiscation, if it be necessary. But I do say that the solemnity with which those engagements were entered into by the British Government makes it incumbent upon us to consider with the utmost care what are the reasons, what are the causes which will justify such interference on the part of the Legislature? Gentlemen, the law of landlord and tenant as settled by these regulations of the Permanent Settlement endured without any material alteration until the year 1859. In that year the famous, perhaps I might almost say the notorious, Act X. of 1859 was passed, and on that Act and upon its corollary, the Act VIII. of 1869, nearly the whole of subsequent litigation in Bengal has been based. The point of that Act was simply this—that it conferred rights of occupancy upon tenants who had held uninterrupted possession of the same land for twelve years. Now, that Act X. of 1859, attracted, and would obviously attract, a good deal of opposition, not so much for what it actually conferred upon the tenants, not so much for what it actually enacted, but because it was feared that it might prove to be the thin end of the wedge. Well, gentlemen, we were told then, "There is absolute finality about this Act"; we were told then, "If you pass this Act X. of 1859, there will be virtually a millennium in Bengal." Now, gentlemen, I ask you to allow me to read one sentence only from the opening statement of Mr. Ilbert when he introduced this Bengal Tenancy Bill last year. Mr. Ilbert says, "The effect of Act X. of 1859 is admitted to have been on the whole beneficial, but in certain important points it cannot be considered a success." That is the finality of Act X., and what does that statement clearly mean? It means that a great reformer has arisen in Israel, and that he is determined to re-open the whole land question again. (Cheers.) Well, it is necessary for me now to come to the Bill as introduced last year by Mr. Ilbert, and as amended—so the technical phrase goes, it seems to me to be a very ironical one—by the Select Committee of the Viceroy's Legislative Council. Now, the first and fundamental objection which is taken by the Indian Constitutional Association to that Bill as it now appears applies to its first state as it was introduced by Mr. Ilbert, and applies even with still greater force to the Act as it at present appears as amended in Select Committee. It is that that Act regulates in the minutest and the most inquisitorial fashion every one of a thousand of the most intricate relations between landlord and tenant in every one of their acts of life. I withdraws all these points from private discretion, it baulks effectually freedom of contract between landlord and tenant; and it places in this way the fortunes and the incomes and prosperity of the landed classes throughout Bengal at the mercy of a despotic Government and its executive officers. (Hear, hear.) Despotism is tempered, and under this Act can only be tempered, simply in the case of those who are able to pay the fees of the deus ex machina of this Act, that is the omnivorous lawyer. I am something of a lawyer myself, and I speak in the presence of some of the very most distinguished lawyers of this or any other country—(hear, hear)—and, therefore, without any invidiousness, I can say that it is not in our opinion the highest aim of politics, it ought not to be the aim of any legislation, to provide a paradise for lawyers—(laughter and cheers)—and, gentlemen, under this Bill of Mr. Ilbert's, I assert that over Bengal might be written, "If there is a paradise on earth for lawyers, it is here." (Laughter and cheers.) Well, gentlemen, as for this chaotic mass, which is so confused that I find it difficult really to tread my way through it so as to explain it intelligibly to you, I will only attempt to dwell on the salient features; and these salient features are not difficult to find out, for, as our noble chairman has already told us, they are the salient features of the Irish land legislation of the last few years. The three points that are most noteworthy are the three "F's," as they are called, to which our chairman has already alluded—those three Graces we may call them—the sister Graces of modern land legislation. With regard to the first F; that had already been introduced, to some slight extent, as I have told you, under Act X. of 1859. But what is it now? Now we are told that fixity of tenure the first F, is to be acquired by every settled ryot with regard to every inch of land the moment that land is settled; and not only so, but with regard to every tenant who can show that he is in possession, the legal presumption under this Act is to be—whether it is true or not, is no matter—that he has been in possession for the last twelve years, and therefore possesses, ipso facto, these occupancy rights. Now, what did the present Prime Minister teach us in 1870 with regard to the operation of this blessed law, this saving grace, of fixity of tenure? In 1870, Mr. Gladstone said, from his place in Parliament: “Inasmuch as perpetuity of tenure on the part of the occupier is virtually expropriation of the landlord, and as a mere readjustment of rent according to the price of produce can by no means dispose of all contingencies the future may produce in his favour, compensation would have to be paid to the landlord for the rights of which he would be deprived.” Mr. Gladstone went on to speak of the financial difficulties attending compensation; but as Lord Ripon cuts the Gordian knot by the sharp sword of confiscation, I need not quote the remarks that followed. But Mr. Gladstone continued:—

“Suppose, for a moment, that we put the financial difficulty out of view, what would be the effect of perpetuity on the tenant? As I understand it, the scheme itself amounts to this—that each and every occupier, as long as he pays the rent that he is now paying, or else some rent to be fixed by a public tribunal charged with the duty of valuation, is to be secured for himself and his heirs, in the occupation of the land that he holds, without limit of time. He will be subject only to this condition—somewhat in the nature of the Commutation of Tithes Act—that with a variation in the value of produce the rent may vary, but it will be slightly, and at somewhat distant periods. The effect of that provision will be that the landlord will become a pensioner and rent-charger upon what is now his own estate. The Legislature has, no doubt, the perfect right to reduce him to that condition, giving him proper compensation for any loss he may sustain in money; the State has a perfect right to deal with his social status, and to reduce him to that condition, if he thinks fit. But then it is bound not so to think fit unless it is shown that this is for the public good. Now is it for the public good that the landlords of Ireland, in a body, should be reduced by an Act of Parliament to the condition practically of fundholders, entitled to apply on a certain day from year to year for a certain sum of money, but entitled to nothing more? Are you prepared to denude them of their interest in the land? And, what is more, are you prepared to absolve them from their duties with regard to the land? I, for one, confess that I am not; nor is that the sentiment of my colleagues.”

Then, again, with regard to the second F, fair rent, the title to which our noble chairman has already directed your attention as being so illusory, that underlies almost every clause, almost every section of this Bill. “The Court may direct what is fair and equitable.” “The revenue officer may direct what is fair and equitable.” “The Court may order this.” “The revenue officer may refuse to order that;” and so on throughout the whole Bill. “Fair and equitable” is the song of the Bill, and who is to judge what is fair and equitable? Why, the servants of the Government, the Civil Courts, or the revenue officer. (Cheers.) And once more, I should like to put before you Mr. Gladstone's views on the subject. In the same debate from which I have already quoted, Mr. Gladstone said:—

“I own, I have not heard, I do not know, and I cannot conceive what is to be paid for the prospective power to reduce excessive rents. In whose interest is it asked? Certainly not in the interest of the landlord? Is it asked in the name of the tenant? Shall I really be told that it is for the interest of the Irish tenant bidding for a farm that the law should say to him, ‘Cast aside all providence and forethought, go into the market and bid what you like; drive out of the field the prudent man who means to fulfil his engagement, bid right above him and induce the landlord to give you the farm, and the moment you have got it come forward, go to the public authority, show that the rent is excessive and that you cannot pay it, and get it reduced.’ If I could conceive a plan more calculated than anything else, first of all, for throwing into confusion the whole economical arrangements of the country; secondly, for driving out of the field all solvent and honest men who might be bidders for farms, and might desire to carry on the honourable business of agriculture; thirdly, for carrying widespread demoralisation throughout the whole mass of the Irish people, I must say, as at present advised—to confine myself to the present, and until otherwise convinced—it is this plan and this demand that we should embody in our Bill, as a part of permanent legislation, a provision by which men shall be told that there shall be an authority always existing, ready to release them from the contracts they have deliberately entered into.”

And finally, Mr. Gladstone objected:—

“How are these rents to be valued, what is the test? The prices of produce? Of what produce? Of one kind of produce or of all kind? Can any man fix by law any system upon which it will be possible to adjust rents by calculations founded upon prices of agricultural produce of all kinds? Perhaps you will say ‘What was done in the case of commutation of tithes?’ I will tell you what was done. It was a very rough process indeed, it was a process to which the tithe commutators submitted, but to which, you may rely on it, no other powerful class in this country will ever again submit. Besides the cases differ in this—the tithe of agistment was gone, the right of the tithe commutator only subsisted in produce of certain kinds, and therefore it was not very difficult to get at the prices of these kinds of produce. The landlord's interest is not restricted to wheat, barley, and oats, but extends to all the varied descriptions of produce. There are no records of the prices. I defy you to keep up records of the prices. They are sold in every possible way and under every possible circumstance. It is impossible to combine them together so as to found upon them a compensation which you can make the basis of these enormous and complicated arrangements. Again, how is the landlord's rent to vary? Is it to vary according to the prices of produce? Because that is the proposal I have seen. It is impossible, in my opinion, to get the prices of produce so as to found the rent upon them by a public authority; and if you could get them, it would be absolutely impossible to apply a standard according to the varying circumstances of each particular holding, and its capacity to produce this or that kind of produce.”

Then again with regard to the abolition of freedom of contract. This is the reassuring and equitable phrase that recurs in every clause almost of this reassuring and equitable Bill: Notwithstanding any existing contract to the contrary! It has been explained to you that all contracts in the past are to be swept away; as a general rule all contracts for the future are to be invalid, unless under certain specified conditions, and those conditions are with the sanction again of the Civil Court or of the revenue officer of the Government. I should like to be allowed just to give you the details of that. I will read a short statement of the actual circumstances under which freedom of contract is to be absolutely abolished in Bengal. “The matters which are placed beyond the reach of contract are thus specified by the Committee. The acquisition of the status of settled ryot, and of the occupancy right.” That is almost the whole business. Then contracts may not hold with regard to “The incidents of the occupancy right specified in Section 31: nor in respect to the occupancy ryots' right to demand a reduction of rent”—that is to say, if there has been when the ryot entered into possession of the land a contract for some good and sufficient reason, that the ryot is not to be allowed to ask for any deduction of rent, that contract is swept away. Is that justice? (Cheers.) These contracts may not be made with regard to the right of either landlord or tenant to demand a commutation of a produce rent, or with regard to the protection afforded by the Bill to a non-occupancy ryot or an under ryot from ejectment, except on specified grounds, nor in respect to the right of a tenant to a reduction of rent on account of a diminution of the area of his holding, nor as to the right of a ryot to make improvements and claim compensation for them, nor in respect of the protection afforded to all tenants against ejectments except in execution of a decree. Well, gentlemen, the Hon. Kristodas Pal who represents the native element in the Viceroy's Council, and I think most of us will agree with these remarks, says, I have, in my remarks on the introduction of the Bill, strongly protested against this retrograde move. The Permanent Settlement regulations not only recognised, but openly encouraged freedom of contract, and Act X. of 1859 did the same. I cannot conceive that if the ryot can be fairly considered a free agent in mortgaging or selling his hearth and home or his agricultural land, disposing of the produce of his field, or engaging his labour and fulfilling a thousand other obligations of every day life, why should he be considered incompetent to enter into a contract with his landlord?” (Cheers.) But, gentlemen, it is under the operation of the third of the three Graces, namely, the free sale of occupancy rights, that we of the Indian Constitutional Association, say that the most disastrous results of all will occur, not only to the landlords, but to every class of the agricultural community in Bengal. That principle, the principle of free sale, has been hitherto absolutely unknown in Bengal, I might almost say in India. Attempts have indeed been made to show, by citing a few cases in which sales have possibly been effected by ryots, without protest on the part of their landlords, that there were precedents for this free sale. But the whole weight of native testimony is against those precedents, and a native judge, who has had eighteen years' experience in the very districts that are cited as the only ones in which this precedent has occurred bears this testimony against it. The native Judge Babu Nuffer Chandra Bhattacharya says:—“Of the alleged custom I have not been able to see one instance in which it was proved in my experience, of nearly eighteen years in the districts of Nudua, twenty-four Pergunnahs, Moorshedabad, Backergunge and Dacca. Ryots sometimes sell such right, but landlords do not recognise such transfer by receiving rents from the purchasers unless they pay them salami—that is, a fine—or submit to an enhancement of rent.” Well, gentlemen, I will not dwell on the hardship inflicted on the zemindar by this third F, because it is perfectly evident that this novel departure from the ancient law and custom of India deprives the landlord of the right of selecting his own tenant. It cuts away the very principle on which the twelve years' statutable period for the creation of occupancy rights was founded, that principle being obviously that when a ryot has held for twelve years, he is presumably a good ryot. If he is allowed to sell his tenure to another ryot, how do we know that that other tenant is a good tenant? The whole principle is cut away. And it also allows and affords an opportunity to every malicious enemy of the zemindar—and we know that feuds of this kind do exist in Bengal—to establish himself indefeasibly on that zemindar's land, and to be ever afterwards a source of annoyance and irritation to him. But, gentlemen, I do not dwell upon those points, they are obvious; and, after all, it may be said that the zemindars are not such a large class as the ryots; but I will dwell with all the emphasis in my power upon the injury—the untold, unspeakable injury—that will occur, and that will happen to every class of ryot, by this very introduction of free sale. No condition of residence, no condition of occupation, is to be attached to this right. It is not the actual cultivators that we attempt to benefit. And what will be the consequence? These occupancy rights will be acquired, and then—we all know it is a fact, all who know anything of India—they will at once be sold to the neighbouring mahajan, or money-lender. The result will be not only the ousting of all the landlords of Bengal, but the tenants, without a single exception hardly, after a short time, will become the serfs of the money-lenders. (Cheers.) Those money-lenders—I do not wish to speak against them, they act up to their rights very properly—invest their money as a commercial speculation, and it is their duty, as I might say, to make the full profit that they can out of that investment and what, therefore, must be the result? The result must be rack-renting, not in the sense in which it has been explained to us by our noble chairman to-day, but rack renting in the foulest and most disastrous sense in which it has ever been used, rack renting in which the ryots will be crushed, and to which no limit can be placed, except the actual starvation or the death of the tenant. (Cheers.) These, then, are the broad outlines of the Bengal Tenancy Bill. It might be asked, and it would be asked probably, what was the origin of this legislation? If the results of this legislation were not likely to be so terribly grave, it would be an almost comical consideration to remember that the origin of this Bill was actually in the grievances of the landlords, and in the pledges given by Sir George Campbell and subsequently by Sir Richard Temple, and subsequent Lieutenant Governors of Bengal, to redress the grievances of the landlords, who, under the Act of 1859, found that they were unable promptly to recover their rents! We all know that the landowners of Bengal are subject to the law of which much has been said on both sides, but which is a terrible law, that famous Sunset law. If the landowner does not pay his revenue demand to the Government by sunset of the very day on which it is due his land is sold up, and under Sir George Campbell's legislation, at the time when Sir George Campbell was Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, some further demands were made upon the landowner. Those demands were in the shape of a road cess and a public works cess, and it was enacted then that the landowners should be liable to the Government for payment by sunset on the day when the cesses were due, not only of their Government revenue, but also of their own share and of the ryot's share of the road and the public works cess. The landowners naturally found when they were driven into this corner, that they would be sold up unless they paid these demands, and that they had to pay not only the demands for themselves but also for the ryots. They found considerable difficulties, and it was not unnatural that they should do so, in realising those demands; and the Government pledged themselves to introduce legislation to enable them to recover these payments more rapidly. A Bill was actually introduced in 1877 and in 1878, which was moved by Mr. Mackenzie, the present Home Secretary, who is responsible for much of the present Bill, and in the speech in which he introduced the Bill, he stated distinctly that the position of the landowners was getting worse and worse from year to year, and that it urgently needed immediate legislation. From this point the Bill gradually germinated, until we see it as I have described it. I shall leave to those who will follow me the task of describing how that germination occurred. It was through one so-called Committee, and one so-called Commission; but we shall probably be told, their inquiries were held in camera, and the result is that we have a Bill such as that which I described. It seems to me, my Lord, that the present time is peculiarly opportune for the discussion in which we are engaged to-day, because only last week we heard of a great meeting at Bankipore, in which all the agricultural classes of Behar combined to complain of the action of this Bill. Further than that we have had the most remarkable debates within the last fortnight in both Houses of Parliament. We have had Mr. Trevelyan's Bill, which has been already referred to, under discussion, and we have had expressions of opinion from Lord Derby and Lord Carlingford on the result of the Irish Land Legislation, and it may be said that we have now before us ample grounds for judging fully of what are likely to be the disastrous results of the introduction of this Bill. (Cheers.) Lord Derby confessed last week that the Irish legislation was a revolutionary measure; but he said it was introduced because of revolutionary circumstances. Now, gentlemen, I ask you, can that plea be adduced for Bengal? Is Bengal in such a state that it must be described as revolutionary? What does the Duke of Argyll say on the condition of Bengal? He said, "I could not fail to observe when I was connected with the Government of India, that the portion of the country which has most grown in wealth is precisely that part of it in which the Government has parted with its power of absorbing rent by having agreed to a Permanent Settlement." The most prosperous part of India is admitted to be Bengal. And I would refer to a still higher authority than even the Duke of Argyll—to one whose personal knowledge is absolutely unrivalled on the point, and that is to Sir Ashley Eden, the late Lieutenant Governor of Bengal. (Cheers.) Sir Ashley Eden, after an extended tour in the interior of Bengal in 1877, thus spoke of the condition of the peasantry: "Great as was the progress which I knew had been made in the position of the cultivating classes, I was quite unprepared to find them occupying a position so different from that which I remember them to occupy when I first came to the country. They were then poor and oppressed, with little incentive to increase the productive powers of the soil. I find them now as prosperous, as independent, and as comfortable as the peasantry, I believe, of any country in the world, well fed, well clothed, free to enjoy the full benefit of their labour, and able to hold their own or obtain prompt redress for any wrong." Is that a revolutionary state of affairs? That passage which I have just quoted, it is fair to explain, referred only to Lower Bengal. It has been said that the condition of Behar is not so favourable—possibly owing to the fact that there have been recently long minorities of the chief rajas and landowners of Behar, during which the Government of Bengal has had the direct management of those estates, it may possibly be said, and it has been said, that the machine-like heartlessness of Government management has introduced somewhat a worse state of affairs there. But, gentlemen, I again upon Sir Ashley Eden to bear witness to the state of the peasantry even of this less favoured part of the Lieutenant Governorship of Bengal. Sir Ashley Eden, in 1881 in addressing a deputation of the Behar landowners, thus spoke of the condition of the rural population in that part of the province: "I can assure you that nothing has given me greater pleasure than to notice, as I have had ample opportunities of doing, the extraordinary improvement in the condition of the people. It is made manifest in a hundred ways daily, even to the most casual observer. I hear the same story from all classes, official and non-official, and it is a matter of general congratulation." Is that, gentlemen, a revolutionary state of affairs to justify a revolutionary measure? (Cheers.) I maintain, after this statement of Sir Ashley Eden—and I can quote, and I intended to quote, but time fails me, other statements from various officials, commissioners, collectors, magistrates, and others, but I will refrain from doing so—that it is an absolutely notorious fact that the position of the peasantry of Bengal is, at the present time, a good one. I am going to quote in the resolution that I am about to have the honour of moving some words of Lord Hartington on the subject of this very Bill, or of portions of it. I will ask you to compare those words of Lord Hartington with the legislation of Lord Ripon and Mr. Ilbert, and I would ask you to say, is there not some "anarchy of opinion" such as the Duke of Argyll spoke of last week? Is there not anarchy of opinion there? And who are these people on whose behalf I am now calling in the witness of Mr. Gladstone and Lord Hartington and the Duke of Argyll and others to plead before this assembly? They are the most docile, the most quiet, and most law-abiding peasantry in the world. They are also a class of landowners who have proved themselves as loyal and as munificent as any other similar class in any country in the empire. (Cheers.) Why, I ask, what have these people done that we should sow dissension among them? Is it the part of a wise Legislature to embitter the relations between the various parts of the community? We have all of us learnt in the Bible that a type of ancient patriot and wise administrator once, on seeing two of his kinsmen striving together, would have set them at one; he said, "Sirs, ye are brothers, why do ye wrong to one another?" But, gentlemen, our modern administrators do not even wait until they see their kinsmen striving together; they find them living together in peace and amity; they find a condition of affairs in which there is mutual esteem and mutual respect, resulting in well-earned prosperity and contentment; and they apply themselves to set race against race, envenom class against class, and to bring all things into confusion and anarchy. (Cheers.) My lord and gentlemen, I have the pleasure to move— "That, in the opinion of this meeting, many of the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Bill, while likely to prove injurious to the actual cultivator of the soil, will inflict cruel injustice upon the owners of land in that province. And that these provisions are deserving of the condemnation passed by Lord Hartington when Secretary of State for India, on certain portions of the bill, which are described in his despatch of August 17, 1882, as 'anomalous and undesirable,' and as making 'so great and so entirely novel a departure from both the ancient custom and the existing law of Bengal.'" (Cheers.)

LORD STANLEY OF ALDERLEY: My lord chairman, ladies, and gentlemen, Mr. Roper Lethbridge has gone over the whole subject so entirely that he has left me very little more to do than to summarise in a few words the objections to the Bengal Tenancy Bill. The first and the principal one of those, to my mind, is that it is an infringement of the Perpetual Settlement and a breach of faith with the zemindar—(hear, hear)—and that no adequate reason has been given for it. On the contrary, many official reports, to some of which Mr. Lethbridge has alluded, have spoken strongly of the prosperity of Bengal, and of the well-being of the tenants under the Perpetual Settlement. Now, if the Perpetual Settlement had not been a benefit to the Bengal ryots we should not have had so many unofficial Englishmen recently urging the adoption of the perpetual settlement of the rest of India as a remedy for the sufferings which the ryots are enduring under the settlement law, and the constantly recurring settlements of thirty years' interval. Amongst these I may say that Sir William Wedderburn was one; if he did not exactly say so in so many words his address to the East India Association implied that certainly. (Hear, hear.) Well, the supporters of this Bill often make erroneous statements, and say that it is opposed by the planting and zemindar interest. Now, the planting interest, on the contrary, entirely upholds the Bill, since if it is enacted, it would throw into their hands more land for the cultivation of indigo, which is at present applied to the production of food. It would also supply them with cheap labour at their own prices by driving many of the occupation ryots into the ranks of day labourers and coolies. (Hear, hear.) And the framers of the Bill (I think Mr. Lethbridge did not allude to this) themselves have admitted that the effect of this Bill would in many cases be to sell up the occupancy ryots, and to put them in the condition of day labourers. [See Clause 41 of Mr. Ilbert's "Statement of Objects and Reasons."] Well, gentlemen, I must say again that the assertion of the official upholders of this Bill that it is in the interest of the ryot, must be looked upon with the gravest suspicion, and I ask you what confidence will you put in that assertion when you find that this care for the ryot does not exist in the rest of British India, in the part which is under the governing of revenue officers? How is it that only as late as last May, what the Indian Spectator of Bombay calls a new departure in land survey is taken, and in future it is ordered that the water under the earth should be taxed, and that instead of taxing wells made by the ryot, in future all land capable of having wells made in it is to have an extra value and an extra assessment put upon it, and this irrespective of the fact, which is unknown to those revenue collectors, whether water may be found at five or twenty feet depth or 100 feet depth. The Duke of Argyll, when lately speaking upon the Irish Land Act, appealing to the other Secretaries of State for India who were listening to him, asked them whether it was not the fact that in every Settlement Act of India that had been passed, in all cases directions had been laid down to the survey officers how they were to proceed, and how they were to ascertain the rent; and he pointed out that the Irish Land Act was vicious and lawless, because it left to an irresponsible so-called Court no guidance whatever as to how they were to assess fair rent, but merely said that they were to fix fair rents without an indication of how that was to be done. (Hear, hear.) Now I have looked at this Bengal Tenancy Bill, and I cannot find that it contains any instructions for the guidance of the revenue officer, or for the Court. (Hear, hear.) All that it says is that there is to be a fair and equitable rent. In one case (Sub section 2 of Clause 44, which treats of where a landlord claims an enhancement) it is laid down that the Court may enhance the rent on the claim of the landlord, only so as to give him not more than one-half of the value of the net increase in the produce of the land. Now this at first sight will be seen to be a snare. It is the adoption of Sir Charles Wood's legislation set forth in his despatch of 1854. That despatch is looked upon by all those who have written upon the subject as for the protection of the cultivators in India, but those authorities also say that it has invariably been a dead letter; and no wonder, owing to the faulty means which have been taken to ascertain what the net produce is. There is no guide in the Bengal Tenancy Bill to ascertain the net produce. If the Government were so anxious to secure the benefit of the ryot, is it not to be supposed that they would first have taken measures to protect the ryots in those territories which are under their immediate protection and where there are no intermediate landlords.

Last session, in the House of Commons Mr. Cross denied the statement that the taxation of India was excessive, and he said that it was not so because the Government of India had become the possessor of the lands and become the landlord. He did not say how the Government had become so—by what means, fair or unfair—but he stated that to be the case. And so far from the State only taking, as Sir Charles Wood's dispatch lays down it should take, half of the net produce, it has been proved by statistics and by experiments, in measuring the produce of certain fields, that in many cases the Government takes not only more than its half, but actually leaves the ryot a deficit, which has to be supplied by the money lenders. Now, as we cannot speak upon the next resolution, which is to ask for a commission of inquiry, I wish now to say that no commission of inquiry should be entrusted to the Indian officials alone. (Hear, hear.) It is absolutely necessary that competent English experts should be sent out, and adjoined to them as assessors. (Cheers.) I have much pleasure, my lord, in seconding the resolution.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Lord FORTESCUE: My lords, ladies, and gentlemen, I have great satisfaction in moving the resolution which has been placed in my hands. I do not know much about India, but I do know that the present rash and reckless Viceroy, a benevolent man, but a man of some socialistic theories, not very long ago brought forward a measure which aroused the unanimous opposition of almost every European in India, and revived the antagonism of races which, during the quarter of the century which has elapsed since the Indian Mutiny, when it was inflamed to its greatest height, had been, happily, year by year subsiding more and more. (Cheers.) It is a great misfortune that the two viceroys appointed to Ireland and India by the present government should have assumed, each of them, so decidedly partisan a character—(hear, hear)—and have shown such sympathy with socialistic doctrines, thus, in both countries, fanning instead of stilling the, unhappily, already existing, to a certain degree, antipathies of race. This conduct on their part raises a priori the presumption that any given proposition of theirs is more likely to be founded on injustice and impolicy than on anything else—(cheers)—and in the case of India, the fact that Lord Ripon should have proposed the Ilbert Bill, which the general opposition of everyone who knew most about India—(No, no, and Hear, hear)—I will say general opposition—perhaps I went too far in saying everyone who knew most about India; but the great majority of those who knew most about India—(hear, hear)—has succeeded, in American language, in whittling away by degrees until it remains little more than a shred. I say, the fact that he proposed such a measure as that would, in itself, justify us in demanding that a full and impartial inquiry should precede the final ratification in this country of the Bengal Tenancy Bill. (Cheers.) That Bengal Tenancy Bill, however, it must be allowed, differs from the Ilbert Bill in this respect, that it has contrived to unite in opposition to it a large proportion both of the official and unofficial authorities in India convinced of its impolicy, and a very large proportion of the native landowners, who complain of its fearful injustice. (Hear, hear.) I will not detain you longer, gentlemen, after the speeches, full of knowledge of India, and of the question, with which we have been favoured. I have to move:—

"That this meeting is of opinion that before the Bengal Tenancy Bill becomes law, there should be, as desired in India, a full inquiry by a Commission, which shall take evidence, and examine into all the circumstances of the case in such a public and formal manner as shall command the confidence of all classes interested in the question at issue."

I do hope that this Commission will be a bona fide commission, such as will command the confidence of all classes, and will not be a mere official inquiry. There should be no difficulty in getting unofficial Englishmen to serve upon such a Commission.

The CHAIRMAN: All I say myself is that if any Englishman or any person conversant with this subject is to be added to it, I hope it will not be the Irish Land Commissioners. (Laughter.)

Mr. C. T. BUCKLAND (late of the Bengal Civil Service and senior member of the Bengal Board of Revenue): My lord, ladies, and gentlemen, I see a number of old familiar and friendly faces before me, having been in India a long time, and therefore I hope to meet with that indulgence which is necessary for a man like myself who has not been accustomed to speak in public, and I will promise one thing, I will detain you but a very short time, and I will try not to say anything technical or anything that is unintelligible in the ordinary English language. The point I have to lay before you is very simple, and it is that before legislation is carried out to its bitter end, further impartial inquiry is necessary. Gentlemen, objection has been taken to official inquiry. You are aware that I am an old official—a very old official I am afraid—(laughter)—and I am perfectly aware of all the faults and difficulties that attach to us. But I am not by any means the oldest or most experienced official in England, and there are many gentlemen who entertain the same opinion as I do about certain provisions in the Bill, who do not care about saying anything against it. Some of them, men of great experience, are in the Indian Council, and they would not care about saying anything against it. (Laughter.) But I have every reason to believe that some of them, and some of the most important officials there, are strongly opposed to certain provisions of the Bill, and are really on our side. (Cheers.) Well, gentlemen, there are several other old officials who ought to appear here, but who have not come, and one of the reasons is because, I think, they are hoping to get into the Indian Council—(laughter and cheers)—and, therefore, will not pledge themselves to opinions which might not be acceptable. Then, again, there are many other officials who have, to an extent, lost touch of India; because, as you know, it is difficult for us to get all the official papers and information. I have endeavoured to inform myself, by studying the gazettes and the enormous number of pamphlets that have been published upon this subject, and I am very glad if I can be of any use to those old friends or mine in India, the natives of India, the zemindars and ryots, or the ryots and zemindars, which ever you like, amongst whom many happy years of my life have been spent. I have also to take this opportunity to add my thanks, upon their part, to the Liberty and Property Defence League, who have been so good as to put the ægis of their protection over us, which, I am sure, will be of the greatest value in this country and also in India. (Cheers.) I have said that I would speak very briefly. There can be no doubt that further inquiry on this Bill is necessary. You have heard that the Bill has been sat upon by a Select Committee. That Select Committee has hatched a report of nearly 100 paragraphs, and nearly all those 100 paragraphs want further information and inquiry; that is confessed. I do not like to trouble you with all the minute points, but there is almost everything you can imagine, from the most elementary definition to such refined points as to whether the ryot should be allowed to use a post-office order to pay his rent. (Laughter.) Well, gentlemen, that is a very peculiar point, and I will explain it. It presumes that the landlord is unwilling to accept his rent. You will observe that that is a very curious presumption, never heard of in any other place—(laughter)—that the landlord and tenant living in the same village, when the landlord sees the tenant coming towards him with a shilling in his hand to pay his rent, he gets behind a tree or stays in his house, because he does not want to give a receipt for it. Now the Government has come to this wonderful device. The ryot is to go to a post-office, which may perhaps be ten miles away, and get a post-office order, put it in an envelope and direct it to his landlord, and then he will have made the payment and got the receipt all in one. (Laughter.) That is a point referred, and the Government of Bengal has been solemnly requested to report upon it. That is a rather comical specimen of legislation, but it is one of a great many. Then the Government of India, having got hold of this long report of the Select Committee, thought fit to improve the opportunity. You know in India every official wants to write something; a few more paragraphs do not much signify, but the official may, by some lucky chance, get promotion by writing something clever. So the secretary in the legislative department has had a turn at it, and added 25 paragraphs to the 100 which were there before. Then the Government of India writes to the Government of Bengal, and it says: "You make inquiries on all these points which the Select Committee want to have information upon, and we beg to offer a few more suggestions for your information. We rather doubt whether the Select Committee are quite right in creating so many more middlemen." Instead of benefiting the ryot and the landlord, the actual effect of the legislation now is that middlemen are to be grown wholesale; and a Member of Parliament just returned from Calcutta told me (and he is a brother of one of the members of the Legislative Council) that that was the chief effect of the Bill—to multiply middlemen. Well, the Government of India has some doubts on that point. Then there is also another point, the Government of India is a sort of hydra of several heads. It has got a legislative head and it has got a financial head, and the financial department has suddenly cropped up in a way which I may say is auxiliary to our endeavours to promote further inquiry, and, I may also say to promote delay. The financial department says, "Hallo, here is all this work to be done by the Civil Courts and by the collector: 13 different new duties are enumerated, and that is not an exhaustive list." The collector has to do all this; he has to go and cut a man's hair, and wash a fellow's face almost—(laughter)—or things of that kind; but he has to give a receipt to everybody, and to inquire into everybody's business. Then they say this will cost money, and require more officers; so the financial department says, "Who is to pay?" Now, that is a very important thing, because the answer cannot be that you will make the landlord pay, because the object of the Bill is to despoil the landlord, so they will not be in a hurry to pay. As to the ryots, they are poor men with very small means—they cannot pay; and it certainly is not likely that the cost of this new work can be thrown upon the general taxes of India. Well, that means another year's delay. The financial department and the legislative department will enter the arena and they will fight it out, and it is not settled yet; but meanwhile there is lots of room for inquiry, if the liberty of inquiry is given. One more point. The Government of India has written to the Judges of the High Court in Calcutta. Mention has been made already of a famous letter of the Chief Justice of Calcutta, a letter which was burked by the Government, and was only produced, I think, on the motion of a noble lord in the House here. Now, the Government of India have thought better of their burking policy, and in consulting the High Court they have referred the whole of the law back to the Judges of the High Court. Well, gentlemen, as we are anxious for inquiry, we shall get from the Judges of the High Court a sound and independent opinion upon every point, legal and executive, and therefore that is another thing in our favour. (Cheers.) The Judges of the High Court are not gentlemen to be hurried; they will wait for their vacation before they write their minutes, and very rightly too, because they are very hard worked. Well, one more point. The Government of Bengal, who are the people responsible for the Bengal Tenancy Bill, have issued a little circular of their own, calling for further information and reports from their subordinates, but they have done it in a very peculiar manner, they have written letters to what are called Commissioners. The whole province of Bengal is cut into divisions, presided over by Commissioners. Each Commissioner is a little king ruling over 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 people. I was a Commissioner for sixteen years myself, so I ought to know something about it. The rule has been that the Commissioner collects the information from all those under him. But now the Government of Bengal says, "Oh! Mr. Commissioner, you do not know how to do your work. We will tell you how to do it. You are to send for all your subordinates and take their opinions, and put every question to the vote." The result is that the lowest and most inexperienced officer in the country will have an equal vote with the experienced Commissioner who has hitherto been the adviser of the Government. That I look upon as a fraud. (Hear, hear.) Then there is another point. Usually the local officers are told to take counsel, not only with officials but with non-officials. If there is a charitable subscription to be got up you may be quite sure the non-officials are called in then; but on this occasion non-officials are to be entirely excluded, and the Government gets only this forced opinion of the officials. It is also particularly to be noted that the Lieutenant Governor does not express his own opinion in this circular, but he has expressed it already on half a dozen occasions, and he must be a very mild gentleman who cannot see which way the wind blows if he wishes to please the Lieutenant Governor. (Laughter.) Now all this goes to prove the necessity of further independent and impartial inquiry. I am sure you will all join with me in voting for this resolution, that a commission should be appointed upon which all interests should be represented; and if possible independent and able men—not Irish Commissioners, as has well been said—should be sent out to join the commission, but independent men, just as Sir James Caird was sent out to join the Famine Commission, and that they should take evidence and inquire for themselves and make a report, and until that report is received legislative action should be stayed. I must apologise for having detained you so long, and I now beg to second the resolution.

The CHAIRMAN: Perhaps it will be as well to amend the resolution by asking for "a full inquiry by a Commission comprising unofficial Englishmen." (Cheers.)

The resolution, as amended, was put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

Mr. J. DACOSTA (late of Calcutta, merchant): My lord, ladies, and gentlemen, I am entrusted with the moving of the following resolution: "That the chairman of the Liberty and Property Defence League be requested to send a copy of these resolutions to the Indian Constitutional Association, Calcutta, for submission to the Government of India through the ordinary channels." Now it may be of interest that I should speak briefly to the circumstances which led to the introduction of the Bengal Tenancy Bill, because they will explain the extraordinary discrepancies which must have been observed to exist between the provisions of the Bill and its avowed object. As has already been stated, the Government of India asked the landowners of Bengal to collect along with their rent certain new taxes which were then being imposed on their tenants; and having its attention drawn to the serious difficulty which the zemindars experienced in getting from the ryots the share of these cesses which they, the zemindars, had paid on behalf of the ryots, it was determined to introduce an act for facilitating the recovery of rent. A bill was accordingly drafted by Sir Richard Temple, and later a similar bill was introduced in the Legislative Council of Bengal under the Lieutenant-Governorship of Sir Ashley Eden. The opportunity thus offered for legislation, however, was eventually diverted from its purpose and turned to account for the introduction of—what shall I call it?—an experimental measure by certain officials who were simply imbued with peculiar theories concerning land, and who were evidently indifferent to the discredit which breach of public faith would reflect upon the Government. These officials declared that Sir Ashley Eden's Bill of 1878 could not practically be confined to the object indicated by him, and they contrived to obtain the appointment of a commission for drawing up a bill upon entirely different lines, and under special instructions a bill drafted by that commission was, after undergoing modification at different times, introduced into the Legislative Council in March, 1882, under the name of the Bengal Tenancy Bill. A most remarkable feature in that Bill is that among the 230 sections which it contains, dealing with rights of property in land, with freedom of contract, and with complicated matters of detail, not a single provision is to be found for the attainment of the primary and special object for which legislation had been undertaken. (Cheers.) The plea of facilitating the recovery of rent was, nevertheless, maintained in the statement of objects and reasons, and another plea was added to it, that of ameliorating the condition of the cultivator by restoring to him his original position and rights. The second plea has enlisted much sympathy among the public, but a perusal of the Bill will suffice to show that it is as delusive as the first—(hear, hear)—and that the actual provisions of the Bill are directed to the creation of a new class of middlemen, empowered to rack-rent their tenants and cultivators. That a measure of this nature, that has been asked for by no class of the community, that is based upon inapplicable theories, that has been introduced under delusive pleas, should have occupied the attention of the Indian Legislature for so many years indicates the pernicious and dangerous extent to which irresponsible power may be exercised under the régime that was established in 1858. (Cheers.) The Indian Council sitting in London, which embodies much Indian administrative experience and personal knowledge of the people of India was devised, as we know, for the guidance of the Secretary of State, when the supreme control of the affairs of India was placed in his hands. The power of that Council to check maladministration has, in certain circumstances, when its minutes were produced (the production of which minutes enabled the public to form an opinion upon the subject) been found to be insufficient for that purpose, but on this occasion it must be a matter of sincere congratulation that the advice of the Indian Council has prevented the passing of a measure which the very officials, who would have to administer it when it passed into law, had denounced to be calculated to endanger the peace and prosperity of the country. The hitherto unsuccessful progress of the Bengal Tenancy Bill is due entirely to Lord Hartington's despatch of the 17th August, 1882, written doubtless by the advice of his Council, and it is evident from that despatch that the fictitious nature of the necessity pleaded in justification of this Bill and the delusive character of the intentions with which it is said to have been framed could not escape the attention of the author of that despatch. This has already been made clear from certain passages that have been read by a previous speaker. The Government of India, in its reply of the 17th October following, strove to convince the Secretary of State that the ancient customary rights of the cultivators could best be restored by the rights of occupancy being attached to the land and not being made dependent as hitherto on the status and residence of the cultivator. This is rather an anomalous proposition, and if it were carried out, it would naturally enable money lenders, capitalists, and others entirely unconnected with the land, to absorb those rights which are claimed for the cultivators. Lord Kimberley, therefore, very indelicately telegraphed in reply on the 15th December to the Government of India that he adhered to the opinion expressed in the despatch of the 17th August that their proposals went beyond the necessities of the case. But for the clear-sightedness and the firm attitude of the Secretary of State, this measure, this cruelly-digested and ill-considered measure, which the majority of the Bengal officials, the Chief Justice, and the District Judges of Bengal have denounced as being calculated to set class against class and ruin both the landowners and the cultivators, would long since have been on the Statute Book of India. The danger, however, has not passed away entirely. The officials committed to this measure are striving still by argument and alterations to render it acceptable to the Secretary of State. A Select Committee has reported on and re-cast the Bill, and further amendments are promised when the Council meets again in November; but notwithstanding the changes introduced hitherto, while they imparted to the measure a form perhaps nearer the views expressed by the Secretary of State, the vicious principle condemned by him has been maintained. The danger now is lost persistency, ingenuity, or the chapter of accidents, may yet, at some future period, enable the promoters of this Bill to elude the safeguards which have, for two years now, saved India from this iniquitous measure. (Cheers.) It behoves, therefore, those who interest themselves in the welfare of our great dependency, and in the maintenance of public faith, to support the Secretary of State in the attitude he has assumed on the Bengal Tenancy Bill—(hear, hear)—and the best way of strengthening his hands would doubtless be to urge the appointment of a Commission such as has been asked for in the previous resolution. Such a step, besides affording the Secretary of State complete information for his ulterior decision, would serve also to enlighten public opinion, which has been greatly misled in this instance by the unjustifiable statement, widely circulated, that the Bengal Tenancy Bill aimed at ameliorating the condition of the cultivator. (Cheers.) I have much pleasure in proposing the resolution which I have read.

Lord BRAMWELL: I rise, my lord and gentlemen, I may say nominally, to second that resolution, because I have not the least doubt that our noble chairman, without much additional persuasion on my part, will comply with the request that is made to him in the resolution; but, as he has somehow or other divined, I want to say something to you that does not bear very directly on the resolution, though I have not the least doubt that I could make it do so in an indirect way, if I chose. (Laughter.) I want to call your attention to some words in this proposed Bill. In chapter 3, subsection 6 (1, b), you will find something like these words: "That the tenure holder, by receiving reductions of his rent, has subjected himself to the payment of the increase demanded, and that the lands are capable of affording it"—rather a remarkable expression as to the capacity of land, but, however, if it is a little slipshod we will not say anything about it. Now, the next clause, clause 7 (2), is this: "Where no customary right" (I need not read the description of customary rights) "exists, it may, subject as aforesaid, be enounced up to such limit, as the Court thinks fair and equitable." (Laughter.) Now, at page 34 of the Bill, in clause 9, it says, "The Court may, if it thinks fit that the immediate increase of rent would produce hardship, direct that the enhancement should be gradual. Now, what consideration would influence the Court I do not know—whether if the tenant had got half a dozen children—(laughter)—it would be a hardship upon him to have his rent suddenly enhanced I do not know. I do not see how that can be taken into account, or indeed what could be taken into account really under such a clause as that. Now, I think there are two others of a similar nature. In page 37, as to one of the persons spoken of, it does not matter who, it is said, "He shall pay rent at fair and equitable rates;" and at page 40 we have "in any suit instituted under this section the court may direct such reduction of rent as it thinks fair and equitable." Now, those words, or something very like them, have been used before. That they should have been put into any law by any lawyer who had anything in contemplation except that paradise for lawyers which Mr. Roper Lethbridge has so well depicted, is to me a matter of the most profound astonishment, for a reason which I will tell you; but that they should be put into a proposed law a second time after the knowledge we have of the mischief that they have caused utterly passes my understanding. (Cheers.) I altogether fail to understand it. I do wish most earnestly that I could deliver to you the magnificent speech of the Duke of Argyll upon this subject, when the Irish question was brought before the House of Lords, by him the other night. I wish I could deliver it to you, even apart from the impressive way in which he delivered it. He described the law, shall I call it?—he described enactment as one perfectly lawless. (Cheers.) So it is. It is not a thing to be decided by lawyers, to be interpreted by lawyers. What is fair and equitable, is a thing utterly beyond and independent of all law. (Loud cheers.) Gentlemen, see what has happened in Ireland in consequence. Rents have been reduced. Wherever returns have been made where they have been reduced by the Commissioners, or County Court Judges, they have been reduced something about 20 per cent. It is a most marvellous thing that all over Ireland, whenever a case has come before a court for revision, the reduction has been something like 20 per cent. It is a singular thing. I am not going to blame those gentlemen, and do not see how they can help themselves. They were sent out to administer an enactment without a meaning to it, and no doubt they were sent out with a sort of feeling that somehow or other, for some reason or other, rents must be reduced. But you will say we are not discussing the Irish Land Act. No, I know we are not discussing Ireland, but Bengal. But it is said in mitigation of the amount of mischief that has been done, "Why that has only been done in 70,000 estates, whereas in Ireland there are 400,000 holdings." Yes, but what has happened in the other case? Why the landlord, in order to avoid the nuisance and probable wrong that would happen to him if he is dragged into a court of justice—I cannot call it anything else—by his rapacious tenants, consents to a reduction of his rent. The noble Earl (Lord Fortescue) is an illustration of the truth of what I am saying. (Cheers and laughter.) I hope it was not much. (Laughter.) A friend of mine told me that he had done the same thing; that he had had a tenant who had been in the occupation of his holding for forty years, and had been able to save a deal of money. However, he threatened my friend with the Land Court, and my friend said to him, "How much—what will you let me off for?"—(laughter)—and he reduced his rent, and directly he had done it the tenant put an additional value on his tenant right, which he was desirous of selling, and immediately said he would ask more for it than he had done before. You must not, therefore, suppose that the mischief was limited to the unfortunate owners of the 70,000 farms with which the Land Court has directly meddled; it extended to others, depend upon it. That is not all the mischief. This is the point. Irish land is now unsaleable; nobody will buy it. The tenant will not buy it, because he hopes to steal it—(laughter)—and other people will not buy it, because they think it will be stolen from them presently. That really, is the present condition of the country. I think that we had it mentioned to us officially that you cannot get more than four years' purchase for land in Ireland. Now, I said I would tell you why I spoke about Ireland. There are some truths that are true all over the world. What has happened in Ireland will happen in Bengal with certainty if this kind of measure proceeds. (Cheers.) Now, just let me make this remark. It is said that rents are being paid now, and you are better off with the four-fifths of your rent that are paid than you were with the whole five-fifths which were not paid. Why are they being paid? Because the law is being enforced. I respectfully differ from the noble earl near me (Earl Wemyss) and do not say that everything Lord Spencer has done has been wise, and offer no opinion as to it one way or the other, but I think we Englishmen owe very much to Lord Spencer for what he has done in the enforcement of the country, and the personal risk that he must have run in the discharge of his duty. (Cheers.) I think we are indebted extremely both to him and to Mr. Trevelyan—more indebted than I have language to express. (Cheers.) But then it has been said the excuse for this kind of legislation is that you cannot define; you can lay down a rule saying what you want and what shall be done. Can't you? Well, then don't do it at all. (Laughter and cheers.) If two meet and agree to put down that so and so shall be law, and one of them says, "Yes, I know that we do not mean the same thing, but we will put down certain ambiguous words"—why, I say if people make a law on that footing it is dishonest, it is not true. (Cheers.) Do not suppose for a moment that I say that the Irish Land Act was dishonestly passed. I say nothing of the sort. I do not think so. If I did I would say so out loud, plainly enough, but I do not say so. What was the cause of the unfortunate Act or the language of it? The cause to a great extent was this. They wanted to get rid of a present difficulty; they wanted to do something; everybody wanted to do something, one side as well as the other, and they use ambiguous language in order to get rid of a present difficulty, trusting that somehow or other the matter would come right. (Hear, hear.) I dare say many of those who hear me now may remember the "Alabama" treaty, that treaty that we entered into with America for the settlement of the claim they made in respect of the "Alabama" depredations. I daresay you may remember also that after the treaty had been come to between this country and America for settling that difference, the Americans made a claim upon us to the amount of 300,000,000. (No, no.) Well, 100,000,000, or two more or less does not matter, but several hundred millions. There was a great doubt upon the part of the Government in this country whether they would go to arbitration with such a claim as that against them. "How came you to use such language?" was said to those who negotiated the treaty, "that such a claim could be made upon us." Well, now, a gentleman whose acquaintance I had the honour of possessing, a most able gentleman, Mr. Montague Bernard, told me that the reason they had used that ambiguous language was because afterwards they could put their own construction upon it. (Laughter.) Well, that was very true, but upon the same reasoning the Americans could put their own construction upon it. (Laughter.) It is a very singular thing that the head of the Embassy which negotiated that treaty was the Marquis of Ripon, then Earl de Grey; he was made a marquis in consequence of the ingenious achievement. As to the other member of the Legislative Council responsible for this measure, I desire to speak of him with all respect. I certainly cannot speak ill of him, because I know nothing about him. I have been a lawyer all my life—(cheers)—and I fancied I knew most of the lawyers of any note, but I never heard of this gentleman until I heard of him as a subject of execration on the part of all the Englishmen in India. (Cheers.) I do not mean to say that those are the only two responsible for the measure. There is the Council, of course, but what chance do people stand when a thing is ready cut and dried for them for their acceptance? They are at liberty to talk about it indeed, but that is the thing that they are to accept or leave alone. Now, I say the excuse that has been made for ambiguous language is that you cannot define it. I deny it, and I quote the Duke of Argyll again. He said: "You can define practically what rent ought to be paid; it is the rent that would be commanded in the market—(cheers)—the market value; that which two persons who are free to choose, the one to take and the other to let, will agree upon; that is the fair and reasonable rent, and the only fair and reasonable rent." (Cheers.) There is no other fair and reasonable rent; any other rent is a mistake and a delusion—I do not like to use harsh language, but I feel inclined to say a fraud, because the man has some part of his rent taken from him. Well, this was too obvious, too plain; everybody could have said what I have been saying to you, and it was sought to find some reason, some explanation, and that phrase "land hunger" was invented. It was said that there was a land hunger, and that the Irish peasant, or cultivator, or whatever you like to call him, the farmer, was so labouring under the effects of this hunger that he was not a free agent, and that there was no market price that could be fixed. I think that was the sort of argument that was used, and with that ingenious phrase as to which I have no doubt the author first of all deceived himself, and then with his unhappy faculty deceived others; and with a flippant reference to Jupiter and Saturn, and political economy, people were induced to pass that unfortunate Act of Parliament. I say most unfortunate Act of Parliament, because I am satisfied that anything which interferes with the natural price of land—price I mean in the shape of rent—is mischievous, and I will show it to you to demonstration. A great deal of nonsense has been talked about landlordism, whatever that may mean. I say it exists in the nature of things, and you cannot get rid of it. (Hear, hear.) If there is a field which with a certain amount of capital and labour will produce twenty quarters of wheat in the year, and there is another field which with the same expenditure, of capital and labour will produce twenty-five quarters, and it is worth while to cultivate that which produces twenty quarters only, the other will inevitably command a rent of five quarters more. It is as impossible to get out of it as it is to alter the law that twice two make four. It inevitably is so. If the better land is in the hands of an owner—well, it would hardly do for him to say that he received the rent, but in truth he does. The portion of what he gets out of the better land is the fair return for his capital and labour, as is shown by its contenting the man who is next to him on the inferior land, and the additional quantity is, in truth, the rent that he is receiving, and you cannot get out of it. That cannot be altered in any way, and the only proper way of dealing with the land is to recognise the truth, and to confess that every man who is in possession of land, the produce of which is more than a fair return for the capital and labour bestowed upon its cultivation, is in the receipt of rent. Now, see the mischief of interfering with this. Here are two farms; we will say two pieces of land, if you please. Well, they are in the hands of two tenants; we will suppose each pays £50 a year. We will suppose that either of these tenants, if he could, would get both pieces of land, and would be content to pay £150 a year for the two—perfectly possible, as you know—because there might be some convenience of water or access to roads, or a difference of soil, or other things which would enable a man to cultivate more profitably. If you treat the peasant cultivator as a man who has fixity of tenure, and whom you cannot turn out of one of these farms in order to join in to the other, what is the consequence? That you have diminished the value of the two farms taken together by the amount of £50 a year. Well, that is not a loss to the owner of that land only, it is a loss to the community. The wealth of the community is made up of the wealth of the individuals who compose it, and it is all very well to sneer at landlords, and to talk about landlordism, but the best thing that would happen would be to take those two unfortunate people, and to let the man who had got a personal interest in doing so make the best of his land, because, although the £50 will go into his pocket, it will only go into his pocket because it can be spared out of the pocket of the man who will take the land. (Hear, hear.) And I should just like to remind you of this while we are talking about it. I should like to remind you of what was said by the late Sir William Siemens, one well capable of forming an opinion upon any subject to which he directed his attention. He said, "If an invention lay in the gutter unowned, if I had my way I would pick it up and give it to somebody who had an interest in the development of it;" and what is true of that is equally true of land, and I suppose is true of land in Bengal as it is true of land elsewhere. I say, therefore, my lord and gentlemen, that to my mind all these attempts to interfere with the natural price of land, either as the price for what we call the fee simple, or to interfere with the annual or whatever other sum is paid for its use, are, and must be, most mischievous, and therefore I do join in the request to our noble chairman which is contained in the resolution.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Brigade Surgeon BERRY WHITE (late Bengal Medical Department) moved a cordial vote of thanks to Lord Wemyss and March for presiding.

Mr. J. D. WARD (late of the Bengal Civil Service and Judge of Puriab) seconded the motion, and said that having been an official for twenty-five years in India, he would take the opportunity of corroborating the views which had been stated by Mr. Roper Lethbridge as to the operation of Act X. of 1859. For twenty years up to the date of his leaving India that Act had been administered by different courts, and the decisions formed a sort of Calais Douvres. About nine or ten thousand decisions had been come to during that twenty years which left the law in a state of chaos, and not only were the poor ryots left to fight the battle with the zemindars, but that Act had brought the courts and lawyers themselves at loggerheads with each other. Up to the date of his leaving India there was not a single intelligent or intelligible definition of the Act, and he did not know that there had been one since. He felt considerable satisfaction in being able to lend his small aid to such a protest as had been made that day against the outrageous proposal contained in the Bengal Tenancy Bill.

The resolution was carried amid applause.

The CHAIRMAN, in responding, said: My lords and gentlemen, I can only thank very much those gentlemen who have moved and seconded the resolution for the very kind way in which they have done so. It has been a great pleasure to me, besides discharging my duty as Chairman of the Liberty and Property Defence League, to preside at this meeting, and I really hope that the good sense which you have heard spoken and the strong arguments that have been used with reference to this Bill will have some effect upon the authorities who have finally to deal with it. I would further say this. You have heard from Lord Bramwell and from others, what is going on and has gone on in Ireland, and what, unless we are successful, is likely to go on in India, and that is, that legislation now does not proceed at all upon the old lines, but that it proceeds on lines wholly novel and not honest. (Cheers.) And it is for the people of this country, without regard to parties or persons, no matter from whom this sort of legislation comes, it is for them to say whether they will allow the legislation of this country to proceed upon the lines which it has at present adopted. Government exists for the security of liberty, and for the security of property. It is for the people of this country to take care that they do not lose those two great boons, security of property, and of individual liberty to make contracts in this Empire. (Cheers.)

The meeting then separated.

THE "VOICE OF INDIA."

A MAGAZINE THAT GIVES EXPRESSION
TO THE PUBLIC OPINION OF THE PEOPLE OF INDIA.

THERE are in England large classes willing and anxious to do justice to India, but they find it very difficult to know how to act. They complain that Indian questions are intricate; and that the opinions of official experts are contradictory; and that the people of India are dumb, and do not give expression to their needs. This defect is now remedied by publishing FORTNIGHTLY (in Bombay) a magazine
somewhat similar in nature to Public Opinion in England, which provides a compendium of all that is most valuable in the native journals throughout India on the leading topics of the day. The Voice of India thus gives forth a clear sound, interpreting between the rulers and the ruled, and making known the true wishes and feelings of the Indian people.

The Magazine advocates no views of its own. It seeks only to reflect with care and accuracy the views set forth in the native press. The Indian people are naturally docile and conservative; and it will be seen that the writings thus brought before the English public are characterised by a knowledge of facts, and generally by practical good sense and moderation. No doubt grievances are from time to time being set forth; but it is a policy of prudence no less than of justice to give these grievances a fair, constitutional hearing. Accordingly, it is hoped that this publication will be subscribed for by Members of Parliament and other public men desirous of dealing with Indian questions, and that the facts thus brought together in a convenient form will be of value to journalists and other public writers. It is specially desired to bring the Magazine before the public in Clubs, Reading-rooms, Libraries, and Institutes throughout
England, with a view to promote a sustained and intelligent interest in the welfare of our Indian Empire, comprising as it does 220 millions of our fellow-subjects.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

TUESDAY, JULY 8, 1884.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay June 16; Madras and Allahabad, May 16; Calcutta, May 15.

Mr. GRANT DUFF's speech on the system of "Government by picnic," is decidedly weak. He abandons all reasonable defence of that system when he confesses that "Madras only wants good sanitation to make it an extremely agreeable place"—for it is obvious that if a tithe of the sum now spent on taking the poor shivering Native clerks up to Ootacamund were only devoted to the sanitation of Madras, Madras would (on Mr. Grant Duff's own showing) become "an extremely agreeable place."

THE meeting at Madras marks the resolute way in which this important question has been taken up by the whole Native community, as well as by the non-official Europeans. And we are glad to observe that the objections taken to the existing pernicious system on behalf of the independent public of Madras, are virtually identical with those taken by ourselves in our leading article to-day, which was written before the report of the Madras meeting reached this country.

WE are glad to see that there is now a fair certainty that the Exhibition scheme for Bombay will turn out the magnificent success it ought to be. The guarantee fund is rapidly increasing.

A RUSSIAN messenger once more entertained with effusion in Kabul! This is one of the most natural results of four years of Radical rule in England and India. The decline of British prestige throughout the world is one of the numerous penalties we incur for the privilege of being governed by Mr. Schnadhorst and Mr. Bradlaugh in the constituencies, and by Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Gladstone in the Cabinet. Happily for the Empire, the British people cannot be deprived very much longer of their right to decide whether the privilege is not too dearly purchased.

BUT meanwhile, the Russians are making hay while the sun shines. A Reuter's telegram of Saturday last from St. Petersburg shows that the Russian authorities are rapidly consolidating a strong customs line around their new acquisitions, so as to effectually exclude all British and Indian trade.

NO one who has any knowledge of Indian journalism would care to deny that the Indian Statesman possesses powers of invective of a very high order. There never was a subject on which those powers could be more effectively or more usefully employed than in regard to the helpless huckstering way in which Mr. Cross inclined to treat the momentous question of Indian Railway Extension—over which he unhappily has, for the moment, so much control. We entirely agree with the following remarks of Mr. Knight on this point, and for once we heartily wish him "more power to his elbows."

There is a feeling of grave disappointment in India at the inadequacy of the inquiry going on before this committee, and it is refreshing to turn from the general evidence recorded to the clear and exact testimony of Major Conway Gordon. We have but one regret in reading it—that Major Gordon did not insist more earnestly; 1stly, upon the advantages of State construction and working, and 2ndly, upon the stimulus which the railway gives to the general progress of the country. There is a narrowness in the views of the Committee evidenced at every stage of the inquiry that wants a sensible shock to lift it out of the grooves in which it is running. The cost of the lines and their immediate and direct return, fill the minds of the Committee to the exclusion of everything else. And yet who that knows the India of thirty years ago and the India of to-day fails to see that the purely financial aspect of the enterprise is so secondary that it is the instinct of the shopkeeper and not of the statesman that fastens such attention upon it? The general fact that the outlay already made has been fairly successful as a financial speculation, is all that wise men would care to ask for, upon this head. It is the indirect influences which the railway has had upon India as upon all other lands, upon which everything turns, while you cannot get a man of this Committee apparently to understand the fact. They are treating the question just as it was treated in 1877; as it has ever been treated by Indian officials; and as Mr. Cross is treating it now, to justify the inaction of the India Office. What is wanted is a forceful and somewhat enthusiastic picture of what the railway has already done for India. It is here that Major Gordon fails us signally. While answering patiently every inquiry made of him, he should have resolutely refused to have the question narrowed to the dimensions that suit Mr. Cross. There is one passage in his evidence, and but one only, that strikes the right note—

Mr. Cross—The proposals of the Government of India would abolish the existing distinction between productive and protective works?

A.—They would abolish the technical distinction. The advances of the Secretary of State during the last ten years have been a matter of grave consideration. The figures by which the proposal is illustrated refer to public works all round, and the argument is that the portion which has been spent on railways produces enough to defray the interest on borrowed money. If that is the case, the financial position is sound.

Mr. Cross—If you did not spend the money upon railways, you would have it to pay off the debt, would you not? And therefore is it not fair to say it is really a charge upon the revenues of India to that extent?

A.—The argument fairly pushed would be that the Government should never complete a road or a building. If it had occurred to Major Gordon to persevere in this strain, to lift the narrow inquiry on to another platform, he might with effect have adduced Sir John Strachey's testimony in 1877:—

"Although the system of borrowing under which India has had to pay for these works has entailed very serious burdens, the benefit which they have conferred upon the country has been literally incalculable. I will say nothing of the enormous increase of wealth and prosperity which they have given us. I will only ask you to reflect on what would at this moment be happening through a vast extent of country in Western and Southern India if we had no railways; but for them the people would probably be now dying of starvation by hundreds of thousands; and it would have been beyond the power of the Government to save them if it had devoted to the task all the resources of the Empire. With such facts as these, and those which I have narrated regarding these railways in my review of the Regular Estimates, staring us in the face, the statements which we sometimes hear that these works ought not to have been constructed with borrowed money, and that we ought to have waited until we could provide the necessary funds from the surplus resources of the year, seem to me to deserve no serious consideration."

WE believe that the Hon. Mr. Hope, whose knowledge of the whole subject is unsurpassed, and whose judgment is equal to his knowledge, holds very much the same views. Even in this age of Sciolism, when an ounce of doctrinaire Radicalism outweighs a ton of judgment and experience, such a consensus of intelligent and instructed opinion ought to be able to command a respectful hearing.

Dr. KING's report on cinchona cultivation in Bengal and the operations of the febrifuge factory for the year 1883-84 is of a highly encouraging character. The total expenditure on the plantations amounting to Rs. 78,660 showing a considerable saving on the budget estimate, which was Rs. 93,605. The entire produce was 305,160 lb. of dry bark, as compared to 358,100 lb. in 1882-83. The smaller amount submitted to the process led to an increase in the cost per pound of the febrifuge produced, which was Rs. 10-4-8 as compared to Rs. 8-8 in the preceding twelve months. The distribution of febrifuge to the Government depots was in excess of the quantity issued in 1882-83, but the amount sold to the public fell from 4,560 lb to 4,276 lb. The Government resolution on the report states that a supply of English-made febrifuge is expected shortly to be sent out to this country for sale at a very low rate in malarious tracts, and it is hoped that its cheapness will induce the poorer classes to have recourse to it. The revenue derived from the sale of febrifuge seed, plants, and bark amounted to Rs.1,54,463-14, showing a net profit of 5½ per cent. on the capital outlay; and Dr. King points out that this does not represent the whole actual gain for the year, "as the cost of febrifuge used in Government hospitals and dispensaries during the year was Rs.80,045, whereas an equal quantity of quinine would have cost three times as much."

A "special appeal to all the Native gentlemen of India" from P. S. D. Muttuswamy Pillai a Native of Tanjore, is published in a Madras paper. We have not space for the whole of Mr. Pillai's appeal, which reviews at considerable length the many advantages India has derived from British rule; but we gladly give the following extract:—

"I humbly beg to submit the following for your favourable consideration. We are now plunged into deep sorrow, together with our Royal Mother, the Empress of India, and the Royal Family of England on account of the death of His Royal Highness the late Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany. I do not doubt that our Rajas, Nobles, and wealthy people will collect a certain sum of money and erect a monument in memory of the late Prince Leopold. Will it not be a good thing for each family in India (where there are 250 millions of inhabitants, which is equivalent to about sixty millions of families on an average) to give a donation of eight annas? Then the total amount will be thirty millions of rupees, as a memorial fund styled "Prince Leopold (Duke of Albany) Memorial Fund." If this sum is invested in Government Paper, it will amount to about 1,000,000 rupees per mensem at 4 per cent. per annum. By the aid of this income, industrial schools can be attached to all the schools except colleges, giving education for half the day, and trade the other half day. By this arrangement, within the space of twelve years we and our children shall be able to reach a prosperous condition to help ourselves and to increase the revenue of the country. I do not doubt that our present blessed Viceroy, Lord Ripon the Just, will readily give his lending hand towards this great undertaking. If this plan is carried out, it will not only be a universal and an everlasting memory of our late Prince Leopold, but also a blessing to us, the British nation, the Empress of India, and the Royal Family of England. Glory be to God."

The Englishman says:—

"The last act in our International Exhibition in Calcutta may be supposed to be concluded by the publication of the advertisement in another column announcing that the office of the Secretary to the Executive Committee has been removed to Writers' Buildings, and that the office of the Superintendent of Juries is closed. It may be concluded from this announcement that the Government of India has finally decided that all those to whom the public are indebted for the success of the Exhibition should now pass into the region of oblivion, 'unknown, unhonoured, and unsung;' it may be added unrewarded. It is no encouragement to gentlemen, whether officers of the Government or others, who devote their time and talents to a good cause, to be treated in the manner in which all those connected with the management of the Calcutta Exhibition have been. Thanks cost nothing, and even if such a little regarded honour as C.I.E. were not at the disposal of the Government, at any rate some farewell notice might have been publicly given to those who have laboured so long and so well in a good cause. As the Government, however, seems indisposed to give any recognition to the services which were so freely placed at their disposal it becomes the duty of the Press, on behalf of the public, to thank everyone connected with the management of the Calcutta International Exhibition for their exertions which resulted in the success of the Exhibition."

We gladly reproduce the following from the Bengal Times:—

"We are glad to notice the laudable conduct of Babu Dwarkanath Ghosh, Zemindar of Barniah, in Nuddea, for much substantial help that he afforded his ryots, during a recent outbreak of cholera in that village. Babu Dwarkanath not only voluntarily bore all charges for providing sick ryots and their families with medicine and medical attendance, but he distributed food among them, and that with no sparing hand, while the epidemic lasted. This gentleman is as a shining light to his countrymen, and should receive the recognition of Government for his generous benefactions to the distressed and suffering. We hear that, as a zemindar, he has distinguished himself ere now by his conspicuous kind-heartedness, enlightened views, and his cheerful co-operation in the cause of benevolence."

The Englishman gives the following account of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected up to Saturday June 14:—

"There has been no change in the current rates for steam tonnage since last mail. By sailing ships rates have improved 1s. 3d. per ton for immediate employment; a few forward charters are reported for October-November loading, showing an advance of from 7s. 6d. to 10s. per ton over rates ruling at present. Of the vessels in port two ships have been taken for London, two for Dundee, one for Liverpool, and one for New York. Almost as many arrivals are reported, and the total of unfixed tonnage does not show much variation, amounting to-day to 40,000 tons."

We take the following account of the Calcutta Indigo Market from Messrs. W. Moran and Co.'s Market Report:—

"There have been several good falls of rain since our last issue over Behar generally, and prospects have consequently improved. One or two factories in Champaran are just opening vats, and the entire division will probably be at work in ten or fifteen days hence. The plant is more backward in Chuprah than in the neighbouring Zillahs. There has been rather more rain than was wanted over most of the districts in Lower Bengal, and a little sunny weather would now be acceptable. We hear of one or two factories in Bhagulpore, Purneah, and Moorsshedabad having opened vats, but Mahai will not be general before the end of the month. The reports from the Benares provinces generally are favourable, and the same may be said of the little we hear from the North West."

The same firm gives the following account of the Calcutta Tea Market:—

"At the sale held on the 12th instant, 4,808 chests were offered, of which 4,792 were sold. The quality of the tea offered showed generally no improvement, but prices were a trifle higher. For a few specially desirable lots full rates were paid."

The Times of India has the following obituary for the week ending June 17:—

"Surgeon T. R. Rogers, Professor of Chemistry and Chemical examiner to the Madras Government; Lieut. Y. Patterson, 1st Dragoon Guards; Lieut. E. A. F. H. Day, R.A.; Brigade Surgeon Andrews (known on the Indian Turf as Mr. Aubrey); Dr. William Green Balfour, Bombay; Rev. Father Venantius Jansen, O.S.F.C., Morar; Lieut. G. Peaker, Bombay Volunteer Rifles."

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

The following is the usual weekly telegram from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated July 6:—

"The agitation against the migration of Government to the Hills has had the effect of eliciting a kind of apology from Mr. Grant Duff. His Excellency came down to the capital for a few days at the beginning of last week and took the opportunity to deliver a speech at the opening of some new sewage works on Monday. He said Madras only wanted good sanitation to make it an extremely agreeable place. He preferred living there during the greater part of the year. But he denied that work could be done in Madras with the thermometer in the nineties, as well as on the Nilgherries with the climate of the Wiltshire downs. The present dual system must go on until, as at home, places were found which could serve as capitals all the year round. The Government had done all it could for the improvement of Madras, and would continue to do so. He could not as yet say whether the Military Accounts office would be removed to Bangalore; but he desired most distinctly to explain that there was not the remotest intention on the part of the Government to derogate from the position of Madras. On the contrary, he would be sorry if, at the end of his period of office, he could not say he left Madras in many respects a more beautiful and well-ordered city than he found it. Already they were far on the way to having one of the most beautiful marinas in the world, and they must soon have a new High Court. Personally, he wished to do for Madras all that his lamented friend Sir Bartle Frere did for Bombay, but he was not unfettered and had to contend with the Finance Minister, the Accountant-General, and other financial demons. They, and not he, were to blame."

"The Madras Mail regards this speech as holding out the olive branch to a scandalised public, but would have preferred the Governor to say that he would not attempt to apologise for a practice which was indefensible."

"A great public meeting to protest against Hill emigration was held in Madras on Thursday. It is described as the largest assemblage within the recollection of the oldest inhabitants, the attendance being variously estimated at from 9,000 to 15,000. Patcheappah Hall could not contain the crowd, and after the sheriff had opened the meeting he found it necessary to adjourn to the adjoining plain, where the people divided into three separate meetings, which were addressed respectively in English, Tamil, and Telegu. On the motion of Dr. Colgan, Roman Catholic Bishop, Rajah Sir Madhava Rao was called to the chair. After addressing the meeting at some length and reading telegrams of sympathy from most of the principal towns in the Presidency, the chairman called upon the Hon. A. Mackenzie to propose the first resolution, which was in these terms:—

"That this meeting record its protest against the removal of the seat of Government from Madras and against the removal to and permanent location at Ootacamund of the Madras Army headquarters."

"Mr. Mackenzie having delivered a forcible speech, was followed by the Rev. William Miller and Mr. Annada Charlu, and the resolution was carried."

"The second resolution, proposed by Mr. Reddy Branson, solicitor, and seconded by Mr. Jaggarow Pillay, pleader, was that a petition should be adopted and presented to the Houses of Parliament, and that copies should be forwarded to all members of Parliament, the Secretary of State, the members of the India Council, the Viceroy, and the Governor of Madras. This was also carried unanimously."

"A third resolution, recording a protest against the contemplated removal of the Military Accounts Office from Fort St. George to Bangalore was proposed by Mr. Grant, barrister, and seconded by Dr. Athalye."

"The fourth and fifth resolutions related respectively to raising a subscription and forming a committee, and were proposed and seconded by leading European and native merchants."

"A strong committee was nominated, including among others, Rajah Sir Madhava Rao, Mr. Lawson, editor of the Madras Mail, Mr. Branson, solicitor, Mr. Annadacharla, pleader, and Mahomed Mahmood Saib Bahadur."

"The memorial, which was adopted, states the case moderately yet forcibly. While admitting the necessity of relaxation on the hills, the memorialists deny that residence there during the greater part of the year is compatible with the thorough discharge of public duty. The evil has grown from a small beginning, and has now attained grave proportions. The Commander in Chief has been permitted permanently to locate the army headquarters in the hills far away from the native army. Buildings are being constructed which will allow Government to follow his lead and fix itself in a remote station virtually inaccessible to the people of the plains. The memorial goes on to contend that it is the duty of the chief officers of state to accommodate themselves unselfishly to responsibilities, and that the difficulty of government is aggravated when they seem in practice to attach slight value to personal intercourse with the people. It argues that their salaries are fixed on a scale to compensate for residence in the plains, and points out that by living almost entirely in an atmosphere of European officialism, untempered by contact with the people of the country or with non-official criticism, the heads of the civil and military executive secure an isolation that deprives them of all opportunity of feeling the pulse of the country, estranges them from the natives, and exposes them to the risk of forming erroneous opinions of the requirements of the times. The retirement of Governments from the plains tends to widen the chasm between rulers and ruled, which it is the avowed aim of the Government to fill up. The memorialists believe that to sacrifice the money already expended at Ootacamund would be a smaller evil than the perpetuation of the present evil. They base their remonstrances chiefly on the political aspect of what they regard as a misuse of the hills, and submit that only men capable of enduring the climate of the country should be entrusted with high administrative authority therein. Holding these views, they pray Parliament to discountenance any persistence in a policy which they are convinced is seriously detrimental to the welfare of Her Majesty's Empire in India."

"Serious discontent is said to exist at Indore, owing to the high-handed oppression practised by the Bala Sahib, or heir apparent. This young man is the eldest son of Maharajah Holkar, and the same who won unenviable notoriety by an assault on British officers at Allahabad some time ago. It is stated that his father allows him to work his will unchecked, and the result is that by acts of inhumanity and oppression he has driven the people to the verge of revolt. At the same time Holkar is agitating for re-opening the question of his own conduct during the Mutiny, with a view to obtaining a clearer verdict of acquittal of disloyalty than was given at the time. It seems plain that the affairs of the Indore State demand the close scrutiny of Government."

"The report that the Bengal army was about to be strengthened by the formation of new regiments is officially denied."

"The Lieutenant Governor of Bengal has informed the Calcutta Corporation that he is unable to waive the condition upon which he offered to take over a portion of the police charges, namely, that they should set aside 2½ lakhs annually for sanitary improvements. He adds that he has learnt with grave displeasure that the Corporation, notwithstanding express injunctions of Government, have reduced the allotments for sanitation. He has considered their proposal for a levy of octroi duty, and has decided to refer it to a commission for report. A memorial praying the Lieutenant Governor to appoint a committee of inquiry into the action of the Corporation in sanitary matters has obtained a large number of signatures, including all the leading citizens."

"The rainfall during the first month of the monsoon has been deficient over a great part of the country, a fact which is causing some anxiety, but in Lower Bengal and in some other places it is somewhat above the average."

"The guarantee fund for the Bombay Exhibition is rapidly increasing, and there is now every prospect of the scheme being a complete success."

"An unconfirmed report comes from Cabul, that the Russians have sent the Ameer presents and congratulations on the capture of Maimana, and that he has provided a house outside the city for the messenger."

"Communications regarding the Boundary Commission are passing between the Government of India and the Ameer. The former is believed to have now before it proposals of the Commander-in-Chief as to an escort to accompany the Commission. Among the reports in circulation is one that the Russian escort will consist of a regiment of cavalry, a battalion of infantry, and a battery of artillery, and that the English escort should be of equal proportions. This may be taken for what it is worth. The Ameer will probably be asked to send some troops with the Commissioners in addition to the British escort, to prevent trouble with the nomad tribes."

"On Monday evening some convicts made a desperate attempt to break out of Rangoon Gaol; the military were called out, but before their arrival the riot was suppressed by the gaol guard. One convict was killed and nine wounded in the affray."

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

ARMY AND NAVY MAGAZINE.

THE Army and Navy Magazine for July opens with an article entitled "Ambushes and Surprises" by Colonel Malleon which gives an excellent account of the early training of Hannibal and his passage of the Rhone and of the Alps. Mr. Holmes brings forward the case of Syad Wilayat Ali Khan of Patna whose loyalty and stanchness during the Mutiny was of great aid to us. The amusing skit termed "Why I resigned," by Ignotus, is completed in this number, and the reader will find the finale as laughable as the opening was. Colonel Furse writes on the proposal of the new rifles being furnished with thumb triggers. His great experience in actual war gives much value to his opinion that thereby firing in action would be likely to be greatly improved as the present method of pressing or pulling the trigger with the forefinger leads to a most undesirable jerk in the excitement and flurry of combat. A Field Officer sends some valuable notes on the equipment of a camel corps for service in Egypt, though from personal experience of camels we very much doubt if, as he states, a British infantry soldier could learn to drive and manage a camel himself in three days. Egyptian camels may be more docile than Indian ones, but speaking generally, camels are of all beasts the most awkward and difficult to manage except by men accustomed to their management, and to whom they are accustomed. Mr. Stone gives a short account of the doings of the predecessors of the Honourable Artillery Company during the Civil war. The novel of "Man Proposes" by Mrs. Phillips is approaching to the end, and promises to be one of the most successful of the present season.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

SIR EDWARD CLIVE BAYLEY.

THE last mail brought us the details of the somewhat sudden death of the late Sir E. Clive Bayley, the bare fact of which had been previously announced. His life was not marked by any events of sufficient importance to distinguish it markedly from the ordinary career of officials who rise to a high position in this country, but there was much about the personality of the man which will justify in the eyes of his many surviving friends, both native and European, a few lines in memory of him. Coming to this country in 1842 when, as he said at the farewell dinner given to him by Lord Lytton, the news of the destruction of General Elphinstone's army in Afghanistan had come to astound a generation hitherto unacquainted with disaster and defeat, he remained to be a near spectator of the events of the Sikh campaigns and of the Mutiny, and only left India a few months before the action of Shere Ali led to the second Afghan war of 1878. Within that period of thirty-six years he passed through the usual stages of a successful civilian career. He served his apprenticeship to district work in the Punjab, at one time in Guzerat, at another in Kangra. He served as Under Secretary in the Foreign Department under Sir Henry Elliot, who exercised a life-long influence over him, not only in the direction of his official work but still more in the direction of those antiquarian, numismatic, and historical studies to which his leisure was devoted. Returning from furlough when the wave of the Mutiny was beginning to roll back, he was attached as Secretary to the temporary Government at Allahabad, and after gaining some experience of judicial work at Futtahgurh and Lucknow, he spent the last fifteen years of his service in India as Home Secretary and member of the Viceroy's Council. Of Sir Olive Bayley's official labours in these various appointments it is not our desire to say much. He was intensely conscientious and gave his utmost energies at all times to his work. He brought to bear on it an exceptional amount of varied knowledge and laborious reading, and the criticism most frequently, and, perhaps, most justly, made upon his work, was that he was occasionally induced to obscure and lose sight of the point at issue in the amount of illustration which he collected, but failed sufficiently to concentrate upon it. In council he was thoroughly fearless and upright, vigorously protesting against jobs, accepting defeat readily on small matters but generally endeavouring to make his voice heard on matters of principle. He was a staunch supporter of the claims of his own service, and if occasionally he took a more conservative line in this respect than modern ideas altogether approve, the members of that service have at all events much to thank him for in the improved leave rules which were mainly due to his successful advocacy, and in the gallant fight which he made against the powers of darkness (personified at that time by the Financial Department here and at the India Office) in their endeavours to do a sharp stroke of business at the expense of the Civil Fund. But perhaps the most characteristic and special note of his official life was his thorough and sincere sympathy with natives, and more especially with the educated Mahomedans. With him this sympathy was not the professional sympathy of the philanthropist nor the affected sympathy of the literary mourner over the glories of past anarchy which he contrasts with the decadence of an era of railways and of peace, but it was the honest sympathy of man for man, devoid of patronage and looking to the broad grounds of similarity rather than to the narrow grounds of difference; stimulated, no doubt, and rendered easier than it is to most men by an unusual knowledge of Mahomedan literature and culture and by a keen intellectual interest in the writings of their historians, but based on real friendly regard and recognition of human worth. To the Mahomedan historical literature he devoted much of his leisure after retiring from the service. The work which his old chief, Sir Henry Elliot, had begun, he designed to continue, by publishing translations of the native historians, and one of these, the "History of Guzerat," he had after great labour just completed before his death, and hoped to pass through the press in the month of May. As a numismatist his work was well known and appreciated, and in the sister science of archæology he had an intense interest, which with larger leisure might have led to great results. Such papers as he contributed to the Asiatic Society's Journal, and his more recent brochure on the genesis of the Arabic numerals, show not only how earnestly he worked at subjects which can only repay those who devote to them the most patient and unwearying study, but show also how the long drudgery of thirty-six years in official harness had not left him, as it does so many of his brethren, resourceless and hopeless at the end of it, the wearied victims of a leisure which they no longer know how to employ. But after all it is not for his official success, nor for his numismatic or antiquarian labours that we most sincerely cherish the memory of Edward Olive Bayley. Rather for those personal qualities which endeared him in quite a special and exceptional degree to all who came in contact with him. The words in which Lord Lytton spoke of him gave as true and accurate a description of his character as any which we can frame. He said that "Nature's elements were never kindlier mixed, to associate a sweeter temper with a gentler, more courteous, or more chivalrous character than his," and those who knew him will understand that the epithet "chivalrous" is not here thrown in as a makeweight, but represents what was always a real and, in his younger days, a very marked element in his character. He himself on the same occasion said his greatest pride was his connection with the Indian Civil Service, and it is as a typical member of that service that we have noticed his career. We do not believe that the type is dying out or becoming lost, but we can utter no better wish for India than that the combination of industry, many-sided culture, gentleness, courtesy, and sympathy with the people and with the learning of the country, which characterised Sir Edward Bayley, may be found with increasing frequency in the ranks of the service to which he was an honour.—Pioneer.

AFGHANISTAN.

AFGHANISTAN has occupied the most prominent place in public attention recently. From facts that are gradually leaking out, we see with pleasure that the Government are giving serious attention to matters connected with Russia's position in Central Asia, and our own relations with the Ameer Abdur Rahman. An Anglo-Russian Commission, to meet on the spot next autumn and demarcate the boundary line between the Ameer's possessions and Russian territory, is talked of, and there is a prospect of a British officer being sent on a mission to Herat. For this latter duty General Sir C. Macgregor is mentioned; and it would be difficult to make a better selection. Sir Charles is not only a valiant and tried soldier, but he has made Central Asian, Afghan, and frontier affairs his special study. We understand that the Ameer has been required to give a guarantee for the safety of the mission, and that, on this guarantee being given, Sir Charles Macgregor will be sent to Herat. The rumour is again revived, on the authority of native reports, that there is a Russian agent—a pucca Muscovite, not an Asiatic—resident in Cabul. This may be no more than a popular interpretation of the Ameer's well-known Russian sympathies; but whether it is true or not, it is a fact that the position demands the presence of an English officer of standing and experience at the Afghan capital. With a properly demarcated frontier and a clear understanding with Russia that it must not be overstepped, with a British Resident at Cabul, and with our own frontier defences put in a thoroughly efficient shape, the Central Asian question may be considered satisfactorily settled for some time to come at least. Meanwhile, the Ameer has made a considerable step towards the accomplishment of that unity of his kingdom about which our Government has encouraged and assisted him to direct his efforts, in the suppression of the Maimena rebellion. News has reached India that Hashim Khan, the Meer of Maimena, who revolted in the interests of Ayoub's party, and was defeated by Iahak Khan, the Governor of Afghan-i-Turkestan, on May 18, and Maimena was captured. So the rebellion, which at one time threatened to be a serious affair, may be considered at an end, and a blow has been struck at Ayoub's cause, from which probably, now that he is in safe keeping, it will not recover. No doubt, now, the Mangals will soon come to terms. So long as the Ameer's attention was seriously occupied with affairs in Maimena, there was always a prospect of their breaking out again, but now they will find that wisdom lies in submission. Attention is being devoted to the important matter of the improvement of our north-west frontier defences. Grants have been sanctioned for extending the cantonments of Pishin and Duki, and Sir Robert Sandeman has the work under his supervision.

One of the results of the delay in punishing the Kakar Pathans of the Zhob Valley for their late raid on Duki has been the murder of Lieutenant G. A. S. Dupuis, of the North Staffordshire Regiment, by Yassinai Pathans, while out alone on an excursion in the vicinity of Quetta. Nothing but prompt and severe punishment for such outrages will keep our outposts from molestation. The Yassinais who shot Lieutenant Dupuis and buried his body have been caught, and are in custody at Quetta. They belong to a small clan which possesses only two villages.

AFGHAN NEWS.

(From the Lahore correspondent of the Times of India.)

Cabul reports state that a Russian agent is located there, who is not a Turcoman or Bokhariot, but a true Muscovite, and that he has been there for months, and is on the point of his departure, only to be replaced by a colleague.

Kandahar news states that the Ameer intends visiting that city after the Ramazan, and will go afterwards to Herat. The Kandahar artisans are not pleased at the idea of the visit. The recent prosecutions for embezzlement are not approved of. It is reported that the Russians are carrying telegraph wires to the frontiers of Maimena; also that another Russian is about to visit Cabul. The Mustaufi of Kandahar has recently taken to flight. He is evidently not satisfied with the turn affairs have taken at Cabul. His flight may be owing to the projected visit of the Ameer. He is brother to the Mustaufi of Cabul who recently invited the Ameer and Court to dinner and feasted them right royally, the utensils being of gold and silver. During the meal the Ameer seems to have ruminated how the Mustaufi could have amassed so much wealth. The following morning he sent his host to prison, on a charge of embezzlement.

It is stated that the Government of India are about to present to the Ameer of Cabul two miles of light railway on the Decauville system, with engines and carriages complete. The line will be laid in the vicinity of Cabul.

The Lahore paper says:—Recent news-letters speak of further vigorous measures on the part of Ameer Abdur Rahman Khan. It is said that he has fined Muhammad Yusuf Khan, the Kotwal of Kandahar, Rs.16,000. For what crime or offence this heavy fine has been imposed is, as yet, not known. The Ameer has further thrown into jail a certain man called Tor, who had been an officer in Ayoub Khan's army, and who, after the decisive battle, had taken service with Abdur Rahman Khan, and had enjoyed his master's confidence. The Ameer is said to have raised the pay of each soldier of the Cabul regiments from Rs.8 to Rs.10 a month.

The following are some recent items of Afghan news:—On the report of the capture of Maimena reaching Cabul, the Ameer ordered a salute of 31 guns to be fired. According to this account Maimena was taken on the 18th May, and not on the 20th, as formerly stated. The Ameer has ordered the Cabul Arms Manufactory to produce 300 breech-loading rifles and 100 field guns. The Kafirs of Darra-i-Nur are said to have assembled and threaten disturbances. Some further fighting is reported from Mongal country. The Mongals have fled from their villages, and Gholam Haidar Khan has sent cavalry in pursuit.

The writer in the recent article on Abdul Rahman in the Times stated that the Ameer affects a contempt for newspapers, and accepts as his principal source of information newspapers which he receives from his numerous correspondents throughout India. The Pioneer referring to this statement, says that, so far from affecting a contempt for newspapers, the Ameer employs agents in India to cut out and forward to him all articles which appear in the Indian papers regarding Afghanistan. These he reads with much attention, and it may be fairly argued that agents in Samarkand and Tashkend also forward to him extracts from the Russian Press.

The Civil and Military Gazette says:—"It is reported from Kandahar that an Afghan lady applied to the Ameer Abdul Rahman for a judicial separation, on the ground that her spouse was becoming bald-headed by reason of age. The Ameer solemnly ordered a vial of sour milk to be poured over the husband's head, and ordered the wife to lick off the milk. This humiliating ceremony performed, the woman was placed on a donkey, her face to the tail, and was led through the bazaar. This instructive story certainly illustrates two things—that Abdul Rahman Khan's mode of judicial procedure differs slightly from ours, and that divorce is not so easily obtainable in Afghanistan as in some more civilised countries."

THE "INDIAN STATESMAN" ON THE SIMLA SCANDAL.

THERE is so complete a consensus of opinion in the Indian press as to the abuse of the annual practice of "going to the hills" that the Government will certainly be forced to modify if not abandon it. The Englishman now writes:—

It has become the fashion of late years to state that the better atmosphere of Simla enables our rulers to do more work than if they stopped on the plains as other business men do. Special correspondents at Simla foster this idea, as otherwise there would be no excuse for their adding to the number of the idle crowd. Our rulers have now been at Simla since the beginning of April, or nearly two months, and I think if a handsome reward was offered to any one who could prove that any really important business had been done during that time the reward would, most probably, go unclaimed.

Is not that statement absolutely true? And can India really afford to be governed in this perfunctory manner? The writer proceeds:—

But if our rulers require nine months' comparative holiday in a cool climate, why do they insist on so many native clerks accompanying them to help in the game of "how not to do it?" Why, again, if they must take these poor clerks away from their homes, do the authorities, when the clerks are completely in their power, began to cut down their allowances and rights? If reports are true, not only have the house-rent allowances of poor clerks been cut down to such sums as they can prove that they have paid by the production of vouchers, but now the gratuitous medical attendance always hitherto allowed for their wives and children is to be discontinued. This latter order looks very much as if our rulers wished to prevent the clerks bringing up their families to that abode of bliss, where water was a short time ago so scarce a commodity that work on some of the public buildings was likely to be stopped, and the watering of the roads, and even of the Viceregal garden had to be given up. This, of course, means that the poor clerks must keep their families in Calcutta, whilst their allowances at Simla are reduced, a question of domestic economy which probably never entered into the consideration of those who framed the new rules, but who draw large salaries, and whose allowances are sacred from the touch of official shears.

It is the improper development of the "exodus" into the costly and monstrous proportions it has assumed that is attracting so much attention everywhere. The suffering which it entails upon the subordinate establishments, of which the writer so justly speaks, is very great, while the handful of officials who so unscrupulously abuse their freedom from responsibility, make no account of it whatever. They forget that this long residence at the hills entails an amount of discomfort, suffering, and pecuniary loss upon their subordinates out of all proportion to the enjoyment and advantages which the mere handful of English officials secure therefrom. It is perfectly right that the Viceroy, who comes to this country in advanced life, and such of his colleagues as are ailing, should make an annual resort to the hills, but the gradual removal of all the establishments in their train, regardless of the cost to the public and the demoralisation that attends the practice, is an abuse of so gigantic an order that it cannot possibly last.

Mr. Gorst, we observe, has called attention to the matter in Parliament, and it will not be long before the whole subject is brought up therein. It is Government of a thoroughly unconscientious order, and attended by suffering and demoralisation upon a scale that ought not to be tolerated.

LORD RIPON'S LAND LEGISLATION

IN confirmation of the opinion which we recently put forward that desperate attempts were in progress to drop up Lord Ripon's reputation, we would invite attention to an article in the May number of the Fortnightly Review, on "Lord Ripon's Indian Land Legislation," by R. Campbell. Sir G. Campbell is known to fame, and his brothers, Mr. J. S. Campbell and Mr. C. Campbell, are not altogether unknown as Civil servants of some distinction on the other side of India. But the leader of this very forlorn hope must either have profound confidence in his own obscurity or in the insouciance with which all Indian subjects—except railways—are at this moment regarded by the English public absorbed in the prospects of Khartoum. On no other theory of interpretation can we account for the astounding statements to which the reviewer has committed himself. We are gravely told that Lord Ripon has steadily followed in the wake of "all our best Indian administrators" and that his efforts have been favourably received by English public opinion; that the Ilbert Bill was not terminated by any concession to outside agitation, but by able advocacy in the Council itself; and that the elevation of Local Self-Government into a means of political and popular education is a "stroke of the highest policy." It is difficult to decide which of these assertions is the more audacious. We do not know from what school of politicians Mr. R. Campbell may hail, but we take leave to inform him that we in India do not consider it able administration to narrowly escape wrecking the ship in a period of profound calm, and then only to be saved by the superior sagacity and strength of your opponents. We know very well from the speeches of Mr. Evans and Mr. Miller, who were at great pains to explain the matter to the Council and to the public that the celebrated compromise was a concession to outside agitation which would take no denial. As to Local Self-Government, we know that Lord Ripon did his utmost to hamper and discredit, till then, a perfectly successful experiment by the addition of fantastical novelties of his own, which the Bombay authorities were the first to denounce. The proposal to initiate a period of properly anticipated failure, in the hope that it would be brief, was no doubt "the touch and impress of the Viceroy's own," to which the reviewer alludes with more shrewdness than discretion. In any case no one is likely to dispute with him any claim to the glory of this novelty in Indian administration. Of Lord Ripon's other claims to the eulogies so profusely lavished upon him we prefer at present not to speak, until at least they are specified with a little more coherence and precision by some other and better advised admirer. Lord Ripon has been unfortunate in many things, but most unfortunate in his supporters. It has been his fate to confer credit and distinction only on his opponents, and in the degree to which they have opposed him. It is well known that there are at this moment in the Council men who are writhing under the consciousness of having marred a previously unblemished career by appearing in public, in spite of their convictions and even of their admissions, as supporters of the Viceroy. Hence is it that some of the strongest arguments of the Viceroy's measures have been taken from the speeches in support of them, and that, in some instances, his own account of his own policy has been sufficient for its condemnation. The reviewer has not been well advised to call attention to these deficiencies. Their only and best chance was to be forgotten.—Pioneer.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

The Viceroy returned to Simla from Nalderra on the 9th ultimo.

Maharajah Nain Narain Sing, of Ramghar, has undertaken to pay the entire expenses of maintaining a homoeopathic charitable dispensary at Hazaribagh.

Amongst those who perished in the ill-fated steamer State of Florida was the eldest son of the late Dr. Ogilvie, who was Principal of the General Assembly's Institution in Calcutta from 1845 to 1871.

The Hajipore branch of the Tirhoot State Railway will probably be opened for traffic some time in September next. The branch may be expected to drive a roaring trade.

The Statesman hears that Messrs. Hastie and Fish had obtained permission to be heard by the Foreign Mission Committee, on the Tuesday after the mail left, on the subject of their dismissal, not on the merits of the "Pigot v. Hastie" case.

The proposal to create a post of Assistant Inspector of European and Eurasian schools in Bengal, on a salary of Rs. 300, rising to Rs. 400 a month, to which allusion was made some time ago, has been submitted by the Government of India to the Secretary of State for his approval and sanction.

ANOTHER FOOTBALL ACCIDENT.—Mr. A. W. Joseph, of the Preventive Service, whilst playing football on Wednesday evening, the 11th ult., on the Maidan, slipped and fell. He sprained his right ankle, and was removed to the General Hospital.

ENGLISH TRANSLATION OF THE MAHABHARATA.—Mr. Rivers Thompson has just given a convincing proof of the interest he takes in the improvement of the natives. Baboo Protap Chunder Roy is, as our readers know, publishing gratis an English translation of the Mahabharata, and towards the work the Government of Bengal have subscribed Rs. 5,000, to be paid in annual instalments of Rs. 1,000. If this example were followed by some of the leading native noblemen of the province, a great work would speedily be brought to a successful conclusion.

The Englishman of the 9th ult. calls on the tea planting community to join their influence to the present active opposition to the Bengal Tenancy Bill.

Rain fell in Simla on Wednesday, the 11th ult., for four or five hours, and it would seem, that the chota bursat has at last burst. Sufficient rain fell to improve the water supply, which has been extremely short for the last few weeks.

Colonel W. G. Davies, C.S.I., Financial Commissioner of the Punjab, purposes taking privilege leave home next month. Probably Colonel Wace will officiate for him.

The post of Director of Agriculture and Commerce in the North West Provinces, when Mr. W. C. Benett goes shortly to the Board of Revenue, will be filled by Mr. Donald Mac kenzi Smeaton, at present Revenue and Settlement Secretary, British Burma.

The Frontier Bank of Peshawur is reported to have suspended payment.

A Russian fort is being built at Kalo-i-Karshid Khan, in the centre of the enclosure built by the Turcomans in 1880.

It is intended to raise a corps of cavalry in Merv, and the Turcomans are now being enrolled, principally the professional raiders.

A society has been established in Calcutta by natives with the object of improving the breed of cows.

A meeting is shortly to be held in Calcutta to pretest against the annual migration of Government officials to the hills.

The Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab has left Simla for Mahasu for the sake of change, the state of his Honour's health being by no means satisfactory.

A Wahabee convict who was released from the Andaman Islands some time since has applied to the Punjab Government for leave to be enrolled as a pleader or mukhtiar without examination.

Several smart earthquake shocks were felt at Delhi between 11 and 3 p.m. on the 5th ult.

It is stated that his Honour the Lieutenant Governor and Chief Commissioner of the North West Provinces has directed the appointment of a European practitioner to Lucknow, who will hold rank as assistant civil surgeon, and be in direct charge of that class of the community which has hitherto had its necessities attended to by a native official. This step is believed to have been taken as the direct outcome of a memorial which was sent to the local Government some time since, and which was numerously signed by European Government pensioners and many uncovenanted and non-official Europeans and Indo-European residents of Lucknow.

An attempt has been made at Merv upon the life of General Komaroff by a Tekke, who on being captured by the Russians was killed by his own brother.

The Ameer of Afghanistan has ordered the levy of an income-tax of one per cent. per annum for four years. He intends to secure to himself the monopoly of the sale of ghee and country oil.

The capture of Maimana by Mohamad Jan Khan has been the cause of great rejoicings in Afghanistan, and it is stated that the cities of Kabul and Jelallabad have been illuminated for three nights in succession.

MADRAS.

FEMALE EDUCATION.—We are glad to notice that H.H. the Maharajah of Travancore has offered, and the Government has accepted, a donation of Rs. 6,000 for the establishment of a scholarship entitled "Bharati Lakshmi," and for the reward of a gold medal annually in the Medical College, to encourage female medical education in this presidency. The scholarship, worth Rs. 15 per month, is open to all females irrespective of nationality or creed, but is limited to those who have matriculated or have passed the higher examination of women. It is tenable for four years by a candidate for the L.M.S. degree or college diploma, and for five years by a candidate for the M.B. and C.M. degree. The thanks of the Government have been accorded "for this additional instance of the enlightened liberality of H.H. the Maharajah of Travancore."—South of India Observer.

The Madras Chamber of Commerce have under consideration the question of applying to Government to sanction the establishment of a Port Trust for the port on the lines of the Bombay and Calcutta Port Trusts.

A native lad was stung to death by a scorpion at Bangalore on the 4th ult.

During the quarter ending March 31 last, the number of cattle killed in the Madras Presidency by tigers and cheetahs was as follows:—518 bullocks, 616 cows, 258 calves, 150 buffaloes, 269 sheep, 205 goats, 24 horses or ponies, 16 asses, 46 dogs, and 35 pigs.

An inquest was held at Bangalore on the 7th ultimo on the body of a native boy, aged five years, who was killed by lightning on the previous day. The deceased and two other children were sleeping with their mother in their hut at about eight o'clock in the evening, when there was a flash of lightning, accompanied by a terrific report. The electric fluid struck the hut, killing the deceased and rendering the other inmates insensible. The thatch on the hut was ignited, and the whole structure was completely destroyed in a short time.

A sad fatal accident has happened to a daughter of Major C. V. Fisher, Ordnance Department, Madras. Major Fisher's son, a lad of thirteen years, was shooting birds with a saloon rifle, when the weapon accidentally went off, the bullet lodging in the body of the girl, a child aged nine years, who was playing near. The unfortunate child died about twenty-four hours after the occurrence of hemorrhage of the left lung, the bullet having struck her under the left arm.

At Madras on the 9th ult., the congregation of the Walla-japettah Roman Catholic Chapel met and presented an address to the Rev. Father Angelo, their pastor, on his retirement from the position which he has occupied for seven years. The rev. gentleman, in the course of his reply in acknowledgment of the address, spoke of his connection with educational work, and made some remarks on the subject of flogging which are worth recording. He said that he did not advocate the entire abolition of flogging, but he entirely disapproved of having the cane continually before the eyes of the children, like a sword of Damocles hanging over their heads. The use of the rod ought to be a rare exception, and not a rule. American slavery was made worse than it might have been by the free use of the lash.

BOMBAY.

H.E. the Governor of Bombay held a levee at Poona on Wednesday, the 9th ult.

The Municipal Commissioner of Bombay has recommended the Town Council to carry out the Tansa water scheme at the cost of a crore of rupees.

The Bank of Bombay on Wednesday, the 9th ult., reduced its minimum rate to 8 per cent. per annum.

Mr. Nusservanjee F. Bunsah has been appointed an honorary assistant surgeon to the Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy Hospital, Bombay.

Mr. C. Douglas has been appointed by Government a member of the Bombay Municipal Corporation in the place of Mr. M. Mowat, resigned.

Mr. H. M. Birdwood is appointed to act as a judge of the Bombay High Court during the absence of Mr. Justice Pinhey on privilege leave.

We learn from Surat that an entertainment was given in that town on the 7th ult., in honour of Mr. Nanabhai Haridas's elevation to the Bench of the Bombay High Court.

Mr. A. F. Woodburn has been appointed to act as Collector and District Magistrate of Ahmednuggur, in addition to his other duties, during the absence of Mr. J. Elphinstone on privilege leave.

The Bombay Catholic Examiner hears that cases of hydrophobia have been increasing to an alarming extent in the district of Salsette, and that people are rather afraid to move abroad, as the number of mad dogs is uncommonly great.

On the 24th May a Pathan sepoy shot the native officer commanding the detachment of the Belooches at Sibi. It appears that the native officer had reported the sepoy for absence from barracks, and he was punished for the offence with detention in barracks for some days.

Captain Hext, R.N., Director of Marine, with the Naval Constructor of the Bombay Dockyard, was expected at Calcutta on the 25th ult., on inspection duty. From Calcutta Captain Hext will continue his tour of inspection to Burmah and Port Blair.

Captain George Parker, Port Officer and Conservator of Kurrachee, will act as Port Officer and Registrar of Shipping during the absence of Captain Henry Morland, who is about to proceed on leave to England. Captain E. Bishop, commanding the I.G.S. Patrick Stewart, will act at Kurrachee as Port Officer during Captain Parker's absence.

Mr. Townsend, the petroleum expert, who has been employed in examining the oil-bearing strata about Sibi, has left India for Canada, with a view to purchasing some Rs 50,000 worth of boring plant for the Indian Government. On his return in the autumn he will commence forcing operations in earnest at several points near Sibi and Hurnai.

A Jeypore telegram, dated the 10th ult., says:—"An accident occurred last night to a goods train at the 178½ mile post, above fourteen miles from here. Ten waggons were derailed. The Bombay mail train, with the overland mails for Lahore, is delayed here. Mr. Harris, the permanent way inspector, is on the spot, endeavouring to get arrangements completed to take passengers and mails across, so as to catch the Punjab train to-night."—Times of India.

The monsoon is believed to have set in Bombay, although up to the present the rainfall has not been very heavy.

The wounds inflicted on Mr. Mulock, the Collector of Nasik, by a panther while out shikaring a few days ago, were lanced by Dr. Peacocke on the 9th ult. One of the tooth wounds was not getting on quite so well as Drs. Peacocke and Leahy wished but on Wednesday, the 11th ult., it took a more satisfactory turn. The claw wounds on the right shoulder near the collarbone are almost healed.

The Central Indian Horse shikar party, which broke up near Goona at the beginning of June, has had exceptionally good sport this year. The party consisted of Colonels Gerard, C.I.H., and Sir W. Gordon Cumming, Scots Guards, Captain Herbert and the Hon. H. Lawrence, 17th Lancers; and the bag of 21 tigers and 5 cubs, 6 panthers, 12 bears, besides deer and small game.

BURMA.

RANGOON.—A large Chinese firm has failed, with liabilities over three lakhs. The Chetties are chiefly the sufferers. The newly started Arakan Oil Company have been very successful in striking oil.

A RANGOON JUDGE. The result of the inquiry into the accusation made by Mr. Lingham against the local bar is condemnatory of his conduct as a Judge. It is reported that he will not return to Rangoon after the expiry of his leave.

Three of the five ships which were stranded during the recent cyclone in Burma have been got off. The ship Boston Hall, which was dismasted during the cyclone, has been towed into Akyab in safety.

Several cases of sporadic cholera and typhoid fever have occurred in the European community. Two cases have ended fatally.

Mr. Cowley, Assistant Comptroller, was attacked with cholera, but is recovering.

UPPER BURMA.

In order to check the wholesale migration of his subjects to British territory, Theebaw has issued a proclamation abolishing the capitation grant of five rupees per family, and the import duties.

The Pangyetwoun, at a late meeting of Ministers, stated that a French Ambassador was shortly expected to ratify an offensive and defensive treaty with Upper Burma, and that a party of engineers were on their way out from France to survey the country (Tonquinwards) for a line of railway.

A rumour that the Mengoon Prince had escaped from Chandernagore caused consternation among the King's party at Mandalay. It does not appear to have been anything more than a rumour.

Mandalay has been the scene of another great fire, which, the telegram says, destroyed four blocks of houses.

CEYLON.

ANCIENT INSCRIPTIONS.—Mr. H. Parker an Irrigation Officer stationed at Tissamaharam, near Hambantota, has made a valuable discovery of inscribed bricks. The inscriptions are relieved to date 200 B.C. and are in a character older than any yet found in Ceylon, and almost identical with the Asoke alphabet of Northern India.

CEYLON RAILWAYS.—The delay in the opening of the new line to Hattori beyond the date fixed by the contractors has caused much irritation in Colombo. A local paper, dated the 3rd ult., says:—"Mr. Strong, the resident engineer, returned to Colombo from his inspection of the Hattori extension lines yesterday, and we are given to understand that the line will be opened to-morrow, Wednesday, the 4th instant, but, in the absence of any notice to that effect from the traffic manager, we cannot believe the rumour. The delay which has occurred has not occasioned much inconvenience, but it had been at another time of year, this would not have been so, and the resentment of the public and the press would have been much greater. As it is, the whole thing seems to have been muddled and mismanaged, reflecting anything but credit on the responsible officers."

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.—The commercial seat in the Ceylon Legislative Council, which carries an "Honourable" with it, has been going a-begging. At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, three members of the Chamber were successively elected for nomination, but declined the honour. Since then, Mr. Bosanquet has been elected.

A well-informed gentleman, writing from Colombo, says in a private letter, that "The estates in Ceylon will do very well this year, and those in which the Oriental Bank is interested will show a very handsome profit. Every year they will become more valuable, when tea, with which so many are planted, begins to give a return. Capitalists could not do better than turn their attention to Ceylon just now, as the planting industry is on a sounder footing than it has been for the last twenty years."—Calcutta Indian Daily News.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—FRIDAY.

THE BIKANIR FIELD FORCE.

Lord WAYNEY said that in consequence of the revolt of the Thakor of Bidasir and other chiefs against the Maharajah of Bikanir the attention of the Indian Government had for some eighteen months been called to the disturbed state of the districts in question, and alarm had been created on our frontier. The Indian Government at length sent out a force for the purpose of restoring order and arranging matters between the recalcitrant chiefs and the Maharajah. A small contingent of the Maharajah's men accompanied the troops, and the surrender of one of the forts, held by 3,000 resolute men, was effected. That he took to be an exploit creditable to the force and useful to the Government of India, as it enabled them to show that there was at their command a force of military police capable of maintaining order on our frontier and within our frontier. The troops started from their base of operations on the 16th of December, 1883, and the fort was surrendered on the 25th of that month. It struck him that it was one of those operations which did more to impress upon the Indian mind the power of the British arms than larger and more ambitious operations. The first question he had to ask was whether any report had been transmitted by the Indian Government of the operations of the Bikanir field force, 16th December, 1883, which resulted in the surrender of the Thakor of Bidasir and other chiefs in revolt against His Highness the Maharajah of Bikanir and the capture of the strong force of Bidasir on 25th December, 1883. He knew the rule of the service was that if an officer commanding in the field did not think a particular action of sufficient importance to make a special report upon it, it did not become the subject of special notice. But in India it must have a most unfortunate tendency if any action creditable to the force engaged should be overlooked, instead of having a mark of honour against the name of every man who took part in it. His second question was whether it was not desirable that all operations in the field should be communicated by the Indian Department to the War Office and Horse Guards for the information of the military authorities at home, and for record of war services of officers of Her Majesty's forces, British and Indian.

The Earl of KIMBERLEY said he was sorry to say that he was not aware of any omission in this case until his noble friend called his attention to it. It was the invariable rule and practice that information of any movement sent home from India was at once communicated to the War Office, but in this case unfortunately, through some oversight, that was not done. It appears that there was a rebellion against the ruler of Bikanir, and he, being unable to suppress it, applied to the Indian Government, which sent to his assistance about 1,800 men, under the command of General Gillespie. They marched into the country, and he was happy to say that there was no bloodshed whatever, and that the troops were not called upon to act beyond blowing up some forts. That was the whole, the beginning, and the end of it. He had no desire to depreciate the service rendered by General Gillespie. He might say that the authorities at Bombay had expressed their entire satisfaction with the conduct of the expedition. Colonel Pottinger, military secretary to the Government of Bombay, in forwarding (17th January, 1884) to the Government of India a letter from the Quartermaster-General respecting the operations of the Bikanir field force, said:—"I am to express the satisfaction of his Excellency the Governor in Council with the judicious and complete arrangements made under the orders of his Excellency the Commander-in-Chief and the Lieutenant General Commanding the Mhow division for the service required by the Government of India, whereby success was assured and every precaution taken for the efficiency and health of the troops engaged." The Quartermaster-General of the Bombay Army, in the communication referred to, says:—"The Commander-in-Chief desires me to express his Excellency's entire satisfaction with the management of the expedition, which was carried out ably and judiciously by Brigadier-General Gillespie. General Hardinge has read with pleasure the favourable report on Lieutenants Coles, R.E., and is glad to record that the conduct and health of the troops were all that could be desired."

INDIAN MARINE BILL.

The Earl of KIMBERLEY moved the second reading of this bill, and explained that its object was to enable the Government of India to make arrangements to secure the discipline in the Indian Marine and to provide for its closer conjunction with Her Majesty's Navy in time of war.

The Bill was read a second time.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

CHOLERA IN INDIA AND THE SALT TAX.

In answer to Mr. McCarthy, Mr. CROSS said: I have no reason to believe that want of salt has any connection with cholera in India. It is not the case that vast numbers of the natives are unable to procure sufficient salt. Extension of railway communications and recent reductions in the tax have made salt more plentiful and cheaper than it previously was. Thus, in the North West Provinces, the part of India most remote from the sources of salt supply, the mean price of salt in the autumn of 1873 was 15lb. the rupee, or a little over 1½d. per lb. In the autumn of 1883 it was 22lb. the rupee, or rather over 1d. per lb., a decrease of about one-third. The net revenue from salt is now about 5¼ millions sterling, and there is no probability that the surplus will be sufficient to justify the surrender of this large sum.

In reply to Mr. Cropper, Mr. CROSS said: (1) In 1882 the Madras Salt Laws were amended, and made in some respects more strict; (2) the number of persons convicted in 1882-83 of offences against the Salt Laws was 8,399. This number is less than of 1879-80 before the amendment of the Salt Laws, when the convictions were 9,678. A large proportion of the convictions were for illicit manufacture of salt from salt earth. (3) The salt tax in Madras was reduced twenty per cent. in March, 1882. Comparing the years 1880-81 and 1882-83 the loss of revenue caused by this reduction is 9 per cent. (4) Considering the present state of the finances of India there is no immediate probability of a further reduction in the salt tax, which has in the greater part of India been lowered from 33 to 39 per cent. within the last seven years.

LONDON PRODUCE MARKETS.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—At the Indian auctions 300 chests Indian and 200 packages Ceylon tea sold without alteration in price; 636 chests Java tea from the Sinagar estate sold at firm rates. Flowery Pekoes from 1s. 5¼d. to 1s. 7d. per lb.; Pekoes, 1s. 1¼d. per lb.; and Souchongs, 8¼d. to 8¾d. per lb. China.—Privately only a small business is passing in new season's teas, at about yesterday's values. Exporters have taken good common to medium black leaf at from 10d. to 11¼d., and fine at 1s. 7d. per lb. By auction only 600 half-chests were offered and sold at from 11d. to 1s. 2d. per lb. For to-morrow 13,000 packages are already catalogued (new and old season's), to be sold without reserve.

SUGAR.—There has not been any business done in West India today, and of 654 hhds. 125 brls. Porto Rico the bulk was bought in.

Beet is dull, with sellers at yesterday's decline. In the Clyde market a better demand prevails for pieces at hardening rates.

COFFEE.—The public sales have been small, and went at steady prices for East India and Guatemala; 84 casks 16 barrels and bags Plantation Ceylon also sold at last week's quotations; middling colory, 64s. to 65s. 6d.; good middling, 68s.; bold, 80s. to 84s. 6d.; 46 cases 505 bags East Indian sold—medium, Coorg, 61s. to 64s.; bold, 88s. 6d. fine 92s. to 92s. 6d.; 167 bags Guatemala sold at 49s. to 49s. 6d., for good foxey greenish; 466 bags Costa Rica, few lots at 57s. 6d.; 141 packages Jamaica part sold, 45s. to 47s. 6d. for fair ordinary.

RICE.—A cargo Bassein, 1,000 tons, sold at 7s. 9d., open charter; and one of Saigon, 1,800 tons, at 6s. 10½d. for Fiume.

SPICES.—Black pepper is held for stiffer rates, which checked business. At the weekly sales a dull tone; the only change was a fall of 1s. to 2s. upon Cichin ginger, and rather more upon Jamaica. Of the former 300 packages chiefly sold at 47s. to 48s. for fair rough, and 48s. to 48s. 6d. for washed; the latter ranged from 48s. to 53s. for common to good common, and up to 76s. for good. Of 350 bags of Bengal a few lots at 35s.; bulk bought in at 38s. 166 bags Zanzibar cloves bought in above valuation. 64 cases Amboyna part sold at 7½d. Of 18 cases, Penang nutmegs, one lot bold sold 3½d., rest withdrawn, being unsaleable on former terms. 632 bags Pimento partly sold, 2½d. to 2¾d. for ordinary to good. One case fine Penang mace sold at 1s. 7d., but nine cases of middling were bought in at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d.

SAGO. dull. 650 bags small sold at 11s. 6d., a few lots good medium at 13s. 6d., and a lot or two large at 14s. 6d. Seed and medium pearl tapioca realised 11s. 6d. to 12s., and bullet 11s. 6d. to 12s. 6d. per cwt. Flake tapioca is 1-16d. easier, Singapore selling at 1¾d. to 1½d. per lb.

THURSDAY EVENING.

Mr. W. J. and H. Thompson say that the markets continued in the same state of depression as last quoted, with lower quotations for several kinds of imported produce. There has been a very moderate quantity of coffee brought to public sale. Home trade descriptions of Plantation Ceylon and East India have realised about last week's rates, but the demand generally remains inactive. There is a large supply of Central American offering. Guatemala obtains steady prices. Costa Rica has partly found buyers at easier rates. The stock of coffee in Havre decreased to the extent of about 2,000 tons in June, with improved deliveries, but it is still exceptionally large. The public sales of Indian teas have again been small, and the market is quiet. Sugar has in several cases sold at reduced rates. To-day, however, the tone is more steady. Best for prompt shipment, after selling at 13s. 6d. f.o.b., closes at a recovery of 1½d. to 3d. p-r cwt. for prompt and August shipment. A better demand prevails for refiners' produce here and in the Clyde. The stock of cane grown is large. Cocoa has been quiet, and Ceylon is without change. The spice sales have gone flatly. By private contract black pepper is again hardening in price. The public sales of East India Cinchona have been larger than in the former period, but at lower rates a good demand prevailed.

TEA.—From Messrs. Hawes and Hertz's fortnightly China report:—"The arrival of the s.s. Glenogle on the 27th ult., with about 60,000 packages of new season's black leaf, has been the leading feature of the past fortnight. Samples of nearly the entire cargo were placed on the market in the course of the day, and the eagerness of owners to be the first to realise was evinced by auctions for about 12,000 packages, being advertised for 11, 11.45, and 12 o'clock of the same day. The bulk of these teas realised at from 8½d. to 1s. per lb., or fully 2d. to 3d. under last year's opening rates. The—in some instances—very obvious irregularity in prices is fully accounted for by the short time which was at the trade's disposal for valuing the various breaks. Auctions of the last few days, although without any improvement in price, show more regularity. The quality of the teas throughout, and especially of the higher grades, is much superior to last season's. Although prices for all grades below 1s. 1d. per lb. are on an unprecedentedly low scale, the effect of larger hurried auctions, ex arrivals close on hand, has to be awaited before buyers will accept the present range as a basis for large purchases. Over three-fourths of the cargo per Glenogle has been sold. Black Leaf.—The demand for teas at from 1s. 3d. to 1s. 7d., and for the comparatively few parcels of fine quality, is fair, and prices for these steady. The bulk of fair, medium, and good medium teas was sold at auction; prices for these are weak and irregular. Old season's have been without inquiry privately, and show again a further decline at auction."

SUGAR.—There has been business done in beet for early shipment rather above yesterday's rates, with more demand for refined sugar. A cargo of 300 casks St. Kitts sold at 12. On the spot 357 casks 1,200 bags refining West India reported at 11s. to 13s. per cwt. Subjoined is M. Bertrand Si's circular, dated Paris, July 2:—"During last week 20,000 bags were tendered for the liquidation of June engagement, which took place yesterday with 30,400 bags. This important quantity produced a fall of 11. on last Wednesday's quotations, but as soon as the liquidation was over, the market grew stronger, and 50c. were soon recovered on the lowest. The present dryness keeps sellers on forward terms back, but on the other hand, buyers are bold enough to enter into operations. Attention now lies entirely with the new law, which, it is said, will come before Parliament on Saturday next, while the future of the article will depend solely upon the decision which will be given."

COFFEE.—The market is quiet. 58 packages Plantation Ceylon, chiefly in small lots, sold at 61s. to 65s. for low middling; 77s. 6d. to 78s. 6d. for greyish bold; and 82s. to 86s. for colory. 949 bags Ea st Indian—medium to palish, 58s. 6d. to 62s.; colory 73s. 86 packages—mixed to good ordinary, 42s. 6d. to 45s. 4,182 bags Costa Rica, part sold at rather lower prices, 47s. to 51s. for mixed to fine ordinary greenish; 54s. 6d. to 59s. for low middling to middling grey; 64s. good middling bold. 1,912 bags Guatemala went at previous rates—mixed and foxey, 45s. to 49s.; low middling to middling grey, 55s. to 57s. per cwt.

RICE.—Some business has been done on the spot partly in white Bengal.

INDIAN MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

(Bombay Government Gazette, June 17.)

H.E. the Commander in Chief is expected to visit Bangalore early next month.

Captain John Lyons, Bombay Barrack Department, intends, it is stated, settling in Tasmania on retirement.

Major Withers, of the Bombay Staff Corps, having completed twenty-six years' service, has been advanced a step.

Lieutenant T. C. Hunt, of the King's Own, has been appointed the extra aide-de-camp to His Excellency the Governor.

Surgeon Roe, from Bangalore, has been appointed civil surgeon, Akola (Berar) District, vice Dr. Moran, on privilege leave.

Deputy Surgeon General R. H. Perkins, Indian Medical Establishment, Bengal Army, is about to retire from the service.

Major James Hay, Bengal Staff Corps, commanding 4th Goorkhas, Bukloh, is about proceeding on furlough on urgent private affairs.

Major W. Franklin, Staff Paymaster, 2nd West York Regiment, intends visiting Australia and Tasmania, leaving India about June 23.

Furlough to Europe and the Colonies for one year and 202 days has been granted to Colonel Humfrey, S.C., commandant of the 30th Native Infantry.

Colonel Turton (late of the Hyderabad Contingent) delivered over the command of the H. S. F. to Brigadier General Buck on return from his leave.

Major H. K. Young, Brigade Major, Rawal Pindi, will, on relief, on expiration of tenure of appointment, proceed to England to join his regiment.

Captain Krohn and Lieutenant Buchanan, of the Secunderabad Rifle Volunteers, have obtained six months' leave, and Lieutenant Stone one month's leave.

Surgeon R. T. Baker, B.A., M.D., staff surgeon, Quetta, has been attached to the Foreign Department for temporary employment in the Biluchistan Agency.

It is reported in well-informed circles that the Khedive has granted a fixed allowance to all officers of the British Army, Navy, and Marines engaged in the operations round Suakim.

Captain Strachan, of the Sind Volunteer Rifle Corps, having resigned, Lieutenant J. Pollen has been promoted to be captain. Volunteer W. Martin Towelle succeeds Lieutenant Pollen.

GOVERNMENT FROM THE HILLS.

On the general subject of the advantages and disadvantages of an annual visit of the Viceroy to the hills for health and change, much has been said and written on both sides. But we know of no Indian authority, whether Englishman or native, who has anything to say in justification of the great extensions and abuses of this privilege that appear to have grown up under the rule of Lord Ripon. It may probably be urged with much fairness that the evil has been one of long, silent, and almost secret growth; and that the reason why it seems to have attained such prodigious proportions under the present Viceroy is, that we only now begin to appreciate the magnitude of the mischief when its full results begin to show themselves. And it may be admitted that a rush of headlong reckless legislation such as that to which we have been treated by Lord Ripon and Mr. Ilbert, very naturally emphasises any defects in the system of administration, and may possibly have caused "the Simla Scandal" somewhat suddenly to assume alarming proportions. At the same time, it is clear—if only from the light thrown on the present system by the absurd proposal of the Madras Government to transplant the Military Accounts Department, with all its array of accountants, clerks, &c., from Madras to Bangalore en bloc and for ever—that during the last few years the pernicious tendency in the direction of "Government from the Hills" has undergone an enormous development. It was only so recently as in Lord Lawrence's time that the visit to the breezy heights of Olympus became recognised as a normal annually recurring affair. And it is very certain that, up to the end of Lord Lytton's Viceroyalty, the idea had never occurred to anyone that the "exodus" was anything more than an annual "visit." Now, however, in scarcely more than four years, it appears that "the Hills" have come to be considered the true home of the Government, and the "visit," or period of tour is that which is spent at the Imperial or provincial capitals in the plains. We have no hesitation in expressing our opinion that this development of the original idea—that original idea having apparently erred on the side of effeminacy and self-indulgence—is an utterly pernicious one, that should be at once and energetically opposed by every Indian patriot, Native or English.

We are by no means unaware of the many arguments, all specious and plausible, and some really weighty, that have been urged in defence of the hill system of Government. But there are two hostile considerations, not to mention a large number of others, that seem to us to be absolutely decisive. The first is to be found in the fact that the vast bulk of the personnel of each Department, whether in the Imperial or in the Local Governments, is Native; and to these poor shivering subordinates, a prolonged sojourn in the cold climate of the hills is an exile as real as, and not less painful than, that of the Englishman in the plains of India. It is even more painful; for as a rule it is impossible for the Native clerk, although drawing special allowances, to provide himself with those alleviations of the climate which an Englishman can usually obtain in the plains.

The second objection is far more serious, and altogether insurmountable. It is, the complete withdrawal of the Imperial and Provincial Governments during the greater portion of each year from those healthy influences of an educated and powerful public opinion—not merely official, not merely English, but a really Indian public opinion—without which we may see Indian statesmanship habitually degraded to the level of the authors of the Ilbert Bill and the Bengal Tenancy Bill.

On the other hand, as our contemporary, the Indian Statesman aptly observes, the most telling argument in favour of the Simla picnic is the danger that, if it were abolished, our choice of Viceroys in the future might be unduly restricted. Now, we are particularly desirous of saying nothing that may be regarded as improperly harsh in regard to the present representative of Her Majesty in India; but we fear it must occur, even to the most ardent admirer of Radicalism in excelsis, that the experience of the last two or three years does not seem to show that the existing system necessarily gives us the type of Viceroy most calculated to advance the happiness, the peace, or the general prosperity of India. Both Lord Northbrook and Lord Lytton, each on a most notable occasion, showed that English statesmen of the highest eminence are not to be deterred from the path of duty and honour by any craven fears of the heat of the most trying seasons in the plains; and it is by no means certain that the sifting process, so much dreaded, that might possibly warn off from the Viceroyalty a few politicians of less robust stamp, would be an altogether unmixed evil.

THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA; REMARKS ON THE ENHANCEMENT OF RENT.

We have already noticed several points in the letter of Mr. Fitzpatrick, the Secretary to the Government of India in the Legislative Department, commenting, for the instruction and guidance of the Government of Bengal, on the report of the Select Committee of the Legislative Council on the Bengal Tenancy Bill. Among the other subjects remaining to be noticed is the vexed question of the enhancement of rents, and, as unfortunately Mr. Fitzpatrick must have written his despatch long before he could have seen what the Duke of Argyll and Lord Bramwell have had to say on this comparatively simple question when it is treated according to the true laws of political economy and practical honesty, it is rather distressing to see how the Government of India, like a mariner who has lost his compass, deals with this important subject.

As a fact, the enhancement of rent lies at the bottom of the Bengal Tenancy Bill. This was admitted by the Government of India in its original despatch of the 21st of March, 1882, to the Secretary of State, when it was shown that the provisions of Act 10 of 1859 regarding enhancement had failed, and that Sir Barnes Peacock as Chief Justice of Bengal had pointed out that an amendment of the law was necessary. It is in Act 10 of 1859 that we first come across those innocent-looking words "fair and equitable rates of rent" the fallacy of which Lord Bramwell has exposed with such ability and clearness; especially when a Court of Justice is called upon to determine them. With regard to the power of the landlord to enhance rent, we have only to turn to Mr. Justice Field's well-known and authoritative digest of the Rent Laws; where he states that the whole course of legislation from 1793 to 1859 had recognised the rights of the zemindars to enhance at discretion the rents of all ryots except a few protected classes. The Privy Council had also recognised this power of the landlord to raise from time to time the rents of all rent-paying lands, unless he were precluded by a contract binding on him, or the ryot was one of the protected classes. This was the actual and rational state of the law in Bengal for nearly a century. The landlord could grant a lease, and thereby limit his own power; or his ryot might be one of the protected classes, exempted from enhancement. Otherwise he could at any time proceed to enhance his rental according to the Perguanah or current rates.

Such being the state of the existing law, it will probably be in the recollection of some of our readers that it was proposed by the Government of Bengal, at the special instigation of the secretary, Mr. A. P. Macdonnell, to limit all money rents to a maximum of one-fifth of the gross produce, thereby practically annihilating any possibility of the enhancement of rents. This proposal, however, was rejected in the Select Committee, who reported as follows:—"As regards enhancement by suit, our object has been, while laying down rules which will be substantially just to both landlords and tenants, to devise a system which would avoid those elaborate and difficult inquiries, the necessity for which has made the present enhancement law an almost useless instrument in the hands of the landlords." They therefore specified the grounds on which an enhancement suit can be instituted as follows:—

(1) That the rate of rent is below the prevailing rate payable by occupancy ryots for land of similar description.

(2) That there has been a rise in the average prices of staple food crops in the locality.

(3) That the productive powers of the land have been increased by, and improvements effected at the expense of, the landlord.

(4) That the productive powers of the land have been increased by fluvial action.

We now have to see what the Government of India has to say on these proposals. Mr. Fitzpatrick writes as follows:—

"The omission of the section limiting money rents to a maximum of one fifth of the gross produce may perhaps give rise to some misgivings; and it may be said that with this section the only absolute check on rack-renting has been removed. On the other hand many objections have been taken to this provision of the original Bill. It has been condemned as setting up a maximum rate of rent, which would certainly work inequitably, as an uniform standard for all classes of crops, and in all districts. It has also been condemned as likely to encourage enhancements of rents in all cases in which the rent was below the legal maximum. It has been further condemned as economically vicious, because it leaves out of view the important elements of the cost of cultivation, and ignores the difference between staple crops and special crops."

The Government of India having thus elaborately and unnecessarily killed the scheme for limiting money rent to a maximum of one-fifth of the produce, although it had been already slain and cast out by the Select Committee itself, proceed to consider the amendment which we have quoted above as proposed by the Select Committee for the enhancement of rents. It will be sufficient if we look only to the question of the rise in the average prices of staple food crops, as in practice, this affords the most common ground for a demand for increased rent. The Government of India observes that the explanatory remarks of the Select Committee should be considered. "Their intention is that authoritative price-lists of staple food crops should be prepared by the Local Government, and that in deciding an enhancement suit on the ground of an increase in prices, the Courts should have regard to those lists as indicating a general rise or fall in prices in local area without any reference to the particular crop grown on the land, the rent of which is in dispute. When a general rise has thus been ascertained, it would rest with the tenant to prove any particular causes which may have prevented him from enjoying the full benefit of the rise. The general tendency of these provisions would be, that, so far as this particular ground of enhancement is concerned, the standard of rent, as expressed in grain would not vary, but the landlord would be protected from the loss now arising from the diminished purchasing power of silver in relation to grain. The Government of India agrees with the Select Committee that these proposals would materially facilitate the decision of this class of enhancement cases, and considers also that the zemindars are entitled to some substantial improvement in the procedure for obtaining enhancements of rent in such cases. In many parts of Bengal the rise in prices in recent years has been very considerable, and the complaints of the zemindars that under the present law, they have been unable to obtain a proportionate increase of rent are admitted to be well founded. If the proposals of the Select Committee are calculated to work equitably, the Government of India would be glad to see them enacted, as they go far to redeem the promises which have been made at various times to the zemindars." We have made this rather long extract because it sounds as if some member of the Government of India had felt for a moment a desire that justice should be done to the zemindar; and, indeed, it is something to find the admission that promises have been made to them which ought to be redeemed. But we fear that this is little more than a delusion and a snare. The Government of India proceeds to state the other side of the case, and to raise difficulties, which it obviously believes that the Government of Bengal will fail to solve. How are the staple crops to be selected? Are they to be restricted to food crops? And are jute and indigo (and, we may add, the poppy) to be excluded? If there has been a rise in prices, has there not been also an increase in the cost of production? Can the price lists be made to distinguish a permanent from a temporary rise in prices? Is the fluctuation of prices at headquarters a true index of the fluctuations in the villages? These and other considerations are said to point to the impracticability of devising any method of enhancement that can be worked in a mechanical way; and, therefore, the Bill provides that the courts are not to decree any enhancement which is unfair and inequitable. Finally, the Government of Bengal is asked to state, if any other considerations, to which the courts ought to have regard, should be more definitely specified in the Bill.

We have said above that the Government of India is like a mariner who has lost his compass. It should rather be said that the Government of India has got hold of a compass which is wrongly adjusted. Having determined to do away with the right of private contract between landlord and tenant, it looks for light and guidance to the action of the civil courts in determining fair and equitable rents. Those who have read Lord Bramwell's speech can now judge for themselves whether the question of a fair and equitable rent is one which should ever be committed to the tribunal of a civil court. There is but one real law which can determine the proper rate of rent according to the true value of land. That law is the simple law of demand and supply; and people need not be led astray by the clap-trap terms of land-hunger and rack-renting, which are suitable only to the abuses that grow up under almost every commercial dealing in connection with the laws of demand and supply. The Government of India, in its instructions and suggestions to the Government of Bengal has only added to the clouds of error by which the question of enhancement of rent has already been enveloped.

In telegraphic transfers—On Calcutta, Rs.12,35,000; average rate, 1s. 7½d.; on Bombay, Rs.4,25,000; average rate, 1s. 7½d.; and on Madras, Rs.1,50,000; average rate, 1s. 7½d., or a total of Rs.25,16,000. Tenders for bills on all Presidencies, at 1s. 7½d., and for telegraphic transfers on all Presidencies, at 1s. 7½d. will receive 35 per cent., and above in full. Sales in the day—two lakhs of transfers on Calcutta were sold at 1s. 7½d., besides bills for Rs.16,250 on Madras at 1s. 7½d. Between April 1 and July 1 the total amount of remittances sold reached Rs.4,67,98,600, and realised £3,857,394.

LAND MORTGAGE BANK OF INDIA.—The twenty-first ordinary general meeting of the shareholders of this company was held on Monday, June 30, at the City Terminus Hotel. Mr. J. R. Boyson presided, and in moving the adoption of the report referred with regard to the falling off of the tea crop of last season. The Indian interest account was rapidly decreasing, owing to the discharge of the current loans. He had heard that some anxiety had been felt as to the probability of a call being made, but he was still hopeful that they would always be able to do without making a call. Possibly about three years since, if they did not succeed in realising all their blocks of property in the meantime, they might have to raise a small amount for working expenses, but he believed they would be able to do that easily by issuing debentures for short periods at a moderate rate of interest. The crop of tea for the current year was estimated at 22,000 maunds. Mr. R. P. Harrison, C.S.I., having seconded the motion, Mr. H. G. Bainbridge thought that the outcome of last year's tea crop was not unfavourable, considering the exceptional difficulties they had had. He did not think the prospects were very bright for diverting any of their tea this season to American or Australian markets. They were led to expect this year 21,000 maunds, or an increase over last year of 2,730 maunds, and he trusted they would not have to bring it to a worse market than that of last year. Mr. Buchanan objected to the assets being taken at par, maintaining that this was not a correct representation. He regarded the cost of producing the tea as too high. Considerable discussion followed, in the course of which the opinion was expressed that the tea plantations were not managed as well as they might be. The chairman, in reply, stated that they had taken the greatest care in appointing efficient inspectors of their tea estates. The report was adopted, and a resolution was subsequently passed re-electing the retiring director. After the rejection of a motion for appointing chartered accountants, the auditors were re-elected.

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.—The thirty-seventh annual general meeting of this company was held on Thursday, July 3, the City Terminus Hotel. Mr. R. W. Crawford presided, and, in moving the adoption of the report, observed that during the half-year ended December 31 last the exchange had favoured them a little as compared with what they had expected, and they were therefore able to offer a surplus dividend of £1 per cent. A telegram had just been received giving them the estimated results of the working of the half year which ended on the previous Monday. The gross receipts were calculated at £2,291,575, the working expenses at £881,833, and the net receipts at £1,409,741. For the corresponding period of last year the net receipts were £1,576,498, but similarly favourable results had not been expected by anyone as to the past half-year. In the first part of 1883 they had to deal with a very large production of grain of various kinds; fair prices were at the same time ruling in this country, and there were low freights at Calcutta. Consequently they had the benefit of the enormous shipments of grain which were then made. In the past half-year, however, these advantages had been absent, and they had had their share of the general depression which had befallen railway companies pretty nearly all over the world in this period. If the exchange remained as it was at present, he thought they might expect to receive next January £1 2s. per cent. beyond the usual interest. Last January he stated that he viewed with the greatest satisfaction the prospect of the appointment of a committee on Indian railways, and he might say now that he believed the public would be gratified when they knew the result. One of the principal ideas he had had in going before the committee was to protest against the extravagant suggestions which had been made as to spending £20,000,000 a year for ten years on railways in India. With regard to the proposed line from Bhopal to Jhansi, he had objected to it when it was first propounded by the Great Indian Peninsula Company. He believed, however, that the scheme would be sanctioned by the committee, but he conceived that he had done his duty in the interests of this company, by opposing the scheme. Sir R. Maodonald Stephenson seconded the motion. In reply to a question, the chairman stated that, so far as he knew, the object of the bill which was brought before the House of Commons by Mr. Cross on the previous evening was to enable the Secretary of State to claim the return of dividends on Indian railway stock which had been unclaimed for a certain number of years. The bill would require a great deal of examination. The case of this company was different from that of the other companies. Power was not sought in their case to recall any of the money which had been paid to them, but to obtain relief from paying them that portion of the annuity which had not been claimed by anyone. They were that day taking the opinion of counsel as to the legal position and the legal rights, if any, of the annuitants. The report was unanimously adopted, and the retiring directors and auditor were subsequently re-elected.

NATIONAL BANK OF INDIA.—An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders was held on Thursday, July 3, Mr. R. O. Campbell presiding, when the resolution passed at the meeting on the 19th ult. was confirmed. It was for altering the articles of association of the bank by adding an authority thereto enabling them to keep colonial registers, pursuant to the provisions of the Companies (Colonial Registers) Act, 1883.

THE SILVER MARKET AND THE EASTERN EXCHANGES.

TUESDAY.—Bar silver is scarce, and as the Indian exchange rates are firmer at 1s. 7½d. on Calcutta and 1s. 7½d. on Bombay, the silver market is harder, the price of bars being now quoted at 50 11-16d. per ounce. Mexican dollars remain at 50½d., and there is still a demand for them. The China rates of exchange are unaltered at 3s. 9d. in Hongkong and 5s. 1¼d. in Shanghai. Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Rupee Paper has regained ¼ of the recent decline, and closed at 83¼ 83½. The Four per Cents. being again quoted at 81¼ and 81½. Five lakhs of telegraphic transfers were sold by the India Council on Bombay at 1s. 7½d. per rupee.

WEDNESDAY.—The Silver Market is firm, but business has been limited. Bars are quoted at 50 11-16d., and Mexican dollars at 50½d. per ounce. Indian and China exchange rates and Rupee Paper are unaltered.

THURSDAY.—Both the Bombay and Calcutta telegraphic transfer rates are now quoted at 1s. 7½d. and bar silver is in demand for India at 50½d. per ounce. So far as could be ascertained, no business was done, owing to the scarcity of supplies. Mexican dollars are also wanted, and are likewise scarce. Their last price was 50½d. per ounce. There is still no alteration in either Rupee Paper or the China rates of exchange. The India Council have sold five lakhs of bills on Bombay at 1s. 7½d., and two lakhs of transfers on Calcutta at 1s. 7½d. per rupee.

FRIDAY.—The scarcity of bar silver and the firmness of the Indian exchanges, the rates in Calcutta and Bombay being 1s. 7½d. and 1s. 7½d. respectively, have enabled the brokers to obtain an advance of ¼d. on the price quoted yesterday, some small parcels having been brought for India at 50½d. per ounce. No business has been done in Mexican dollars, and the nominal price for them is unchanged at 50½d. The China exchanges are unaltered, at 5s. 1¼d. in Shanghai and 3s. 9d. in Hongkong. Rupee paper is also unchanged, at 83¼ 83½ for the Four-and-a-Half, and 81¼ 81½ for the Four per Cents.

SATURDAY.—Although the Indian exchanges are easier, there is no material alteration in the rates, and bar silver has again been dealt in to a small extent at 50½d. per ounce. There has been no business in Mexican dollars. China exchange quotations are still unaltered, and Rupee Paper remains at 83¼ 83½ for the Four-and-a-Half, and 81¼ 81½ for the Four per Cents.

MONDAY.—Indian exchange rates are quoted at 1s. 7 9-16d. in both Bombay and Calcutta, and bar silver is easier at 50 13-16d. per ounce. Only a very small amount of business has, however, been done. Mexican dollars are in demand, but a nominal quotation only is obtainable, as there are no supplies on hand and none are expected until the end of the week. China rates of exchange remain at 3s. 9d. in Hongkong and 5s. 1¼d. in Shanghai. The market for Rupee Paper has been very inactive. The Four-and-a-Half per Cents. closed at 83¼ 83½, and the Four per Cents. at 81¼ 81½. The India Council have sold a lakh and a-half of telegraphic transfers on Calcutta at 1s. 7½d. per rupee.

RECOLLECTIONS OF THE KABUL CAMPAIGN, 1879-1880.

BY JOSHUA DUKE, F.R.A.S., Surgeon Bengal Medical Service.

CONTENTS:

1. A full account of the murder of the members of the British Embassy in Kabul, September, 1879.
2. An account of the city of Kabul and the surrounding country.
3. General Roberts' advance to Kabul over the Shutargardan Pass.
4. The battle of Charasiah.
5. A description of the fighting around Kabul, Dec., 1879, including the loss of the Horse Artillery and mountain guns, and the fighting on the surrounding heights, and of the investment of Sherpur.
6. The present Amir, Abdul Rahman.
7. General Roberts' march from Kabul to Kandahar.
8. The battle of Kandahar, and the return march to India.

The Preface contains a large portion of a valuable letter written to the author by General Sir Frederick Roberts, G.C.B., V.C.

The book contains a map, a portrait of General Roberts, a picture of Mount Sika Ram, and other illustrations drawn chiefly from photographs, which enhance their accuracy.

PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF GENERAL SKOBELEFF.

BY

V. I. NEMIROVITCH-DANTCHENKO.

TRANSLATED FROM THE RUSSIAN

BY

E. A. BRAYLEY HODGETTS.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

Contemporary Review.—"It is most interesting, as well as instructive throughout."

Graphic.—"The subject is of abounding interest. Mr. Brayley Hodgetts deserves hearty thanks for bringing such a life so clearly before the public."

St. James's Gazette.—"The new Biography of Skobeleff is deeply interesting, and the translator has done well to make it known to the English public."

Truth.—"Let me strongly recommend to you 'Personal Reminiscences of General Skobeleff.' It is so brilliant a book as to be worthy of its subject."

KNOWLEDGE:

AN

ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE OF SCIENCE,

PLAINLY WORDED—EXACTLY DESCRIBED.

Edited by R. A. PROCTOR.

"KNOWLEDGE" is a Weekly Magazine intended to bring the truths, discoveries, and inventions of Science and Art before the public in simple but correct terms—to be, in fact, the "minister and interpreter" of Science and Art for those who have not time to master technicalities, and—at a price within the reach of all.

The first number of Volume V. commenced with No. 114, January 4, 1884. Among the subjects for this year we may mention that arrangements are made or in progress for a Series of Papers on

"Flowers," by Mr. GRANT ALLEN;
"Electroplating," by Mr. SLINGO;
"Dreams," by Mr. EDWARD CLODD;
"Microscopic Studies," by Mr. H. J. SLACK;
"Telescopic Studies," by F.R.A.S., and Mr. R. A. PROCTOR;
"Cookery," by Mr. W. M. WILLIAMS;
"Tricycles," by Mr. J. BROWNING;
"Happiness," by Mr. THOMAS FOSTER;
"Insects," by Mr. BUTLER;
"The Almanack, Mapping, the Zodiac, and Constellation Figures," by Mr. R. A. PROCTOR; Besides others on "Chance," "How to get Strong," "Plain Facts in Physics, Apparitions, various Mathematical Subjects, simply treated; Whist, chiefly Illustrative Games; and Chess, chiefly simple discussions of the Leading Openings.

Vols. III. and IV. (January to December, 1883) are still to be had, price 7s. 6d. each.

PRESS NOTICES.

"The best magazine published."—Vanity Fair.
"One of the most welcome additions to our stores of knowledge."—Fun.

"Seems to us to improve month by month in piquancy and variety."—School Board Chronicle.
"Remarkable for lucidity of style."—Hampshire Advertiser.

"It is learned without pedantry, correct without compromise, and withal interesting."—Yorkshire Independent.

"It is exactly what it professes to be—a popular journal, treating scientific questions in a style which can be perfectly understood by anyone of ordinary intelligence and education."—Chemists' Journal.

"Certain to secure a wide circle of readers."—Broad Arrow.

A LASKARI DICTIONARY,

OR,
ANGLO-INDIAN VOCABULARY OF NAUTICAL TERMS AND PHRASES IN ENGLISH AND HINDUSTANI.

Chiefly the Corrupt Jargon in use among Laskars or Indian Sailors.

Originally compiled by Captain Thomas Roebuck, Madras Infantry, Professor of Hindustani, Examiner, &c., in the College of Fort William, Calcutta. Revised and corrected by William Carmichael Smyth, Esq., B.C.S., and now carefully re-edited and enlarged by GEORGE SMALL, M.A. MISSIONARY, Formerly of the B.M.S. at Calcutta and Benares, now to the Laskars, &c., in London, in connection with the Asiatic Strangers' Home, Limehouse.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We have received a copy of what we venture to predict will prove one of the most useful books that ever fell into the hands of a ship's officer—a vocabulary of the sea jargon of Indian laskars. In the brief space of eighty-two pages Mr. Small has given us some 1,400 nautical terms, embracing nearly the whole vocabulary of native crews. We congratulate Mr. Small on the completion of a book which, if it is the least pretentious, is, to our thinking, the most useful and the most enduring of all the books he has yet written."—Statesman, Calcutta.

"Of the value of the present edition, for the intended purpose, it is difficult to speak too highly."—Home News, May 26, 1882.

London: W. H. ALLEN and CO., 13, Waterloo-place.

CATECHISM OF SHORTHAND;

Being a Critical Examination of the various Styles, with special reference to the question, which is the best English System of Shorthand?

By

THOMAS ANDERSON,

Author of "History of Shorthand," &c.

"That Mr. Anderson should be able to arrive at a sound and practical conclusion may be inferred from the fact that he has been a writer at intervals of phonography, Melville Bell's, Gurney's, Taylor's, and his own system of shorthand, and has also written a full and valuable history of the art."—Manchester Courier.

"We must say that there is a great deal of information crowded into small compass. At a time when shorthand is gaining an ascendancy in public attention previously unknown, we are sure that this little book by a practical man and an enthusiastic student of the history of shorthand, will be largely read."—Metropolitan.

"Youths about to learn shorthand should read this Catechism before making a start."—Western Times.

THE "VOICE OF INDIA."

TO THE PUBLIC OPINION OF THE PEOPLE
OF INDIA.

THERE are in England large classes willing and anxious to do justice to India, but they find it very difficult to know how to act. They complain that Indian questions are intricate; that the opinions of official experts are contradictory; and that the people of India are dumb, and do not give expression to their needs. This defect is now remedied by publishing FORNIGHTLY (in Bombay) a magazine
somewhat similar in nature to Public Opinion in England, which provides a compendium of all that is most valuable in the native journals throughout India on the leading topics of the day. The Voice of India thus gives forth a clear sound, interpreting between the rulers and the ruled, and making known the true wishes and feelings of the Indian people.

The Magazine advocates no views of its own. It seeks only to reflect with care and accuracy the views set forth in the native press. The Indian people are naturally docile and conservative; and it will be seen that the writings
thus brought before the English public are characterised by a knowledge of facts, and generally by practical good sense and moderation. No doubt grievances are from time to time being set forth; but it is a policy of prudence
no less than of justice to give these grievances a fair constitutional hearing. Accordingly, it is hoped that this publication will be subscribed for by Members of Parliament and other public men desirous of dealing with Indian questions, and that the facts thus brought together in a convenient form will be of value to journalists and other public writers. It is specially desired to bring the Magazine before the public in Clubs, Reading-rooms, Libraries, and Institutes throughout
England, with a view to promote a sustained and intelligent interest in the welfare of our Indian Empire, comprising as it does 220 millions of our fellow-subjects.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, JULY 14, 1884.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, June 23; Madras and Allahabad, May 23; Calcutta, May 22.

As we have put before our readers indications, in more than one article, of a suspicion rather widely entertained in the Indian Press, that Mr. Hunter's deputation to England was devised merely for the purpose of providing an efficient advocatus diaboli at home, it is only fair to that gentleman to mention that the thanks of the Secretary of State in Council have been accorded to him for the able way in which he has discharged the duties entrusted to him by Lord Ripon and the Government of India, in connection with the Select Committee of the House of Commons on East India Railways.

We are glad to learn that the St. James's Hall demonstration of the 25th ult. against the Bengal Tenancy Bill has been followed up by energetic expressions of public opinion hostile to the Bill in India. Private telegrams that have been received in London state that further meetings will shortly be held throughout Bengal and Behar, and on the 29th ult. a large and most influential meeting of the zemindars of Behar was held at Mozufferpore. Strong resolutions were unanimously passed, protesting against the confiscatory provisions of the Bill. Further, a resolution was unanimously carried that, in the opinion of the meeting, the value of landed property in Behar had already considerably decreased owing to the recent action of the Government of India, and that the Government ought not to shrink from appointing a Commission of Inquiry.

Another of Mr. Gladstone's "little wars!" This time, our peace-loving and war-waging Liberal Government finds itself compelled to despatch a strong expedition against no less a personage than Shah Jehan—the "Lord of the World"—chief of Zhob; and 13,500 British and Indian Infantry, including the North Staffordshire regiment, 400 cavalry, two half batteries of artillery (one English, one native), with a strong contingent furnished by our ally the Khan of Khelat, will shortly march against the new foe.

The story goes that a well known gentleman at the India Office declares that the composition of the artillery of this expeditionary force is characteristic of the present Government—they always do things "by halves."

In addition to the very strong force detailed above—a force that would have more than sufficed for the rescue long ago of General Gordon—there is some talk of a second column being despatched to support it from India. So there is evidently some very tough work expected, though the Government of India wisely minimises the importance of the business.

The Amir of Kabul has sent orders to the Mir of Maimana to permit the "party of Russians" to proceed to Herat. It may safely be predicted that this nice little "party" will prove to be the harbingers of a good many more.

The quotations from The Voice of India, given by the Calcutta correspondent of the Times to-day, show conclusively that native public opinion is at one with us on the subject of the Simla migration. We deal with this in our leading columns.

The news from Indore is serious, and exactly of a piece with all the other indications of the disintegrating effect of Lord Ripon's weak rule on the Indian Empire. We reserve all comments until further details are received. After all, the "atrocities" of which we are now told are only the counterpart of those which Radical misgovernment has produced in Ireland, and is supporting in Egypt. It is the old story, ever repeated, when Radicalism gets the upper hand among us—delirant reges, plectuntur Achivi.

THE Indian revenue statement, just issued, shows "slackness of trade," "diminished export of rice," increased expenditure on opium, and so forth—mere trifles when weighed against the privilege of being governed by such a benevolent Viceroy as Lord Ripon, and such a wise legislator as Mr. Ilbert.

COLONEL T. PRENDERGAST B. WALSH, of the Conservative Club, London, has been invited, in the event of a dissolution of Parliament, to contest the borough of Bewdley. Colonel Walsh is the lineal descendant of the Walsh family, of Abberley, near Stourport, and of Shelsley Walsh, Worcestershire, one of the oldest Worcestershire families mentioned in "Nash's History of Worcestershire, Abberley Hall at that time being the seat of the Walsh family. Colonel T. Prendergast B. Walsh is a member of the Conservative and Constitutional Clubs, London, and Fellow of the Royal Asiatic Society, and is a gentleman having estates in Middlesex and in the county Cavan.

FROM the Hindoo Patriot we regret to learn that Bengal has lost another worthy son. Dr. Uday Chand Dutt, Civil Medical Officer, Serampore, is dead. He died suddenly of heart disease on the morning of the 5th instant. Born in 1834, and educated first at the Oriental Seminary and then at the Hare school, he completed his academical education at the Calcutta Medical College, where he passed the final examination with great distinction, obtaining the first diploma and the gold medal of his year (1855). He was at once appointed a sub-assistant surgeon and served in that capacity at Tumlook, Gya, and Bhagulpore. During this period he so distinguished himself that in 1866 he was appointed Civil Medical officer of a district; and in this capacity he served successively at Puri, Purulia, Noakhali, Maldah, and Purridfore before his appointment to the important station of Serampore. While at Purulia his comprehensive report on sanitation in Bengal attracted the special attention of Government. Beginning his Sanscrit studies at Puri, he became in the course of a few years well versed in the Hindu system of medicine, and translated the Nidan into Bengali. But the work for which he will be long remembered is his English treatise on the Materia Medica of the Hindus, published in 1877. This work was favourably received both here and in England. He was engaged in an English translation of the Susruta at the request of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, but it has not pleased Providence to permit him to fulfil the task. Dr. Udaychand was a self-made man. Left a poor orphan at the early age of seven, he rose by his individual efforts to the proud position he occupied. He was not only a good English scholar and a master of the healing art, but a man that inspired esteem and affection. Those who had the honour of his acquaintance know what an earnest worker, honest thinker, and thorough and amiable gentleman he was. His death is mourned by a large circle of friends, relatives, and admirers.

UNDER the auspices of the East Indian Association, a meeting of naturalists, planters, sportsmen, and others interested in the affairs of India, was held on Friday, July 11, at the rooms of the Zoological Society, under the presidency of Professor Flower, LL.D., F.R.S. (Director of the British Museum, Natural History Department; and President of the Zoological Society), for the purpose of urging the necessity of Government measures for the preservation of wild birds in India.

The principal address was delivered by Mr. Robert H. Elliot, sometime planter of Mysore, and a well-known writer upon Indian topics. He pointed out that every civilised Government, with the exception of that of India, has recognised the value of birds as insect-eaters, and has adopted measures for their preservation; and that the absence of legislation forebodes, where it has not yet presented, serious results to planters and agriculturists. As the most convenient season for the destruction of birds is during the fine weather that succeeds the monsoons, and as this season is only the breeding time, the destruction of insect-eating birds proceeds at such a rate as must soon lead to almost absolute extermination unless preservative measures are immediately adopted. There was a general agreement in the meeting that legislation on the subject is imperatively required, and it was resolved that a representation to that effect should be addressed to the Government of India.

THE Times of India says:—

"Mr. Justice Bayley has, we learn, been taken suddenly ill, and is ordered home on short leave next month. This leaves an unexpected opening in the High Court at a very awkward time. Mr. Latham, the Advocate-General, is away on leave, and Mr. Farran, who is acting for him, will scarcely care to take an acting appointment on the Bench which would give him no future claim, and which would at this busy time of year entail a heavy loss of income. It is the same, of course, with all the barristers in large practice. There is one barrister, however, who has a distinct claim on the appointment, and we trust he will not be forgotten—we mean Mr. Serjeant Atkinson, who in the days of Sir Michael Westropp officiated more than once. In appointing Mr. Serjeant Atkinson to act for Mr. Justice Bayley, the Government would not only do a graceful act to the veteran member of the Bombay Bar, but would gratify all sections of the native community with whom the Serjeant has for a number of years been extremely popular."

THE Englishman gives the following account of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected up to Saturday, June 21:—

"The advance for 2s. 6d. for steamer tonnage obtained two weeks ago has been lost again, and rates have receded to their old figures. Very little business has been done during the week. Sailing ships have likewise not been great in demand, but rates have been maintained through the firmness of the owners, who do not press their ships on the market, and just bring out as much tonnage as is wanted. One ship took the London berth, and two accepted New York charters. Arrivals have been few, and our unfixed tonnage stands reduced to 36,000 tons. A fair amount of tonnage is however due."

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

THE following are the general remarks of the Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ended June 11:—

"Rain has fallen more or less generally in the Madras Presidency, Mysore, British Burma, Assam and the North Western Provinces and Oudh. In Bengal the fall was heavy in many districts. There have also been showers in parts of Bombay, Punjab, Central India, and Rajputana. Harvesting has been completed in parts of the Madras Presidency. Standing crops are generally in good or fair condition, except in Malabar, where they have been much injured by want of rain. Locusts still exist in parts of Kurnool, where they are injuring the fruit gardens. In Mysore agricultural prospects continue favourable, but rain is greatly needed in Coorg for the ragi crop, for ploughing, and also for coffee. In the Bombay Presidency kharif sowings continue in several districts, though rain is wanted to facilitate operations. Preparations for kharif in Berar and for rabi in the Nizam's territories are in progress. Ploughing for kharif has commenced in Central India and Rajputana, where agricultural prospects are generally good. In the Punjab, kharif ploughings and sowings are in progress. In the North Western Provinces and Oudh ploughing is commencing in anticipation of the rains, and showers have already benefited the cane crops. Scarcity of fodder and water is felt in some districts, but the condition of cattle remains good. Preparations for kharif are in active progress in the Central Provinces. In Bengal sowing of aus and amun crops still continues, and paddy, lil and mung

—the last in Bhaugapur—are being reaped, with good out-turn. Jute, sugarcane, early paddy, and cheena (millet) are doing well. Sowings continue in Assam and ploughing has commenced in British Burma. Small-pox and cholera are generally prevalent, but are abating in the North Western Provinces, Punjab, and British Burma. Prices are rising in parts of Bengal, the North Western Provinces and Oudh, and Punjab; elsewhere they are generally stationary.

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

From the correspondent of the Times, Calcutta, July 10:—

"The Ameer has not yet answered the despatch regarding the Frontier Delimitation Commission; but it is known that he is pleased with the prospect of the appointment of a Commission, and ready to co-operate.

"It has been suggested that the Commission should take the route followed by Sir John Malcolm in 1810—namely, from Quetta to Nushki, and thence through the Diruch Desert to Narestad, in Eastern Persia; thus reaching Meshed without entering Afghan territory, and avoiding the fanatical tribes between Candahar and Herat.

"The details have been received of the raids last month on Agror, in the British district of Hazara. Two hundred Akazais and Khanakbel Hassanzais attacked Beligan; while the Parari Sayads and Chigharzaïs made a demonstration against Dilbori. At Beligan the Agroris, with the assistance of some friendly Hassanzais, repulsed the raiders, losing four killed and fourteen wounded; while the enemy lost three killed. A detachment of British troops, from Ughi, was present, but was not engaged.

"A correspondent at Hyderabad writes as follows:—

"The stories of the Nizam's and his Minister's drunkenness and debauchery are malicious inventions. The Administration is not nearly so bad as is made out; and honest efforts are being made to reform its admitted defects. The danger attaching to Hyderabad as a possible, or actual, centre of Mussulman intrigue, and a focus of disloyalty, is at least as much exaggerated as is its military strength. Sir Salar Jung left no real successor, and Hyderabad, instead of being a battlefield for politics, bids fair to sink into a field of battle for the opposing railway gauges. All the authorities, except the Indian Government, wish the line to be constructed on the narrow gauge system."

THE following is the usual weekly telegram from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated July 13:—

"A report has reached Lahore that a party of Russians recently crossed the Oxus at Karki, forty miles north-west of Khoja Saleh, and sent a message to the Mir of Maimena asking permission to travel through Maimena to Herat. The Governor of Karki, which is subject to Bokhara, detained the Russians twelve days, but allowed them to proceed on receipt of orders to that effect from the Ameer.

"The chief member of the Frontier Delimitation Commission will be appointed by the Home Government, but his assistants may possibly be selected in India, which country will supply an escort. The Ministry will determine the strength of this escort. It is believed that there is no intention of giving the British Commissioner any distinct instructions regarding the boundary line to be proposed; indeed, the ignorance of the geography and circumstances of the region in question prevents the Government from doing so. It is proposed that the British and Russian Commissioners shall meet at Sarakhs about October 1. The Ameer has acknowledged the receipt of the information given him concerning the Commission. He expresses himself as much pleased, and promises to afford every facility in the way of local information and supplies.

"Shah Jehan, chief of Zhob, has rejected all overtures, and seems determined to try conclusions with the British Government. The expedition which has been sanctioned will consist of about 3,500 infantry, including the North Staffordshire Regiment, 400 cavalry, and two half-batteries of mountain artillery, of which one will be European. The Khan of Khelat will give a contingent of 600 Brahoes and Beluchees under his Sirdars. General Tanner will be in command of the force, and Sir Robert Sandeman will accompany it as political officer. Very little opposition is expected, as the chiefs of the Utman Khel Kakars and of several other leading Kakar tribes are friendly. Possibly a second column may be despatched from India to act independently, thus enabling the troops to traverse and survey a wider area.

"The native magazine, the Voice of India, thus summarises the opinions of the native press on the question of Government from the hills:—

"The native newspapers show a strong consensus of opinion against the practice of different Governments of passing most of their time away from the centres of administration. The practice is opposed as involving unnecessary expense and serious inconvenience to the public, besides being impolitic in itself.

"The Mahratta sympathises with the movement set on foot in Madras, but does not think that the objection applies with equal force to the Government of Bombay. A similar view is taken by the Subadah Patrika and Rast Gofar, which latter discusses the whole question in a series of well-written articles. The Hindoo Patriot, Indian Mirror, Amrita Bazaar Patrika, and others, denounce the practice altogether. Other journals, like the Indian Spectator, the Fame Yamshed, and the Indian Prakash, are moderate in their opposition.

"The Amrita Bazaar Patrika would like to see the native community making common cause with the Anglo-Indians, while the Samachar warns them against such an alliance. But a protest has gone forth from all the native writers calling upon the Government either to give up the annual migrations altogether or to limit the official stay in the hills to three months at the most.

"Colonel Bannerman, the British Resident in Indore, is engaged in an inquiry into the acts of barbarity and oppression alleged to have been committed by Holkar's heir. Some of the cases brought forward would, if true, prove that the young Prince is a monster of cruelty. Thus, he is said to have caused a village to be burnt down because the noise made by the villagers annoyed him. He is charged with having tortured men and women, and with having ruined the merchants by the wholesale confiscation of their goods. It is reported that business is almost at a standstill in Indore; that something like a panic prevails; and that the Europeans go about armed with revolvers.

"Meanwhile Holkar has been pressing upon the Viceroy a quantity of evidence regarding the question of his loyalty during the mutiny—a question which Lord Ripon unwisely allowed him to re-open. He has proposed to visit Simla, in order to press his claims personally, but he now states that the Viceroy refuses to receive him until the inquiry into his son's conduct is finished. For some time past, Holkar has been in bad odour with the Government. Recent events are not likely to improve his position, and people are now recalling the attempt to smuggle 60,000 Martini-Henry cartridges into Indore, which was detected two or three years ago, and the rumours which have been afloat of his storing munitions of war and training artillery and horse regiments.

"A memorial, praying the Lieutenant Governor to call the Calcutta Corporation to account for its neglect of sanitation has received over 1,000 signatures, including those of the Chief Justice and Judges of the High Court, the Bishop of Calcutta, the Vicar-Apostolic of Bengal, and Surgeon General, the President of the Chamber of Commerce, the Advocate General, and the majority of the Bar; in fact, almost the entire European community. It is to be hoped that this strong expression of feeling will induce Mr. Rivers Thompson to deal with the matter promptly and vigorously.

"The preliminary statement of receipts and payments for April and May last shows that the civil revenue during the first two months of the financial year was exactly the same amount as in the corresponding period of last year—namely, 23,000,000 rupees. But this is the net result of a number of variations under different heads. Thus, the land revenue, salt, stamps, excise, forests, and tributes all show an increase; while there is a decrease in opium, customs, registration, and under the head of 'other civil revenue.' The expenditure on opium is greatly in excess of that of last year.

"The railways brought in somewhat less revenue, owing to the slackness of trade. The falling off in the customs was due to the diminished export of rice. Military receipts are three lakhs less and military payment two lakhs more than in the corresponding account of last year. The closing cash balance of May is 11,55,00,000 rupees, against 12,89,00,000 rupees last year."

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

REMINISCENCES OF AN INDIAN OFFICIAL.*

GENERAL SIR ORFEUR CAVENAGH has had a life of more varied experience than usually falls to the lot of most public servants, even in India. Originally an officer of Native Infantry, he got into the Irregular Cavalry—in which he saw much service—and was appointed to the political charge of the Nepalese mission, when the late Sir Jang Bahadin visited this country. After a pleasant visit to London, under circumstances of very peculiar advantage, he was appointed Town Major of Fort William, and in that post was of considerable use to Lord Canning, during the troublous days of the Mutiny. He was thence promoted to the Governorship of the Straits Settlements, and was the last "company's officer" who ever held that honourable situation. The last chapter of the book relates Sir Orfeur's life at Singapore and his interviews with the many distinguished men who touched there in going to the far East, or returning thence. Many amusing and interesting particulars of Malay and Chinese habits and character are given; and the whole chapter is spirited and intelligent.

One of the best things about the book is the reproduction of the opinions of some of the remarkable men with whom this varied career brought the author in contact. Jung Bahadin's opinion of the Chinese, as recorded in page 108, would be good reading for anyone desirous of precasting the probable result of any war that may arise between China and a first-class European power.

Among the distinguished men who from time to time visited the author at Singapore were Lord Elgin, Baron Gros, Count Eulenberg, Captain Semmes, of the Alabama, the King of the Belgians, and Raja Brooke.

One of the most startling things in the book is the part about the "Jacoons," or wild men of Malacca, who really almost appear to be the "Missing Link," of which we hear so much. The missionaries have got hold of them; and in a few more years there will be a number of savage proselytes, and an end to a curious ethnological piece of evidence.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE DUTCH ACHEEN AND THE NISERO.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

THERE are two points of special moment worth recording that arise out of the affair of the Nisero, and Thursday week's debate. One is political in its nature and permanent in its significance; the other incidental and retrospective; but both are instructive for men who have ears to hear. As to the former, the warning of Moses, the man of God, speaks to politicians and diplomatists—"Be sure your sin will find you out," which, when found (in the book of Numbers XXXII, v. 23) by Lord Edward Fitzmaurice, I would advise him to make a note of, instead of chattering about Lord Castlereagh. The sin was plain, but all too common even in this our day, as witness the recent attempt by Lord Edward and his colleagues to sell to the Portuguese the birthright of certain chiefs and tribes on the Congo. The sin, not of Lord Castlereagh only, but of our Foreign Office sixty years ago, was that of making over to the tender mercies of the King of the Netherlands the Sultan of Achéén and his dependent Rajahs, of whom this man of Tenom is one of the successors. In 1819 the Honourable East India Company made a treaty of amity and good neighbourhood with the said Sultan of Achéén; but in 1824, as our records tell us, the Foreign Office of Whitehall, after very cursory consultation with the then Governor-General of India, and without so much as "by your leave" to the Sultan of Achéén, swept that Malay sovereignty, with its dependent chiefdoms, into the hands of the Dutch. Now, as the Sultan had been a good friend of the Company, he might at that time fairly say, after the manner of the oysters to the carpenter—

"After such kindness

That would be a dismal thing to do!"

But it seems a "confident expectation" was expressed—it does not appear by whom—that "no hostile measures" would be undertaken by the Dutch against the Achéén; and, as we know, the attempt to gobble them up was not set about until 1870. That attempt was not quite successful; and now, after long years, one of the oysters proves to have sufficient vitality to close his shell on this unlucky British crew, whom "the act of God"—a very meaning phrase in this instance—has thrown in the way of the still vital bivalve, to whose taste we are made of no more account than Dutchnen. This may seem hard lines to the two great "G.'s" and the half-fledged Under-Secretary; but such is the stern law of the Higher Power. The sin of selling other people's birthrights has found out its scape-goats.

The other lesson taught by the present woful plight of the ship's company of the Nisero is one of more circumscribed scope, and its special significance in the present instance can only be fully realised by those who have known some of the officers of the old Indian Navy whose record is written in all the histories of "the Straits," and further eastern waters, as well as those of "the Gulf" and the Arabian Sea, on this side of India. These practical diplomatists and intrepid captains knew how to deal with Malay Rajahs and Arab Sheiks—ignorantly styled barbarians. One of those Indian navy captains, instead of barbarously shelling the Rajah of Tenom as the clumsy Dutch have done, would, through the vernacular, have heard his case and arranged for the rescue of the crew on the spot. In these days we have telegrams and Royal Navy gunboats; but there is no longer an Indian Navy—hence these muddles.—Yours, &c.,

COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN NORTH AND SOUTH INDIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—Can you induce Colonel Malleon to publish an essay, giving the history of communications between North and South India?

In A.D. 1294 the Mahommedans first attempted to penetrate from the plain of the Ganges into the Dekhan. One of the chief cities of the lower Doab was at that time Kurrah, on the West Bank of the Ganges, forty-five miles North West of Allahabad; from it Allahooden managed to lead 8,000 chosen horse to Ellichpoor, whether by Kallinjer or by some other route Colonel Malleon may be able to inform us.

From Ellichpoor Allahooden marched to Deogiri, now Dolutabad, seven miles North West of Aurungabad.

The grand route from Northern India to the Dekhan appears to have been either through Malwa to Aurungabad, or through Goozerat to the same city; attempts were made at times to penetrate to Warungol (the capital of East Dekhan), through Bengal and Orissa, but the best imperial generals preferred the route through Aurungabad and Beder.

It is since our conquest of India that the great Dekhan road through Jubulpoor and Nagpoor has been opened. If the Mahommedan Emperors had known of this military route through Godwana they would not have been so much troubled in guarding and defending that by Asseergurh and Boorhanpoor. Last year the goods traffic between South and North India, between Bombay and Allahabad by Boorhanpoor, was interrupted for a whole month by the destruction of two railway bridges over tributaries of the Taptee river. When at some future time the Asseergurh route shall have been closed by rebels, we will be very thankful if we then enjoy railway communication via Nagpoor. Of all military works in India, a railway from Jubulpoor and Ramptee is the work most urgently required.—Your obedient servant,

July 12.

SELECTED ARTICLES.

THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL AND TEA ESTATES.

THE Bengal Tenancy Bill possesses a great deal of interest to the tea planting community, and some surprise is expressed at the apathy which has hitherto been displayed in the matter by that body. When it is considered how strongly their action assisted the hands of the Defence Council in the matter of the Ilbert Bill, the astonishment becomes greater, and it may fairly be imagined that they have not yet grasped the danger that is threatening the fixity of the tenure of many portions of the vast estates now under tea cultivation. It is true that a few estates might be gainers by the principle involved in the Bill, but these are but few, and by no means constitute even a respectable minority. That in former years many gardens were opened out on plots of land without the smallest vestige of title on the part of the speculators, as they may be termed, beyond the fact of possession, arguing probably on the grounds that possession was nine points of the law, no doubt exists; but, in these more sober times, it is but seldom such a course is pursued. In days when huge tracts of land were applied for under one of the two rules known as fee simple, or mhum dhurie, very often, if any area were cultivated before the sale by public auction took place, which was one of the conditions of the former rules, in case of any dread of competition, a transfer was made to the mhum dhurie rules, which meant nothing more or less than a leasehold tenure renewable on expiry. Ordinarily this transfer was made in the name of only one, the original, applicant, who had probably no capital, but had been able to induce capitalists to put such in, he throwing in the land as his share. It may not be generally known, but is nevertheless true, that a very large portion of the present area of tea under cultivation has thus been opened up, and, had it not been for the prospects in view, so many intrepid hearts would not have been found to plunge into the depths of the Assam forests and bring Indian tea into its present prominent position. The malarious fevers of the swamps and jungles were viewed as nothing by a determined planter when he had a four anna share in expectation for his trouble, and a hope of making himself a comfortable pittance after a few years' labour; but now how can this be done with safety? Any intrepid planter may still explore new jungles and get friends at home to put in their capital, and, provided he remains amongst friends, may come out all right; but on the other hand, should he fall among the Philistines instead of getting his share for his trouble, those who advanced the money to commence clearing operations may sit by for a short time, and then say; "No! you have no right to take up land and transfer it to us; as occupants, we are proprietors." Such is one of the phases of the Bengal Tenancy Bill, and it is seriously calculated to adversely influence the development of tea cultivation if applied to Assam, and what security is there it will not be so applied? Again, who is to say, if the manager allows his coolies to cultivate portions of his lands unfit for tea, that the land does not become the property of the coolies by very right of occupancy? Whatever the benefit to the few might be, it is probable that the general advancement of the industry will be seriously endangered unless the planters put their best foot forward and unite with their Aryan brethren cultivators of the soil, and assist in averting the threatened danger. Whatever may have been the difference that existed with regard to the Ilbert Bill, here but one opinion should exist, and where there is unity there is strength. In one or two parts of Assam some small meetings have been held to protest, but were the planters aware how seriously endangered are their interests, there would probably have been bumper meetings throughout all the tea districts ere this, protesting against such iniquitous disregard of rights as is contemplated in the Bengal Tenancy Bill. The planting body has only to look at the extreme and rigorous regulations with which Government considers it necessary to surround the beneficial immigration which annually takes place into the tea districts to know that it is with but little sympathy anything likely to lead to an increase in commerce, or to fostering an industry for the benefit of a European capitalist in any way, would be viewed by the present powers that be. It is only when it has been clearly demonstrated that their own position is in danger, that the Government will yield. It is, therefore, advisable for the tea planting community to be forewarned, which is to be forearmed, for if the Bengal Tenancy Bill is passed, the Permanent Settlement will be endangered and what is to prevent an interference on lands appertaining to tea estates of very much more recent settlement than anything in Bengal?—Englishman.

THE DEMARCATION OF AFGHANISTAN.

It is a matter for reflection whether a definite demarcation between Afghan and Russian territory in Central Asia is an object that the Indian Government should be very solicitous about. Some time ago, in fact from about the entry into office of the present Government in England, various suggestions have been put forth in the hopes of peaceably and diplomatically restraining the onward rush of Russian conquest. It has been argued that a formal treaty between England and Russia, based on the recognition of the latter's conquest up to a certain determinate limit, would act as a moral barrier, and in observance of international principles Russia would stop her advance towards the confines of our Indian empire. Although the virtual annexations of Khiva and Bokhara were, in 1872, declared by the Russian Foreign Office as beyond the sphere of their intentions, and although the absorption of Merv was disclaimed by M. de Giers in precisely the same terms, experience has shown that, in spite of these diplomatic protests and disclaimers, events have been too strong for the bonds of diplomatic engagement. Without impugning the good faith of these assurances at the time they were made, it is evident that, bearing that experience in view, also the rupture of the treaty of Paris regarding the Black Sea clauses, it would be sheer imbecility to trust the Russians. The expansion of Russia now in progress, stimulated by a variety of internal causes, is a force that, as the last fifteen years prove, is too strong to be restrained by moral considerations. Her diplomats may formally undertake to restrain the action of her frontier generals, and these may also wish to conform to their instructions; but, obedient to this expansive impulse, district after district is absorbed and annexed, and an extension of territory, resembling in its action to the former expansion of England in this country, has been the result. We annexed district after district and province after province until the tide of our conquests was brought to a full stop by the physical restraints of the mountain barriers of India. Similarly the wave of Russian annexation has swept from the north over the limitless plains of Central Asia. The opposition, except at Geok Tepe, has been in a military point of view not of a formidable nature, a fact attributable to the character of the country. There is no reason to suppose the full tide of Russian progress in Central Asia has yet reached its natural limit. It is probable, therefore, that until some natural obstacle, such as the Hindu Koosh, be encountered, Russia may find it impossible to respect any limit that political considerations, based on accomplished facts, may demarcate. The delimitation of a boundary may be effected with the mutual consent of the contracting States, both at the same time believing in the permanency of the then conditions, and yet, after the lapse of a few years, the dictates of expediency may prove superior to the most solemn engagements.

It may reasonably be assumed that, so long as the limits of the Central Asian provinces of Russia satisfied the conditions for the expansion, commercially and politically, that at this present time actuates Russian progress, such a frontier would be respected, but past experience affords no guarantee that, when the time came that this state of things ceased, Russia would still abide by the terms of a treaty defining Russo-Afghan limits. England is bound from past experience to think that such treaty clauses would be deliberately disregarded, as has hitherto been the case with similar understandings with Russia. If a treaty is to be observed honourably, that is, in spite of the disadvantages that may be entailed by respecting its conditions, it has a high international value; but, under existing circumstances, the only value in effecting a treaty with Russia, is as a test of the expansive energies of her existing policy. If the broken clauses of the Treaty of Paris, and the unfulfilled assurances with regard to Khiva, Bokhara, and Merv may be taken as records of the working of a mendacious diplomacy, either deliberate or ultra vires no one can say that such a record is valueless. It serves as a warning, it prevents our resting in fancied security, oblivious of the political avalanche the with every added square mile accumulates more energy and power.

If, therefore, a mission is to leave India to settle or to enable others to settle a Russo-Afghan frontier by a ratified treaty, it must be understood that such a treaty is only an additional test or gauge. By its observance or disregard our statesmen will be able assuredly to judge whether the expansive force of Russian aggrandisement is exhausted, or whether it is still active and aggressive. Viewed as a precautionary and protective measure, there is much to recommend in the reported intention of Government to engage in active measures for the acquisition of the essential information requisite and indispensable as a preliminary to international negotiations. It was pointed out in a recent article that the information available as regards the topography and physical features of the belt of country within which a possible demarcating line may be agreed upon is excessively meagre. In fact, beyond a collection of travellers' tales, there is nothing to guide an inquiry on the question of a suitable frontier. No doubt there may be difficulties to be surmounted before such a mission can be got fairly to work; but it is well worth the expense and the risk.

A settlement of a frontier, to be mutually respected by Russians and Afghans, may be arrived at, and if England be not infatuated into regarding such an arrangement as any but a temporary compromise, it will be well. Our preparations should not be relaxed for taking action whenever the limits of what we consider the absolute range of our influence are invaded. Any treaty should be considered by us only as affording a measure of the activity hostile to our interests, and as to the manner and mode in which it may be evaded or deliberately broken. The limits of expansion which Russian statesmen desire to attain are frontiers continuous with the actual territory of a responsible power. The tribal organisations prevalent throughout Central Asia have hitherto presented no marked limits. The interdependence of the Turcoman tribes has been fatal to their escape from the assimilating grasp of the Czar's policy. Although it cannot correctly be stated that the Amir of Kabul rules Afghanistan with equal authority throughout his dominions, when contrasted with the tribal systems and the minor khanates with whom Russia has hitherto had to deal the Amir, has well-recognised claims to be considered as the head of a responsible Government. This question of responsibility is one of a very delicate nature, and if we appear on the projected mission, as seems inevitable as sponsors for our Afghan neighbours, the utmost caution on the part of our diplomatists will be necessary to avoid involving us in any arrangements by which we should be held responsible for the actions of the Afghans on the Russian border. It would ill suit the finances of India should we be under the necessity, in pursuance of treaty obligations, to undertake punitive expeditions to redress wrongs committed by Afghans against the Russians. At the same time, as the Amir must necessarily be a party to any treaty that may be made, the element of responsibility for raids, extradition of criminals, arrest of debtors and deserters, will be a factor that Russia will not neglect, as she can adduce examples and precedents in her treaties with other Moslem Governments. Her Consuls in Turkey and Persia are vested with great executive authority secured to them by treaty. The attainment of such concessions will be a great object of Russian diplomacy, and it is to be hoped that we shall not involve ourselves in the meshes of a responsibility for which we cannot be answerable. At the same time, if Russia undertakes to respect the undefended Afghan border, it will only be on the understanding that her grievances are to be redressed. She cannot permit her border villages to be harried and looted any more than we can. Possibly some such tacit understanding as exists between ourselves and the Amir with regard to our frontier tribes may be arrived at. The belt of ragged rascaldom that fringes our border is certainly even less under the nominal authority of the Amir than the tribes north of the Hindu Koosh. Still a species of suzerainty exists; but this fact is not allowed to weigh when the expediency of punitive measures arises. Possibly an analogous arrangement might be thought out, but whereas we are only too fond of retiring out of a country as soon as our object is attained, the Russians are just as prone to remain.—Englishman.

INDIAN LAW COSTS.

A DOCUMENT has just been issued by the Calcutta High Court which will prove rather an eye-opener for any legal readers who may happen to peruse it. It relates to the vexed question of counsels' fees, but settles them in a very different way to that pursued in this country. There are two main provisions in the ordinance, one relating to barristers and the other to attorneys, and the upshot of the regulations is that the former are to get twice as much for their work as the latter. A barrister who is "employed" may be allowed a fee not exceeding 68 rupees in cases within a limit of 500 rupees, and so on in like manner, the maximum of fees averaging something rather less than 10 per cent. on the value of the case. But if two barristers are employed in a small case it can only be by leave of the court, and whether they are employed so or in larger cases the second is to receive no more than the first. Such a rule in England would be rather badly received by the eminent Q.C.'s who now make most out of their profession. But the most startling part of the rules is that which relates to the other branch of the profession. When an attorney is employed he shall receive for all his work and labour in the matter—all his attendances and conferences, and letter reading and letter writing, and attending court—a paltry fee of 32 rupees in cases not exceeding 500 rupees, and so on in like manner upon a scale about half as high as that of the barrister. These are strange provisions when contrasted with our own practice in this country, where, if a barrister gets ten guineas out of a case, it may generally be taken for granted that the solicitor gets at least £20, and generally a good deal more.—Globe.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE BENGAL LETTER FURTHER CONSIDERED.

WE have already given our opinion on the Bengal Government's plan of conference on the Tenancy Bill. We will now consider the instructions in detail. Opinions are invited, inquiries suggested, and informations asked about its most salient provisions. It would have been more in accordance with established practice in such cases if this process had been gone through before the Bill was introduced into Council. The Government would then have been in a position to know precisely the local conditions of Bengal and Behar and the extent to which they could be met by a legislative remedy; but now the Bill is fully developed and thoroughly constructed, and if now its authors or advocates seek official testimony in respect to its debatable features, such a course is open to the remark that it is like an endeavour to collect evidence in support of a prosecution after a return of a verdict of guilty on a criminal charge. Considering that it has been mainly inspired, if not entirely composed, by the Government of Bengal, and remembering the strong sympathies which it has evoked from those who constitute the official entourage of that Government, it is almost hopeless to expect anything like a fair summing up of the case, a just exposition of both sides of the controversy from the Bengal Secretariat; in fact, in more places than one the prejudice of the partisan is openly betrayed; for instance, in para. 6 of the letter alluding to the presumption about the uniform payment of rent for twenty years embodied in section 64 of the Bill, Mr. Secretary MacDonnell writes: "This presumption is perhaps one of the most valuable provisions which the Bill contains in the interest of the ryots. It is a reasonable presumption inasmuch as if it be contrary to the facts, it throws on the landlord no greater burden of proof than in ordinary cases he should easily be able to discharge." We doubt very much whether, after this expression of opinion from the head of the local administration, there would be found in the official answers to the letters any strong enunciation of an adverse view. Take, again, the important subject connected with the definition of a settled ryot. Clause 2 of section 26 of the Bill says that, if it is proved or admitted that if a person holds land as a ryot, it shall, as between him and his landlord, be presumed that he has held it for twelve years until the contrary is shown. On a point so diametrically opposed to the present state of the law, and so startling in its novelty and its injustice, not a single question is proposed to be asked to the experts; on the contrary, the Secretary reminds the Commissioners that "the definition of the settled ryot"—of which the presumption we have just alluded to is the most vital ingredient—"the definition of the settled ryot is not now open to general discussion," but it will be tedious to multiply instances.

We are glad to observe that his honour the Lieutenant-Governor invites discussion with regard to that very vexed question, the expediency of the distinction as made by the Bill between the tenure-holder and the occupancy rayat, and its probable effect on the rural economy of the country. It is clear as noon-day that if occupancy tenants be clothed with the power of alienation, their tenures will inevitably gravitate in the near future to the powerful class of money-lenders; this is admitted. "It is recognised," says the letter "that the formal recognition by the Bill of the transferability of occupancy rights may tend to the purchase of such rights by money-lenders (whom it is not the wish or object of the Government to benefit at the rayat's expense) and consequently to the rack-renting of the cultivators holding under such purchasers." Then it is explained that Section 37 of the Bill was introduced to secure that object, but as the Select Committee had apparently declined to accept the Lieutenant-Governor's view as to the principle of equality between occupancy and non-occupancy rates of rent, and to the adequate enforcement of that principle as an efficient safeguard against recovery of higher rate of rent by the purchaser of an occupancy right from his under-tenants than he himself pays, a serious difficulty has arisen and the whole subject of transferability of these rights and as to how such rights could be limited to the actual cultivators is to be carefully considered. It has always seemed to us that no device the legislature could ever frame would be sufficient to prevent occupancy rights falling into the hands of the money-lenders if such rights be made transferable. In the first place it would be a most difficult question to decide as to who would be a money-lender so as to come fairly within the ban which the Government wishes to proclaim. In every district most of the well-to-do ryots themselves are small bankers, and it will be simply impossible to work any law which would really include them and exclude pure money-lenders unconnected with the peasantry of the country. As the British Indian Association pointed out, it would be a grievous wrong to the interests of agriculture if a man be disqualified to contribute his capital for the improvement of land on the sole ground that he has been more thrifty than his neighbours; a ryot may save a few rupees or a few bushels of paddy, may lend them out and thus gradually attain the dignity and the position of village Mahajan, but he is no more nor less than a member and an important member, of the little agricultural community whose respect and confidence he enjoys. Would the Government of Bengal classify him in the same category with the astute Bhojpuria or the shrewd Maroari who is clothed with the associations which darkly cluster around the exacting usurer the hated Shylock, and the unpopular Jew of rural Bengal? If, you adopt a pecuniary standard of classification you fail miserably to eliminate those who are fit to be eliminated, and if you adopt a standard of nationality you simply render yourself ridiculous. The truth is, the population of Bengal is composed of elements which widely vary in their character. A motley group of divergent races and creeds meets your eye in every instance, and whenever you attempt to confine your legislative privileges to an artificially created class, the circumstances of the country baffle your impotent efforts and smile at your presumption.

If the Government is convinced that the moment the power of sale is conceded to occupancy ryots that power will be abused, and occupancy rights shall pass to those who are deemed to be beyond the pale of protection; better far would it be in the interests of the ryots themselves not to make the concession at all. If it is admitted that the tenants of Bengal are deplorably lacking in foresight and sadly disposed to borrow, then to place facilities whereby their inclinations in this respect can be successfully carried out would be the most unwise of measures. Already has the voice of experience warned the Government of the fate which is likely to overtake a hasty concession when made to an improvident race. Never were brighter hopes of success entertained than when free sale was proclaimed as the rayat's right throughout the length and the breadth of Santhalia in 1872; yet scarcely have twelve years gone by when the deputy commissioner of that district has been compelled by dire exigency to issue an imperative order lately prohibiting sale of rayati lands. It has been found that the professional money-lender was abroad, and that year by year he was obtaining a firmer and firmer grip on the cultivators of that part of the country. What guarantee is there that a similar result will not follow in the more fertile plains of the southern regions? But we have already exceeded the limits of an article, and will stop here for the present.—Hindoo Patriot.

INDIGO ZERATS IN BEHAR.

The Indian Daily News publishes a letter from the Government of Bengal to the Commissioner of the Patna Division, in which the question of Indigo Zerats in Behar is fully and ably discussed. We will not go into the facts of the particular case mentioned, but we will confine ourselves to the general question. We will reproduce here the remarks of Mr. Secretary MacDonnell on the subject:—

"Turning now to the more general aspect of the questions raised, the Lieutenant Governor regrets to find that in indigo districts in Behar, the practice of turning ryoti land into so-called zerat, or khamar or nij-jote under colour of thika leases, is still prevalent. Many improvements in the system of cultivating indigo have been introduced into Behar under the auspices of the Indigo Planters' Association; but this system of converting ryoti land into zerat, of which possession is retained by the planter and ultimately by the proprietor to the detriment of the ryot, is a most serious abuse, against which Sir Ashley Eden, so long as 1877, protested in the unofficial communication to the then Commissioner of Patna, which preceded the formation of the Planters' Association. To the extinction of this abuse, the Lieut. Governor earnestly trusts that both the Association and the executive officers of Government will devote their best efforts. In the particular case under notice, it does not appear that the manager of the factory forcibly converted these lands into zerat; but the Lieutenant Governor, from this correspondence, as well as from other sources of information, has reason to fear that the consent of ryots is not often an ingredient in the procedure of acquiring lands for indigo in villages leased out to factories. It is true that the Planters' Association has resolved—and the Lieutenant Governor has noticed the resolution with special satisfaction—not to countenance the acquisition of lands for indigo, except under the written consent of the ryot, and with specific conditions as to continuance of, and termination of, the contract. Adherence to that resolution will no doubt obviate many of the abuses inherent in the present system, but it would seem from this case, and from the 10th paragraph of the collector's letter of November 27, that the resolution of the Association has not yet been made a rule of action by planters generally. In the provisions of the Tenancy Bill, which enable the occupancy ryot to sublet, the planter will find an additional method of obtaining the land which he wants, while preserving intact the ryot's right to hold it, and while compensating him, which is certainly a necessary and reasonable condition, for its temporary loss. But until that provision becomes law, the Lieutenant Governor would be very glad indeed to find that the resolution of the Association, to which, in the last paragraph of your note of November 22, you refer, had gained a general adherence from all indigo planters in the Province. At all events, the forcible acquisition of lands under colour of thika leases is an illegality and an injustice to the people regarding which it is impossible to be silent; and the Lieutenant Governor, therefore, looks to you, and to the district officers of your division, to give your active support to the Planters' Association in suppressing such illegalities by all legal means. The Association's rule, which provides for the interchange of written agreements as evidence of such consent, would simplify and facilitate proceedings for the suppression of such illegalities.

The Indigo Zerats in Behar are undoubtedly based on a vicious system, but the practice is due more to official supineness than to anything else. If the officials of Behar had checked the growth of this system, it could not have spread its root and branch. There is indigo cultivation in Bengal, but we have never heard any dispute regarding the conversion of ryoti land into nij-jote or khamar by the planter or the zemindar. Mr. MacDonnell continues:—

No doubt it has been, and still is, to the advantage of proprietors in Behar to look without disfavour on this practice of converting ryoti into so-called Zerat lands; and herein, as this case very clearly shows, the objects of Zemindars have been to acquire possession of the lands after the termination of the planter's lease, and to treat them afterwards as khamar or nij-jote or demense land, in dealing with which the landlord's power is much less fettered by the law than it is in the case of ryoti land. It is very obvious, however, to the Lieutenant Governor that indigo Zerats, constituted in the manner of which this case furnishes an example, are clearly distinguishable from khamar or nij-jote or demense lands; and that they cannot be confounded with khamar or nij-jote lands without inflicting a serious injury on the cultivating classes throughout these provinces. The test or criterion of the khamar or nij-jote lands is cultivation, or holding for cultivation, by the owner, either directly or by means of hired labour. These indigo zerats fail altogether to fulfil the requisite conditions of that definition; and the sooner it is recognised by proprietors generally that the forcible acquisition of ryoti lands by thikadars will not avail per se to convert them into khamar or nij-jote, the greater chance will there be of the abandonment of a custom which has done, and if not suppressed, is likely to do, much harm to the country. The Lieutenant Governor will take an early opportunity of representing these views to the Government of India with the object of having them affirmed in the Tenancy Bill now before the Legislative Council.—I have, &c.

This question suggests another important question. If the planters be enabled to buy out the occupancy holdings, they will not care to convert ryoti lands into Zerats. Anyhow, they want the ryot's land, and let Mr. MacDonnell ponder over that.—Hindoo Patriot.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

The Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab returned to Simla from Mahusa on the 14th ult., with his health greatly benefited by the change.

General Sir Herbert Macpherson arrived at Simla on the 18th ult. on a short visit.

As a result of the reference to the local Governments on the subject of Stock Notes, it is probable that the notes will be issued from the Presidency Post Offices in January next, if not earlier.

An agitation is going on in Calcutta amongst the ship-masters in port against the present unsatisfactory manner in which pilots are supplied to vessels on their arrival at the Sandheads.

The Calcutta Municipal Commissioners at a meeting on Thursday, the 19th ult., resolved to apply to Government for sanction to borrow fifteen lakhs at five per cent. for twenty years for water-supply and drainage works.

A rumour is current that the Viceroy has named Colonel Lockhart to the home authorities as the officer whose special experience might be taken advantage of in connection with the Nisero business in Achin.

The names of Sir Richard Temple, Sir Lepel Griffin, and Sir Oliver St. John are mentioned at Simla in connection with the Anglo-Russian Commission for the delimitation of the Afghan frontier.

The Bishop of Lahore has taken his return passage for September 22, and hopes to reach Simla about October 29, where he will hold a confirmation.

A number of the subjects of the Maharajah of Cashmere have petitioned his highness to afford facilities for teaching English in his capital.

The boat bridge over the Sutlej at Ferozepore was dismantled on the 1st ult., owing to the rising of the river. A ferry has been established, which will be kept up till the bridge is re-opened in September or October next.

Whilst playing polo at Meerut, Lieutenant Boisragon, of the Royal Irish Regiment, collided against Lieutenant Staniland, 8th Hussars; the former officer being thrown with great violence to the ground. Mr. Boisragon was picked up insensible and conveyed to his bungalow. He is now doing well, and no serious results are apprehended.

The Government of India have, the Pioneer hears, recently ruled that a game-tax is not one which can be legally levied under the Cantonment Act. This decision was given in connection with the levying of a game-tax in the Kussollee Cantonment. The Punjab Government, it may be added, have informed the military authorities that the question of the preservation of game will be considered with reference to the province as a whole.

A Calcutta paper understands that, owing to the increasing number of Europeans who are at present residing at Chitpur, a meeting of the public will shortly be held at the office of the Eastern Bengal Railway, or some other convenient situation to try and take steps for collecting the necessary funds for the erection of a church.

On the 16th ult. a meeting of the Eurasians and Anglo-Indian Association was held in Calcutta, for the purpose of considering questions affecting the welfare of the domiciled Christian community in that city. About two hundred persons were present. Most of the speakers urged that the absence of unity was the cause of the present condition of the Eurasians. The chairman proposed the following resolution:—"That the community can make no way or increase its proper influence until there is more unity among its members." Mr. Parsons dwelt on the question of dwellings for the poor. He called attention to recent articles on "Outcast Calcutta" published in the Englishman, which placed before the public in a vivid light the true state of things in certain quarters. He called for a committee to report fully on the matter. The Rev. Mr. Taylor also spoke as to the filthy condition of such quarters. In conclusion, the Rev. Mr. Braz called upon the meeting to pass a resolution that all who were not members of the association should become so, and that all who were not members should become so, and that all who were members should induce their friends to join and unite for the common welfare. —Times of India.

Government have received a despatch from the Secretary of State asking for a statement for a series of years of the expenditure occasioned by the annual move of Government to and from Simla.

A Punjab Gazette Extraordinary will, it is stated, appear in a few days containing the resolution of the Punjab Government on the judicial reorganisation scheme. —Times of India.

The Honourable Rai Kristo Das Pal Bahadoor, so famous as the editor of the Hindoo Patriot, is lying dangerously ill.

Strict orders have been recently issued at Quetta forbidding soldiers to go out any distance from the cantonments alone and without permission, and requiring all officers, if starting on excursions, to go out in company.

A formal communication regarding the prospect of the despatch of the proposed Frontier Commission has been sent to the Ameer of Afghanistan.

A report from Merv states that the Russians have appointed a Mahomedan from the Caucasus Governor of Yulatan, which is the headquarters of one section of the Saryk Turkomans.

Frontier reports say that the Shinwaries made an attempt to plunder the Ameer's subsidy last month. The escort, however, was strong and the treasure reached Jellalabad safely.

MADRAS.

A largely attended meeting of native merchants was held on the 17th ult. at Madras, to protest against the annual migration of Government to the hills and the removal of the military accounts offices to Bangalore.

STAMP VENDORS.—The Government have exempted three men from serving as jurors or assessors in Mofussil Courts.

TINNEVELLY-QUILON SURVEY.—The complete survey of this proposed extension of the South Indian Railway has been finished, and is at present being discussed by Government; the Travancore State having agreed to terms sought from them and paid their share of the survey costs.

MEDICAL COLLEGE.—The anniversary of the Medical College will be held at the end of this month or at the beginning of next month. Sir Charles Turner will take the chair, and Surgeon D. F. Dymott, Acting Assistant Physician in the General Hospital, and Professor of Hygiene, will deliver his address. —Madras Mail June 22.

LOCAL TELEGRAPH OFFICE AT ROYAPURAM.—The Chief Superintendent of Government Telegraphs, in charge of the Madras Division, has, with the usual sanction of Government, decided to close the branch local telegraph office at Royapuram, as it is found that since the removal of the central office to the new building there has been a steady falling off in the number of messages received for transmission at the Royapuram branch.

SPECIE.—Three cases of silver coins valued at Rupees 16,000 and forty boxes of copper coins, valued at Rupees 6,000, were shipped on board the S. S. Himalaya on the 17th ult., for Masulipatam.

CHOLERA IN THE NATAL EMIGRATION DEPOT.—Four cases of cholera have occurred in the Natal Emigration Depot at Cassimode. Mr. McCartie, the Protector of Emigrants and the Emigration Inspector prevented the coolies from embarking in the British Ship Cyrene on Tuesday. According to rules, the Cyrene will be in quarantine for three weeks.

THE MIGRATION OF GOVERNMENT.—A requisition to the Sheriff is now in circulation for the purpose of convening a meeting in Patcheapah's Hall as early a date as possible, to protest against the migration of the Government to the Hills.

THE RIVERSDALE.—The Captain of the Riversdale was expected to arrive in Madras on the 27th ult., after which date a Marine Court of enquiry will be held, Colonel Weldon, the Chief Presidency Magistrate, being the President.

Before entering upon his crusade against "Messrs. Grant Duff, Carmichael and Sullivan." Mr. J. Wallace is endeavouring to procure the sinews of war. To this end he has issued an appeal for subscriptions to a loan of Rs. 15,000, bearing interest at six per cent. per annum. He undertakes to pay the loan immediately upon the favourable termination of the suit, or otherwise as soon as he shall have the means to do so.

A MISCHIEVOUS KITE.—A woman named Mooneamah, was charged with having committed the offence of criminal misappropriation under the following circumstances:—It would appear that on the 15th of last month a goldsmith named Soobroya Pauthen, while holding a gold bead ornament in the palm of his hand and showing the same to another, a kite snatched away the ornament, and let it fall on the house-top of the prisoner. Nothing was known about the missing ornament till last Monday, when it was discovered that prisoner picked up the ornament and gave it to her grand-daughter, a girl about twelve years of age, and the latter handed it over to a trash-woman, named Thyis, for safe custody. On prisoner asking the trash vendor for her jewel, and on her denying all knowledge of it, an altercation took place, and the police discovered that this was the ornament snatched away by the kite. The prisoner on being questioned admitted having picked up the ornament. As there was no evidence of conversion to constitute the offence of misappropriation, and as the case was prematurely put up, his Worship ordered it to lie over for the police to make further inquiries.

THE CHILDREN'S MEMORIAL.—A very handsome drawing of a Baptistry and Font in memory of the late Major General Childers has been made, and the same will soon be exhibited in the porch of St. Matthias' Church, Vepery. Those who intend subscribing to the above memorial are requested to do so without delay. The sum realised up to date amounts to Rs. 600. —Madras Mail, June 22.

BOMBAY.

The Bombay Town Council have decided to recommend the Municipal Corporation to adopt the Tansa water scheme, at a cost of one crore of rupees.

At a meeting of the Bombay International Exhibition Committee on the 20th ult., it was resolved to reject M. Joubert's new offer to manage the Exhibition, and it was further resolved that the Exhibition should be held either in the season of 1885 or 1886.

Dr. MacCarrie has been appointed Health Officer of the port of Bombay, in succession to Dr. Sidney Smith.

The anniversary of the accession of the Queen was celebrated in Bombay by the firing of a salute of thirty-one guns.

The agents of the various shipping companies having reduced the freight brokerage from 4 annas per ton to one per cent., the Bombay brokers have been on strike.

Mr. Woodburn received charge of the office of Collector of Ahmednuggar from Mr. J. Elphinstone on the 14th ult.

Owing to the rains the Goa Railway works at Marmagao and Sanvarden have been suspended until September next.

The monsoon burst at Goa on the 10th ult., since when a moderate quantity of rain has fallen. On the same day the tower of the Municipal Chamber at Panjim was struck by lightning.

A disastrous fire occurred at Ahmedabad on the 11th ult., property to the value of about ten lakhs of rupees being destroyed.

Further accounts of the fire at Ahmedabad tend to show that it has been more disastrous in its effects than was at first reported. The amount of damage is variously estimated. According to one account it is no less than Rs. 30,000,000. But probably this estimate is exaggerated.

From the weekly statement prepared by the Deputy Executive Engineer to the Municipality, it appears that the depth of water in the Vehar lake on the 13th instant was 48'30 feet, when the rainfall had been only a little over half an inch. The Tulsi lake on the same date contained 29'80 feet of water, after a rainfall of one-fifth of an inch.

H. E. The Governor has appointed Mr. James Thorburn to be a member of the Bombay Town Council, vice Captain Morland, who has resigned. The appointment is one which there is little doubt will give general satisfaction to the ratepayers. Mr. Thorburn was Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce last year, and President of the Bombay General Committee of the Calcutta International Exhibition.

The question as to what constitutes a full bench arose in the Bombay High Court the end of last term. Two judges, it may be remembered, refused to regard as binding on them a decision as to procedure arrived at, on a reference from a division court, by a court of three judges, Sir Charles Sargent, Mr. Justice Kemball, and Mr. Justice West. The local correspondent of the Allahabad paper now hears that the Government have been struck by the impropriety of the proceedings, and that a short Bill will be passed through the Legislature for the purpose of removing Mr. Justice Bayley's doubts as to what constitutes a full bench.—Bombay Gazette.

ANGLO-INDIAN AND EURASIAN ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of the Council of the Eurasian Association was held on Wednesday, at which, amongst other routine business disposed of, the proposal to float a Provident Fund was discussed. Some of the Council objected to the formation of any Fund at all, urging that existing institutions supplied sufficient means for making due provision for the survivors of such persons as wished to make this provision. Others, again, clung to the Madras scheme, though the unsound principles upon which that fund is worked have been exposed repeatedly. Finally, it was resolved that the tables of rates worked out by Mr. Cox, of the Civil Service, for the Association should be recommended for adoption as safe rates to work upon in the formation of a fund by such members of the Association as desired to establish one. A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Cox for his disinterested labour in framing the tables. The resignation of the present secretary (Mr. Brewin) was accepted, the nomination of a successor being deferred to the next meeting.

SALVATIONISTS AND MAHOMEDANS AT AHMEDNUGGER.—An affray took place at Ahmednuggur during the course of last week between some Mahomedans and the members of a detachment of the Salvation Army stationed there, when one of the Salvationists was seriously injured.—Deccan Herald.

The Bank of Bombay on the 18th ult. reduced its minimum rate to 7 per cent. per annum.

STATEMENT OF SILVER BALANCE IN THE MINT.—The value of the silver in the Mint on the morning of June 9 was Rs. 59,65,923; in addition, silver received during the week Rs. 5,81,491. New coin paid during the week, Rs. 15,96,391. The balance left was Rs. 50,41,027. There is in addition Rs. 90,193 worth of silver bullion belonging to private individuals deposited in the Mint walls awaiting money.

BURMA.

RANGOON.

Rather a novel defence was made in the Magistrate's Court by a ticca gharry wallah who was charged with negligence and the interpretation in the case also afforded amusement to those in court. A police constable was made to say that he saw the accused's gharry running off with the pony, and nobody in charge, and that he gave chase and caught it. In defence the accused said that when the pony bolted he was so taken aback with surprise that he stood transfixed, and for the life of him he could not budge an inch. He was fined Rs. 15.

The Chinese firm whose failure was reported in our last, filed their schedules on Thursday, for the benefit of the Insolvent Act. Their liabilities amount to about four lakhs, while their assets are put down at a little over two, consisting, however, of property heavily mortgaged.

A few nights ago a small cash box containing over Rs. 200 was stolen from the office of Mr. Nisbet, the Conservator of Forests, Rangoon Division. The matter was reported to the Cantonment Police, but no clue has yet been obtained, although suspicions point to some of the office durwans.—Rangoon Gazette, June 17.

A Rangoon telegram, dated the 16th instant, says:—"So great is King Theebaw's fear lest the Mengoon Prince should come, that negotiations are in progress with the French to keep him under perpetual arrest. A grand residence is about to be built at Mandalay for the expected French Envoy."

The following is the summary of the latest news from Mandalay by the correspondent of the Rangoon Times:—"The rains have set in, and the low lands are flooded. Where there are no roads or bridges, this saves [the country places from] attacks from the rebels, who cannot move in large bodies. News from Mogoung states that the would-be Shan King, Moung Hla, is not dead, but has 2,000 troops with him, some whom are stationed within one mile of Mogoung. The Woon-dook has only 700 troops and 200 villagers to oppose them. Mogoung itself is entirely razed to the ground, and its streets strewn with jadestone. Any Burman found in jungle is cut down by Shan and Kacheen rebels. The Matin Tsab is still fighting against the Pukwan village. He has a number of Chinese assisting him.

Captain V. R. Rae, 2nd Battalion West Yorkshire Regiment, is a candidate for the Army Pay Department.

An extension of leave for three months on medical certificate has been granted to Colonel Sturt, of the Infantry.

The leave of Major F. S. Hore, of the Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps, has been extended to Nov. 15.

Subedar Shaik Cassim, 3rd Regiment N.L.I., has been re-appointed aide-de-camp on the personal staff of the Governor.

It is feared that Major Gambier, Royal Artillery, who is suffering from a late accident, may be obliged to take sick leave to sea.

An extension of leave for twenty-one days has been granted by the Secretary of State to Captain Sawyer, of the Staff Corps.

Honorary Captain J. J. Connolly, Paymaster, 3rd Punjab Volunteer Rifle Corps, has been granted leave in India for three months.

Mr. R. T. Harrison has been appointed captain in the Northern Bengal State Railway Volunteer Rifle Corps, vice A. A. Wace, resigned.

The scale of purveyors and purveyors' establishments allowed for Bengal has been extended to station hospitals in the Bombay Presidency.

Captain Cecil Coles Dyce, half-pay list, Bengal Staff Corps, has been permitted to retire from the service, with effect from May 8.

Lieut. Sydney Moore Mason, of the 2nd Battalion Somersetshire Light Infantry, has been appointed a probationer for the Bombay Staff Corps.

The Nagpore Volunteer Rifle Corps, the second eldest Volunteer Corps in India, has considerably increased in numbers and efficiency during the past year.

During the absence of Brigadier General J. Blair, V.C., on furlough for three months, Colonel F. P. Forteach, of the Staff Corps, will officiate on the brigade staff.

The services of Surgeon A. Milne, I.M.D., have been placed temporarily at the disposal of the Government of India in the Department of Finance and Commerce.

Lieutenant V. Mangles Stockley, Bengal Staff Corps, Officiating Squadron Commander, 13th (Duke of Connaught's) Bengal Lancers, is about to proceed on furlough to Egypt and Europe for one year.

Captain H. B. Harward, 2nd Battalion Royal Warwickshire Regiment, Fort William, has passed his examination for the Army Pay Department, and has been posted as Paymaster to his own Battalion.

Promotion has been given to Majors Montagu Maxwell Carpendale, Henry Charles Morse, Charles Henry Coles, and Christopher Charles Pemberton, all of the Staff Corps, after completing twenty-six years' service.

The Secretary of State for India has sanctioned the grant to Inspecting Veterinary Surgeons of the Indian Veterinary Department of the relative rank of Lieutenant Colonel, but junior of that rank, except for the choice of quarters.

Lieutenant C. E. Mardell, Bombay Staff Corps, the latest addition to the Military Account Department, has joined the Finance Offices at Poona, in the Account Branch, and has been appointed to officiate as a Military Accountant, 3rd class.

The services of Lieutenant J. H. Parsons, Squadron Officer, 10th Bengal Lancers, have been placed at the disposal of the Home Department, for employment in the British Burmah Division. Lieutenant Parsons has been directed to proceed to Rangoon.

Captain F. R. Begbie, Adjutant, 1st Punjab Volunteer Rifle Corps, has been granted leave to Kashmir, to 20th October next, Captain E. H. Wilson, Adjutant, 3rd Punjab Volunteer Rifles, doing the work of Captain Begbie, in addition to his other duties.

The Government of India have sanctioned the deputation of one officer and two non-commissioned officers of each of the native regiments at Shillong, Dibrughur, and Kohima to Fort William, to be instructed by the Royal Artillery at that station in mountain-gun drill.

Executive commissariat officers and medical officers in charge of military hospitals and dispensaries in the three Presidencies are in future to obtain their supplies of stationery and blank forms from the superintendent of stationery and the contractor for Government stock forms.

The station of Alibag has been transferred from the Dapoli Circle to the Presidency Circle of pension payments. The Pension Paymaster, Presidency Circle, will visit Alibag annually on the 20th January, to pay the pensioners residing there; the remaining quarterly payments being made by the Civil Officer, Alibag.

It is stated that the Government of India have now under consideration a proposal to raise an additional regiment of native cavalry in the Bombay Presidency, with special regard to the increasing pressure of duty on the Sind frontier, which has become extremely heavy since the disbandment of the 3rd Sind Horse.

It has been decided by Her Majesty's Government that all regimental warrant officers shall rank below all sub-conductors of the Indian Army Departments, and among themselves according to dates of warrants. This decision also applies to all depot, sanitaria, garrison, and transport sergeant majors, and to the sergeant majors of the Viceroy's band and to the warder, Chunar.

Though the arrangements for camps of exercise in the ensuing cold weather are not yet fixed, it is likely that one will be formed somewhere in the Pindi Division, and another possibly at Delhi. These, however, will consist merely of the ordinary concentrations of troops passing to and fro in relief in combination with the local garrisons; and nothing on a more ambitious scale is at present contemplated.

The Bombay Government Gazette notifies that Major General Carnegie, officiating in command of the Northern Division, has been confirmed in that appointment, with effect from the 1st April; and that, with the sanction of the Government of India, Brigadier General S. de B. Edwardes, C.B., commanding the Quetta district, has been transferred to the Brigade Staff in this Presidency in succession to Major General Carnegie.

INDIAN PAPER CURRENCY.

In reply to Mr. Anderson, Mr. J. K. Cross said: The quantity of paper currency in circulation in India has in recent years varied from 12 to 16 crores of rupees. The denominations of the notes are 5, 10, 20, 50, 100, 1,000, and 10,000 rupees. Government must retain coin or bullion as a reserve to the full value of the notes issued; except a sum of six crores of rupees, or nominally six millions sterling, which may be invested in securities of the Government of India. The paper currency is not necessarily backed by any reserve in gold, the rupee being legal tender in India; but Government may hold gold, as a reserve, to an amount not exceeding one-fourth of the total issues represented by coin and bullion. The particulars of the Indian paper currency are given so far as they have been received at the India Office at pages 127-129 of last year's statistical abstract. Next year I hope it will be possible to give them fully. The conditions of guarantee are contained in Government of India Act 44 of 1882, a copy of which is in the library of the House.

FOREST CONSERVANCY IN MADRAS.

In reply to Mr. Biggar, Mr. J. K. Cross said: The India Office has no knowledge of any complaints of the people of Hassanoor. As regards the general question of forest conservancy in Madras, I have to inform the hon. member that a new Forest Act has lately been passed for that Presidency after a careful inquiry which established the fact that so-called communal rights in Government forests have, generally speaking, no existence. The Madras Government are anxious that privileges of grazing, wood-cutting, &c., in forests should be restricted as little as is compatible with the observation of the forests—an object of the first importance; and I have no doubt they will give most careful attention to all complaints on the subject.

THE SIMLA EXODUS.

We are glad to observe that public opinion in England is rapidly awakening to the magnitude of the evil of that system of Indian Government which is known as "Government by picnic." Both the London and the provincial press have taken up the question in earnest; and we can hardly doubt that the result of the discussion will be to induce Lord Ripon to pause before sanctioning any further development of that annual æstivation which has grown to such a scandal during the present Viceroyalty. It is only fair to say that we consider the phrase, "Government by picnic," rather a misleading one; for it is not so much the frivolity of Simla—which has indeed been greatly exaggerated—to which we object, as the official seclusion which the Simla exodus entails. The Western Morning News, one of the ablest Radical papers in England, fairly summarises both sides of the question thus :—

"The agitation in India against the migration of the machinery of Government to the hills every year seems to gather strength. On the part of the officials it is urged that the business of administration is better conducted in the hills than it would be in the plains, because for a considerable time of the year the heat in the plains is almost intolerable, while in the hills the climate is temperate. To this it is replied that the effects of this practice are such as to make the administration itself most unsatisfactory. A memorial adopted by a representative meeting at Madras admits the necessity of some relaxation in the hills, but declares that this has been carried to such an extreme as to constitute a grave infraction of public duty. The headquarters of the Commander in Chief are permanently located far away from the native army. The civil officials are having buildings erected in which they will live entirely away from the people in the plains. 'By living almost entirely in an atmosphere of European officialism, untempered by contact with the people of the country or with non-official criticism, the heads of the civil and military executive secure an isolation that deprives them of all opportunity of feeling the pulse of the country, estranges them from the natives, and exposes them to the risk of forming erroneous opinions of the requirements of the times. The retirement of Government from the plains tends to widen the chasm between rulers and ruled, which it is the avowed aim of the Government to fill up.' There is undeniable force in this, and that it does not exaggerate the public sentiment is shown by the fact that the Madras meeting was the largest ever held in that city, no public building being big enough to hold it. Moreover, the agitation is not confined to any one class of society, native or European, but represents the feeling of the entire community outside of the purely official element. It will be surprising if the Indian authorities are able to resist this sentiment without offering some compromise."

The only objection we have to make to this statement of the case is, that a reader would gather from it that the Civil Service favours and defends the annual flight of its chiefs to the hills. We need hardly say that that notion is altogether an erroneous one. Of course, in a large body of men—even a body so public-spirited and independent as the Indian Civil Service, which has never had an equal in point of public spirit and independence in the world's history—there will always be found one or two creatures of less heroic mould, anxious to curry favour with their lord and master by displaying extraordinary solicitude for his physical comfort and well-being. But it is quite certain that the Civil Service as a body looks with very little sympathy on a system that has tended rapidly, especially of late, to widen the gulf, not only between the Government and its subjects, but between the Government and its own working officers, its eyes, and ears, and hands. Nothing could more vividly illustrate the loss of touch between the Viceroy and the local officers of the administration, which has resulted from the pernicious working of this system, than a comparison of recent legislative proposals with the gazetted opinions of the various commissioners, collectors, judges, and other local officers who have been consulted about those proposals. It is impossible to read the reports of the leading Bengal officials on Mr. Ilbert's unhappy Bengal Tenancy Bill without feeling how wide has grown to be the divergence between the practical wisdom of the cutcherry and the camp, and the armchair philosophy of the Simla doctrinaires. If Mr. Ilbert could be put through a twenty years' course of good wholesome district work, he would look back at the end of it with amazement, and we hope with disgust, on the revolutionary crudities that he has unpacked, in the seclusion of Simla, from his overland trunks. But if this be impossible, and if we must have men to rule over us who know nothing of the country from previous experience, surely it is asking a very little thing, when it is remembered how handsome are the pay and allowances attached to Mr. Ilbert's post, if we demand that our rulers should spend as much as possible of their brief five years among the people of the country, and in personal communication with the local officers.

THE REV. JAMES JOHNSTON ON THE REPORT OF THE EDUCATION COMMISSION.

MR. JOHNSTON—who claims, not without justice, to have been the originator of Lord Ripon's Education Commission—has published a hand-book to the voluminous report of that Commission, which deserves to have a very large sale in India. We need not say that Mr. Johnston, although a strong and able advocate of one side in the Indian Educational controversy—that side which desires "the abolition or transference of the State colleges"—has performed this task of analysing the report of the Commission, and bringing out its salient features, with the utmost fairness. And his position in the controversy, as the originator of the Commission, and as enjoying the especial confidence of Lord Ripon on the general question, gives a singular value and importance to his comments on the report.

But while fully acknowledging the weight and the impartiality of Mr. Johnston's statements in his interesting analysis, we must confess that we rise from its perusal with a feeling of something very like dismay, as to the results that Lord Ripon intends shall flow from the labours of the Commission.

In sketching the origin of the Commission, after reciting Lord Ripon's reply in 1880 to the "General Council on Education in India"—which is the somewhat inappropriate name assumed by Mr. Johnston's Committee for promoting the abolition of the State colleges—Mr. Johnston states that the Viceroy, soon after landing in India, asked each of the Provincial Governments as to the truth of the assertions of the "General Council," and he declares that "the answers returned were such as to convince the Indian Government that a case for inquiry had been fully made out—that, in fact, the charges made against the Education Department in India, especially regarding the neglect of the primary education of the masses, and the disproportionate expenditure on the higher education, were not only fully borne out, but the statements laid before His Excellency in England were so cautiously and temperately put as to be greatly under the mark." The part of this statement which we have italicised, coming from such an authority as Mr. Johnston, throws a new light on the attitude of Lord Ripon towards the higher education of India; and further illustrations in the same direction are afforded by Mr. Johnston in his analysis of those "recommendations" of the Commission which refer to "the transference of the higher education to local management." Mr. Johnston seems to think that the presence of some educational officers on the Commission put rather a drag on Lord Ripon's shipping spirit in this respect; but he adds:—

"The Council on Education has never advocated any harsh or wholesale measures in dealing with Government colleges; and while we think more might, and ought to have been done, we view with pleasure the generous and loyal spirit in which they (the Commissioners) assert principles which, if fully carried out, would be all that could well be desired."

Here again we italicise those words in Mr. Johnston's statement, which derive special significance from their reverend author's connection with the genesis of the Education Commission and with Lord Ripon. We here find it authoritatively laid down, that the principles asserted by the Education Commission only require to be "fully carried out," in order to fulfil all that Mr. Johnston and his friends desire in the matter of "the transference of the higher education to local management."

Further, Mr. Johnston desires us, at page 143, to read the recommendation of the Commission on this head, "in the light of the actual transfer of two colleges to native management during the sitting of the Commission, and the naming of all the secondary Government colleges of Madras Presidency for immediate transfer, and of three colleges in Bengal for extinction, if they cannot be transferred as is required by Rule (c), and three more to be dealt with under Rule (b)." Mr. Johnston, we think, is perfectly justified in sounding so loud a note of triumph over these notable achievements as "hopeful, and likely to lead to important results;" for it is impossible for a moment to doubt the sincerity of his earnest belief that the maintenance of the State colleges in India is an evil thing. But to those who think, as we do, that the honour of the British Government is tarnished by the resolution to destroy that part of our Indian educational system which has achieved so much for India, and for which the Indian community has always been so grateful to us, the approaching triumph of the views of Mr. Johnston and his friends cannot fail to be grievous. In this journal we have done our utmost to uphold that system which alone, in our opinion, can provide India with suitable leaders, and pioneers of civilisation, of native birth. The attack on this system, like the attack on the land system of Bengal, has been skilfully masked and reinforced by the agitation about the trumpety Ilbert Bill; which has been cleverly used in each case to produce a breach between the defenders of the system. But if this "Machiavellian policy" were to succeed after its exposure by Lord Stanley of Alderley, himself one of the staunchest supporters of the Ilbert Bill, all we say is, that those who will suffer from the success of these attacks will only have themselves to blame. After Mr. Johnston's exposition of what doubtless are the views of the Indian Government in regard to the higher education of the country, it will be a strange thing if the native press does not at once speak out clearly on this point; that no doubt may be left on Lord Ripon's mind as to what is the final and unalterable opinion of the whole educated community of India in regard to it. Some of our native contemporaries have been writing very warmly about their grievance in the matter of the limits of age for the Civil Service. That grievance, as we have often shown in these pages, is by no means an unreal one (though, by the way, but scant justice has commonly been done to Lord Lytton's efforts to redress it); but, after all, it is a grievance that directly affects only about a dozen persons in a generation—whilst here, in the threatened ruin and degradation of the higher education of India, we have a grievance that will affect thousands annually of the flower of India's youth, and that may indefinitely retard the progress of Indian civilisation.

HOME NEWS.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—The tenders for Rs.25,00,000 in bills on India and telegraphic transfers were received on July 9, at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were—In bills on Calcutta, Rs.67,000; average rate, 1s. 7½d.; on Bombay, Rs.1,10,000; average rate, 1s. 7½d.; and on Madras, Rs.5,19,667; average rate, 1s. 7½d. In telegraphic transfers, Calcutta, Rs.14,00,000; average rate, 1s. 7½d.; and on Bombay, Rs.750,000; average rate, 1s. 7½d.; or a total of Rs.28,46,667. Tenders for bills on all presidencies at 1s. 7½d. and above, and for telegraphic transfers on Calcutta and Bombay at 1s. 7½d. and above, will receive in full. From the beginning of the financial year to July 8 remittances for Rs.5,03,80,850 have been sold, realising £4,149,420.

THE SILVER MARKET AND THE EASTERN EXCHANGES.

TUESDAY.—The bar silver brought by the Chili packet was not available during business hours, and the silver market has been very inactive at 50 13-16d. per ounce. Transactions in Mexican dollars are suspended until the arrival looked for at the end of the week is received. Exchange rates in India are dull, but the quotations are unaltered, while the rate for four months' bills in Hongkong has advanced slightly to 3s. 9½d. per dollar. The Shanghai rate per tael remains at 5s. 1¼d. Scarcely any dealings have been reported in Rupee paper, and the market for that security has been easy. The Four-and-a-Half per Cents. closed at 83¼ 83½ and the Four per Cents at 81 81¼.

WEDNESDAY.—A quantity of bar silver, brought by the Britannia from Chili, has been sold at 50 13-16d. per ounce, but the market was dull at the close, the Indian exchange rates being easier at 1s. 7½d. in Calcutta, and 1s. 7 17-32d. in Bombay; while the Bank of Bombay has reduced its rate from 6 to 5 per cent. Business in Mexican dollars continues, and must remain, at a standstill until fresh remittances are received. The China exchange rates are quoted at 3s. 9½d. in Hongkong, and 5s. 1¼d. in Shanghai. Rupee Paper has been quiet, but is rather firmer at 83¼ 83½ for the Four-and-a-Half, and 81 81¼ for the Four per Cents.

THURSDAY.—The price of bar silver has receded to 50¼d., but there has been very little business. No actual quotation for Mexican dollars is yet obtainable. All Eastern exchange rates are unaltered, but Rupee Paper is dull at 83 83¼, and 81 81¼ for the Four-and-a-Half and Four per Cents, respectively. The Indian Council sold two lakhs of telegraphic transfers on Madras at 1s. 7 9-16d. per rupee.

FRIDAY.—Bar silver is in moderate demand at 50¼d. per ounce, but there are no supplies here for the moment. Some steamers from the River Plate are due next week. Dealings in Mexican dollars have also been impracticable, no supplies having come to hand. The French Mexican steamer Ville de St. Nazaire has, however, just reached St. Nazaire with some coined silver on board, but as it is believed that the whole amount consigned by her is very small, the nearest nominal price this evening was 50¼d. per ounce. Indian exchanges are a trifle easier at 1s. 7 15-32d. in Calcutta, and 1s. 7½d. in Bombay, and the Hongkong quotation has fallen to 3s. 9d. again, Shanghai being unaltered at 5s. 1¼d. Rupee Paper has in turn been influenced by the cheapness of money, and closed ¼ to ½ higher. The Four-and-a-Half per Cents. are now quoted at 83¼ 83½, and the Four per Cents. at 81¼ 81½.

SATURDAY.—The market for refined bar silver is firmer. The amounts on hand were very small, and a trifling business was done in some quarters at 50 13-16d. per ounce. The position of Mexican dollars is unchanged. They are still much wanted, and the demand would probably absorb all that may come to hand for some little time to come, but a nominal quotation only was to be obtained. Indian exchange rates are steadier at 1s. 7½d., and China rates are unaltered at 3s. 9d. in Hongkong and 5s. 1¼d. in Shanghai. Rupee Paper has been quieter, and showed no change at the last.

LONDON PRODUCE MARKETS.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—Since Monday morning, when three steamers arrived with about 9,000,000lb. of new season's black leaf, about 85,000 packages have been on offer. 12,000 packages have sold at auction, prices ranging from 8½d. to 9½d. per lb., some parcels of Pekoe flavoured teas at the latter price, showing remarkable value. One break of very common went at 7¾d. per lb. By private contract about 16,000 packages have been closed. To-day, no public sales being held, a fair general business has been done from 8¼d. to 10½d. per lb. for common to good common; 11d. to 1s. 7d. for fair to fine medium; and 1s. 8d. to 2s. 6d. for fine to finest. For to-morrow 4,228 packages of new teas are catalogued for auction "without reserve."

SUGAR.—The improved tone noticed yesterday is well sustained and prices are again rather firmer. Of West India, 279 casks have sold on the spot, including Barbados, at 13s. 3d. to 16s. Also three floating cargoes, comprising 240 cases 106 barrels St. Kitt's, at 12s. 6d.; 627 casks 54 bags, Trinidad at 11s. 6d. for the United Kingdom. There has also been some demand for brown Eastern sorts, and 700 to 800 Penang have changed hands. Beet has advanced 3d., and a good business has been done in refiners' produce at firm prices.

COFFEE remains very quiet, but without further depression. At the auctions, 118 casks 41 barrels and bags, Plantation Ceylon, and 23 casks 518 bags, East India, consisting principally of common qualities and small lots were chiefly bought in, 36 bags Jamaica, sold at 41s. 6d. to 46s. 6d., and part of 1,852 bags Guatemala, at 46s. 6d. to 49s., for good to fine ordinary foxy greenish.

COCOA.—Several parcels of Grenada ex yesterday's auctions have sold at the previous decline.

THURSDAY EVENING.

Messrs. W. J. and H. Thompson say there is very little alteration to notice in the produce markets, the leading articles continuing in the same depressed state. The quotation for beet sugar at the close of last week had risen to 14s.; subsequently the market became very dull, with sellers at 3d. decline, but to-day 14s. 1½d. has been paid. Refining sorts of West India are in good demand, and show a rise of 3d. to 6d. Crystallised sorts have also risen 6d. per cwt., and East India descriptions have been more inquired for. A sudden fall of 4d. on coffee in Havre in the early part of the week tended to depress this market, and prices have ruled 1s. to 1s. 6d. in buyers' favour, except for some few lots of fine colory Ceylon, for which high rates have been paid. The decline in Havre has been partly recovered, but without producing any improvement here. The arrival of three steamers from China with new season's tea has placed a large supply on the market; the dealers have bought sparingly and mostly of the finer grades. At auction about 17,000 packages have been offered of commoner sorts, and these have sold at irregular and easier rates. Indian sales have been small, and show no material change in value. Some Ceylon cocoa went at rather easier rates, and West India descriptions are also lower, but for Guayaquil a slight advance was obtained. In spice the only change has been in ginger for which lower rates have been accepted. Black pepper has sold in small lots at fully previous quotations. For rice there has been some demand, but business is checked by the firmness of holders.

TEA.—According to the B bill of entry the total amount of tea on which duty was paid ex warehouses in the United Kingdom last month was 12,615,920lb., in addition to 177,685lb., on which duty payments were made direct, and to the Inland Revenue. The total for the six months was thus brought up to 84,608,691lb. The exports and stores were 3,534,405lb. for June, and 19,733,000lb. for six months, while the quantity sent coastwise reached 2,120,121lb in the one month, and 14,334,035lb. between January 1 and June 30. To-day 4,700 packages new season's black leaf were sold "without reserve." Prices, in half-chests, ranged from 8½d. to 9½d. per lb. for common, and 10d. to 11¼d. per lb. for good common to fair; boxes realised 1s. 3d. to 1s. 6d. per lb. Teas from 9d. to 9½d., again show remarkable value. About 2,500 packages last season's first crop Kaisow sold at from 7d. to 9½d. per lb., and of season 1883-4 at from 6d. to 7d. per lb. 600 boxes new season's Canton S. O. Pekoe sold at 10½d. to 10¾d. per lb. for common, and 1s. 1½d. and 1s. 5½d. per lb. for medium and fine. Green teas unchanged. By private contract business has been very limited. From Messrs. Hawes and Hertz's Fortnightly Report.—Indian.—Auctions have been small, catalogues comprising only 8,740 packages for the fortnight, of which 2,455 were new season's. Of the latter, Darjeeling kinds sell readily, if of good quality and flavour, but some of the thin and undesirable parcels show rather easier rates; other growths have sold irregularly, but generally at a slight decline in values. Old season's teas, including a considerable quantity of second hand and reprinted teas, have been difficult of sale, some invoices of last year's import selling slowly at low prices. Souchongs and Pekoe Souchongs under 1s. per lb., rule rather lower, and broken teas, common kinds especially, continue to be only saleable at a heavy reduction. Broken Pekoes show no change. Ceylon.—Sales for the fortnight have amounted to 1,191 packages, most of which sold, though in many instances quotations ruled low, owing to the teas being thin and burnt. The comparatively few invoices of really desirable quality were well competed for at firm prices. Java.—1,811 packages, ex direct steamer Chyebassa, sold at auction since our last report. Souchongs and Pekoe Souchongs are freely taken at prices showing a slight reduction from previous quotations, chiefly poor liquoring kinds. Pekoes have been keenly competed for, both for shipping and home trade, and prices in some cases show an advance. Broken teas show a slight reduction in value for common kinds, but tippy sorts, as well as broken Pekoes, have sold steadily. 1,488 packages ex Sumatra steamship are catalogued for next week.

SUGAR.—A steady market for cane descriptions, and about 300 casks West India sold at previous rates. About 400 tons native Penang at 8s. 3d. to 8s. 6d., and some parcels of cane Jagghery at 9s. Beet sugar again rather dearer. A fair amount of business has been done in refined at steady prices. Subjoined is M. Bertrand Silz Wednesday's report received from Paris:—"The discussion of the new law is taking place now and the speeches are commented upon by all who, near or far, are interested in sugar. The principal speeches have even a certain weight on the disposition of the market. For instance, the Minister of Finance has caused a fall of about 1fr. since he declared yesterday afternoon his opinion for the levy of duty on the roots, but without any augmentation of the surtax. It must be hoped that Parliament will come to a solution on next Saturday. The dryness and heat continue; a few local storms have taken place during the week, but have not sufficiently refreshed the earth."

COFFEE.—East India in the public sales brought firm prices, and 477 cases 79 bags were chiefly sold, medium to bold colory, 71s. 6d. to 77s.; fine bold, 91s.; pale and greyish medium, 59s. to 62s.; bold 72s. 6d. to 75s. 6d., small in proportion; 50 packages Plantation Ceylon partly sold, low middling to middling, 59s. to 65s.; bold, 73s. 3,300 bags Costa Rica, about half sold, good and fine ordinary, 48s. to 54s.; and middling to good, 58s. to 63s.; 682 bags Guatemala mixed to good ordinary fey greenish, 44s. 6d. to 49s. 6d.; and low middling to good, 54s. to 61s. 6d.; 63 bags Honduras, 50s to 56s. per cwt.

FRIDAY EVENING.

SUGAR.—The market is steady. Crystallised Demerara by auction sold with good competition at 19s. to 22s. for brownish to good yellow; 23s. to 23. 6d. for fine; one lot, 24s. Other descriptions quiet and mostly bought in—Barbados, 13s. 6d. to 15s. 6d.; crystallised, 18s. 6d. to 21s. 1,699 bags Porto Rico and 447 bags Guatemala withdrawn. Beet steady at yesterday's advance. Good business in refiners' produce, firm to rather dearer rates. Total sales of West India for the week 2,200 casks, 14,000 smaller packages.

COFFEE.—The auctions to-day are too small to influence quotations, and the market is unchanged. 284 bags Mysore brought firm rates for good qualities—bold, 102s. 6d. to 108s.; medium, 92s. 139 half bales Mocha bought in at 89s. A few lots Guatemala sold at valuation.

RICE.—A cargo of Bassein sold at 7s. 9½d. for Bremen, being rather firmer.

JUTE quiet and rather easier on the week.

SATURDAY EVENING.

TEA.—No Indian sales were held yesterday or to-day. The China market has been very quiet indeed, dealers awaiting the arrival of two new steamers, which would arrive, probably to-morrow or Monday. Prices generally are unchanged.

COTTON.—From Messrs. Ellison and Co.'s monthly report.—Prospects: For the immediate future the course of the market will be moulded chiefly by the tenour or the accounts respecting the condition and prospects of the American crop. The state of trade in Manchester is very unsatisfactory, and so far as we can see at present it is not unlikely that a resort to short time will be witnessed some time before the close of the season; but an unfavourable turn in the crop prospects would change the entire aspect of the market. Buyers of yarn and cloth being no longer afraid of a decline, would give out orders, speculative confidence both here and in Manchester would revive, and prices would promptly recover the late decline. But if the market has to contend against the combined influences of favourable crop advices, unsatisfactory trade in Manchester and a hand-to-mouth business all over the world, a further decline in prices is inevitable. It is true that the statistical position for the balance of the season looks strong, but consumers will not fidget themselves about this if they are satisfied that liberal supplies at low prices will be available shortly after the opening of the new season. A man will not economise his last loaf if he is sure of more bread to-morrow; it is only when to-morrow's supply is uncertain that he begins to get uneasy.

SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

A LASKARI DICTIONARY,

OR,

ANGLO-INDIAN VOCABULARY OF NAUTICAL
TERMS AND PHRASES IN ENGLISH AND HINDUSTANI.

Chiefly the Corrupt Jargon in use among Laskars or Indian Sailors.

Originally compiled by Captain Thomas Roebuck, Madras Infantry, Professor of Hindustani, Examiner, &c., in the College of Fort William, Calcutta: Revised and corrected by William Carmichael Smyth, Esq., B.C.S., and now carefully re-edited and enlarged by GEORGE SMALL, M.A. MISSIONARY,
Formerly of the B.M.S. at Calcutta and Benares, now to the Laskars, &c., in London, in connection with the Asiatic Strangers' Home, Limehouse.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We have received a copy of what we venture to predict will prove one of the most useful books that ever fell into the hands of a ship's officer—a vocabulary of the sea jargon of Indian lascars. In the brief space of eighty-two pages
Mr. Small has given us some 1,400 nautical terms, embracing nearly the whole vocabulary of native crews. We congratulate Mr. Small on the completion of a book which, if it is the least pretentious, is, to our thinking, the most useful and the most enduring of all the books he has yet written."—Statesman, Calcutta.

"Of the value of the present edition, for the intended purpose, it is difficult to speak too highly."—Home News,

CATECHISM OF SHORTHAND;

Being a Critical Examination of the various Styles, with special reference to the question, which is the best Englis System of Shorthand?

By

THOMAS ANDERSON,

Author of "History of Shorthand," &c.

"That Mr. Anderson should be able to arrive at a sound and practical conclusion may be inferred from the fact that he has been a writer at intervals of phonography, Melville Bell's, Gurney's, Taylor's, and his own system of shorthand, and has also written a full and valuable history of the art."—Manchester Courier.

"We must say that there is a great deal of information crowded into small compass. At a time when shorthand is gaining an ascendancy in public attention previously unknown, we are sure that this little book by a practical man and an enthusiastic student of the history of shorthand, will be largely read."—Metropolitan.

"Youths about to learn shorthand should read this Catechism before making a start."—Western Times.

London: W. H. ALLEN and CO., 13, Waterloo-lace.

Crown 8vo. with Portraits and Specimen of Various Styles, 12s. 6d.

HISTORY OF SHORTHAND.

With an Analysis and Review of its present condition and prospects in Europe and America.

By

THOMAS ANDERSON.

Parliamentary Reporter, &c.

"An extremely interesting book, full of useful information."—Scotsman.

"An important contribution to the literature of the subject."—Athenæum.

"An able and suggestive book."—Graphic.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"This is a small work, but it contains in less than 140 pages an amount of valuable information and experience that might well have filled a volume twice its size."—
Overland Mail.

"Gentlemen whose duties may lead them to take up will find a great deal that is useful in this volume."—

COUGHS, COLDs, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE.—Dr. J. C. BROWNE (late Army Medical Staff) DISCOVERED A REMEDY to denote which he coined the word CHLORODYNE. Dr. Browne is the SOLE INVENTOR, and, as the composition of Chlorodyne cannot possibly be discovered by Analysis (organic substances defying elimination), and since the formula has never been published, it is evident that any statement to the effect that a compound is identical with Dr. Browne's Chlorodyne must be false. This Caution is necessary, as many persons deceive purchasers by false representations.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was UNDOUBTEDLY the INVENTOR of CHLORODYNE, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to. See The Times, July 15th, 1884.

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY.
GENERAL BOARD OF HEALTH, London. REPORT that it ACTS as a CHARM, one dose generally sufficient. Dr. GIBSON, Army Medical Staff, Calcutta, states: "2 DOSES COMPLETELY CURED ME OF DIARRHŒA." From SYMES & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Simla, Jan. 5, 1880.

To J. T. DAVENPORT, London. DEAR SIR.—We congratulate you upon the widespread reputation this justly-esteemed medicine has earned for itself all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible form, the cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. J. T. DAVENPORT, 38 St. Russell St., W.C.

IS THE GREAT SPECIFIC FOR CHOLERA. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a deliberate breach of faith on the part of the chemist to prescribe and patient alike.—We are, Sir, faithfully yours, SYMES & CO., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE is the TRUE PALLIATIVE in NEURALGIA, GOUT, CANCER, TOOTHACHE, RHEUMATISM. DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a liquid medicine which assuages PAIN of EVERY KIND, affords a calm, refreshing sleep WITHOUT HEADACHE, and INVIGORATES the nervous system when exhausted.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE rapidly cuts short all attacks of EPILEPSY, SPASMS, COLIC, PALPITATION, Hysteria. IMPORTANT CAUTION.—The IMMENSE SALE of this REMEDY has given rise to many UNSCRUPULOUS IMITATIONS. Be careful to observe Trade Mark. Of all Chemists, 1s. 1d., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. SOLE MANUFACTURER, J. T. DAVENPORT, 38 St. Russell St., W.C.

THE "VOICE OF INDIA."

A MAGAZINE THAT GIVES EXPRESSION TO THE PUBLIC OPINION OF THE PEOPLE OF INDIA.

THERE are in England large classes willing and anxious to do justice to India, but they find it very difficult to know how to act. They complain that Indian questions are intricate; and that the opinions of official experts are contradictory; and that the people of India are dumb, and do not give expression to their needs. This defect is now remedied by publishing FORTNIGHTLY (in Bombay) a magazine somewhat similar in nature to Public Opinion in England, which provides a compendium of all that is most valuable in the native journals throughout India on the leading topics of the day. The Voice of India thus gives forth a clear sound, interpreting between the rulers and the ruled, and making known the true wishes and feelings of the Indian people.

The Magazine advocates no views of its own. It seeks only to reflect with care and accuracy the views set forth in the native press. The Indian people are naturally docile and conservative; and it will be seen that the writings thus brought before the English public are characterised by a knowledge of facts, and generally by practical good sense and moderation. No doubt grievances are from time to time being set forth; but it is a policy of prudence no less than of justice to give these grievances a fair constitutional hearing. Accordingly, it is hoped that this publication will be subscribed for by Members of Parliament and other public men desirous of dealing with Indian questions, and that the facts thus brought together in a convenient form will be of value to journalists and other public writers. It is specially desired to bring the Magazine before the public in Clubs, Reading-rooms, Libraries, and Institutes throughout England, with a view to promote a sustained and intelligent interest in the welfare of our Indian Empire, comprising as it does 220 millions of our fellow-subjects.

A RIDE TO KHIVA

BY CAPTAIN FRED BURNABY, Royal Horse Guards.

Says page 13:—"Two pairs of boots lined with fur were also taken, and for physic—with which it is as well to be supplied when travelling in out-of-the-way places—some quinine and Cockle's Pills, the latter a most invaluable medicine, and one which I have used on the natives of Central Africa with the greatest possible success. In fact, the marvellous effects produced upon the mind and body of an Arab Sheikh, who was impervious to all native medicines, when I administered to him five will never fade from my memory; and a friend of mine, who passed through the same district many months afterwards, informed me that my fame as a medicine man had not died out, but that the marvellous cure was even then a theme of conversation in the bazaar."

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, JULY 21, 1884.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, June 30; Madras and Allahabad, May 30; Calcutta, May 29.

THE Calcutta correspondent of the Times telegraphs that "the Quetta Railway is progressing well;" but that the choice of General Lumsden for the Frontier Delimitation Committee is generally condemned.

It is decided that the Indian representatives on this commission shall skulk around through Beloochistan and the Persian frontier via Sarakhs! This is characteristic of the present regime. The reason given is that "it is believed that the presence of British troops passing through Afghanistan via Candahar and Herat would disquiet the tribes and render the march dangerous." A nice commentary, this, on the effect of our scuttle from Candahar!

THE Pease agitation against the opium revenue of India—or the "opium traffic," as they delight to call it—is being renewed with vigour; but we have not heard that the Messrs. Pease have offered to contribute anything to the deficit that must be occasioned by its abolition. Inasmuch as opium furnishes about one-sixth of the Imperial revenue, it follows that, if this source of revenue be abolished, the wretched Indian taxpayer will have to pay about 20 per cent. additional taxation over and above that which he already pays. This little penalty, however, will doubtless be cheerfully accepted—especially by those who do not contribute largely to the revenues—as a very small price to be paid for the privilege of being governed by a Radical Viceroy.

THAT privilege has already been a costly one, what with the general increase of the civil expenditure, the sacrifice of the cotton duties, and the cost of the Egyptian expedition. But inasmuch as the Bombay gentlemen petitioned for an extension of Lord Ripon's term of service, they appear to like it; and will doubtless be equally well contented if Lord Ripon's allies at home succeed in abolishing the opium revenue.

THAT a considerable amount of hostility has been aroused against the "traffic" is shown not only by the City meetings, but also by the columns of the Radical press. This is what the Western Morning News says about it:—

"Sir Joseph Pease's motions on the opium trade have precious little chance this year. He has, however, placed a resolution on the paper to be dealt with on an early day. It sets forth that 'it is incumbent upon the Government of India annually to diminish the issue of licences and advances of money for the cultivation of the poppy, and their manufacture of and trading in a drug which is capable of great abuse, and which is the cause of much misery and evil, with a view to terminating the connection of the Indian Government with the opium trade within a fixed period of time.' At present Indian finance is based upon the opium revenue, and, until that foundation is abandoned, nothing said or done at home or in China can shake the evil connection between our Government and demoralisation. Sir Joseph Pease, however, does not stop here. Next session he will propose 'That an humble address be presented to Her Majesty, praying that in all negotiations which take place between the Governments of Her Majesty and China, having reference to the duties levied on opium under the Treaty of Tientsin, the Government of Her Majesty will be pleased to intimate to the Government of China that her Majesty will not insist upon opium remaining in the tariff as an article to be necessarily admitted at arranged duties, but that the admission of Indian opium into China will thenceforth depend solely upon the wishes of the Government of China; which Government will also be met as that of an independent State having the full right to arrange its own import duties upon opium.'"

THE Times of India is greatly exercised at a rumour that the Indian Foreign Secretaryship has been promised to a disciple of the scuttling humble-pie school. Our contemporary writes:—

"This envied post was—at least, until Lord Ripon had the disposal of it—the blue riband of the Indian services, open alike to the military officer and to the civilian. If ever there was a time when that office was of imperial importance, it is now that both in Downing-street and Peterhoff there is a rare combination of two very advanced disciples of the school so aptly described by Sir E. Sullivan as 'unnational, humble, undecided, squeezable, and, and above all things, apologetic.' A strong man in the Foreign Office is clearly a sine qua non to resist this combination. Lord Ripon has been so occupied in the first half of his career in making mistakes, and in the latter half in trying to repair them, that he has had no time for foreign politics. He has been too busy in exasperating all classes of the community in India, and in stirring up questions which the most ordinary prudence would have left alone. The Russians have been quick to mark their opportunity, and their advance during the last three years has been more rapid, more serious, and more ominous than in the previous two decades. We are clearly within measurable distance of the crisis when 'thus far and no further' must be the ultimatum with war for the alternative."

We have reason to believe, however, that our contemporary's alarms, which would have been justified if the rumour had been well-founded, are really baseless. We understand that Sir Lepel Griffin goes back to India with the assurance that he is to succeed to the "blue riband" of his service; and we feel confident that every patriotic Englishman who has read Sir Lepel's recent masterly contribution to the Russian question in the columns of the Times will feel that in his hands the interests and the honour of the Indian Empire will be secure.

It is stated that the Select Committee on Indian Railways is about to report in accordance with the recommendations of the Indian Government, that a sum of £28,000,000 be spent on protective and productive railways in India, not more than £2,000,000 to be borrowed in any one year. It is understood that the committee have had their greatest difficulties in deciding as to the rate of interest at which money shall be borrowed, and also as to the degree of control to be exercised over the various schemes.

At the recent dinner of the "Kensington Parliament," Sir Charles Dilke proposed the toast of the evening "Success to the Kensington Parliament." Mr. Horne Payne, the Premier, in replying, paid the following graceful compliment to some of the Anglo-Indian and Indian members of the Society:—

"We have the advantage of hearing matters debated and discussed within the walls of our institution by men who possess the greatest knowledge of the subject with which they are dealing, derived not only from study but from practical experience of the highest kind—for instance, let me take such a subject as the Indian policy or the colonial policy, which we have had the advantage of hearing debated by those who are as capable, I think I may say, as any in the House of Commons on these matters. I need only mention the names of Colonel Malleson and Mr. W. Rhys Davids, of the late Advocate General of Madras, Mr. J. D. Mayne, of Mr. Roper Lethbridge, of Mr. Branson, of the Calcutta Bar, and of the late Secretary to the Government of India, Mr. Batten. Those gentlemen constantly give us the benefit of their knowledge and experience. Again, we have an advantage which the House of Commons has not got—namely, that of hearing the native side of the question placed before us by native gentlemen—(applause)—such as Mr. M. Abdool Medjid—who are able from their point of view to throw the fullest light on the Indian question, with the greatest ability and power of expression."

WE think that the testimony of such an independent and weighty authority as Mr. Horne-Payne, as to the advantage of having "the Native side of the question" placed before the British public by competent gentlemen, is one well worthy of consideration by the educated Native community. Mr. Abdul Majid has well deserved the honourable mention accorded to him by Mr. Horne-Payne, by the quiet thoughtfulness both of the manner and the matter of his speeches. It has been a grave misfortune to the cause of India that some of her ablest sons who have visited this country have allowed their inexperience of political life to render them the easy victims of our most frothy and foolish demagogues. For the ephemeral applause of a few obscure and ignorant persons, they have bartered the legitimate influence which otherwise would have been accorded to their knowledge and experience; and we are glad to observe that Mr. Abdul Majid, though young, has avoided this pitfall. What a power for good would be the presence in England of a few Indian statesmen of the Madhava Rao or Kristodas Pal stamp! When the time comes for "Imperial Federation"—may it come soon!—these are points to be carefully borne in mind by every patriotic subject of Her Majesty.

It is amusing to observe how far afield Indian gossip has gone, in regard to the appointment now filled by the nomination of Sir Peter Lumsden. The Pioneer says:—"Simla society for want of something better to do is amusing itself with nominating an Afghan Frontier Commission. The latest combination arrived at is Sir Richard Temple, Sir Lepel Griffin, Sir Oliver St. John—a trio that would fall out in less than twenty-four hours. Sir Charles Macgregor is the real man for India." But we trust Sir Charles Macgregor may yet have a finger in the pie. We entirely endorse the opinion of the Pioneer—which, indeed, reflects the general view of the services.

THE London correspondent of an Indian paper writes:—

"The Aborigines Protection Society is on the war path just now, and among its leading braves figures an old friend of yours, Mr. Lalmohun Ghose. It is delicious to see the hash made of his name by the country papers, and also of his personal history. A Liverpool paper calls him 'Lah Nolum Gosh, the great Indian reformer who founded the Brahma Somaj, a Buddhist Society, established for the purpose of abolishing caste and allowing widows to re-marry.' That is pretty good, but a Yorkshire journal beats it by crediting 'Mr. Loll Moon Goose,' as it styles him with a seat on the Indian bench, fabulous wealth, 'ancestry going back to the Rig Vedas,' and a very advanced taste in polygamy. However, all of these luminaries make sure that the 'distinguished Aryan Prince'—almost every Babu who comes over goes by that name—will do the Aborigines a world of good by his advocacy of their claims on the Christian world. It is said that one of the ladies who take an interest in the Society asked the Secretary whether Mr. Lall Ghose was himself an Aborigine, 'and if so, did he throw assegais and eat his brother-man like those dear delightful Zulus?'"

THE Englishman gives the following account of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected up to Saturday, June 28:—

"In steam tonnage there has been a fair amount of business done in engagements for London, all the liners now loading and shortly due being well on with their cargoes. Rates have shown no improvement, and are the same as quoted last week. We have also had a fair inquiry for sailing tonnage for London, and an advance of 1s. 3d. on last rates. There are only a few ships now and again offering to work at current rates. Most of the vessels lying in our river for months back are hoping to make up for lost time by better rates, when the new jute season opens. We trust this may not be inusory; there are plenty of ships offering for September to December loading at 37s. 6d. for jute cargoes, but at present shippers show no anxiety to secure tonnage at this rate. Our unfixed tonnage stands at 40,000 tons, showing very little change to previous figures."

We take the following account of the Calcutta Indigo Market from Messrs. W. Moran and Co.'s Report:—

"Since our last issue the rainy season has set in generally over the Indigo producing districts. The reports from Lower Bengal are on the whole rather less favourable than at the date of our last circular, most of the Zillahs having had more rain than was wanted; the heaviest rainfall is reported from Jessore, where the plant has also been attacked by blight. Mahai is not yet general, and such districts as are at work are getting but poor produce. In Behar, except at a few factories which have had more than they required, the rainfall has been favourable, and prospects have improved. Most factories in Champaran are at work, and such manufacturing returns as have come to hand show as fair a yield from the plant as is usual at the commencement. In Tirhoot and Chuprah, Mahai is commencing, but will not be general for another week or ten days. Prospects in Benares and the North West Provinces continue favourable."

THE same firm gives the following account of the Calcutta Tea Market:—

"Last Thursday's sales showed some little improvement in the teas arriving but there was not much demand for anything without fine and desirable quality. A few of the best lots sold well at full rates, but all others showed a decline of about half-an-anna per pound. About 8,300 chests were sold."

THE Times of India has the following obituary for the week ending July 1:—

"Gopal Raj Urs, brother of the Maharajah of Mysore; Dr. H. W. McCann, Professor of Mathematics in the Presidency College, Calcutta; Lieut. C. C. Thackeray, of the 22nd (Cheshire) Regiment; Mr. Michael Tranev Rattigan, Extra Assistant Commissioner, Punjab; Captain J. Bagge, Veteran Establishment, Mussoorie."

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

THE following are the general remarks of the Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ended July 18:—

"Rain appears to have fallen generally throughout the country during the week under report. In the Madras Presidency rain fell in all districts, being heaviest in Malabar. In Mysore the fall is in some places still insufficient for standing crops, but Coorg has received an adequate supply. Rain has fallen throughout the Bombay Presidency, except in one district, and has been especially heavy in Kanara; it has also fallen in varying quantities throughout the Berars, Central India, and the Rajputana. In the Central Provinces there has been heavy rain at Khunnwa, and the weather continues generally favourable to agricultural operations. In British Burma several districts have had a plentiful supply, and the same may be said of many places in Bengal. In the latter province, however, more rain is still wanted. In the Chota Nagpore and Behar districts, and in Assam good rain fell in all districts. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh the fall was heavy in Kumaon, and slight showers also occurred in most other parts of the province. From the Punjab most districts report slight showers. The latest weather telegrams, dated 19th instant, of the Meteorological Department, report the continuance of rain in most places in the Punjab, Bengal and the Central Provinces. In Bombay, Madras, and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh rain has also fallen in several places. There is not much change to record in agricultural operations. Harvesting is going on in Madras, and transplanting of rice in Bengal. In the latter province paddy and cheena (millet) are reported from some places to have yielded a fair outturn, and jute and sugar cane are doing well. In Assam the aus crop is being reaped, and the prospects of tea are generally good. Ploughing and sowing for the kharif are in progress in Bombay, North Western Provinces, and the Nizam's territories. In Bombay a scarcity of drinking water, and in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and scarcity both of drinking water and fodder is still felt in places. In Central India and Rajputana agricultural prospects are on the whole good. In British Burma ploughing for the next rice crop is in active progress in most districts. The public health is generally good, though cholera and small-pox are prevalent in most provinces. Prices are on the whole stationary."

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

THE following telegram was received from their correspondent by the Times, dated Calcutta, July 16:—

"The zemindars of the Gaya district have held a crowded meeting on the subject of the Rent Bill, at which it was resolved, 'First, that the measure is subversive of ancient rights, and calculated to produce ruinous litigation; secondly, that it is framed under a total misconception regarding the Bhaoli tenure which prevails in Gaya; thirdly, that the zemindars are not properly represented on the Select Committee; fourthly, that it is practically impossible to prepare a table of prices, and a record of rights for the whole country; and, fifthly, that to give unlimited power of transferability to the occupancy ryots will lead them headlong to ruin.'

"Conferences of the district officers, for the purpose of discussing the Bill, are now being held throughout the province.

"During the festivities in connection with the Fête Nationale, at Pondicherry, a rocket set fire to a building containing fireworks. A fearful explosion followed; fifteen persons being killed, and several injured.

"The Burmese Mengwoon Prince was present at the Fête. It is stated that the French authorities paid him marked attention."

THE following is the usual weekly telegram from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated July 20:—

"The petitions from Madras against the migration of the Government to the hills were despatched to England by yesterday's mails. That intended for the House of Lords bears 26,717 signatures, and will be entrusted to Lord Napier of Ettrick. The other, sent to Mr. Joseph Cowen, M.P., for presentation to the House of Commons, is signed by 7,299 persons, and it is expected that very numerous supplementary signatures will follow by the next mail.

"Meanwhile it is rumoured that the Supreme Government has vetoed the removal of the military accounts office to Bangalore, on the ground that that town is situate in foreign territory. The agitation has had the effect of provoking further speeches from Mr. Grant Duff, in which he attempts to justify the action of the Government in fixing its summer quarters at Ootacamund.

"The affairs of the Indore State have lately begun to occupy a large share of public attention. I have already mentioned that rumours were abroad regarding the misrule and tyranny of Bala Sahib, Holkar's eldest son, to whom his father had deputed extensive powers in the administration of the country. These rumours have now reached the Government, and the Foreign office is engaged in inquiring into the matter. The result has not yet been fully declared, but it is feared in high official quarters that the reports are well founded.

"One specific act of oppression on the part of Holkar himself is mentioned, which, if true, shows that misgovernment of the worst type prevails in Indore. Some thirty years ago, the property of the Rajah Bhow, a Minister, was confiscated. It is stated that on the 4th instant Holkar summoned before him several of the principal merchants of Indore, informed them that papers had been discovered proving their firms to be indebted to Rajah Bhow, and required them at once to pay the amounts named. They refused to admit the genuineness of the documents referred to, whereupon one of them, an old man, was beaten, and all were cast into prison, their property being confiscated.

"A Bombay newspaper states that Holkar has issued an order withdrawing all power from Bala Sahib, and that he has sent Colonel Bufoo Sahib to Bombay in search of a competent Minister to help him out of his present difficulties.

"The Bengal Chamber of Commerce has forwarded a memorial to the Government complaining of the block of business in the Calcutta High Court and urging the necessity of appointing additional judges. They state that owing to the accumulation of arrears suits cannot be heard till two years after their institution, during which time there is a practical denial of justice to the suitors. They point out that the Courts bring in a large surplus revenue to the Government; and, after arguing that the administration of justice should not be a source of profit to the State, they pass a sweeping condemnation upon the ill-judged economy, both as regards the numbers and the salaries of the judges, which has brought the highest tribunal of India to within a 'measurable distance' of inefficiency.

"At the meeting of the new Municipal Committee of Lahore a native ignorant of English was elected the first president, receiving seventeen out of twenty-seven votes. Another native received six votes, and only four members voted for the European candidate.

"Sir Alfred Lyall opened the Jumna Railway Bridge on Friday last. Speaking at the luncheon which followed the ceremony, the Lieutenant Governor strongly recommended the construction of provincial railways by the local governments, and the representatives of the people interested should join in their management.

"According to the latest reports indigo prospects in Lower Bengal are not so favourable. The season is late, the plants generally are small, and the insect blight has done much damage. The reports from Behar are still less favourable; particularly from the Chupra districts; where excessive rain has damaged the growing crop and affected the produce.

"From the tea districts of the Lower Assam we receive complaints of the want of rain, but the other parts of Assam report more favourably. Blight is prevalent in Cachar; while in Darjeeling cold weather and the want of rain have checked the growth of the plants.

"As regards the general crop prospects, rain is still urgently wanted in many parts of the North-West Provinces, and although some has fallen in the Punjab more would be welcome. Prospects are doubtful in Rajpootana; while in Merwar the prolonged drought is causing anxiety.

"The construction of the Quetta Railway is progressing well. It is believed that some difficult tunnelling, which at first seemed to be necessary, will be dispensed with, thus saving 20 lakhs of Rupees, and also the bridges of masonry may be substituted for some of the long-spanned iron bridges originally contemplated.

"The selection of General Lumsden as Chief British Commissioner for the delineation of the Afghan frontier has taken all India by surprise, his name never having been even suggested in this country. The choice is very generally condemned, the prevalent belief being that many more competent officers could have been found. It is stated, however, that the Commander-in-Chief approves of the appointment. The Government is now engaged in selecting the subordinate members of the Commission, and in considering the recommendation of the Foreign office on the subject of an escort.

"The Indian portion of the Commission will start shortly, making its way through Beloochistan to Seistan, and via the Persian frontier to Sarakhs, as it is believed that the presence of British troops passing through Afghanistan via Candahar and Herat would disquiet the tribes and render the march dangerous."

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

NEW BOOKS FOR THE SPORTSMAN.*

THE first of the two works before us is by Captain F. F. R. Burgess, Bengal Staff Corps; and is a collection of hints to persons visiting India or the Colonies on the purchase, care, and use of rifles, fowling pieces, and pistols. Even if a man be no sportsman it is as well that he should know something of these matters; and the great majority of adventurous men of the class to which Captain Burgess addresses himself are sure to be of those typical Englishmen who—according to continental jokers—begin the day by saying: "Tis a fine morning, Jack; let us go and kill something." Captain Burgess's readers would soon be qualified to take their part in this game. Here they may learn who are the sort of dealers to whom they should resort for fire-arms; what are the advantages of "choke-boring," and of Turner's "attachable muzzle;" what is the best form of rifle; and how to be prepared for the encounter with dangerous game. They will be further instructed in the care, preservation, and cleansing of fire-arms; the treatment of cartridge cases, the loads for shot guns, and the shapes of bullets; with many useful remarks on the calibre and weight of rifles, and the nature and effects of various kinds of projectiles. There is a short chapter on revolvers, pistols and sights; and there are many useful practical hints on aiming position, and other miscellaneous details connected with shooting. The work is somewhat desultory, but perhaps none the worse for that—had it but an index—and the drawings are simple, sensible, and instructive.

The second book is larger, more literary in character, less devoted to edification, more to amusement. It is by the well-known sportsman, Major General Rice, who wrote a book on "Tiger Shooting in India," published in the eventful year 1857. His present work begins with the minor pleasures of the shot-gun, going on through pig-sticking and deer-shooting, to the great enterprises of the hunter who wars on the lion and the tiger. Of the former animal General Rice holds that it does not really differ from the lion of Africa, being equally large and strong, though the mane is not quite as dark or plentiful. The General's book contains a number of coloured full-page illustrations, and is handsomely got up. It is full of stories, apparently, both new and true, which is a treat in these latter days when the usual cry is, "There is nothing new, and nothing true," and "It does not signify."

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE LATE GEORGE GORDON MORRIS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

SIR,—I beg to say a few words in honour of the memory of George Gordon Morris, of the Bengal Civil Service, who died last week at the age of fifty-four. He was one of the typical men of the old Civil Service, good all round, as the expression goes; an excellent man in his official work, and pre-eminent in all the sports of the field. When he was a student in the College of Fort William he took several degrees of honour in the Oriental languages, each "degree of honour" bearing the substantial honorarium of Rs. 1,600, and the story goes that he spent the money thus acquired in buying the best horses that could be got. He soon became one of the best and boldest pig-stickers. There are still some survivors of the big meet at Tumlook, in 1858, who will remember how, with his collar-bone already dislocated in a fall, he slew single-handed a big boar which he met with on his way to the tents. I saw him ride a boar at Brehra, as hard as boar and horse could go, the boar seeking safety in a deep nullah, full of rushes and mud; but Morris caught him on the edge of the nullah, where the boar fell dead with the spear through his heart, whilst man and horse went headlong into the nullah, and happily emerged unhurt. Time and space would fail me to tell of all his deeds after tigers and other big game, and I can do little more than allude to his skill as a billiard player, which enabled him to beat John Roberts, jun., taking 100 points in 500, in a match at the Bengal Club. Socially, he was much beloved, and he was one of the kindest and most charitable of men. His official career was distinguished. He was an Under Secretary to the Government of Bengal under Sir Frederick Halliday, and he was for many years a superintendent of Revenue Survey. Eventually he entered the judicial line, and served for many years as judge of the district of Backergunge, a country famous for its intricate law suits, and for its able native bar. In 1873 he was promoted to the High Court of Calcutta, where he won the highest regard of his colleagues on the Bench and commanded the respect of the barristers, and pleaders of the court, by his thorough knowledge of his duties, and by his able and patient discharge of them. After about eight years on the bench, he retired from the service of Government on account of failing health. Multis ille bonis flebilis fcidit, nulli flebilior quam mihi.

QUARANTINE. TO THE EDITOR.

SIR,—Perhaps you may find space for a few words on this subject, a subject most necessary to the health of the community, but causing incalculable loss to trade by the unreasonable manner in which it is enforced. The rules at present are that any vessel on arriving in harbour from an infected port is to be placed in quarantine for a certain number of days—that is, a strict cordon is drawn round the vessel, and no communication, except by letter, is allowed with the shore. This is obviously an immense loss to trade, and almost unbearable annoyance, and probably loss also, to many thousands of unfortunate voyagers. This quarantine is imposed upon all vessels from an infected port alike, without any regard to the time that may have elapsed since they left that port. For instance, vessels from ports of the United Kingdom are now subjected to five days' quarantine on arrival at Lisbon (why, it would be difficult to say). That is, a sailing ship which has been possibly a fortnight or more on the pure and open ocean is subjected to the same quarantine as a steamer that may have been barely three days out. Surely it would be more rational to impose quarantine from the date at which the vessel left the infected port, which date can always be ascertained from her papers. The advantages of this system would be many. The expense to owners would be greatly reduced, as a captain, knowing he would not be able to land his cargo under a certain number of days, would perform the voyage leisurely, thereby economising fuel; and as ships would probably prefer to remain at sea until their time had expired, the danger of infection being communicated to those on shore would be reduced almost to nil, whilst the health of those on board would be improved by the pure air of the open sea. The expense of quarantine stations and lazarettos would be greatly lessened; and lastly, the temper of passengers would not suffer by the idle contemplation for days and days of a shore on which they are not allowed to land.—I am, Sir, yours obediently,

G. H. R. WILLIS, Commander R.N.

AN INDIAN ROBIN HOOD.

TO THE EDITOR OF "ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL."

Sir,—I have frequently urged in your columns the necessity of protecting our great railway bridges; there is one bridge in particular which requires immediate attention, the bridge over the Tawa, or Towah River, in latitude 22deg. 35min., and longitude 78deg. 2min., twenty miles south-east of Hoshungabad, and about fifteen miles south of the Nerbudda River.

The Tawa river is a very difficult one to bridge; the first bridge built by the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company, I believe, was destroyed by a flood. Mr. Elliott, in his Settlement Report, page 5, wrote:—"It seems almost incredible that the flood of the Tawa should have had the power to injure two great stone piers, eighty-five and forty-five feet respectively in height, and twelve feet by fifty in width and length, yet it snapped them off like sticks of sealing-wax in one wild night of September, 1864."

The existing railway bridge has been constructed about three miles higher up the stream, it is 2,850 feet in length, and its destruction would stop railway communication between Bombay and Calcutta.

Of it Mr. Elliott wrote as follows: "The Towa Viaduct is the largest and most important work in the district, and being of great height, and of white stone masonry standing at the gorge of the Towa, where it is girt by abrupt and considerable hills, and backed up by the little antique fort of Bagra, the bridge has a remarkably picturesque appearance."

Now here is a chance for the Indian Robin Hood, Tantia Bhil, who has for four years defied the authorities, including Major Bowie, and Mr. Acklom. I do not suppose that he possesses dynamite, but as this enricher of the poor is terrorising over the good folk of the Central Provinces, and is probably within two or three marches of the Towa bridge, a small body of regular soldiers ought to be stationed there during the present rainy season; in October next the bridge if broken, might be repaired.—Your obedient servant,

July 19.

THE RUSSIAN ADVANCE AND INDIAN TRADE.

THERE is an aspect of the last Russian advance which has not yet received any attention in the English Press, although its effects are likely to be soon experienced in India. For some years past Russia has been attacking with remorseless severity Indian trade in Central Asia. All along, however, Bokhara and Merv have served as a barrier to Russian onslaughts, and most of the measures of the Customs authorities have been neutralised by the extensive contraband trade carried on in its former khanate. By the annexation of Merv the position has been completely changed. Up to that event the Russian revenue officers were able to search caravans from India only after they had arrived in Bokhara, and were crossing the northern border into Turkestan. Now, however, their new position gives them the power to examine them before they enter Bokhara, and thus to put a gag, not merely on the legitimate trade between India and that khanate, but on the contraband intercourse also. By establishing custom-houses at Merv, Tchardjui on the Oxus, and two or three ferries higher up that river, all intercourse may be severed between Bokhara and India. This is a very serious matter, because the contraband trade cannot readily be shifted from Bokhara to Afghan Turkestan, south of the Oxus. The latter, consisting of the Uzbek khanates of Balkh, Saripool, Maimene, &c., is always in a more or less turbulent condition, inimical to trade; whereas Bokhara has not only been quiet for years, but further, has possessed for generations the reputation of being the principal trading community in Central Asia. So long as the caravans from India could rest in Bokhara after their toilsome journey through Afghanistan, and convey their goods at leisure close to the Russian frontier, there existed every facility for running contraband tea, opium, indigo, &c., across the border, owing to its mountain character and the impossibility of a weak and corruptible Cossack cordon efficiently guarding it a distance of many hundred miles. Now, however, that the Russians are posted on the Oxus, and take measures to control all the ferries of that broad and rapid river, it will be impossible for caravans, even if they evade the revenue officers at Merv, to secretly make their way into Bokhara. The only two methods by which it will be possible to carry on the contraband trade will be by bribing the officials on the Oxus, or making a long detour via Badakshan, and penetrating into Ferghana. With a good chief of the customs at Tchardjui, the former course will be very difficult; and as regards the second, the long mountain journey will almost double the distance to be traversed. In both cases the price of goods will be enhanced by the additional outlay, and the lowering of the profits will act as a check upon those engaged in the trade.

The Russian province of Turkestan, according to official statistics, imports 1,500,080 Russian pounds (140z.) of tea annually. Of this amount 570,000lb. come from India, paying a duty of over £20,000. The quantity smuggled was estimated to have almost reached this amount last year. Formerly all the tea consumed in Central Asia was brought from China, and even now nearly 800,000lb. arrive annually by the Kiachta route. The trade, however, is artificially sustained by the duty of a shilling a pound imposed on Indian tea, and there is scarcely a doubt that if this duty were abolished, or even reduced one-half, the Indian article would at once drive the China tea from the markets of Central Asia. The question will be asked why Russia should favour the dearer tea of China at the expense of the cheaper article from India? Political sentiment has much to do with the matter, but there are also other considerations. The present trade in Indian tea in Central Asia is mainly in the hands of natives, and the benefit of the transport of it rests with Afghanistan and Bokhara. The growth of this trade has occasioned a depression both at Moscow and Kiachta. When Turkestan derived its tea exclusively from China, Siberia benefited by the transport of it, and the tea firms of Moscow and Kiachta by the sale and distribution. Hence what may be called the home trade suffered with the introduction of the Indian article. Of late years Russia has been making every effort to revive the decaying Kiachta trade, and to this may be ascribed much of the antagonism to Indian tea. These efforts having failed, a new plan is projected, which, if carried into effect, cannot but completely crush the Indian tea trade in Central Asia.

This project has originated with a combination of Moscow, Kiachta, and Tashkend tea houses, supported by the authorities in Turkestan. Its principal features are to convey China tea rom Hankow to Batoum in the vessels of the Moscow cruiser fleet, to transport it thence to Baku, on the Caspian, and afterwards to carry it to various points of Turkestan, either by the route to Merv recently opened up by the military authorities, or else by the new road to Khiva, patronised by General Tchernayeff. To promote the success of this scheme, the Russian tea firms ask for a virtual monopoly of the tea trade in Turkestan and the total exclusion of Indian tea from it. From a Russian point of view the scheme is very inviting, and opinions of a favourable and sympathetic character have already been expressed upon it by the leading authorities at St. Petersburg. Instead of Afghanistan and Bokhara absorbing the benefit of the transport, and the trade being in the hands of the natives of Central Asia, the entire profit on the transaction, from the purchase of the article at Hankow to the sale of it at Merv, Khiva, Tashkend, &c., will pass into Russian pockets. To a Government of pronounced Protectionist views, what arrangement could be better than this? The only interests that will be injured by its adoption will be those of the Indian and Bokhara trades, which, from a Russian standpoint, are not worthy of much sympathy. Of course, when once the monopoly is established, the price of China tea will be manipulated so as to secure the greatest profit for the promoters, and the least benefit for the public at large. This, however, is not a matter that has ever provoked on the part of the Russian Government very much solicitude.

We have shown that so far as the establishment of an impenetrable cordon is concerned, the new advance has given Russia the means of effectually excluding Indian tea from Central Asia, which was impossible until Merv was annexed. As regards the organisation of the proposed through trade from Hankow to Tashkend by an entirely new route, every facility exists at the disposal of the promoters. Besides the half dozen steamers of the Moscow Cruiser Committee, there are a similar number of new vessels recently added to the fleet of the Black Sea Steam Navigation Company, available for the trade between Hankow and Batoum. Formerly a large proportion of China tea consumed in Russia used to make its way thither, via London and the Baltic ports. Of late years this trade has diminished to the detriment of England, by the direct importation of China tea from Hankow to Odessa by means of the vessels of the Cruiser and Navigation fleets. All that would be necessary, therefore, would be for the promoters to consign the tea to Batoum instead of Odessa, and from Batoum the railway opened last year would carry it in two or three days to Baku. Here there are plenty of vessels (the Caspian Marine numbers 1,182 sailing vessels and 54 steamers) to convey it across the sea to the east coast of the Caspian, where a fortnight's journey would see it deposited in the bazaars of Khiva and Merv. Roughly speaking, the conveyance of the tea by the proposed route would only take one third the time of the Kiachta route and the expense of transport is expected to be reduced one-half. This circumstance alone would render it better able to compete with Indian tea, even if a monopoly were not established. To investigate the scheme a commission has been appointed by the Russian Government, and an early and favourable report is expected by the promoters. In the meanwhile, Russia is not wasting any time in establishing the new customs' cordon. Several weeks ago officials set out from the Caucasus to establish Custom-houses at Merv, Tchardjui, and other points; and whether the monopoly be granted or not, a severe blow will be dealt this year to the contraband trade between India and Central Asia. Coupled as this will be with attempts to open up trade with Herat, and gradually drive Indian trade out of Afghanistan, the result of the new advance cannot but be detrimental to India, and, in turn, to Birmingham and Manchester. All the more reason, therefore, that Indian railways should be rapidly extended, so as to retort upon Russia by increasing the wheat export and injuring the Russian corn trade, and all the more urgent the necessity for adopting comprehensive measures to secure Afghanistan from the caravan encroachments of our rival.—Globe.

THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

AN important meeting of the Behar Landholders Association was held on June 15, at Bankipore, to discuss the Bengal Rent Bill. There were present the Maharajahs of Hutwa, Darbhanga, and Kuman Naundra Pratap Saik, the Hon. Harban Sahai, and many native noblemen and gentlemen. The Maharajah of Hutwa opened the meeting and proposed the first resolution:—"That in the opinion of this meeting the provisions of the Tenancy Bill, as amended by the select committee, are not free from the serious defects of the preceding bill; that in some points, for instance in the matter of resumption after a twelve years holding, the present bill goes further than any of its predecessors; that the tendency of giving the ryots the power of free sale, and the power to sublet, will be to introduce middlemen on the one hand and rack-rented ryots on the other, and that this mischievous tendency will not be safeguarded by the restrictions proposed; that the effect of many of the provisions is to deprive zamindars of vested rights, and throw more and more power into the hands of the revenue authorities against the word and spirit of the early regulations; that many provisions will be unworkable, or if worked, their working will be both ruinous to the zamindars and ryots." The following is the second resolution which was passed:—"It being clear from the report of the select committee that the Government is not yet in possession of all the facts bearing on the law of landlord and tenant, this meeting is of opinion that these facts can only be ascertained after complete inquiry by a competent commission, and deprecates precipitancy in the matter of this important legislation."

REFLECTIONS ABOUT RUSSIA.

"A Native Thinker" writes:—

It is no longer possible to feel or feign indifference about the progress made by Russia in Central Asia and the position she has reached in relation to India. What should the British authorities do in the circumstances, is the great question of the day.

It would be nonsense to say that England rouses herself to action, only when the crisis has actually arrived—that she does not bother her head much before. The present is a case in which every moment should be saved in order to prepare against possibilities which are rapidly passing into probabilities.

Certain plain truths have to be recognised at once, and they may be enumerated without circumlocution.

(a) It is not with a friendly object that Russia has been approaching India.

(b) Nothing would arrest or even abate Russia's onward progress in this direction.

(c) It would be infatuation to trust to paper-treaties to restrain that colossal power. In no instance ought one great Empire to rest its safety solely on the justice, the moderation and the good faith of another.

(d) The proposed demarcation of the boundary between Russian territory and Afghanistan may have its uses in minor ways, but it would be utterly useless to stop Russia.

(e) Persia is quite impotent in the matter. She will succumb to the greater proximity and the greater power of Russia. This is a law of political gravitation.

(f) Afghanistan is too barbarous and treacherous to be trusted for a moment in the interests of England. She would be only too glad to join Russia in any work of war and plunder.

(g) The large subsidy which India pays to Afghanistan is a sheer waste of money. No gratitude will be felt for it in the hour of trial. And the arms which the Ameer is presented with by India will be turned against the donor without the slightest scruple.

(h) China will not move a finger on the occasion of the coming struggle.

(i) The Great Powers of Europe, such as Germany and Austria, will be only too glad if Russia's arms and resources partly find a vent outside the confines of that continent. And there is not the slightest prospect of France allying herself with England in any operation against Russia.

(j) It inevitably follows that England must depend upon herself, and upon herself, for the defence of India.

Accept this conclusion without hesitation and set to work without delay. Happily, England is quite equal to the task. She has boundless resources in her own wealth and in the vast population of India.

Her work obviously divides itself into (1) Defence of the land frontier of India. (2) Defence of the sea coast. (3) Internal arrangements.

As for No. 1, it is all, or mostly a military question. Determine it soundly and carry out the resolution with sustained vigour—with Russian firmness. Let a strong commission of the best military experts be forthwith appointed. Let it meet on or near the North-Western frontier, investigate, deliberate, and come to a final conclusion with the approval of India and England. Though it is a military question, the statesman may suggest a few broad principles. Let the material defences of the frontier be on or near the frontier itself. Go not much beyond the frontier in reliance on the friendship of Afghanistan. Avoid the fatal error of exposing your main defences to Afghan attack from behind, as well as to Russian attack in front. Run not the smallest risk of your communications being cut off at your back.

Again. Concentrate your defences on one line, the best to be selected. Let Russia feel the greatest strength of the defence at the first encounter. It is of vital importance to avoid the risk of check or discomfiture at the outset of a great war, such as might dishearten the soldiery in front or the population behind. Have a second line of defence to fall back upon in case of necessity.

Do not be lured away far from your main bases by the off-hand advice of irresponsible amateurs who cry out "Stop Russia at Merv. Stop her at Sarakhs. Take Herat at once—Herat the key of India."

A sound plan of defence being decided upon by the military commission in communication with the higher authorities, proceed to execution—to vigorous execution. The delays and the impediments of red tape should be eliminated.

The necessity of constant references to various departments of Government should be avoided. Let a distinguished officer, like Sir F. Roberts, be specially detached for the work with plenary powers. He can well be spared from peaceful Madras, where a subordinate officer may act for him without entailing much additional expenditure.

No expense should be grudged in the construction of a perfect line of defence in this direction—as perfect as modern military science can make it. The required funds had better be raised by means of a special loan.

Let the requisite forts, arsenals, depots for supplies, barracks, encamping grounds, roads, rail-roads, telegraph and telephone lines, and all the paraphernalia of a determined defence rapidly come into existence. It should all be on one consistent plan and under the direction of one master mind. Communication with the sea and communication by land should be so perfect as to make readily available the resources of England and the resources of India in the work of defence.

We now come to the consideration of point No. II., namely, defence of the sea coast.

A good efficient fleet of armed vessels is, of course, necessary for this purpose. It should be exclusively employed for the service of India. Details must be left to professional men.

Important sea-coast towns and cities should be provided with special defences to the extent fairly required. The immense extent of property at stake will justify considerable expenditure in this direction. It would have a very bad effect on the public mind if but one of such towns and cities were bombarded, or plundered, or laid under contribution, by the enemy.

The various possibilities of a sudden descent on any part of the coast should be foreseen and provided against. Detailed and clear professional instructions should be laid down for the guidance of the local authorities in given contingencies, so that they may not lose their heads at the critical moment. They should be enabled to act with confidence, vigour, and rapidity according to a pre-arranged plan of resistance or even of retreat. How to save treasure; how to remove or even destroy supplies, arms, and ammunition, rather than they should fall into the hands of the enemy; how and whence to obtain assistance; and a hundred matters of the sort cannot be known by intuition. All such things need to be taught in detail. No detail can be too small for pre-arrangement. For instance, a good deal of trouble will have to be taken to prevent fishing-boats being cheerfully lent for a Russian descent on the coast, from sheer inability on the part of the fisherman or even of Native officials to distinguish Russians from Englishmen!

We now come to the third head—viz., internal arrangements.—A volume might be written on this head, but only a few salient points can be here noticed.

A good European army is absolutely essential to India. The required strength is easily determined; and such army should be always found in India irrespective of the contingencies to which communication between England and India might be exposed in times of trouble. As a rule, the European should be combined with the native soldiery in every serious work.

The Native army should also be maintained in full strength and efficiency. There should be no paucity of European officers in this connection.

So arrange matters that the European officers at the head of native forces know the men thoroughly and win their personal attachment and devotion.

The European officers must brush up their professional knowledge, so that they may not be found scientifically inferior to those of the enemy in this respect. A long peace has, perhaps, induced neglect of the study of the conditions of modern warfare. Perhaps, too, easy victories gained over loose native forces have induced over-confidence. But a collision with an organised Russian army is a very different thing. This should be adequately realised and diligently prepared for.

A considerable proportion of the European officers are diverted from their proper sphere, and are employed in more or less civil duties, such as in the Political, Police, and Public Works Departments. They must be put back to military duties or struck off from the army. The present slipshod fashion won't do.

The Native army should, by all means, be made more attractive by better pay even in peace. When a force takes the field, let the pay be handsome. Pensions for wounds and for death should be quite liberal. Rewards for special daring should be more substantial than honorary. In short, let the warlike classes with which India still abounds, be powerfully induced to flock to the standard.

Some means should be devised for increasing the strength of the Native Army at very short notice to meet any sudden emergency. For this purpose, there should be among the warlike classes a large number of men fairly trained to arms and ready to take service at call. The various methods adopted by the great military monarchies of Europe may be studied, and some method which may best suit India may be hit upon.

Russia has taught the world some very valuable lessons in this direction.

Such men should not be a source of serious danger to internal peace, for they are generally well-behaved by nature; they are so divided as to be incapable of combining for bad purposes; they could achieve little or nothing unless when led by European officers; and no arms are to be intrusted to them except when enlisted in the army, or when exercising themselves here and there in limited bodies and under European supervision.

There should be no possibility of failure in the supply of arms and ammunition of the best description, arising from any possible difficulties in the communication between England and India. It seems desirable to have some Government manufactories in India itself, hedged with proper precautions.

Horses for the army should also be abundantly available. This is a difficult problem. It should be grappled with betimes.

The police of India should so trained and disciplined that it may furnish ready recruits to the regular army on the occasion of a crisis.

Some native princes have been in the habit of employing Arab, Afghan, and African mercenaries. These should be eliminated by a decisive process, neither too abrupt nor too gradual. At any rate, further employment of such foreign and turbulent mercenaries should be peremptorily stopped.

Afghan and other gangs of foreigners of no peaceful character are entering into, and scattering about, India, almost without any let or hindrance at the frontiers. This should be effectually checked.

These are the suggestions of common sense. When the whole subject is earnestly taken up by the Government, various thoughtful and responsible officers of the same will be sure to offer many others.

The best, perhaps the only, way of preventing a Russian invasion is to be fully prepared to meet and defeat it.—Madras Times.

THE EFFECT OF THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL ON TEA PLANTERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE ENGLISHMAN."

SIR,—It was with much interest that I perused your leader of the 9th inst. on the Bengal Tenancy Bill; and all concerned in tea must feel grateful when you use your great influence—as you occasionally do—to promote the welfare of the industry.

I have not read the proposed Tenancy Bill, and hence am not in a position to offer any opinion on it. But if it is to have the effect you have pointed out, namely,—“that the portions of properties unfit for tea a manager allows his coolies to cultivate may under the act become the property of the coolies by right of occupancy,” it does seem to me that, at least in this district, it would not prove such an unmitigated evil as you suppose. On very many tea properties in this neighbourhood, coolies are, and have for very many years, been allowed to squat and act the proprietor. Shareholders of tea companies can have no conception of the depredation and damage that has been, and is being done to their properties in the shape of wanton destruction of timber, bamboos, &c., and deterioration of soil—all for some imaginary advantage. Now if the Bill referred to would have the effect of directing the attention of Darjiling tea proprietors to this most vital matter, in the dread of the squatter coolies acquiring proprietary rights as represented, it would prove most advantageous to their interests.

It is to be feared that too many interested in tea look merely to the immediate dividends. But important as these are they are not all. Many can tell you what the annual earnings, average price per pound, proportion of different qualities, yield per acre, &c., for years back have been, but they do not seem to concern themselves as to how much of the estates they are interested in is occupied by squatters, or how much is growing timber. Are managers ever instructed to minutely inspect all the unplanted portions of the properties under their charge, and report on the last-named heads, stating what means, if any, are being taken to conserve forest, and whether the supply of timber is increasing or diminishing? Is it not strange that, considering the necessity of fuel for factory purposes, and the critical state of the timber supply in this district, such matters, as a rule, never referred to in the reports of tea companies?

Any one returning to this district after an absence of a dozen years, or much less, must be struck with unnecessary clearances almost everywhere. To those residing here constantly, the change from day to day will be less striking, or even imperceptible; and is it that managers often really do not know what is going on? It cannot be that they and shareholders consider it will serve their time! There must be some delusion somewhere. Managers will tell you they tolerate the squatters to secure coolies for their gardens. But these Nepaulese are admitted the greatest savages in regard to wanton destruction of timber, and the worst race on earth to keep within bounds if allowed to squat anywhere. These vast fields of native cultivation are also a great drain upon the limited labour supply of the district, and while they curtail profitable or productive operations, produce little or no surplus for market. It is clear that those cultivators destroy much property, and diminish labour, and still they are not restricted to within reasonable bounds. Some such drastic measure as the Bill referred to is therefore needed, and it seems nothing short of it will rouse those concerned to a sense of their own interest in the matter.

It is evident that in this district, for many factories through mistakes in selection of sites and for others placed for considerations of health, direct water power is not available; and this being so, had moderate care been exercised in regard to preservation of timber, steam would have been much the most economical and satisfactory power, costing a mere trifle for fuel. For many concerns the only resource in the not remote future will be imported coal for manufacturing purposes, and for machinery they will have to fall back upon power to be transmitted from distant points (at immense expense for first cost and maintenance) by wire rope, compressed air, electricity, or some other medium to be discovered.

Some anxiety is also noticeable in regard to old-established coolie rates having been unceremoniously raised on one or two gardens. But the inequality of rates must all along have been greater than may at first sight appear. Those gardens allowing extensive tracts to coolies for cultivation, may be said to pay both in money and in kind; and the labour costs them incalculably more than it does those who pay the same in money and give no land, or merely a few square yards per coolie. In fact, the former are discounting futurity, and whatever their present dividends may be, they must, sooner or later, find this out.

Doubtless there are exceptions to the general rule, and some go in for conservancy of timber and soil, but such would greatly profit by a bill that would scare planters whose lands are pretty well denuded into dislodging their squatters and freeing them for industrious pursuits, instead of retaining them to, in turn, plunder their neighbours' reserves, leading to endless unpleasantness and complication. Unless something of the kind interpose, the position will soon become a very grave one indeed for those who have steadily gone in for preserving timber, getting supplies from outside causing considerable addition to past expenditure.

I have, therefore, difficulty in believing the Bill is out on a point so bad as you have represented, and certainly you must admit it would not be an unmixed evil to this district. The second point you have dwelt upon would appear to me to have a somewhat different effect to what you state. But this I do not say is anything to recommend it. In regard to the prospectors for land, who, I presume, commonly become managing proprietors (and all managers and assistants for that part as well) they might in time require occupancy rights to the exclusion of non-resident capitalists.

SPRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE "ENGLISHMAN" ON THE SIMLA EXODUS.

THE telegram which we have received from Simla is a corroboration of the statement made in a recent issue of this journal that the officials of the India Office knew very approximately the cost of the exodus to the hills. Nevertheless, with the amazing fact before them that the Government of India and the other presidencies drew from the revenues of the Empire a million pounds a year for their trips to the hills, the Cabinet of righteousness and rhetoric deliberately threw away the revenue derived from imported cotton goods, and passed over in silence the squandering of a million sterling. The following question might fairly engage the attention of the Railway Commission:—How many miles of railway would this sum capitalised build every year? It can easily be imagined how Professor Fawcett, had he been free from the trammels of office, would have denounced unsparingly the gross waste of the revenues of India in hill trips. Professor Fawcett has ceased to be the "member for India," but the Indian public are to be congratulated that Indian affairs are attracting the attention of such men as Mr. Gorst and others who might be named, and that there is a fair probability that a keener scrutiny will be exercised on all things Indian in the Parliament of England than has hitherto been the case. It is a matter to be regretted that the Comptroller General has not been asked to extend the scope of his inquiries beyond 1858, the year when India passed from the control of the East India Company to the Crown of India. We do not seek to underrate the work done in many directions since the above date, but it is a fact of history and, not a mere assertion, that England's empire in India was built up and consolidated by the servants of the East India Company. It is before the date of the Mutiny that the student of history must look for the great statesmen and soldiers who adorn the long muster-roll of India's distinguished men, and if a comparison were to be made of the cost of hill trips before and after the assumption of the rule of India by the Crown of England, the amazing advance in expenditure would, it seems, be more distinctly marked, especially when it is borne in mind that the conditions under which the old Company's servants discharged their duties were totally different from those at present obtaining. Sir John Lawrence, a man trained wholly in the service of India, could ring out in clear idiomatic Urdu the wishes of the Government of India to nobles, rajahs, and maharajahs. The servants of the Company knew intimately the people of their districts. Since the Mutiny there has been a steady drifting apart of Europeans and natives. No doubt this is in a large measure due to steamships and the Suez Canal, as well as other causes that might be enumerated. But it is also in a very appreciable manner due to the fact that officials all over India herd together for the greater part of the year on cool hill tops, isolated from natives, and from every non-official source of public opinion, even that of their own countrymen who labour at their callings in the plains. They live in an atmosphere of officialdom and of cliques, and the result is not only eminently unsatisfactory, it is destructive of one of the conditions under which it is alone possible to govern a people. Mr. Justice Field, in his very able minute on the Criminal Code Procedure Amendment Bill, when dealing with the argument that a large number of Englishmen prize the privilege of being tried by their own countrymen, while its abolition can gratify but a few natives, has the following passage:—"It is constantly urged that the members of the Indian Government ought not to reside on hill stations during the hot weather and the rains. The opponents of the annual emigration to the hills would be entitled to be heard, if they could show, either that the residence of the members of Government at a hill station made it hotter for other public officers who have to remain at their posts in the plains, or that the work of Government must be conducted less efficiently on the hills. Now it is supposed that they have not established either of these propositions, and therefore they have not been listened to." It requires no very profound study of Indian affairs for even the most prejudiced to arrive at the just conviction that the Government of India is less efficiently conducted on the hills than on the plains. One glaring instance of this has already been noted in these columns in the wretched muddle achieved by the Government of India over the Ilbert Bill; but there is scarcely a month of the hill residence of high officials during which incidents do not arise which could be more speedily and efficiently dealt with at the centres of information, than in the isolated Capuas where Councillors and Governor Generals live apart from public opinion, public records and non-official criticism. The argument for efficiency then, has, it seems, been made good against a hill residence. Financially the hill exodus is indefensible. Ten lakhs during 1882-3 for the tours of imperial and local Governments is a sum that may well astonish even the most sanguine advocate of hill retreats. The cost in buildings alone is a sum not to be lightly regarded. Ten lakhs are already swallowed up in Simla. The cost of Peterhof would amaze a Radical philosopher, and even in Madras the cost of buildings is excessive. In answer to a question recently put, we learn, that Mr. Cross admitted that the Governor of that presidency kept up three official Presidences. The purchase of the Outacamund house was originally estimated at Rs.2,76,000, and this was sanctioned in 1879, but the total cost has amounted to Rs.7,79,150, and of this sum Rs.1,25,000 went in providing furniture. The Viceroy has Peterhof in Simla, Government House in Calcutta, and Barrackpur House in the suburbs of the capital.

A REAL GRIEVANCE.

THE East Bengal Landholders Association have sent a memorial to the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, protesting against a Circular order of the Revenue Board by which a vital change has been introduced in the procedure for realising arrears of cess and costs of serving processes on the parties concerned. The effect of this change has been, say the memorialists, (1) to double the cost of serving notices, (2) to inflict loss on the District Road Fund in its having to pay 'in advance in court fee stamps' the costs which are not always realised in full, and (3) to cause Government to participate in the increased revenue from the sale of stamps. In the district of Dacca while all notices and processes were served previously by the Nazirat of the Road-cess Committee at a cost of Rs.1,400 a year or thereabouts, the value of court fee stamps now purchased amounts to about Rs.9,000! The memorialists justly observe that the object of the Legislature can hardly be to render the parties concerned liable for more than the actual cost of serving such notices and processes on which costs are recoverable. And they further suggest that if the rate of eight annas fixed by the board is more than enough to cover all costs, His Honour will be pleased in justice to the cess-payers to direct that this rate also be decreased.—Amrita Bazar Patrika.

THE CAPITAL OF INDIA.

A BELIEF is expressed we see, that the re-opening of the question of the Simla exodus will lead at no distant date to the abandonment of Calcutta as the seat of Government, and to its permanent transfer to Simla, and the Englishman pertinently asks if "the Indian public are to regard this as a threat that if the opposition to this wasteful expenditure is persisted in, Calcutta will cease to be the capital, and Simla bloom out as the seat of the Imperial Government?" There is less likelihood to-day than there ever was, of any proposal to remove the seat of Government from Calcutta, commanding attention. The proposal was very carefully considered in 1868, when of the three immediate predecessors of Lord Lawrence, one had died in India, and two only survived to reach home. Mr. Wilson had, moreover, died in his first year of office, and his successor Mr. Laing was forced to return to England in broken health, the year after he came out. It was not surprising that this heavy list of casualties lent an adventitious importance to the question of climate, but Calcutta has become a new city in point of salubrity in so far as the European part of it is concerned since the death of Lord Dalhousie, Lord Canning, Lord Elgin, and Mr. Wilson. Mr. Massey stood nearly alone in the Council in advocating a change in 1868, and even he was unable to designate any more suitable site. Sir William Muir expressed the all but unanimous view of the Council, when he wrote:—

"I entirely agree with the Governor General (Lord Lawrence). I know of no place in India, and have heard of no place, the claims of which can at all come into competition with those of Calcutta, even if we were now for the first time searching for a suitable capital. The claims of Calcutta are immensely strengthened by the long traditions of supremacy, which have fixed it as the capital in the mind of India. I feel this so strongly as to deem the discussion of the question, involving as it does the notion of change and instability in our counsels, a grave political mistake."—Indian Statesman.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

The subscriptions already promised towards the Keshub Chunder Sen Memorial Fund amount to Rs.11,892-15

A singular storm is reported from Kumaon. The lightning struck a pine tree and distributed its fragments over a circle of about one hundred feet in diameter.

The Hindoo Patriot says:—"We are glad to hear that his Excellency the Viceroy has sent in Rs.1,000 in aid of the Professorship Fund of Dr. Sircar's Science Association. We trust that our countrymen will come forward with their subscriptions to make up the estimated amount of a lakh of rupees and enable the authorities of the Science Association to endow the Professorship by the time his Excellency returns from the hills."

The Lieutenant Governor will leave Darjeeling for Calcutta on the first of next month, and will, probably remain there during the greater part of the month, engaged on matters connected with the Bengal Tenancy Bill. Says the Englishman: "In thus acting, his Honour sets a good example to other Governors and Lieutenant Governors, for he comes down to Calcutta to work, and does not expect the work to go to him at Darjeeling."

Details of the treaty arranged by Admiral Hewett with King John of Abyssinia have reached the Viceroy.

At a meeting of the Viceregal Legislative Council on Wednesday, June 25, a bill to amend and define the law of testamentary and intestate succession of Khojas was introduced.

The Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab has sanctioned the issue of a lakh and a-half of debentures by the Simla Municipality in connection with the Town Hall scheme.

A scheme is under the consideration of the Government of India for increasing the strength of the native army. The proposal is believed to be to raise two or three new regiments.

It is thought probable that the proposed Afghan Frontier Commission will be arranged on the Russian side on a somewhat imposing scale, especially as regards the escort. There is a talk of fixing the British escort at one mountain battery, a regiment of Bengal Lancers, and a detachment of Native Infantry.

At Howrah, on the 16th ult., a Hindoo woman died of hydrophobia. She was lately bitten by a jackal while on her way to a tank near her house, where she was in the habit of bathing.

The proposal made some time ago by Captain J. M. Brebner, I.N., then officiating Port Officer, Calcutta, to introduce a system of surf boats at False Point, at a reasonable cost, for the purpose of rendering immediate help in cases of accidents has been negatived.

A proposal has been made to establish a branch of the Asiatic Society in Behar. The idea, it appears, originated with the Joint Magistrate of Bankipore, Mr. Grierson. A capital of Rs.1,25,000 would be necessary to meet all the expenses of keeping up a library and museum, as well as of publishing vernacular manuscripts, purchasing books, &c., and another sum of half a lakh for the erection of the building.

The Rajah of Cooch Behar has arrived at Simla on a visit.

The Allahabad paper learns on what it describes as good authority that the Russians have occupied the right bank of the Hari-rud opposite Sarakhs.

The cost of the annual migration of the Government of India to Simla is roughly estimated at from four to five lakhs of rupees.

We hear that the Government of India has resolved to do away with the extra privilege leave now enjoyed by the Punjab Frontier Force, and to allow officers in that force to take only two months' privilege leave yearly, instead of ninety days, thus bringing them under the same conditions regarding leave as obtained in the Bengal Army generally.

One night last week twelve rifles were stolen from the barracks of the 98th Regiment in the cantonments at Quetta. The robbery is supposed to have been committed by Pathans, who appear to be growing more audacious every day.

The Ameer is said to be in financial difficulties, and has decided to pay his troops for ten months in the year instead of twelve.

MADRAS.

Mr. Grant Duff was expected to arrive in Madras on Sunday, June 29, and was to leave again on the 1st inst.

It is stated on apparently good authority, that the Madras Government have countermanded the removal of the Military Accounts Offices from Madras to Bangalore.

A movement is on foot in Madras to adopt measures for the improvement of religious institutions in that presidency.

Small-pox has broken out at Bangalore, and several deaths of Europeans have occurred. The authorities are considering the propriety of introducing compulsory vaccination into the cantonment.

The Calcutta Statesman says:—"A strange communication reaches us from Mr. Wallace, the Madras civilian, telling us that he is going to sue the Executive Government of Madras for £25,000 damages, for removing him from the service, and to take criminal proceedings against them simultaneously. The following tempting proposal is then made to us:—

"I invite you to subscribe to a loan bearing interest at six per cent. per annum, to enable me to vindicate my rights, which are those of every member of the service. It will be necessary for me to raise about Rs.15,000.

"I undertake to pay the loan immediately upon the favourable termination of the suit, or otherwise as soon as I shall have the means to do so.

"A receipt will be sent to you for the amount of your subscription." Mr. Wallace's modesty appears to be equalled only by his eccentricity.

SIR FREDERICK ROBERTS'S TOUR.—The Commander in Chief of Madras, accompanied by General Godfrey Clerk, Adjutant General; General Stewart, Quartermaster General; his Military Secretary, and two Aides, shortly proceeds on tour, leaving Ootacamund on the 28th instant. He is expected to arrive at Bangalore on the 9th July, and will proceed thence to Trichinopoly on the 26th idem. Between leaving Ootacamund and his arrival at Bangalore, his Excellency visits Bombay to see Lady Roberts off to England.

BOMBAY.

H.E. the Governor of Bombay has nominated Jaswatsinjee T. Futehsingjee, Thakore Saheb of Limree, an additional member of his Excellency's Council for the purpose of making laws and regulations only.

The guarantee fund of the Bombay International Exhibition now stands at upwards of six lakhs of rupees, exclusive of the Government contribution of two-and-a-half lakhs, and the sum of Rs.50,000 offered by the Thakore of Bhownugger.

The Bombay Government have passed the resolution thanking the members of the Bombay Committee of the Calcutta Exhibition for their exertions.

Mr. W. E. Hart, Chief Judge of the Bombay Court of Small Causes, has been appointed to act as Judge of the Bombay High Court during the absence of Mr. Justice Bayley on leave.

On Thursday, June 26, an entertainment was given in Bombay in honour of the elevation of Mr. Justice Nanabhai Haridas to the bench of the local High Court.

The Bank of Bombay has reduced its minimum rate to 6 per cent. per annum.

The total loss by the fire at Ahmedabad will not exceed seven or eight lakhs of rupees.

Throughout the past week two or three showers fell in Bombay. The heavy rains recommenced on Sunday.

The Bombay Corporation have appointed a special committee on the subject of the house connections in the first section of the drainage system, the cost being greater than was estimated.

Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy, Mr. Nanaboy Byramjee Jeejeebhoy, the Hon. Rao Saheb Mandlik, and Mr. E. C. K. Ollivant, have been added to the Special Committee of the Bombay International Exhibition.

Major Hunter has been sent to the Somali coast by the Government of India in order to alleviate any inconvenience arising from a change in the political situation of the country from which the supplies for Aden come.

Another caste dispute has come before the Bombay High Court. The plaintiffs seek to restrain the defendant, as manager of the property of the Hallai Bhattia caste, from allowing other castes to use the cart and utensils belong to the Hallai Bhattias.

TRAFFIC ON THE B. B. and C. I. RAILWAY.—The decrease in goods traffic on the B. B. and C. I. Railway for the week ending June 21, 1884, was 109,247 maunds, and in money Rs. 17,965.

THE RAJABAI TOWER CLOCK.—During the squally weather which prevailed last week the dial on the south side of the University (Rajabai) Tower clock was considerably damaged. It is now undergoing repairs.

STATEMENTS OF SILVER BALANCE IN THE MINT.—The value of the silver in the Mint on the morning of the 16th June was Rs. 50,41,027; in addition silver received during the week Rs. 1,64,485. New coin paid during the week, Rs. 12,00,000. The balance left was Rs. 40,05,512. There is in addition Rs. 6,01,584 worth of silver bullion belonging to private individuals deposited in the Mint vaults, awaiting assay.

The inhabitants of Billimora, Nowsaree, and other adjacent towns under the jurisdiction of the Baroda State have sent a petition to his Highness the Gaekwar, praying that a permanent native surgeon be appointed by the Government for the benefit of the poor. The petitioners represent that recently on account of the opening of new mills and other factories a number of accidents happen to poor men who have to be removed to Surat for treatment. Mr. Bomonjee, the son of the celebrated bone-setter Bhimjee, who hitherto used to visit Nowsaree and Billimora once a week, has latterly discontinued his visits owing to pressure of work. The petitioners now pray that Mr. Bomonjee be appointed by Government to include these two towns in his circuit. It may be remembered that the late Sir Bartle Frere once fell off from his horse and broke his leg in England. On his return to India it was pronounced by medical authorities that the bone had not been properly set. Mr. Bhimjee, the late bone-setter, was called in, and Sir Bartle Frere was able to walk unassisted within ten days.—Times of India.

BURMA.

Only one death is reported as the result of the recent cyclone at Akyab. A beam fell on a native and injured him so severely that he died a few days afterwards in hospital.

Labour which had risen to Rs. 2 a day after the cyclone has now come down to Rs. 1-4 a day. We are informed it is likely to stop at twelve annas a day for the remainder of the year.

The cyclone has destroyed the mangoes, and none are to be had in the market.

The Deputy Commissioner of Thonegwa, on his way to Maubin from Yandoon, saw a dead body rolled up in a mat floating down the river, and he directed the police to have it conveyed to the doctor for examination. Although the body was decomposed marks round the neck pointed to a violent death.

According to Rangoon correspondents, King Theebaw has entered into an offensive and defensive treaty with France.

The Meingoon Prince of Burma recently escaped from Chandernagore, but was subsequently arrested at Colombo.

The Meingoon Prince, who was recently captured at Colombo, escaped from Chandernagore through the agency of a French friend at Pondicherry. It is supposed that he left the latter place in the Messageries Maritimes steamer Tibre which vessel sailed on the 17th instant. The story goes that the Prince was smuggled on board in a box as part of the personal baggage of one of the passengers.—Times of India.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

CHOLERA IN INDIA.

In answer to Dr. Cameron, Mr. Cross said: I have no objection to lay on the table a copy of the correspondence referred to in my hon. friend's question. But I must state that the view which has for a long time past been pressed upon the local sanitary officers by the Government of India in the sanitary department and by the Army Sanitary Commission is that, in their annual reports the sanitary officers should refrain from stating theories as to the propagation of cholera, and should state facts bearing upon the question only after careful authentication. The sentence quoted in the question is unfinished. It ends thus—"in order that cholera, when it does appear, whether coming from without or evolved locally, may fail to find those congenial surroundings in which experience shows that it is most likely to develop and spread."

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

SALT-TAX IN INDIA.

Mr. J. M'CARTHY asked whether the poorest classes of the native populations complained that the reduction of the salt-tax had been made an excuse by officials of the Salt Preventive Department, to force people to give up the use of "spontaneous" salt, which rises to the surface in various places up-country; and whether large numbers of natives, too poor to pay for the taxed salt, were compelled to give up the use of salt altogether, or to render forced labour in order to procure Government salt manufactured on the coast.

Mr. CROSS: I have explained more than once that the use of untaxed salt in India is now, as it has been for many years, illegal. I hardly understand the second clause of the hon. member's question. Forced labour, in the sense of the corvée, does not exist in India.

THE CHOLERA.

Mr. J. M'CARTHY asked the Under Secretary for India, whether his attention had been lately called to an article published in the Madras Medical Journal, in July, 1870, entitled "Salt as a preventive of cholera," and describing various instances in which an extra supply of salt had preserved certain villages, settlements, or barracks in India from choleric attack during the successive recurrences of the disease; and whether the statements contained in that article did not seem to the Government a reason for taking steps for the still further reduction of the salt tax.

Mr. CROSS: I have not been able to procure the number of the Madras Medical Journal for July, 1870, to which the hon. member calls my attention. In reply to his question, I can only repeat what I stated to the House on the 7th, that there is no reason to believe that want of salt has any connection with cholera in India, and that in the present state of the finances there is no immediate probability of a further reduction of the salt tax. (Hear, hear.)

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY.

EAST INDIAN MEDICAL SERVICE.

On going into Supply, Mr. GIBSON drew attention to the grievances of the Indian Medical Service. The seniors had suffered losses by the abolition of administrative appointments and the violation of privileges secured to them by the Government of India Act, while considerable disappointment had been caused to the juniors by the stagnation of promotion, the delay in receiving employment, and by inadequate pay. He moved a resolution, which was seconded by Sir L. Playfair, declaring that the condition of the service required the immediate attention of the House, and expressing a hope that the complaints would speedily be remedied.

Mr. CROSS replied on behalf of the Indian Government, justifying the present arrangements as just and reasonable. It was necessary, he pointed out, to maintain a reserve of medical officers over and above the number actually employed, and he went at length into the various official "Memoranda" to refute the charge of bad faith. He showed also that the Indian medical officers were in a better position than the British Army medical officers in India; but he promised that the subject should receive the sympathetic attention of his department.

Sir T. LAWRENCE, Mr. LEAMY, Mr. HEALY, and Dr. FARQUHARSON spoke in support of the motion, and ultimately it was negatived without a division.

LAWN TENNIS.—Tennis is our most popular, we may almost say our national game, running side by side as it does with cricket, from which game it takes nothing, but rather gives much in quickness of eye, hand, and foot; and last, but not least, considerable staying powers and strength of wrist. To the attention of the stern as well as the fair disciples of this game we commend the scientific productions of Messrs. C. Malings and Co., 18, Cockspur-street, Charing-cross. To say that the materials used by this well-known firm are of the first quality only is needless, but it is our pleasant task to bring to our readers' notice a few of their most recent inventions all of which are of practical worth and utility. We allude to the "Quatrefoil" grip handle, giving as it does the firmest hold possible, as well as being cool and comfortable to the hand. The "Perfect" tennis bat with quite straight head. The frame of this bat is levelled, and by this being done an extra thickness can be given to the inside of the frame, and without increasing the weight, and in addition to this it gives an extra width to the playing surface of the bat. The "Pillar" and the "Disraeli," made specially for asphalt and cinder courts, the gut being quite inside the frame, and not even visible from the outside. We strongly advise our readers to give these improved racquets a trial, and they will be convinced of their superiority.

THE TEA PLANTERS AND THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

In February last an article appeared in the Morning Post inviting the consideration of all concerned in the cultivation of Indian tea to the danger lurking in the Bengal Tenancy Bill towards their interests. The article was subsequently published as a leaflet by the London Committee which has been formed to oppose the Bengal Tenancy Bill, and it is understood that it was written by a well-known official who has made the Bengal Tenancy Bill the subject of his particular study. The attention of the Indian community has also been drawn to the question in the columns of this paper, and it is one of so much importance to the tea interest that no apology is needed for again taking notice of it. It is a well-known maxim that when a neighbour's house is on fire, it is necessary to be on the alert—and there is a community of interest between those who cultivate tea and those who cultivate the crops in India, which cannot be disregarded.

The Bengal zemindar holds his land under a title nearly a century old, whilst there are very few teaplanters who can show the prescription of a quarter of a century in their favour. Some tea estates are held in fee simple—but the majority of them are only protected by leases or different terms of years and with various conditions, granted under certain rules, Assam rules, Cachar rules, or Chittagong rules, which were framed and modified from time to time by the Local Government, or the Calcutta Board of Revenue. If the Government does not scruple to interfere with the rights and privileges of the Bengal zemindars, what is there to prevent it from imposing new conditions and restrictions on those who have taken land for the cultivation of tea?

If a zemindar is to be prohibited under the Tenancy Bill from letting his lands by private contract without the interference and approval of some Government official, or of the Civil Court, why is the Government to be expected to hold its hand from meddling with the private contracts of tea planters? It is not so much the particular action of Government in any one case which has to be feared—but it is the Socialist principle which Lord Ripon's Government has adopted, and when a precedent has once been established there is no limit to the cases to which it may be hereafter applied. Let the tea planters rouse themselves to action before it is too late.

THE PROTEST OF THE GAYA ZEMINDARS AGAINST THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

The following telegram was received in London last Tuesday :—

"A large and influential meeting of the Maharajahs, Rajahs, and other Zemindars of the Gaya district, numbering one thousand, was held at Gaya yesterday (Monday, July 14), Rajah Ranbahadur Singh in the chair. The Bengal Tenancy Bill, as revised in the Select Committee of the Legislative Council, was unanimously condemned, and the following resolutions were passed :—

1. That the landlords and the cultivators of this district have read, with much alarm and distress, the different provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Bill, as revised in Select Committee, which, far from conferring any substantial benefit either on landlords or on tenants, open a wide door to ruinous litigation, and override long-revered custom and the law of the country.

2. That the landlords and tenants of this district have been surprised to notice that the peculiar circumstances of this district, and the land tenures obtaining here, are little known to the members of the Legislative Council who framed the Bill; and that the provisions regarding Bhaoli tenure, which is the life and soul of the agricultural community here, have been framed in total misconception of its nature and incidents.

3. That the provisions in the Bill for the appointment of managers in cases of disagreement between joint owners would impose an additional penalty for an offence already covered by the Indian Penal Code.

4. That the zemindars were not properly represented in the Select Committee.

5. That the proposal to make a general survey of the country and prepare price lists, table of rates, and record of rights, is quite impracticable, and will entail ruinous costs on ryots as well as zemindars.

6. That the proposal to give to ryots unlimited power of transferring their tenures will eventually prove ruinous to them."

Here, once more, we find the people of a vast territory affected by Lord Ripon's confiscatory proposals, coming forward in public meeting to utter their indignant protest against the passing of any such iniquitous measure. The resolutions, which are worded in very moderate and logical language, state facts which are absolutely undeniable; and they cannot fail, we believe, to produce a strong effect on the sympathies of the generous British public—and even, we would fain hope, on the conscience of the Government. There is something really pathetic in these earnest appeals against the iron despotism of Lord Ripon's administration, from the helpless people "whose rights, whose social position, nay, whose very means of living"—as the Maharajah Sir Jotendro Mohun Tagore feelingly declared—"are at stake," threatened by the perverse folly of such reckless and irresponsible legislators as Mr. Ilbert and the present Viceroy.

The charge contained in the fourth of the Gaya resolutions is a serious one, of a nature that has happily been almost unknown in regard to Indian legislation until these days of Radical "engineering;" and yet it is most clearly proved, alike by the composition of the Select Committee, and by the Minutes of Dissent recorded by the Hon. the Maharajah of Darbhanga and the Hon. Kristodas Pal. The Select Committee seems to have been packed with thick and thin supporters of Lord Ripon's socialistic views, with an audacity worthy of the great Schnadhorst himself. A signed article in a Review, advocating these opinions, was sufficient to obtain for its author an immediate appointment to the Viceroy's council; whilst, in the Select Committee, the two solitary supporters of the other side—nominated, apparently, to give some colour to proceedings that were at once a gigantic sham and a disgraceful farce—were outvoted on every important point, hurried from clause to clause until the strongest physical energies were over-taxed and wearied out, and left to record unavailing dissents at the fall of the curtain. This kind of "engineering" would doubtless win the applause of the Caucus, and is perhaps considered the right thing at Birmingham; but it is—as the Times once said on a memorable occasion of not altogether dissimilar nature "an innovation" entirely out of harmony with the traditions of English public life. Of the various injuries that have been inflicted on India by the present administration, not the least has been the introduction of a spirit of "smartness, and "sharp practice" into the management of affairs, that is not only exceedingly repugnant to English feeling, but is calculated to do immense harm to our reputation for fair and honest dealing.

THE INDIAN MEDICAL SERVICE AND THE RADICAL GOVERNMENT.

SELDOM has a more shifty reply been offered by a responsible Minister of the Crown to the clear and undeniable grievance of a great Department of the Public Service, than that which was given by Mr. Cross last Friday to Mr. Gibson's motion for justice to the officers of the Indian Medical Service. We entirely agree with Mr. Gibson, Sir Lyon Playfair, Mr. Plunket, and the other members who represented the conscience of the House of Commons on the occasion, that it is nothing less than monstrous that officers should go on active service, and should positively bleed and die in their country's cause, and all the time be treated as "unemployed"—in order to save, forsooth, a few of those rupees that are so lavishly squandered on the annual picnic to the Hills of Lord Ripon's luxurious Government! The case of the department, as stated by Mr. Gibson, was absolutely unanswerable if the ordinary plain interpretation of ordinary plain English is still to be retained as governing covenants between the Government and its employes. But the amazing dialectical subtlety of the present Ministry seems to be equal to the repudiation of the most clearly-worded documents. In the controversy on the Bengal Tenancy Bill, Lord Ripon and Mr. Ilbert maintain that the meaning of the word "proprietor" in the Permanent Settlement, when referring to a "proprietor" of land in Bengal, simply is, the person who has the privilege of paying the Government revenue demand on that land, but who does not necessarily possess any other rights in it! After such a feat in the manipulation of awkward language as that, one need not waste any surprise on the cleverness with which Mr. Cross shows that, when the Government promised a certain thing to officers entering its Medical Department, it did not really promise that certain thing at all, but something altogether different, and something not nearly as valuable. But, surely, after the publication of Friday's debate, the matter cannot be allowed to stand where it does. We doubt whether Mr. Cross himself, Radical though he be, could read through the report of the speeches without feeling that his own was something worse than inadequate. Let the Department take courage; after such an exposition of its case, it is bound sooner or later to obtain justice, if only it has the resolution to persevere, and the loyalty to be united in its efforts.

HOME NEWS.

EASTERN BENGAL RAILWAY.—The adjourned general meeting of this Company was held on Monday, July 14, at the offices, Gresham-street, Guildhall. Mr. J. F. Leith, Q.C., presided and reminded them of the circumstances which had led to the present meeting. Since the last meeting, at the wish of the stockholders, the directors have been negotiating with the Governor of the Bank of England as to the terms on which the Bank would undertake the distributions of the annuities and the management of the sinking fund. The price asked by the Bank for undertaking these duties was £1,000 per £1,000,000 on the value of the annuities capitalised at ten years' purchase, the effect being that they would have to pay the Bank £1,391 per annum. They had endeavoured to get a reduction in this sum, but ineffectually. The terms were subject to the condition that the stock should be transferred in the books of the Bank, like the National Debt. The Act for vesting the concern in the Secretary of State for India had been modified so far as regarded the change which had been made with respect to the management. The management of the line would be vested in the company up to the end of the year, and, therefore, the annuity charge would not become payable until January next. He then moved a resolution approving the Bill as amended. The motion was seconded and unanimously adopted.

THE AFGHAN WAR.—According to a Parliamentary return just issued, the amount required in the year ending March, 1885, as an instalment of a grant in aid of the expenditure incurred by the Government of India upon the war in Afghanistan in the years 1878 to 1880 is £250,000. This is a decrease of £250,000 on the grants made in 1883-84. A note added to the return states that the imperial grant in aid of this expenditure will amount, in all, to £5,000,000, of which part has been met by the remission (by 44 and 45 Vic., c. 54) of the debt of £2,000,000 incurred by the Government of India in 1879, under 42 and 43 Vic., c. 45, and £2,500,000 has been provided by previous votes in supply.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—The tenders for Rs. 25,00,000 in bills on India and also in telegraphic transfers were received July 16 at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were:—In bills on Calcutta, Rs. 87,500, average rate, 1s. 7½d.; on Bombay, Rs. 4,02,500, average rate, 1s. 7½d.; and on Madras, Rs. 91,700, average rate, 1s. 7½d. In telegraphic transfers on Calcutta Rs. 18,35,000, average rate, 1s. 7½d.; and on Bombay, Rs. 2,80,000, average rate, 1s. 7½d., or a total of Rs. 26,96,700. Tenders for bills at 1s. 7½d., and for telegraphic transfers at 1s. 7½d. will receive 35 per cent. and above in full. Later in the day the Council sold one lakh of transfers on Bombay at 1s. 7½d., and bills for Rs. 40,000 on Madras at 1s. 7½d. Between April 1 and July 15, the total amount of remittances disposed of had reached Rs. 5,36,78,517, realising £4,417,996.

ORIENTAL BANK.—We are informed that the more easily liquidated assets of this bank continue satisfactorily to run off, and that good progress is also being made with the remainder. An attempt was made to liquidate the Melbourne branch independently, but it was frustrated by the Court here telegraphing to the Bank's solicitors to pay the petitioners' costs, which was done. The liquidator took similar action, which was only to be expected, but we believe there is no precedent for the course adopted by the Court. The Judge, however, considered the matter to be of such pressing importance that, after consultation with his chief clerk, he determined in the interests of the shareholders to telegraph direct. There is a precedent, we believe, for the course pursued by the creditors at Melbourne, a similar attempt to secure an advantage over the body of the creditors having been made in the case of a branch of the Commercial Bank of India. The date for the payment of the call on the shares has now been postponed till November, when, however, the whole amount of £25 will be required. The whole call will, it is anticipated, realise £1,500,000 which, together with the entire paid-up capital, balances the estimated value of the Ceylon and Mauritius properties. With a view to ascertaining which of the Mauritius properties shall be kept working and which sold, Mr. Welton has sent out Mr. Shand Harvey who will report on them as a whole. So far the expenditure of the money spent in keeping these properties going is held to have been amply justified. Certain difficulties with primary mortgages have been arranged by finding other capitalists willing to take their place. Possible foreclosure difficulties have thus been avoided. At the Madras branch it has been discovered that owing to two failures the Bank will unfortunately lose about £20,000. At another branch a loss has been sustained of about £300. Among the various assets which have had to be dealt with, there was a large amount of rupee paper which required much care as regards its realisation, owing to the sensitiveness of all securities resting on a silver basis. The amount, however, has been almost entirely disposed of through the Union Bank of London at a satisfactory price to the National Bank of India, through whom it found its way to India. It will be remembered, further, that the bank's interests in Ceylon consist of shares of the Company created to take over the properties in which its money had become locked up. To attempt to realise these shares here, or for that matter anywhere else, would have been to throw them away; Mr. Welton has, however, been enabled to associate himself with experienced gentlemen both here and on the spot who think they may be able to arrange to take over these shares upon conditions which will be favourable for the liquidation. Satisfactory, although slow progress, we learn, is being made by the promoters of the new bank, though at present, no fresh announcement can be made regarding it.

OBITUARY.—General Henry William Matthews, of the Bengal Infantry, Retired, has just died, at the age of seventy-eight, entered the Indian Army in 1824, obtained a lieutenancy in 1826, and was promoted to a captaincy in 1839. He served in the campaigns in Afghanistan in 1839-40, being present throughout the operations of the Candahar force, and at the capture of Istaliff. He was also present at the battle of Maharajpore in 1843, served in the Sulej campaign in 1846, and took part in the battle of Sobraon. His subsequent promotions were—Major in 1851, Lieutenant Colonel 1857, Colonel 1862, Major General 1868, Lieutenant General 1875, and General 1877.

CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.—The following are declared by the Civil Service Commissioners to have obtained the first thirty-eight places in the recent open competitive examination for the Civil Service of India, but their selection is conditional on their passing a medical examination, which will be held in London in the course of a few days:—

RAILWAY EXTENSION IN INDIA.—On Friday the Select Committee of the House of Commons appointed to inquire into the question of the railway communications in India with a view to their extension, and with special reference to the reports of the Famine Commissioners, held their final meeting and agreed upon a report. Substantially the Committee approve of the recommendations of the Indian Government, and have unanimously agreed that railway extension upon a scale limited by safety and the prospect of remuneration is very desirable in the country. The Committee did not agree with the hypothecation of the famine fund for the purpose of paying interest on railway lines, as recommended by the Indian Government, being of opinion that that sum should remain intact as a famine fund, although its distinction from the rest of the finances is not particularly clear. While approving an extension of the sum asked for by the Indian Government—viz., 28 millions sterling for new lines and five and a-half millions for improving existing lines, the Committee attach a condition that all those operations should be conducted without imposing any fresh taxation upon the Indian people for railway purposes. The responsibility of carrying out the measures, and the time for initiating them, was thrown largely upon the Secretary of State for India. The system of guarantee was acknowledged to be necessary, under varied conditions, according to the circumstances of the line. The question of borrowing in India and England led to considerable discussion, and it was determined that the procedure should be guided by the economy of the case. While it was thought very desirable to borrow in India, and as much as possible to have bond fide Indian subscriptions, yet it was clear that there was a strict limit to the amount that could be raised in that way and that it would be likely to compare unfavourably in economy with lines in England. Consequently, these sources of supply are kept open to the judgment of the parties.

THE SILVER MARKET AND THE EASTERN EXCHANGES.

MONDAY.—Bar silver is unchanged at 50 13-16d. per ounce, and the market has been very quiet. Some parcels of Mexican dollars which were brought by the French and Royal Mail packets have been placed at 50½d. per ounce for China, there being a general demand for the coins for that quarter, caused to a great extent by the requirements arising out of the military operations of the French troops in the far East. The price obtained for the coined silver was thus ½d. above the late nominal quotation. Indian telegraphic transfer rates are firmer at 1s. 7 17-32d., and the Shanghai exchange rate has advanced to 5s. 2d. per tael, the Hongkong quotation remaining at 3s. 9d. per dollar. There is no change in the price of Rupee Paper, and the recorded transactions are limited. The Four-and-a-Half per Cents. closed at 83½ 83½, and the Four per Cents. at 81½ 81½.

TUESDAY.—The silver market has been very quiet, the whole of the available supplies having been absorbed. Bars are quoted at 50 13-16d., and Mexican dollars at 50½d. per ounce. Indian and China exchange rates are unaltered, but Rupee Paper is firmer at 83½ 83½ for the Four-and-a-Half, and 81½ 81½ for the Four per Cents. The India Council sold two lakhs of telegraphic transfers on Bombay at 1s. 7 19-32d., and Rs. 51,000 of bills on Calcutta at 1s. 7 17-32d. per rupee.

WEDNESDAY.—The remittance of bar silver brought by the Hogarth was sold to-day at 50 13-16d. per ounce, showing no change. Mexican dollars also are unaltered 50½d., and there has been but very little business. The telegraphic transfer rates on India are firmer as regards Calcutta, which is now quoted at 1s. 7 9-16d. China exchange rates show no alteration, being quoted at 5s. 2d. in Shanghai, and 3s. 9d. in Hongkong. Rupee Paper closed at 83½ 83½ for the Four-and-a-Half, and 81½ 81½ for the Four per Cents.

THURSDAY.—Quotations for bar silver and Mexican dollars are unchanged, at 50 13-16d. and 50½d. per ounce respectively, and there has again been very little business. The Bank of Bengal discount rate has been reduced from 5 to 4 per cent., and the Calcutta telegraphic transfer rate has receded to 1s. 7 17-32d. This is, however, the only alteration in the Eastern exchanges. Rupee Paper continues steady, at 83½ 83½ for the Four-and-a-Half, and 81½ 81½ for the Four per Cents.

FRIDAY.—Indian exchange rates are weaker at 1s. 7½d., owing to the further decline in the value of money in Calcutta, and bar silver has receded 1-16d. to 50½d. per ounce, at which a very small amount of business has been done. Mexican dollars remain at 50½d. and there has been scarcely any business, all available supplies having been taken by the vessel which has left for China. The Hongkong and Shanghai rates of exchange show no alteration, and Rupee Paper has been quiet all day at 83½ 83½ for the Four-and-a-Half and 81½ 81½ for the Four per Cents.

SATURDAY.—There have been no dealings in the Silver Market, and the prices of bars and dollars are unaltered. Eastern exchange rates show no alteration, but Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Rupee Paper has fallen ½ to 83½ 83½, the Four per Cents. remaining at 81½ 81½.

LONDON PRODUCE MARKETS.

MONDAY EVENING.

TEA.—At the Indian auctions 2,772 packages were offered, and mostly sold at firm prices, competition being very brisk for the finer lines. About 1,500 packages consisted of new season's teas, the finer Darjeelings bringing full prices. The steamers Pathan and Benalder have docked, but samples will not be offered till to-morrow morning. Private business meanwhile has been very stagnant for the home trade; for export, however, some contracts have passed in the lower grades of new season's blacks at from 8½d. to 9d. per lb. Public sales to-day consisted of only 2,025 packages green teas.

COTTON.—The market has been firm, and with rather more demand the sales since Friday amount to about 1,500 bales, including Tinnivelly, at 5½d. to 5 5-16d.; Western, 4d.; Bengal, 4½d. per lb. For arrival, Tinnivelly, May-August, Suez, 5d. for good fair. Forward delivery American, October-November, 63-64d. to 64-64d. for middling l.m.c.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—At the Indian sales to-day 1,400 packages passed at about previous rates. 930 chests Java tea sold, Souchongs at a slight decline. Pekoes at full prices. Since Monday samples ex s.s. Pathan and Benalder have been placed on the China market. The business privately has been very small, and that chiefly for export, in the lower and medium grades. Fine and finest Kin-Tucks are taken by the home trade, while choice pure Ningchows are neglected. These two cargoes represent 92,000 packages, of which about 55,000 have been offered. Contracts to this evening have been made for about 1,500 half-chests in public sale, and 8,000 half-chests by private contract. Prices in auction ranged from 9d. for common to 10½d. for very good common.

SUGAR.—The market to-day has been quiet but steady for cane descriptions. The sales of West India are 324 casks, making 1,180 casks since Friday, including 150 tons to-day. About 300 tons of cane Jagghery have sold during the week at 8s. to 9s. 6d.; 350 tons China at 8s. to 9s., and 50 tons native Penang at 9s. Floating a cargo of Porto Rico at 13s. 7½d., quay terms. Liverpool, and one of centrifugal at 17s. per cwt. U.K. Beet sugar is depressed. Clyde market steady.

COFFEE.—Good bold Plantation Ceylon in the public sales sold well at full prices, but for other kinds dull, and the market is flat. 171 casks 58 barrels and bags Ceylon sold—small and common, 55s. 6d. to 58s. 6d.; middling dull to good middling colory, 62s. 6s. 6d.; fine to rather bold, 72s. to 78s.; good and fine bold, 82s. to 96s. 69 casks 769 bags East Indian part sold at easier rates; low medium to bold pale and grayish, 52s. to 64s., small in proportion; 1,130 bags Guatemala chiefly bought in.

THURSDAY EVENING.

SUGAR.—Again no auctions were held to-day, but in the private market the tone was steady, though not active, and the sales reported consisted of 200 casks Jamaica at 11s. to 14s. Beetroot has met with rather more inquiry at yesterday's rates, sales having been made of German 88 per cent. at 13s. 7½d. to 13s. 9d. for July-Aug., f.o.b.

while new crop has been weaker, with sellers of German 88 per cent., Oct.-Dec., at 14s. 6d., and business done in Belgian 88 per cent., Oct.-Dec., at 14s. 3d., f.o.b. In the refined market sales to a moderate extent were made of pieces and centrifugals at yesterday's rates, while stoved goods were steady at previous prices. Further business has been done in Paris loaves at 20s. for Lebaudy's, and 20s. 3d. for Say's, f.o.b., and Dutch and Austrian crushed continue dull of sale.

TEA.—Messrs. Layton and Co. report: "1,637 packages offered at public auction on day of sale, and sold without reserve, as under: 1,426 half-chests new season's Congou, 8½d. to 11d.; 211 flowered-boxes new season's Congou, 1s. 5¼d. At to-day's unprotected sale a further slight decline was observable, several breaks selling at ¼d. under counterpart prices. In boxes the fall was 1¼d.

COFFEE.—Dull market, and a greater part of the quantity offered was bought in. 605 cases 1,115 bags East India were offered at auction, and mostly sold at easy rates for all excepting good bold Neilgherry, which realised full prices, viz.: 72s. for good middling old Naidooobitum, 60s. to 65s. for middling to good middling new Coorg, 68s. to 74s. 6d. for good middling to fine middling new Tellicherry, and 64s. to 64s. for good middling new Wynaad. 214 packages Jamaica sold at 41s. to 41s. 6d. for good ordinary mixed, and 44s. 6d. for fine ordinary. 1,907 bags Costa Rica were chiefly bought in, and about 350 bags Guatemala sold (out of 1,703 bags offered) at 46s. to 46s. 6d. for foxey dull greenish and grey, 47s. for fine ordinary foxey greenish, and 48s. to 49s. for fine ordinary and low middling dull grey.

RICE.—Quiet, and only 1,000 tons Rangoon, being part of a cargo, May sailing, has been sold for Liverpool, at 8s. 6d. ex quay.

COTTON.—Firm, with a fair business in East Indian at steady rates.

FRIDAY EVENING.

TEA.—To day's sales comprised 7,039 packages (6,864 packages Congou) "without reserve." 2,811 half chests "new season's" Congou sold from 8½d. to 10½d. per lb.; 468 half-chests, from 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 3½d. per lb.; and 211 bboxes, at 1s. 5d. per lb. The private contract market continues very dragging, and all kinds except the finest grades are most difficult to move.

SUGAR.—A very quiet tone has prevailed for raw sugar. At the auctions crystallised Demerara, at 19s. to 21s., was rather easier. Refining sorts of West India sold at 10s. 6d. to 13s. 6d. The total of West India sold to-day amounted to 540 casks, making for the week 1,846 casks and 5,000 barrels and bags. Beet dull, but closing rather steadier. From M. Bertrand Silz's report, dated Paris July 16:—"The last eight days include three holidays; they are, therefore, less interesting as regard transactions, but of the utmost importance for the future of the article. The levy of duty on the roots has been voted by Parliament, and the duties on consumption have been raised to 50¢ per 100 Kilos. of refined sugar. A favour is made to the sugar employed for wine, which will only pay 20¢ for 100 Kilos. The vote of the duty on the roots was foreseen and discounted. The discussion on the augmentation of the surtax began yesterday, and will follow and end to-morrow. Contrary to the last expectations, it seems that it will be also voted by Parliament; this is the general opinion this morning. At to-day's half-monthly liquidation 23,000 bags were tendered and promptly taken. July's delivery, which was at first sold at 44¢, has by degrees advanced to 44¢. 625¢

COFFEE.—No appreciable change to-day. The auctions went slackly 167 casks 130 barrels and bags of Plantation Ceylon sold—low to good middling, 59s. 6d. to 67s.; fine, 67s. to 69s. 6d.; bold, 84s. to 86s.; superior bought in at 98s. 39 casks 535 bags East Indian part sold—pale Mysore, low medium to rather bold, 58s. to 68s. 6d.; bold 84s., small in proportion. 154 half bales Mocha about half sold—greenish, 80s.; good garbled, 91s. to 92s.; 3,208 bags foreign about a third sold—Costa Rica, fine ordinary to middling, 49s. to 58s. 6d.; good 62s. to 67s.; fine bold, 76s. 6d.; Guatemala, fine ordinary greenish, 47s. to 48s.; middling to good greyish Honduras, 61s. 6d. to 72s. per cwt

RICE quiet, but steady tone.

CLOVES.—Zanzibar dearer, 5½d. reported paid.

The Government of India have resolved to do away with the extra privilege leave now enjoyed by the Punjab Frontier Force, and to allow officers in that force to take only two months' privilege leave yearly, instead of ninety days, thus bringing them under the same conditions regarding leave as obtained in the Bengal Army generally.

The question of camps of exercise at Delhi and Hassan Abdul is now under consideration at Army Headquarters. If the plan is carried out the camps will be on an unusually large scale, as the reliefs this year are very numerous, and many regiments marching up and down country can be halted for two or three weeks at the points of concentration.

The Government of India have decided that the special capitulation allowance of Rs.25 per annum shall be passed to all officers of the Army or retired officers holding commissions and unpaid appointments in Volunteer Corps; and that examinations for certificates of proficiency are not necessary in the case of field officers of volunteers who have held commissions as field officers, captains, or subalterns in the regular Army, and who have passed the examination for promotion to the rank of captain, or in the case of captains and subalterns who have served and passed the examinations for the rank of lieutenant in a similar arm of the regular services.

Lieutenants H. D. Merewether, 1st Battalion Essex Regiment; E. C. Barnes Cotgrave, 2nd Battalion Devonshire Regiment; Lieutenant C. J. Melliss, 2nd Battalion East Yorkshire Regiment; and W. O. Matless Mosse, 2nd Battalion Royal Lancaster Regiment, have been appointed probationers for the Bombay Staff Corps.

A LASKARI DICTIONARY,

OR,

ANGLO-INDIAN VOCABULARY OF NAUTICAL TERMS AND PHRASES IN ENGLISH AND HINDUSTANI.

Chiefly the Corrupt Jargon in use among Laskars or Indian Sailors.

Originally compiled by Captain Thomas Roebuck, Madras Infantry, Professor of Hindustani, Examiner, &c., in the College of Fort William, Calcutta: Revised and corrected by William Carmichael Smyth, Esq., B.C.S., and now carefully re-edited and enlarged by GEORGE SMALL, M.A. MISSIONARY, Formerly of the B.M.S. at Calcutta and Benares, now to the Laskars, &c., in London, in connection with the Asiatic Strangers' Home, Limehouse.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We have received a copy of what we venture to predict will prove one of the most useful books that ever fell into the hands of a ship's officer—a vocabulary of the sea jargon of Indian laskars." In the brief space of eighty-two pages Mr. Small has given us some 1,400 nautical terms, embracing nearly the whole vocabulary of native crews. We congratulate Mr. Small on the completion of a book which, if it is the least pretentious, is, to our thinking, the most useful and the most enduring of all the books he has yet written."—Statesman, Calcutta.

"Of the value of the present edition, for the intended purpose, it is difficult to speak too highly."—Home News, May 26, 1882.

CATECHISM OF SHORTHAND;

Being a Critical Examination of the various Styles, with special reference to the question, which is the best English System of Shorthand?

By

THOMAS ANDERSON,

Author of "History of Shorthand," &amp;c.

"That Mr. Anderson should be able to arrive at a sound and practical conclusion may be inferred from the fact that he has been a writer at intervals of phonography, Melville Bell's, Gurney's, Taylor's, and his own system of shorthand, and has also written a full and valuable history of the art."—Manchester Courier.

"We must say that there is a great deal of information crowded into small compass. At a time when shorthand is gaining an ascendancy in public attention previously unknown, we are sure that this little book by a practical man and an enthusiastic student of the history of shorthand, will be largely read."—Metropolitan.

"Youths about to learn shorthand should read this Catechism before making a start."—Western Times.

THE DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS.

W. THORNHILL & CO., Sole Agents.

The Reputation of the "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS," originally introduced into England by W. THORNHILL and CO., is now permanently established. The success of their enterprise has surpassed their most sanguine expectations. "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS" afford the only instance hitherto attained of the absolutely perfect representation of the real diamonds by artificial means. These remarkable stones, by their purity and brilliancy, support comparison with diamonds of the first water, and are undistinguishable therefrom. They are infinitely superior in every respect to real diamonds of inferior quality. "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS" were exposed side by side with real diamonds of great value in the Paris Exhibition, 1878, and were awarded a Prize Medal and the highest recompense awarded to imitations. They attracted universal attention and admiration, and forthwith became much in vogue with the grande monde and elite of society. They are now worn at the Court balls, and upon all occasions in London, Paris, and St. Petersburg. They are invaluable for intermixing with and replacing parures and other costly diamond ornaments. "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS" can be worn at all times, even by daylight, with confidence and absolute security. They possess the penetrating brilliancy and lustre peculiar to real diamonds, and the concessionaires guarantee the surprise and pleasure of purchasers. The perfection thus attained is the result of investigations and experiments extending over two generations. The cost, nevertheless, of the "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS" is about 1-300th that of real diamonds.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

TUESDAY, JULY 29, 1884.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 7; Madras and Allahabad, July 6; Calcutta, July 5.

In our leading columns to-day we speak of the irreparable loss suffered, not [by zemindars alone, but by the whole Empire, in the premature death of that patriot, the late Hon. Kristodas Pal, Rai Bahadur, C.I.E. We trust that the noble spirit which animated our lost champion will descend on those whom he has left behind to fight the battles of India and the Constitution in Bengal.

We deeply regret to have to record the death of one of the oldest and most valued contributors to Allen's Indian Mail. Sir Laurence Peel, the venerated ex-Chief Justice of Bengal, and the brother of the distinguished statesman and Prime Minister, has been for many years a constant writer in this journal; and his articles and letters—often appearing over his well-known signature—have always, we have reason to believe, been received by our readers with the attention and respect due alike to their intrinsic merits and to the vast experience and high authority of their author.

We learn by telegram that the various conferences of Commissioners with their district officers have now been completed, and that the reports are to be sent in to the Bengal Government on Saturday, the 2nd proximo. These reports will be forwarded by the Bengal Government—commented on, we trust, by Mr. Rivers Thompson himself, and not by Mr. Macdonnell only—early in September.

We would draw attention to the article of the Glasgow Herald on "Government by Picnic to the Hills," which we reprint elsewhere. The Herald is a Liberal paper with perhaps the largest and most influential circulation of any Scotch paper.

The Government of India has just settled the question of the Secretaries' pay. Hitherto the secretaries in the Foreign, Finance, and Home and Revenue Departments have drawn Rs.4,166, the junior secretary in the last two Departments, who just now happens to be the Home Secretary, receiving only 3,500. The pay of all the four appointments is now fixed at Rs.4,000, but the present incumbents' salaries are not to be cut down.

The frontier seems to be in the happy state that is nowadays considered normal. All that is yet known regarding the attack on the picket of the 5th Punjab Cavalry at Gumbay, near Thull Chotiali, is that it was "rushed" at night in the darkness. Only two men were seen. One trooper was badly wounded. The sentinel fired but missed. Some other outrages are reported.

The Pioneer has the following on the controversy between Sir Lepel Griffin and Mr. Slagg:—

"Sir Lepel Griffin holds that an occupation of Candahar would be incompatible with our present policy of friendship and support to the Amir. He is, therefore, anxious to avert the necessity of taking Candahar, and as most persons are agreed that this necessity would arise with the fall of Herat, he wants our Government to be firm about Herat. Our honour, he says, is pledged to the Amir to defend Herat for him. If we are regardless of this pledge then before long we shall find ourselves driven by the stress of events to occupy Candahar, and with this will go our present policy of strengthening and making a friend of the Amir. Now for the criticisms of Mr. Slagg, the Daniel come to judgment. Will it be believed that he confounds the two alternative lines of policy which Sir Lepel Griffin sets forth? He cannot, he says, understand why our honour should be pledged to go to war with Russia for the Amir, and should also be pledged to take Candahar to the ruin of the Amir. He derides the wisdom of "Indian experts," and sees in the blundering designs which he thus attributes to them a proof of the folly of knowing anything about the subject. The blunder, it need hardly be said, is his own. Sir Lepel Griffin did not say that we were bound in honour to take Candahar. He said we can only avert doing so by being staunch to the Amir and firm to Russia. Mr. Slagg has admirably shown the public how he would administer India in the room of the India Council. We are not in love with the Council, but we are inclined to prefer it to Mr. Slagg.

The Indian Statesman writes:—

"We regret to hear of the death, from cholera, of Dr. H. W. McCann, Professor of Mathematics, in the Presidency College. The deceased was a distinguished wrangler of Cambridge and D. Sc. of Glasgow. He entered the Bengal Educational Department in August 1879, which has lost in him one of its ablest men, much endeared to his pupils by his scholarly attainments and kindly demeanour. Dr. McCann was also Professor of Physical Science, and delivered a course of very interesting lectures in astronomy in connection with the Mahomedan Literary Society. He officiated as Principal of the Presidency College in the beginning of 1882, and a great deal of the success of the last centennial dinner was due to him. Dr. McCann was Secretary to the Calcutta Economic Museum, and to the Asiatic Society of Bengal, and was in charge of the educational exhibits at the late Exhibition. Dr. McCann distinguished himself as editor of the Calcutta Review, in succession to Mr. James W. Furell, late of the Englishman. The Presidency College was closed on Monday last upon the news of Dr. McCann's death being received.

The Pioneer Mail says:—

"The rumour which we recently noticed, only to contradict, that the Government of India contemplated raising new regiments, had its foundation probably in the fact that the Bombay Government recently suggested that an additional cavalry regiment should be raised for the Western Presidency. As we said before, it is idle talking of raising new regiments when sufficient recruits cannot be got for those which already exist. The statement that the cavalry on the frontier from Peshawur to Sibi were reduced from eleven to eight regiments is, of course, absurd. The 4th Punjab Cavalry alone were disbanded."

The Times of India says:—

"We hear from good authority that Commander Llewellyn S. Dawson, R.N., head of the Marine Survey of British India, has tendered his resignation to the Government of India. It is very strange that the Government of India when they get a good man from the Admiralty cannot keep him. The case of Captain Brent, late Director of the Indian Marine, will occur to all our readers. He was obliged to ask the Government to allow him to revert to Admiralty employ, pretty much, we believe, for the same reasons that have induced Captain Dawson to send in his resignation."

The Englishman says:—

"News has reached us through a trustworthy native source to the effect that Khuda Dad Khan, Khan of Kelat, has got into trouble with his own troops, some of the men having deserted, others having refused to serve any longer owing to the delay in the payment of their wages, that Government are in negotiations with the Khan with a view of occupying Mustang, on the road from Quetta to Kelat, and of converting the place into a military station, and that the immediate construction of a road from Dust, the head of the Bolan pass, to Kelat, has been ordered. The Khan of Kelat is the chief of all the Branhuys, both of the Thalarans, who live to the south of his capital, and the Sarawans, who come up as far as Sharod and Peshin. The measures which we have mentioned above, if they should be carried out, certainly show that Government intend to facilitate and render secure the communications between the chief Brahui town and Quetta, and to strengthen their hold on the country."

The Englishman gives the following account of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected up to Saturday the 5th inst:—

"We have had a very much quieter freight market since last mail, and only a limited amount of business has been put through at another advance of 1s. 3d. per ton for steam and sailing tonnage. The rise in rates has, however, apparently not been without effect, and has tended to put a stop to new business. For the new jute season two ships are reported chartered, at 35s. September, October, have already arrived, and will have a pleasant three or four months before them waiting for their cargoes, but this is as nothing compared to some of our unfixed vessels, which have now been laid up from eight to ten months, patiently waiting for coas. freights. Our unfixed tonnage stands slightly increased, amounting to 46,000 tons to-day."

WE take the following on the Calcutta Tea Market from Messrs. Thomas Watson and Co.'s Report:—

"Public sales were held on the 3rd instant, when 5,482 packages were offered, all of which were sold. There was a fair demand at previous sale rates."

THE Times of India has the following obituary till the departure of the Mail, July 8:—

Mr. Franklin Cary Prestage, Chanda Railway Survey Party; Mr. Charles Piffard, barrister at-law, Calcutta; Mr. Clements, Assistant Commissioner, British Burmah; Dr. Lokenath Mitra, of Calcutta; The Bibi Jana, wife of the late Ameer Sheer Ali, and mother of Sirdar Ibrahim Mahomed Khan; Captain J. Baggs, of the Veteran Establishment, Landour.

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

THE following are the general remarks of the Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ended June 25:—

"Rain has fallen during the past week all over the Madras Presidency, but except in the districts of Ganjam, Kistna, Malabar, and Travancore, the fall has not been heavy. More rain is wanted. In Mysore slight rain has fallen throughout the province, and in Coorg it has been beneficial for agricultural operations. Rain has been general in the Bombay Presidency, but more is wanted in several districts to facilitate sowing operations. The Berars have received a fair quantity, but in Hyderabad the fall of the week has been insufficient for sowings. Showers have fallen throughout the Central India States and Rajpootana, having been heaviest in the district of Indore, Sutna, Neemuch, and Goona in the former, and in the district of Abu, Meywar, Ajmere, Marwar, Kotah, and Jeypore in the latter. In the Central Provinces rain has been general, and in several districts very heavy. Rain has fallen in all districts in the North Western Provinces and Oudh, but unequally, and as yet insufficiently. In the Punjab good falls are reported in most districts, and prospects are said to have improved. In Burma heavy rain continues to fall, and in Assam the fall, though below that of last week, has been fair. In Bengal there has been good rain throughout the province; in Chittagong and Cuttack the fall was especially heavy. The last weather report, dated the 26th ult., of the Meteorological Department, shows a sudden cessation of rain in North Western and Central India. In Southern and Western India there have been some insignificant falls of rain; but in Orissa, Ganjam, and at Patna and Lahore the showers have been heavier. Agricultural prospects remain unchanged in Madras. Kharif operations are being actively carried on everywhere; sowings have commenced in Central India and Rajputana, and are in active progress in Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Punjab, and the Central Provinces. In Bengal harvesting of early paddy, mung and cheena (millet) is nearly over in places, and prospects of standing crops are good. In Assam rice and sugarcane are doing well, but the prospects of tea are not very favourable in Cachar. Prices are for the most part stationary. The public health is generally good. In Tanjore and Dharwar the mortality from cholera has been heavy."

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

THE following telegram was received from their correspondent by the Times, dated Calcutta, July 27:—

"The following is believed to be a correct list of the Indian portion of the Afghan Frontier Commission, so far as has yet been settled:—Mr. Stephen, of the Teheran Legation, Colonels Ridgeway and Stewart, Captains Durand, Yate, and De Lessoc, Nawab Mirza Hassan Ali Khan, of the Beloochistan Agency, Aslam Khan, brother of the British Agent at Cabul, and Mahommed Aslam Khan, Assistant Commissioner in the Punjab. There will also be a fourth native officer, who has not yet been selected. The names of the scientific staff has not yet been announced.

"Sir Tanjore Madava Rao, late Dewan of Travancore, has published a pamphlet called 'Reflections on Russia,' which is interesting as showing the views of an enlightened native statesman on the Russian menace to India. He says that Afghanistan is too barbarous and treacherous to be trusted, and the large subsidy paid to her is a sheer waste of money, while the arms presented to the Ameer will be turned against the donor with out the slightest scruple. He thinks that she loves Russia as little as England, and will side with the Power which is likely to carry the day. He therefore recommends a wise display of preparations. He adds:—

"Go not much beyond the frontier, in reliance on the friendship of Afghanistan; avoid the fatal error of exposing your main defences to an Afghan attack from behind, and a Russian attack in front; and run not the smallest risk of your communications being cut off."

"In his opinion, our main defence should be concentrated on one line, not far beyond the frontier; and then, if the Afghans saw that we were thoroughly prepared, we might more safely count on their support in preventing a Russian advance.

"As regards the necessary internal arrangements, he urges that the army should be kept in the highest state of efficiency, with a trained Reserve, and no paucity of European officers in the native regiments; that officers in civil employment should be sent back to their military duties, or struck off the army list altogether; and that the Government should insist upon a reform of the armies in the native States, and pre-emptorily forbid the native Princes to employ foreign mercenaries.

"The Calcutta Trades Association has followed the example of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce in calling attention to the inadequacy of the judicial staff of the High Court, and to the consequent delay in the determination of suits. It points out that while the letters-patent establishing the Court provide for the appointment of fifteen judges, the actual number has not, for some years past, exceeded twelve. Of these twelve, two, at least, it is added, are almost always absent on leave; and in a fit of misplaced economy the Government refuses to appoint any substitutes. As examples of the block of business, two pending suits are instanced. In one, the plaint was filed over a year ago, yet the cause stands 102 on the general list. In the other the plaint was filed last January, and the suit is now 205 on the list. There is, the memorialists say, but little hope of these cases being heard until two years have elapsed after their institution, and they observe that this delay is used by debtors as a means of gaining time. They assert that no extra charge will be entailed on the general revenue by increasing the number of judges; and they urge the Government to deal promptly with this serious evil.

"As regards the financial question, it may be mentioned that the Civil Courts of Bengal, after paying their own expenses, yield a profit of above seventy-five lakhs of rupees. Against this, however, the Government charges the cost of most of the criminal courts, the law officers, the jails, and the penal settlement of the Andamans. The fairness of compelling civil suitors to pay for the administration of criminal justice may well be doubted; but even after that has been done there remains a net profit from the Civil Courts of about twelve lakhs of rupees, which goes to swell the general revenue. It is believed that the Chief Justice has strongly urged upon the Government the necessity of appointing at least two more judges.

"Complaints regarding the state of the Courts are not confined to Bengal. The administration of justice is said to be unsatisfactory in the Punjab also. It is believed that the new scheme of a re-organisation of the Civil Service will make matters worse, for the allotment of all the prizes to the executive branch will tend to check the aspirations of the best men to the Judicial Bench. The abolition of second appeals, too, is clearly a mistake, especially in a province having an inefficient judicial staff. Here, again, the Government is moved by considerations of economy. Rather than strengthen the chief Court it proposes to restrict the right of appeal. In a word, the Indian Government is incurring serious danger of laying itself open to the charge that it sells the worst possible justice at the highest possible price.

"The Madras committee charged with the preparation of memorials against the official migration to the hills has forwarded to England sheets containing a large number of additional signatures. The total number of signatures in the memorial to the Viceroy is 26,044, in the petition to the House of Lords 29,159, and in the petition to the House of Commons 30,525. It is authoritatively stated, however, that there is no foundation for the rumours lately current regarding a curtailment of the Governmental visits to Simla.

"The recent exposure of the condition of affairs in Indore has already had a good effect. Holkar has suspended Bala Sahib from the exercise of power in this state, and will make a personal inquiry into the charges against him. He has also released the imprisoned traders and removed the attachments on their property, pending the hearing of the cases against them by the ordinary tribunals. The misgovernment which has prevailed in Indore is said to have reached such a height that many of the merchants found their only chance of safety to lie in residing within the grounds of the British Residency.

"Two cases which lately occurred fully bear out what I so often repeated during the Ilbert Bill controversy regarding the danger of having false charges brought against them to which isolated up country Europeans are exposed. In one case Mr. Francis, a tea planter, of Assam, was charged with causing the death of a coolie woman. An attempt was made to show that she kicked her to death, but on an analysis of the contents of her stomach it turned out that death was due to opium poisoning. In another case, Mr. Sgardelli, an Austrian, was tried at Hooghly on the charge of committing an assault on a coolie, which resulted in his death. In both cases the accused were tried by European judges and ably defended. The result was that the prosecution in each instance entirely broke down, and it became abundantly clear that the charge was false from beginning to end, and that it was supported by deliberately perjured evidence.

"The Madras Government has ordered an inquiry into a number of accusations against Mr. Atkinson, Collector of Tinnevely, of borrowing money from native inhabitants of his district.

"Great improvements in the money-order system will be introduced on October 11, the German system being closely followed. Coupons will be added to the orders, on which the remitters may communicate their wishes to the payees. Payment at the payee's residence will also be arranged for; and telegraphic money-orders will be introduced at a charge of 1 per cent, plus the cost of the telegram.

"A good rainfall is reported in the Punjab, except in the Sirsa district, and prospects are improving; but more rain is needed."

"Attempts are being made to import a factious spirit into the dispute between the Bengal Government and the Calcutta Corporation. A public meeting which was held on Saturday last, and was chiefly attended by natives, adopted a memorial to the Viceroy, which describes the Lieutenant Governor's action in suggesting the appointment of a Commission to consider the disputed questions of sanitation as illegal and unconstitutional, and as a covert attack on the policy of local self-government.

"The procedure which Mr. Thompson proposes to adopt although not that contemplated by the Municipal Act, is in no way contrary to the spirit of that Act; while the fact that the recommendations of the Commission are to be referred back to the Corporation shows that no attack on local self-government is intended. The Corporation will probably refuse to co-operate with the Commission. The contents that the health of the city is steadily improving, and that the recent cholera and small-pox epidemics were not due to defective sanitation.

"Crowded meetings of zemindars, called to protest against the Rent Bill, have been held at Bhaugulpore and Midnapore."

FROM CORUNA TO SEBASTOPOL.*

THIS unpretending but soldierly work is a history of C Battery A Brigade (late "C Troop") Royal Horse Artillery, "with succession of officers from its formation to the present time." The gallant writer assures us that he has stated nothing but what rests on a sound and authentic basis; and the list of authorities, private, published, and official, extends from the year 1798 to the publication of Duncan's recent Regimental History, and includes many continental sources of information. The first chapter gives a general account of the origin of Field Artillery; the second, an account of the Battery, or "Troop," from its first formation to it being sent to Spain in 1808; the third, a diary of the Coruna campaign, with appropriate remarks; the fourth carries on the record of the expedition of 1854; the fifth, sixth, and seventh give the Crimean campaign and services of the Battery there; the eighth (which is somewhat redundant) contains remarks on Cardigan's mad ride; the ninth and tenth finish the Crimea, and the volume concludes with the subsequent career of the Battery, with some notes on Indian service and general remarks. In every portion there is the same thorough knowledge, and the same devotion to the service, which ever form the characteristic of the British Artillery officer; a class of men of whom the country may well be proud.

PIASSETSKY'S TRAVELS.*

MR. PIASSETSKY is a Muscovite medical man, who, about ten years ago, accompanied Sosnowsky's expedition through Mongolia to Peking, returning through Central China. For want of a map the route is not so clearly made out as could be wished; nor are the latitudes and longitudes ever given. The expedition left the Russian frontier at Kiakhta, South of Lake Baikal, in the summer of 1874, proceeded S.E. to Peking; left that city after a short stay, for Shanghai; coasted the shores of the wide Yangtzi Kiang as far as Han Kao, where it receives the waters of the Han; boated up that river as far as Han Chung; crossed the Tsin-Ling Mountains, and marched through Fung tsiang, or Fou-Tzieng—Sien, as the author spells it—to Lan-Chu, the capital of the extreme northern province of Kan-Suh. Here they skirted the great wall as far as Su-Chu, and returned to Siberia by the ruined town of Khami, after being nearly lost in the Mongolian desert. They reached Zaissan on Oct. 14, 1875. The author is strangely ignorant of the world. A Mahomedan masjid puzzles him hopelessly: "A Mahomedan temple called mest-tzit," he says, which term seemed to apply to minarets or square towers rather than to the actual temples. He delighted the Chinese by informing them that England was always hostile to Russia, ever seeking to do us harm, and to encourage our enemies. In one place the Chinese were very disagreeable and rude; they took us to be English. The translation is easy, and the two little volumes are profusely illustrated with woodcuts from clever drawings, presumably by the author.

* Russian Travellers in Mogolia and China, translated by J. GORDON CUMMING. London: Chapman and Hall (Limited), 1881.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MR. BLUNT AND EGYPT.

TO THE EDITOR.

Sir,—I shall be much obliged to you if you will kindly give publicity to the inclosed correspondence,* or to so much of it as you may be able to print, as it is likely soon to be brought before Parliament. It records the final decision of Lord Granville to withdraw from me the protection universally accorded to British subjects in Egypt; and, what I believe is unique in diplomatic practice, to do so without being able to acknowledge any reason or pretext whatsoever. It refuses me also all explanation of certain attacks recently made upon my property at Cairo, as I have reason to believe with Sir Evelyn Baring's connivance, if not by his orders, and which have put me to a money loss of some two hundred pounds up to the present date. You will, moreover, observe that on my passage home from India, and while on board an Italian steamer in the Suez Canal, I was threatened with arrest should I leave the ship by an English lieutenant colonel acting under Nubar Pasha's and Sir Evelyn Baring's orders, and was formally prevented from passing through Egypt by the land route. With regard to my action in the matter since my return home, I must explain that I was unwilling to add at the moment of the Conference a private scandal of this sort to the not very credible history of mingled feebleness and violence which have characterised Sir Evelyn Baring's administration in Egypt as long as there remained a chance of obtaining justice from the Government, but that now in the threatened close of the session I am obliged, however inopportune, to bring it forward.

The points of the case which I wish to lay especially before the public are these:—Before the late war in Egypt, as is well known, I supported Arabi Pasha and the legal Ministers of the Khedive in their quarrel with Europe; and during the war I protested against its illegality, and after the war I defended the vanquished patriots, as far as a single voice and purse could defend them, against the vengeance of their enemies; nor have I since spared, from time to time, to speak the truth about the false dealing of men in our own high places who were shedding innocent blood and bringing an innocent people to their ruin. In this I have followed many illustrious examples, and among them none more so than the present Prime Minister's. What I attempted to do for Egypt, Mr. Gladstone long ago did for Italy and Bulgaria and Greece, and the recollection of his successful campaign against oppression in Naples has been my constant encouragement in my own battle with oppression on the Nile. Moreover, all that I have done has been done openly; and none know better than the Government that I have been serving an honourable cause by legitimate and honourable means. For this reason I have found myself in constant opposition to the Foreign Office, whose disingenuous policy I foresaw would bring ruin on Egypt and contempt on England; and it is natural that Lord Granville should have a special grudge against me and a special interest in keeping me away from the scene of his failure. But is it not carrying political animosity too far when his lordship uses his official power to exclude me arbitrarily from a country where I have property, and when he allows me to be harassed in my petty material interest there as a proprietor of land? Above all, is it not establishing a dangerous precedent, quite out of proportion to the immediate interests of his diplomacy, when he refuses, contrary to all diplomatic usage, to answer my complaint or even to state a reason good or bad for his subordinate's high-handed action? I submit that, if the principle be established that it depends upon the political goodwill arbitrarily exercised of the Ministry in office whether a particular British subject is or is not to be protected abroad, a long step will have been taken in the direction of limiting individual rights. For this cause I believe that I shall be supported, even by those most opposed to my political ideas in Egypt, in my demand for an explanation from Lord Granville. If I am to be excluded from Egypt, I must at least know why; and I challenge an inquiry into the whole circumstances of Sir Evelyn Baring's action against me, and if need be, into the whole of my own political connexion with Egyptian affairs. A mere statement that my presence in Cairo would have been inconvenient or dangerous at a given moment to Sir Evelyn's diplomacy will be insufficient, unless it can be shown in what manner. It certainly was not thought to be so as lately as September last, for I passed through Egypt in that month, was received by Sir Evelyn Baring, like any other English gentleman, and enjoyed his protection like any other British subject. Yet in December he notifies to me a decree of exile, in January he has my property seized, and in March he sends an officer to arrest me. This needs explanation, and, if unjustified, needs apology.

One thing at least will strike your readers as a sorry feature of the case. Whether or not Sir Evelyn Baring has cause to find my presence an embarrassment to him in Egypt, or a danger, I was neither, by a great deal, his greatest embarrassment nor his most dangerous enemy. For the last nine months he has put up with the presence at Cairo of every kind of foreign intriguer. He has not dared lift a finger against a single disturber of his peace who enjoyed the protection of the smallest European consul. He has remained impotent against the daily insults of the Levantine Press. He has had at his doors caballeros and plotters from the four corners of the earth. He has turned his cheek, and the cheek of his country, to every ignoble smiter. He has tolerated insult from every idle tongue. Only against myself, being neither a Frenchman, nor a German, nor an Italian, but a countryman of his own and a fair political opponent, he has dared use his otherwise useless authority—and this for the one sole reason that as a British subject it was safe to attack me, seeing that I had no diplomatic protection other than his own, nor other official tribunal than Lord Granville's to which I could appeal.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
WILFRID SCOWEN BLUNT.

THE HOME PRESS ON GOVERNMENT BY PICNIC IN THE HILLS.

THE particular happiness which gives occasion for dull annals seems to be the lot of India at the present moment—not, indeed, that it is without its political and social problems; on the contrary, it has at least two questions before it—the one of internal, the other of external, policy—which, if not in themselves of a burning character, may yet lead to conflagrations. There may be bound up in the Bengal Tenancy Bill an agrarian or racial revolution; in the Afghan Frontier Commission, a struggle for the greatest prize in Asia. But for the nonce both are on the shelf, much as a question before our own country must be considered to be shelved when it is being dealt with by a Special Committee or Commission. The Bengal Tenancy Bill has been taken to avizandum by the whole population of India. While the Central Government at Calcutta and the Bengal Government are trying to see eye to eye and face to face over the matter, its provisions are being disowned up hill and down dale. It is meeting with the bitterest opposition from all the conservative elements of native Indian society. Thus a crowded meeting of zemindars was held in one of the best known districts in Bengal the other day, at which were passed a number of resolutions antagonistic to the measure, the first and last of which speak for themselves—and still more for the "interests" of their authors—seeing they run thus:—"The measure is subversive of ancient rights, and calculated to produce ruinous litigation," and "to give unlimited power of transferability to the occupancy ryots will lead them headlong to ruin." But the strength and intensity of the opposition to the Bengal Tenancy Bill will not be perceived till it is being firmly grappled with; meanwhile, it is being only rather loosely talked about. The question of the delimitation of the frontier between Merv and Afghanistan is in much the same position as the Bengal Tenancy Bill; all will go smoothly, no doubt, until the Commission begins its work in earnest. But even already a difficulty has been presented for the diplomats of Great Britain, Russia, and Persia, which they may find some trouble in getting rid of. Russia is in favour of, Great Britain is opposed to, any representatives of the Ameer Abdurrahman Khan being placed on the Commission. It is a matter for regret that this question should have arisen at all, for it makes Russia figure as the champion of Afghan patriotism, dignity, and independence, the British argument against an Afghan element in the Commission being that as India subsidises Abdurrahman Khan, and dictates his foreign policy, he should not have any say in the arrangement of his own frontier. But this is simply treating Afghanistan as being as much of a tributary State as many, if not most, of the native principalities of India. Yet Liberal politicians still maintain that it has been the aim of Mr. Gladstone's Indian policy, since he came into power in 1880, to establish "a strong and friendly," not a feudatory, Afghanistan. However this matter may be settled, the amour propre of Abdurrahman should be conciliated rather than offended. Russia, not this country, was his first political love, and it will not be on account of any lack of blandishments on her part if he does not return to her arms. Besides, it should always be remembered that, to all intents and purposes, he is quite as independent of India or the Foreign Office as the Shah of Persia is of Russia, and therefore as much entitled to honour, or the semblance of it.

The larger Indian questions being either dead or in a pendente lite condition, it is perhaps no wonder that there should be a flutter of excitement throughout India over a point that is essentially of a secondary character. Such a point is that of "government from the hills," or the removal of the representatives of British power with their staffs for lengthened periods from their proper capitals, such as Calcutta, Madras, to outlying—or, rather, far inflying—posts like Simla and Bangalore. When this affair was referred to here incidentally a short time ago, it was a cloud no bigger than a man's hand. Now it has swollen to almost hurricane dimensions. Mr. Grant Duff, with what must be regarded as his usual luck, has brought the bulk of the storm down on his devoted, but also his eminently self-confident, head. He has lately transferred himself and his official "properties" for long spells of time to a very healthy place with an outlandish name—Ootacamund—and lately the Commander-in-Chief of the Madras army has indicated an inclination to follow suit and to move to Bangalore. The result has been a big indignation meeting, the biggest probably ever held in Madras, seeing that it was attended by between 10,000 and 15,000 persons. Anglo-Indians and natives were present in about equal numbers, and used equally strong language; and, indeed, the most singular and ominous thing about this agitation is that it finds natives and "the garrison," both in the press and on the platform, shoulder to shoulder. The most vigorous resolutions against the "hill emigration" in all its tendencies, civil and military, were passed by acclamation, including one for the despatch of petitions embodying the sentiments of the meeting to, among others, the Viceroy, the Secretary for India, all the members of the Indian Council, and even all the members of the British Parliament. So keen is the feeling that has been aroused, that Mr. Grant Duff has for once found it incumbent on him to enter the arena of conciliatory explanation, which bears a suspicious resemblance to apology. In the course of a speech he delivered recently at the opening of new sewage works at Madras, he said there was not the remotest intention on the part of himself or of his Government to derogate from the position of Madras. He hoped, on the contrary, that he would leave Madras at the end of his term of office a more beautiful and well-ordered city than he found it.

At home this question of Indian Government "from the hills" will be regarded as a secondary matter, and one mainly of sentiment. But then, whose sentiment is it that is to be regarded in answering the question in one way or another? It is argued in favour of the arrangement into which the Viceroy and the Provincial Governors have drifted that Simla and Ootacamund are healthier than Calcutta and Madras. Mr. Grant Duff affirmed in his apologia that "work could not be done in Madras, with the thermometer in the nineties, as well as on the Neilgherries, with the climate of the Wiltshire Downs." Agreed; but what is work? The main work of a Resident Governor in India ought surely to be to get touch of, to learn the feelings and wants of, the people he governs; the other, and essentially clerical, work that has to be performed might be as well done—as, indeed argued at the Madras indignation meeting—in London as at Simla, now that telegraphic communication is what it is. But how can a Resident Governor do such valuable work if he does not reside? Besides, would not the Governors show a better example if they faced rather than fled from the sanitary evils of their nominal capitals; in fact, their residence there would be the best guarantee for the removal of such evils. In any case, if for Calcutta and Madras there are to be substituted other places as capitals, why should this not be done formally, and not merely informally? Should not what we have termed a secondary and sentimental matter like this, the greatest happiness of the greatest number—according to Mr. Chamberlain the goal of Liberalism—be the supreme rule of action? There is no doubt as to what the opinion of the greatest number in India is upon this question, which is assuming such portentous, if not preposterous dimensions.—Glasgow Herald.

Quartermaster Patrick McCormick, 1st Battalion Royal Welsh Fusiliers, died at home on the 5th ultimo, he having proceeded there a short while previously on sick leave. He was gazetted Quartermaster of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers on the 19th November, 1873, and was close on forty-seven years of age when he died. He served in the Ashanti War in 1873-4, and received the medal and clasp.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE BANKIPUR MEETING ON THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

THE Behar landholders have shown most conclusively that the Bengal Tenancy Bill is opposed to all sound principles of legislation. It will inflict a grievous wrong on the agricultural community. It will harass the landlords, and ruin their tenantry. Its provisions are subversive of the vested rights of the zemindars, and are calculated to reduce the ryots to poverty and indigence. There will be heart-burning on every side. Such heart-burning will be productive of disastrous effects. It is intended to create a class of middlemen, who will intercept a portion of agricultural profits, and thus impoverish more and more the actual tillers of the soil. It would be far better to sweep away by one stroke of the pen all the ancient proprietary rights of the country, all the barriers between official oppression and the humble occupants of land. The present theory apparently is that the zemindar enjoys excessive power and influence; his power, therefore, must be curbed, and his profits reduced to a minimum. The best way of doing this would be to create another body of proprietors who would act as a buffer between the superior landlord and his tenants. If these under proprietors become troublesome in their turn, let there be a third body of middlemen. These in course of time may be multiplied, and rights and profits distributed among other classes of sub-proprietors. The agricultural profits will thus be filtered down, and the actual tillers of the soil, the men most interested in the agricultural prosperity of the country, will barely receive a handful of rice a day. Land may be most fertile, seasons most propitious, nature bountiful, crops abundant, and still there will be chronic famine in the land; the peasants will starve in their own fields covered with splendid crops. This, we know, will be denounced as a fanciful picture. But can it be denied that the tendency of the present legislation is such that in no long time the peasantry of Bengal and Behar will be deprived of bare subsistence? The superior landlords will clamour for their rights, and a host of under-proprietors and sub-proprietors and intermediate proprietors, not to speak of their servants and parasites and underlings, will extort and exact, and leave the poor peasants absolutely without a meal a day. For once we will not speak of the vested rights of the zemindars. Let us see what benefit the Bill will do to the peasantry. The principles upon which the Bill is based have been discussed calmly and dispassionately by eminent statesmen and publicists. These principles have been already presented before the Legislature in every shape and form. They have been analysed and dissected and twisted and turned, in every possible way. There is absolutely nothing new that can be said either in favour or against them. Now is surely the time when unbiassed opinion can be pronounced; and we would ask the real well-wishers of the country to cast aside for a time their sentimentalism, and to look upon the bare facts with an unprejudiced mind. What does all this discussion teach us? Does it not clearly show that the Government wants to introduce a system of State Communism into the country? Conceal it how you may, express it in any way you please, the Government action simply comes to this—a dead-level system must be established. The baneful consequences of this system were witnessed in the North West during 1857, and Lord Canning wisely reintroduced the Taluqdari system into Oudh. We will not speak here of the troubles of the Oudh Taluqdars, but we cannot refrain from saying that the beneficent policy of Lord Canning has been condemned in the strongest language by the sentimental theorists of the day. But let that pass. Let us repeat what lesson do we derive from all this wrangling and fighting, this legislative warfare and journalistic discussion? Are we not right in saying that the Government wishes to introduce into the country a chain of proprietors, who should divide the profits of agriculture among them? In plain language the days of tribal proprietorship must come back. Here we cannot resist the temptation of referring to the remarks of Sir Henry Maine, which conclusively prove that the present state of civilisation requires a different order of things. He believes that the inference suggested by all known legal history points to the fact that there can be no material advance in civilisation unless landed property is held, not by large groups, but by individual owners. The tendency of the proposed legislation is to act contrary to the lesson taught by history. Preconceived notions touching the fancied distress of the peasantry of the country, or new-fangled socialistic theories regarding the distribution of property guide our legislators. History must be discarded, and the teachings of experience ignored to suit the communistic doctrines of the present day. The people are growing impatient. The country requires rest, but no rest will be given to the agricultural community by our legislators for many years to come.

To return from this digression. The Mahareja of Hutwa justly says that the proposed law will make it impossible for the landlord to settle any land with any ryot without giving him rights of occupancy. The provisions regarding the transferability of occupancy rights, and the power proposed to be given to the occupancy ryot to sublet, will create a set of useless middlemen. The restrictions on sub-letting provided for in the Bill are merely nominal. The occupancy ryot will soon become a statutory tenure-holder, and the under ryot under him will be turned into a ryot. Ten thousand devices will be invented for evading the restrictions on the ryot's power of sub-letting. "An absolute power for a number of years with power to redeem at the end of the term, the rent being taken in advance as a bonus, will be a favourite device, or still worse surpeshgi mortgages of all kinds with reservation of a certain amount of rental, will be resorted to to elude the provisions of the Bill." It is clear to any one who has considered the question in all its details that the power of transfer and the power to sublet are much the same, and so long as both are not done away with one would be practised under the guise of the other. The effect of all this will be, as we have said, to create a set of useless middle men, and what is still worse, a host of speculators and land jobbers will be brought into the field, and the present body of tenantry will be reduced to a class of landless vagabonds. If the Bill in its present shape be passed, our legislators will be responsible for this state of things; and we can imagine of nothing which would be more conducive to the total subversion of the present harmonious arrangement of the social and agricultural relations in the country.

One of the speakers has very aptly said that if you wish to save the ryots from oppression you can do so not by constant change of law, but by proper administration to them. The remedy is in your own hands. Administer the present rent law as it ought to be administered, and oppression and rack-renting, and agricultural poverty and distress will never be heard of again. The present law already gives you power to protect the ryots from the unjust demands of their landlords. Why not exercise this power in such a way that no injustice may be done either to the one party or the other? We are afraid that the present legislative meshes provided for by our sentimental philanthropists will entrap the simple peasantry of the land, and involve them in difficulties and distresses from which it would be extremely difficult to extricate them. The proposed law will be an engine of oppression in the hands of the wicked and the designing, and harass and ruin and impoverish the just and the truthful and the innocent. We have often raised our voice against this mischievous Bill, and we venture again to give a word of warning to our inexperienced radical reformers.—Hindoo Patriot.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &amp;c.

H. E. the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal arrived in Calcutta from Darjeeling on the 2nd inst.

The Bengal Government have refused to accede to the request of the Calcutta Municipal Commissioners to alter the conditions upon which the offer to take over a portion of the police charges of the city was made.

A memorial calling the attention of the Bengal Government to the necessity for sanitary reform in Calcutta is in course of circulation in Calcutta, and has already been largely signed both by Europeans and natives.

It is stated by a Bengal native paper that Mr. Lal Mohun Ghose is negotiating with Mr. Parnell to enter Parliament as a member for an Irish constituency.

LADIES' AMBULANCE CLASS.—A detached ambulance class for ladies only is about to be opened in Calcutta under the auspices of Mrs. E. J. McFair.

The Englishman states that there is good reason for affirming that the whole bearings of an octroi duty on the trade and commerce of Calcutta will shortly be dealt with by an important committee appointed by the Lieutenant Governor.

At a large meeting of zemindars held at Mozufferpore on the 29th ultimo, resolutions were unanimously passed condemning the revised Tenancy Bill.

On the 1st of this month the Eastern Bengal Railway passed under the control of the Government of India and became a State Railway under the conditions of the contract. The Englishman writes:—"The Government, profiting by the experience gained some years ago, when the Secretary of State of that time, owing to a misconception, gave up his first power of purchase in the case of several railways, the loss caused by which error is estimated at several millions sterling, has exercised this power, and there can be little doubt but that under the practical supervision of Major Conway-Gordon every facility will be afforded to the public both as regards passenger and goods traffic. The public will, on the other hand, sustain a loss by the retirement of Mr. Prestage, and several of his colleagues, to whose energetic management much of the success that has attended the railway since its completion is due."

TAX ON BICYCLES AND TRI CYCLES.—At a meeting of the Calcutta Town Council, held on the 7th ult., it was unanimously resolved to levy a tax on these vehicles. This resolution, however, requires to be confirmed by the Commissioners at a special general meeting.

At the instance of the Government of Bengal and on the strong recommendation of the Government of India, the Secretary of State has sanctioned, as a special case, the grant of a salary of Rs.1,000 per mensem to Captain J. M. Brebner during the period he officiated as Port Officer of Calcutta.

There is reason to believe that, except on some matters of detail, the negotiations between England and Russia about the Afghan Frontier Commission have been completed. The news that the pending questions have also been arranged may be said to be daily expected.

The Russians have extended telegraphic wires to Kafir Kaleb, a ferry on the Oxus.

A Cabul report says that the Ameer has received a handsome present of various gold jugs and dishes from the Russian Government with a letter of congratulation on the capture of Maimena. The Russian agent has been well received by the Ameer and provided with a residence four miles out of the city.

From Cabul a report, which requires confirmation, has reached India, that Ghulam Haidar Khan, Commander-in-Chief of the Afghan army, has been arrested with several others.

So many rumours are current about the Zhob Valley expedition to punish the Kakar Pathans that it may be well to state that the original intention of sending a column from Quetta has never been abandoned, and it will be carried out in due season.—Pioneer Mail.

The Ameer's efforts to break the power of the great Ghilzai chiefs still continue. Babram Khan, whose intended expulsion from Afghanistan was recently mentioned, has been arrested, together with his son, Sultan Mahomed Khan. Other members of his family have been expelled from the country.—Ibid.

MADRAS.

Mr. Grant Duff opened the new drainage works at Madras on the 30th ult., and in the course of a speech on the occasion defended the practice of government from the hills during certain seasons of the year.

A great meeting, attended by several thousand persons, was held in Madras on the 3rd inst. under the presidency of Rajah Sir T. Madava Row for the purpose of protesting against the annual migration of officials of the hills and the removal of the Military Accounts offices from Madras to Bangalore.

Official information has been received at Simla from Madras that the proposal to remove the Military Accounts Offices from the latter city to Bangalore has been abandoned.

At the Marine Court of Enquiry at Madras regarding the loss of the ship Riversdale, after hearing the evidence adduced by the captain the Court framed a charge against Captain Macdonald, that he by wilful neglect and default stranded his ship, on April 29, off Point Devi. ## BURMA.

An outbreak recently occurred at the Rangoon gaol. The prisoners were fired upon and one man was killed and some nine or ten others dangerously wounded.

Further particulars given of the recent gaol outbreak at Rangoon state that about 9 p.m. on the day in question there was a report of sickness in the ward in which the heavy-sentenced men are kept. On the native doctor going in, he was assaulted and the convicts rushed out. The Superintendent was soon on the spot, and finding remonstrances useless, directed the gaol guard to act. Only one death is reported, but some nine or ten prisoners were badly wounded. The gaol guard acted promptly, and European and native troops arrived on the spot very soon after the alarm was given.

We observe that the local Government has notified his intention of taking up about two acres of land at Ahlone for a Government farm, specially for the testing of the value of the value of the various kinds of manures.—Rangoon Gazette.

The Lord Bishop of Rangoon left on the 30th ult. for Maulmain, per s.s. Rangoon.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY.

RUSSIA IN CENTRAL ASIA.

Mr. MACFARLANE who had given notice of his intention to call attention to the advance of Russia in Central Asia, with the view of moving a resolution to the effect that the advance of Russia to Merv and Sarakhs endangers the safety of Herat, threatens the independence and integrity of Afghanistan, and is deserving of the most serious consideration of Her Majesty's Government, said that there were many reasons why he should not proceed with his resolution. In the first place, the House being occupied with things near at hand would pay no attention to matters which were occurring at a distance. He was not one of those who held that the British lion should go growling about the world, wagging its tail and seeking matters of quarrel on every side, but at the same time he conceived that where this country really possessed interests, the British lion should let it be generally known that he was prepared to defend them. In the next place he believed that at length the Indian Government had become alive to the importance of this question, and that the policy of masterly inactivity, or, as he should rather say, of dastardly inactivity which they had followed with regard to it had come to an end. (Hear.) As he believed that the Government of India were now alive to the importance of this question he should be content to leave it in their hands until next session.

Mr. CROSS remarked that the hon. member was not wrong in his supposition that the Government of India were alive to the importance of the subject, and he expressed a hope that the hon. gentleman would be satisfied with this assurance.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

BOUNDARIES OF AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. ONSLOW asked the Under-Secretary of State for India whether he could now give full particulars regarding the arrangements made by Her Majesty's Government for the fixing of the boundaries of Afghanistan and the neighbouring country; and whether the officers appointed for this duty were to have any escort during the time they were so employed.

Mr. CROSS.—The communications between Her Majesty's Government and the Government of Russia, and between the Viceroy and the Ameer of Afghanistan, on the subject of the proposed delimitation of the Afghan frontier are not yet complete, and therefore it is not possible to give the full particulars for which the hon. member asks. I may say, however, that Major-General Sir Peter Lumsden has been appointed British Commissioner to examine and report on the boundaries in question, in association with a Russian colleague, and it is hoped the Commission will begin work in October next. The party will be accompanied by a moderate escort, the details of which are under consideration.

Mr. ONSLOW.—Is it to be a British escort?

Mr. CROSS.—I cannot state the number or composition.

Mr. BOURKE.—Has the Commission received the assent of the Ameer.

Mr. CROSS.—Yes, Sir, it has, but the Ameer's representatives are not yet appointed.

Mr. ONSLOW.—On this day week I will ask under whose protection the British officers will be; in what country they will be located—whether in the Ameer's or adjacent territory; whether the Ameer will be represented, and by whom; whether he has given leave for the passing of troops through his country; what will be the duties of the Commission; in case of differences of opinion, to what Government will they be referred—the Indian or the Home Government; and what is the reason the Commission is going by Quetta, and not by Herat.

Mr. BOURKE.—In consequence of the answer given by the hon. gentleman on going into Committee of Supply, I will move that it is inexpedient that Her Majesty's Government should incur the responsibilities which the proposed arrangement for the delimitation of the frontier would impose upon this country.

Mr. ONSLOW subsequently asked the Prime Minister whether he would give the House an opportunity of discussing the question before the prorogation.

Mr. GLADSTONE.—This is a question of great importance and one upon which the House is entitled to be informed, but I am not able to give a definite answer without notice.

GENERAL LIST OF INDIAN OFFICERS.

Sir E. WILMOT asked the Under Secretary of State for India whether his attention had been drawn to petitions recently presented to this honourable House by officers of the general list of the Indian Army complaining that they have been compulsorily placed on Staff Corps scale of promotion, while debarred from equal privileges as to retiring allowances; and whether Her Majesty's Government would give favourable consideration to those petitions in order that general list Indian officers might be placed on an equal footing as regarded those allowances with officers who joined the Staff Corps prior to September, 1866.

Mr. CROSS.—The subject of these petitions has been considered by the Secretary of State; but in his opinion there is no ground for extending to the officers of the general list the actual scale of additional pensions awarded to those officers who joined the Staff Corps prior to 1866, and to whose special conditions of service this scale is alone applicable.

THE POST OFFICE IN MADRAS.

Mr. M'CARTHY asked the Under Secretary of State for India whether he had noticed the assertions repeatedly made of late in the Madras newspapers that the Government of Madras had opened in the post-office letters addressed to private individuals; whether he had noticed the fact that one gentleman had officially informed the postal authorities that he had evidence that his letters were regularly copied while in the post; and whether it was true that the members of the Governor's staff, Madras, were allowed by the Governor to send letters home at soldier's rates of postage in a special bag from Government-house.

Mr. CROSS.—The India Office has no official information on this subject, and I have been unable to find in recent numbers of the Madras papers the assertions to which the hon. gentleman called my attention. It would save great trouble if hon. members asking questions about newspaper statements would give the references. As regards the last paragraph of the question, I have to say that the Governor General and the Governors of Madras and Bombay have the privilege of franking a special bag.

TAXATION IN MADRAS.

Mr. J. M'CARTHY asked the Under-Secretary of State for India whether the Secretary of State would cause inquiries to be made into the complaints made by the Badaga and other cultivators of land on the Nilgiri Hills, Madras, against the settlement of taxation now being effected in their district; and whether this settlement, dating from 1882, was of a novel character.

Mr. CROSS.—The settlement in question is not of a novel character. Its object is to ascertain titles, to demarcate forest reserves, and to define areas as available for sale under the Waste Lands rules. The settlement officer has reported that the definition of village boundaries is not popular with some of the people, who have long been at feud with their neighbours as to grazing and other rights; but that they will soon become accustomed to it, especially as all the rights and privileges they have hitherto enjoyed are secured to them. In these circumstances the Secretary of State sees no necessity for ordering an inquiry.

Major Cowell of the Hants Artillery Militia, was found on the morning of the 26th May with his back broken lying outside of Fort Grange, near Portsmouth. In returning to the fort the previous night, Major Cowell ascended a steep slope with the object of shortening his walk to his quarters but slipped and rolled to the bottom of the slope, where he lay all night, helpless and unheard.

INDIAN MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

(Bombay Government Gazette, July 8.)

Colonel W. W. Pemberton, Madras Staff Corps, has been appointed to the command of the Moulmein Volunteer Rifle Corps, pending the return from furlough of Lieutenant Colonel M. Furlong.

Captain J. Hext, R.N., Director of the Indian Marine, left Calcutta by the last Burmah mail steamer on his tour of inspection to Rangoon and Port Blair. Captain Hext made no stay in Calcutta.

The Volunteer Corps formed at Moorshedabad and in the neighbouring districts has been designated the "Central Bengal Light Horse." The corps will be under the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

The retention of the two companies of Bombay Sappers and Miners at Quetta for three weeks longer has been sanctioned by the Government of India, on the recommendation of the principal medical officer there.

The Volunteer Army in India is increasing. The formation of another corps has been sanctioned, to be named the Moorshedabad Volunteer Rifle Corps, and Mr. Charles Pope has been appointed the first Captain Commandant.

The Government of India have decided not to amalgamate the subordinate lists of the Ordnance Department of the three presidencies, but have ordered that the men borne on the rolls may be ordered to serve in any part of India.

Captain Barrow, 7th N.I., who won the Gold Medal of the United Service Institution two years ago for his essay on Transport, has again been awarded the Annual Gold Medal for the best essay on Reserves for the Native Army in India.

Colonel A. W. Adcock, commanding the 2nd Battalion, Bedfordshire Regiment, Thayetemyo and Tounghoo, left Calcutta for England on the 3rd ult., and having attained fifty-two years of age, will be placed on retired pay.

LONDON PRODUCE MARKETS.

TUESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—The India auctions only comprised 1,300 packages, which sold steadily at about previous rates. Further samples ex. Glengarry have been placed on the China private market, but the business transacted has been on a very limited scale, and that chiefly in the better medium and fine grades of Kaisows and Pecco Congous; these latter teas are finer in quality and manipulation of leaf than they have been for many years. In auction, 8,800 packages sold without reserve; common N.S. Saryunes, ex Glengarry, at 6¼d. to 7¼d. per lb.; Kaisows, at 8d. to 9¼d. per lb. New season's black leaf sold from 7½d. for common; 10d. to 11¼d. for good common; and 1s. to 1s. 1¼d. for fair to medium. Old season's first crop Ningchows sold easily at 8d. to 8¼d. per lb. Scenteds and new-make Congous sold in buyers' favour.

SUGAR.—The market is quiet. Fine crystallised Demerara by auction brought full value, 24s. 6d.; other descriptions selling slowly at previous rates. Middling to good, 20s. 6d. to 20s. 9d. The quantity of West India sold, 568 casks, and 136 smaller packages. 1,516 bags crystallised Penang bought in 18s. to 18s. 6d. and 1,000 bags Egyptian syrups at 12s. to 13s. Since Friday a cargo St. Kitts, 577 bhd. 249 barrels, sold at 12s. 9d., landing terms U.K.; and a cargo 950 tons Java No. 15½ at 17s. 10s. Dublin. Beet is 1½ to 3d. lower. The Clyde market for pieces, &c., is steady with a fair amount of business.

COFFEE meets only a limited inquiry, and the market is dull. At auction 1,588 bags Guatemala were chiefly withdrawn, a few lots good to fine ordinary foxey greenish selling at 46s. 6d. to 51s.; of 130 bags Columbian a lot or two, at 43s. to 44s.; 305 bags Costa Rica chiefly bought in at 55s.; and 86 packages Jamaica small part sold at 43s. 6d., 50s. About 1,800 tons, principally Guatemala and Costa Rica, have been destroyed by the fire at New Crane Wharf, reducing the London stock to 24,500 tons, being 8,000 tons less than at this time last year.

COCOA.—The commoner qualities of Grenada in public sale sold at a better demand from 64s. 6d. to 70s.; good and fine from 74s. to 77s. went slowly at previous rates; 760 bags were chiefly sold. For other kinds the market is quiet and unaltered. Of 280 bags Trinidad, a few lots sold at 80s. to 82s.; and of 279 bags Guayaquil, 70 bags good grey Aribi at 80s. per cwt.; 72 bags small and middling Ceylon sold at 72s. 6d. to 74s. per cwt.

RICE.—Quiet; no sales reported.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—The Indian tea sales comprised 2,030 packages, 900 being new season's. The latter teas were mostly of inferior quality, and prices ruled low. Old season's sold at fully previous rates, competition being brisk for all good liquoring sorts. In the China market, privately, more attention has been given to black leafs, the general quality of the red leaf crop, as represented by the cargo of the Glen-garry, not being considered satisfactory. For export, business has been done in fine Ningchow, from 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d. per lb., and for home and export a fair trade in good common black leafs from 9½d. to 10½d., and medium at from 1¼d. to 1s. 3½d. per lb. At auction 4,080 packages were offered without reserve, 3,700 being new season's red leafs ex Glen-garry. Siftings sold at 6½d. per lb.; common and medium Kaisows at from 6¼d. to 1s. 1¼d. per lb. About 9,000 boxes Canton scented tea, ex Verona, were offered privately, but the quality all round being poor, only a small business has resulted, scented capers selling from 9d. to 11d. per lb., and S. O. Pekoes from 1s. to 1s. 3d. per lb.

SUGAR very dull. The tone depressed. Small quantity crystallised Demerara sold at 19s. 9d. Late yesterday a cargo of Porto Rico, 470 hogsheads 100 barrels, reported at 14s. for United Kingdom, and one of Java, 1,280 tons No. 15, off coast, at 16s. 9d., floating, landing Liverpool. Beet is again rather lower. For refiners' produce limited demand at about steady prices. Clyde market for pieces, &c., steady.

COFFEE remains very quiet, and the auction passed off flatly. 174 casks 71 barrels and bags Plantation Ceylon sold—small to low middling, 54s. 6d. to 55s. 6d.; middling to good middling, 61s. to 65s.; bold greyish, 77s. to 79s. 6d.; coloury, 84s. 6d. to 88s.; superior, 98s. 879 bags East India about half sold—medium to rather bold greyish, 58s. 6d. to 62s., small in proportion; 21 barrels and bags Jamaica, fine ordinary to middling, 51s. to 51s. 6d. Of 1,738 bags foreign small part sold—foxey greenish Guatemala, 45s. to 47s. and damaged Costa Rica, 45s. to 52s. 6d. Washed Rio chiefly bought in at 51s. to 58s. per cwt.

SPICES.—The auctions offered only a small assortment, and but little change occurred in prices. White pepper quiet; 312 bags Singapore bought in at 10½d. to 10¾d. being ¼d. above last auctions. No black offered. Privately 7½d. refused for Singapore. Pimento very firm; 1,440 bags chiefly held for stiffer rates, and bought in at 2½d. to 3d., a few lots selling firmly at 2½d. to 2¾d. 100 bags Zanzibar cloves sold steady at 5½d.; 19 cases Penang bought in at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 5d. No supply of nutmegs. Six cases Penang red mace sold at 1s. 3d. per lb. Ginger quiet; 36 cases Cochín, part cut, sold firmly at 53s. to 56s., and half of 85 packages Jamaica at 47s. to 52s. per cwt.

SAGO rather easier; 67½ bags small grain, 11s. to 11s. 6d.; 114 bags medium, 13s.; and 126 bags large, 14s. to 14s. 6d. 595 bags Baka tapioca sold—Singapore 1¾d. to 1½d., and Penang damaged, 1¾d. to 1½d. per lb. 303 bags medium pearl sold at 12s. 6d. per cwt.

RICE quiet; no sales reported.

THURSDAY EVENING.

Messrs. W. J. and H. Thompson state that in the Colonial Market this week there has been very little animation, and in many instances prices rule in favour of buyers. The refining sorts of sugar are in fair request, and floating cargoes have been inquired for, several having changed hands, but other descriptions are without material change in value. Beet has again sold on reduced terms. The sales of coffee have gone off heavily and frequently at lower quotations, the exception being for good and fine sorts of Ceylon, which are scarce, and for these full prices have been paid; the foreign kinds, notwithstanding the destruction by fire of about 2,000 tons, having been difficult of sale, and much has been bought in. Tea remains quiet. The first cargo of Foochow arrived on the 20th inst. Only small sales have been made, the quality of the lower grades being very inferior; but fine descriptions have been in demand at fair rates. The small supplies of Indian have sold steadily, the tendency being rather in favour of sellers for the best qualities. Ceylon cocoa has sold at about the previous value. For rice there has been very little inquiry. Black pepper, which at the close of last week was offering at lower prices, has, in consequence of the large quantity destroyed by the fire at Crane Wharf, improved in value to the extent of ¼d., and white also advanced about ¼d. per lb. To-day, however, the market is quiet, and black has lost part of the advance.

SUGAR.—The market continues exceedingly dull, and very little has been done on the spot. Floating a cargo of Java, 3,250 baskets, No. 15½ to No. 16, reported sold yesterday at 17s. 3d. U.K. Beet sugar is further depressed, both for prompt and future delivery, making a fall of nearly 9d. since Friday last. Moderate business in refined sugars at steady prices.

COFFEE remains dull. The auctions have gone unevenly—bold sorts up to valuation, middling piles occasionally easier. 52 casks 22 barrels and bags sold; small to low middling, 51s. 6d. to 57s. 6d.; good middling to bold, 64s. to 72s. 501 cases 88s. bags East India mostly sold; common pale sorts, 58s. to 61s.; greyish and coloury medium, 58s. to 63s. 6d.; rather bold and bold, 68s. to 76s.; fine, including Mysore, 80s. to 83s.; small in proportion.

FRIDAY EVENING.

TEA.—The private contract market has been very dull. Samples of new season's blackleafs, ex Rothwell Castle, have been offered; but the dealers have paid them very little attention. No public auctions have been held.

SUGAR.—The auctions to-day went steadily. Crystallised Demerara met a fair demand from 19s. 6d. to 20s. 3d., and the total sales of West India amounted to 780 casks and about 5,000 barrels and bags, making for the week 1,197 casks, 10,600 smaller packages; 1,555 bags Penang were brought in, European, 11s. 6d. to 12s. 6d.; crystallised, 17s. to 18s.; 341 hhds. Porto Rico withdrawn, at 12s. 6d. to 16s. per cwt. Yesterday a cargo of Porto Rico, 250 tons, sold for the Clyde, at 13s. for muscovado and 15s. for centrifugal; also one of 350 tons Java stroops, at 9s. 3d., Liverpool. Beet remains dull at yesterday's decline. The Clyde market for prices, &c., reported active and firm. M. Bertrand Silz's report, dated Paris, 23rd July, is subjoined:—“Since we wrote our last circular the Chamber of Deputies has voted the raising of the surtax, causing quite the contrary effect to what was expected, as a fall in prices is the result. The new law grants 8 per cent. to the manufacturer for the next crop, but for the sugar already manufactured if it is made to pay the augmentation for the right of consumption, it cannot profit by the reduction of the 8 per cent., and therefore is, in reality, in an inferior situation of 4f. to that of the next crop, and it is this fact, we believe, which has caused the fall in prices of the last few days. We think that the law will be modified in order to put the present stock on the same footing as that of the next. The news of the next harvest is satisfactory.”

COFFEE.—The small public sales have gone without further alteration in prices, 56 casks 32 barrels and bags plantation Ceylon sold—middling to good middling, 60s. to 64s.; bold 76s. 6d. to 78s.; 119 bags East India—common pale, 50s. to 54s.; bold coloury, 78s.; 178 packages Mocha chiefly bought in 90s. to 93s.; a few lot greenish sellings at 81s. to 83s.; 310 bags Manila, withdrawn; 973 bags foreign, part sold, foxey to fine ordinary greenish Guatemala, 47s. to 48s. 6d.; low middling to middling, 53s. 6d. to 56s. 6d.; washed Rio, 51s. 6d. to 52s. per cwt.

RICE.—During the week on the spot 2,500 bags Bassien have sold at 7s. 10½d.; 2,000 bags Necranzie at 6s. 9d., and 3,000 bags Japan at 9s. 9d.

The Bengal Government have been telling some unpleasant truths to the Municipal Commissioners of Calcutta. It may be remembered that some time ago our Calcutta correspondent telegraphed that the Government had proposed that the Municipality should be relieved of a lakh of the police charges, on condition of devoting a similar sum, over and above the ordinary expenditure, to sanitary improvements. The Commissioners declined the offer, and merely sent back some counter-suggestions of their own. Replying to this letter, the Government say that, in their opinion, the Corporation has hitherto neglected to adequately discharge its obligations in respect to municipal works and sanitary improvements. The Lieutenant-Governor declines to alter the conditions upon which his offer to take over a portion of the police charges was made. With reference to the proposal of the Corporation that they should be permitted to increase their revenue by an octroi duty, the Lieutenant-Governor states that the most satisfactory method of dealing with the question is to refer it to a Committee containing representatives of all classes principally interested. The Committee should consist of two members nominated by the Corporation and one each by the Port Commissioners, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Trades Association.

The Government of India have, it is stated, decided to make the Forest School at Dehra an Imperial instead of a Provincial establishment. The Conservator of the School Forest Circle, who has hitherto filled the two offices of Conservator and Director of the school, will continue to discharge the double duty; but as Director of the school he will in future be directly subordinate to the Inspector General of Forests and the Government of India. As to the school itself, the institution was originally founded for the training of foresters and forest rangers, and this intention will be adhered to, but at the same time it has been found necessary to improve the course of instruction. Under the revised rule it is hoped that candidates of better education may be attracted to the school in the English class, while natives who do not know English will still have an opening left them. By way of improving the prospects of the grades referred to, it is understood to be the intention of the Government of India to fill vacancies in the rank of Sub-Assistant Conservator, as a rule, by the promotion of deserving forest rangers.

News has reached the Englishman to the effect that Khuda Dad Khan, Khan of Kelat, has got into trouble with his own troops, some of the men having deserted, others having refused to serve any longer, owing to delay in the payment of their wages; that Government are now in negotiation with the Khan with a view of occupying Mustang, on the road from Quetta to Kelat, and of converting the place into a military station; and that the immediate construction of a road from Dust, the head of the Bolan pass, to Kelat has been ordered. These measures would certainly show that Government intend to facilitate and render secure the communications between the chief Brahui town and Quetta, and to strengthen their hold on the country.

The winter in the trans-Himalayan region appears to have been of great severity and of longer duration than usual. About the Pamirs it is reported that the snow was so heavy and so late in melting that the Kirghiz have suffered great losses with their flocks and herds, which depend in spring and early summer on the green grass that makes its appearance on the steppes as the snow recedes.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

TUESDAY, JULY 29, 1884.

AN IRREPARABLE LOSS TO INDIA AND TO THE EMPIRE.

It is with the deepest sorrow that we record the untimely decease of a journalist and statesman, who in his public capacity was one of the ablest and most loyal subjects of Her Majesty, one of the staunchest pillars of the empire, one of the stoutest and truest limbs between the English and Indian races; and who in his private capacity was one of the best of friends, and most trusted and trustworthy of advisers. Kristodas Pal is dead; and we have no hesitation in saying that his loss is an absolutely irreparable one to India. We believe now that this wise and just man is no more, that both the Anglo-Indian community and his own fellow-countrymen will feel that India could better have spared almost any other public man in the world, for he combined qualities of usefulness to the country that are hardly to be found united in any one who survives him. He was thoroughly Anglicised without being denationalised; he was an Indian patriot to the backbone, yet without a trace or a suspicion of any jealousy of his English fellow-subject. As a writer and a speaker in English he was a match for any Englishman; whilst among Englishmen and Indians alike, his immense intellectual gifts were carried with a modesty that endeared him to the discerning, and placed him beyond the reach of ill-will. It may be doubted whether any Indian gentleman has ever possessed such a wide circle of English friends; and by not a few of these he will be remembered, as by the writer of this article, as one of the kindest-hearted of men—"sage council in cumber," and warmly mindful of every friendly obligation. But after all, it is on his own fellow-countrymen that the blow of his untimely death will fall most heavily. It was one of the most remarkable signs of his power, and also of his sincerity of character that his influence in Native society has grown pari passu with his general public reputation; and it is an undoubted fact that up to the very time of his death, his opinion and advice were eagerly sought and studiously respected by every class in Bengal, from the highest to the lowest.

To the bereaved family we respectfully offer our sincere and heartfelt condolence. A letter was received from Kristodas by the writer of this article long before the initiation of that miserable Rent Bill agitation, the worry and the anxiety of which have undoubtedly been the proximate cause of his premature end; and one of the sentences of this letter now sounds sadly prophetic, while it serves vividly to illustrate the affectionate domestic disposition of the man. He had just sustained the crushing blow of the loss of a dearly-loved child, and he wrote: "God has smitten me sorely, and I must try to be resigned, but I can feel no further interest in life; and shall not live long."

We have written of the Hon. Rai Kristodas Pal Bahadur, C.I.E., as simple plain Kristodas, for as such he has always been addressed by those who, like the present writer, had the privilege of his intimate friendship. But we do not for a moment doubt that if his precious life had been spared the titular honours which had already begun to find him out would have developed to much greater dimensions. It is with much satisfaction we recall the fact that, only two or three weeks ago, we heartily endorsed in these columns the demand of an Indian contemporary, that more adequate recognition should be accorded by the State to his great talents and services. It is now too late for that. But his friends will feel that, after all, no title that the State could give could be a greater than that spontaneous honour by the people that we are sure will be accorded to his memory.

ROPER LETHBRIDGE.

THE TREATMENT OF ENGLISHMEN UNDER THE GLADSTONE GOVERNMENT.

It has long been a subject of soreness, not only to Conservatives, but also to a large number of Liberals, that the present Government is so determined to look at every question from the point of view of "the friends of every country but their own," Whether it be in colonial questions, in frontier questions, in questions of international trade and commerce, or whatever else it may be in which Mr. Gladstone has been called upon to consider the situation, the result of his deliberations has, whether rightly or wrongly, by a strange fatality been hostile to the interests of Englishmen and to the honour of England.

All this has been widely and keenly felt. Hitherto, while Conservatives have loudly complained, the majority of Liberals have felt themselves compelled to "grin and bear it." A famous French lady, who suffered many things from her hairdresser and corset-maker, consoled herself with the reflection, il faut souffrir pour être belle; and so your good honest Liberal has felt that the nation may fairly be called upon to suffer much for the privilege of being governed by Mr. Gladstone. But there must surely be a limit to that sort of thing. If we mistake not, that limit has been reached, in the treatment accorded to Mr. Blunt on his arrival in Egypt from India; and the subject is one of such vital importance to Anglo-Indians, who have to pass through Egypt on their journeys to and from between India and England, that we think it right to reproduce in extenso Mr. Blunt's letter to the Times on the subject. With many of Mr. Blunt's views we have little sympathy, nor could we approve of all his actions; but on one point we believe there can be no two opinions, and that is, that Mr. Blunt is an honest, true-hearted English gentleman, full of an earnest and sincere regard for the welfare of our Muhammadan fellow-subjects in India, and for their co-religionists in Egypt and elsewhere—and further, that he is a man incapable of a dishonourable action or a disloyal thought. We invite our readers to peruse carefully Mr. Blunt's letter, and we leave the conclusion, that must be drawn therefrom, to their own judgment. The point of the matter is very clearly and tersely put by the Times in its leader of Thursday last, when it observes:—

"No one can pretend to say that if a Frenchman or a German had been treated as Mr. Blunt was treated, explanations would not have been instantly demanded and rigorously examined. In Mr. Blunt's case, Sir Evelyn Baring transmits the orders of Sherif Pasha and Nubar Pasha, enforcing a penal measure against a British subject, as if they were entirely reasonable and natural."

And again:—

"Mr. Blunt has attacked the Khedive's Government and British policy in Egypt with the frankness and the respect for truth and decency of an English gentleman. But the interpretation which Egyptians and foreigners alike will place upon this episode is that, in spite of the paramount political influence acquired by England in Egypt, it is better to be a Frenchman, or a German, or an Italian, so far as personal rights in Egypt are concerned, than an Englishman. It is impossible to see any thread of consistency running through the policy of which Sir Evelyn Baring has been the representative."

And it is to this pitiful ending that Lord Palmerston's proud boast of Civis Romanus sum has come to, under Lord Palmerston's own successor as the leader of the Liberal party! Has the Liberalism of the Liberals of to-day cut away their Englishry—nay, destroyed their manhood? We believe that our Liberal readers would say No, with one voice. But how, then, can they continue to support a Government that has thus dragged the English name and English honour in the mire? We are confident that we speak the absolutely unanimous opinion of the whole Anglo-Indian community, Liberal as well as Conservative, when we protest, with all the emphasis in our power against a state of affairs on our highway to India that covers the nation with disgrace, and the rulers who are responsible for it with infamy.

MR. MACDONNELL AND THE INDIGO PLANTERS OF BEHAR.

It is very much to be regretted that some of the members of the Bengal Civil Service, when dressed in a little brief authority, cannot refrain from asserting their own personal opinions and doctrines to the disadvantage and detriment of their European brethren against whom they entertain some old-standing grudge or ill-will. The latest illustration of this unfortunate state of feeling is at present imperfectly reported to us, but we understand that the notorious Mr. A. P. Macdonnell as Secretary to the Government of Bengal, has taken the opportunity of his official position to strike another blow at the planters of Behar, to whom he was almost invariably hostile during his administration as a collector in that province. Owing to the impaired health of Mr. Rivers Thompson, the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, Mr. Macdonnell has the credit of exercising an almost uncontrolled discretion in giving utterance in the name of the Lieutenant Governor, to his own opinions on Revenue matters. It is not difficult for him to find a handle for his interference. Hundreds of petitions are daily addressed by all manner of men to the Bengal Secretariat, representing either special or general grievances; and it is only necessary for the Secretary to select a suitable petition, and to call on the Divisional Commissioner for a report on it, and he finds a grand opportunity for passing a new ruling on a point of revenue law, without any regard or reference to the authority of the Board of Revenue, or to the decisions of the High Court which bear upon the question. Thus it has come to pass that Mr. Macdonnell is said to have issued a ruling in the name of the Lieutenant Governor giving a new and arbitrary construction to the meaning of the leases under which Indigo planters hold lands in farm from the superior landlords. He has been pleased to declare that the planter is merely a collector of rents on behalf of the superior landlord, and has no power of interference in the management of the tenantry who are located on the land. It is needless to say that one of the objects of the Indigo planter in taking a lease is to have such a control over the land that he may be able to grow indigo on those lands which are suitable for the purpose. It is well known that the planter often finds it expedient to forego the ordinary rent of the land in order to induce the ryot to undertake the cultivation of indigo, and when the season is favourable, the result is much to the advantage of the ryot and the planter. But it is obvious that each lease must be regulated by its own terms and conditions, and it is open to the landlord to enlarge or to limit, as he pleases, the authority delegated to his lessee. So far as we are at present informed, Mr. Macdonnell seems to be trying to play into his own hands as the advocate of the Bengal Tenancy Bill. As he ignores and defies the rights of the landlords under the Permanent Settlement, which expressly recognises their interest and rights of interference in the improvement in the crops of the tenants, he would not allow them to delegate any authority on the subject to their lessee. It is rumoured that when the Divisional Commissioner, an officer of great experience in Behar, reported in favour of the existing practice and legal construction of planters' leases, Mr. Macdonnell administered what is called "a wiggling" to the Commissioner, and proceeded to lay down the law, or what he conceives to be the meaning of the law, according to his own warped interpretation of it. If the question, or the practise out of which it arises, were entirely new and of recent growth, there might possibly be a qualification for the interposition of the Government secretary in the name of the Lieutenant Governor, but when he thus attempts, for reasons best known to himself, to interfere with an agricultural question which has been looked upon as having the sanction of law for nearly a century, it is not surprising that all those whose interests are concerned, should regard such interference with dismay.

It is believed in some quarters that this blow is aimed specially at certain individuals who have made themselves obnoxious to Mr. Macdonnell in connection with the Bengal Tenancy Bill, but we have no reliable information on this point. Unless Mr. Macdonnell can be more judiciously controlled by the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, it would be apparently for the peace and prosperity of that province if he were permitted to return to the Accountants Department of the Civil Service where his political sentiment would find less room for expression and he might still cherish his personal animosities in private.

HOME NEWS.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—The tenders for Rs.25,00,000 in bills on India, and telegraphic transfers were received July 23 at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were—in bills—on Calcutta, Rs.5,35,750, average rate 1s 7½d.; on Bombay, Rs.7,75,000 average rate 1s 7½d.; and on Madras, Rs.1,05,000, average rate 1s 7½d. In telegraphic transfers—on Calcutta, Rs.9,00,000, average rate 1s 7½d.; on Bombay, Rs.2,25,000, average rate 1s 7½d.; and on Madras, Rs.1,25,000, average rate 1s 7½d.; or a total of Rs.26,65,750. Tenders for bills at 1s 7½d. will receive about 50 per cent., and for telegraphic transfers at 1s 7 17-32d. about 25 per cent. From April 1 to July 22 the total amount of remittances sold reached Rs.5,65,15,217, and realised £4,649,144.

GUDE AND ROHILKUND RAILWAY.—The directors of this company announce that they are prepared to receive tenders for Three-and-a-Half per Cent. Debenture Bonds of the company to the amount of £560,000. They are payable half-yearly, and are guaranteed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, whose endorsement to that effect the bonds will bear. This issue of debenture bonds the company is authorised to raise for the purpose of replacing £60,000 Three-and-a-Half per Cent. Debenture Bonds falling due on August 1, and £200,000 Four per Cent. Debenture Bonds falling due on August 16, and also of providing further capital for the extension works of their railway from the present terminus at Moradabad to the Scinde, Punjab, and Delhi line at Saharanpore. Tenders must be addressed to the company, 29, Martin's-lane, Cannon-street, London, E.C., before 12 o'clock on Friday, August 8.

THE SILVER MARKET AND THE EASTERN EXCHANGES.

TUESDAY.—The market for bar silver has been very quiet, but the price is firm at 50¼d. per ounce. Mexican dollars, on the other hand, were in some quarters offered in very small quantities at 50½d., the price nominally quoted yesterday, but found no buyers. The only change in the Eastern exchange rates is an advance of ¼d. in the Hongkong quotation to 3s. 9½d. Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Rupee Paper closed at 83¾ 83¾, and the Four per Cents. at 81¾ 81¾.

WEDNESDAY.—The market for bar silver has been extremely quiet to-day at 50¼d. per ounce, this price being equivalent to the rate at which the India Council's bills were sold this afternoon. Mexican dollars are again nominally quoted at 50½d., but the market is quite inactive, pending the arrival of the Royal Mail steamer Moselle, which is due in three or four days. The discount rate of the Bank of Bombay, which was fixed on June 4 at 10 per cent., has, after five subsequent changes, been reduced to-day to 4 per cent., the previous rate, 5 per cent., having been fixed on the 9th inst. All Eastern rates of exchange are unaltered. Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Rupee Paper is quoted at 83¾ 83¾, but the Four per Cents. are easier at 81¾ 81¾.

THURSDAY.—Quotations for bar silver, Mexican dollars, and Rupee Paper are all unaltered, with but little business passing. Exchange rates from the East are quoted without change at 1s. 7½d. in India, 3s. 9½d. in Hongkong, and 5s. 2d. in Shanghai.

FRIDAY.—There is no change in the position of the Silver Market, and Rupee Paper and the Eastern exchanges, with the exception of the Shanghai rate which has advanced ¼d. to 5s. 2½d., are also all practically unaltered.

SATURDAY.—The Calcutta telegraphic transfer rate is 1-32d. higher, at 1s. 7 17-32d., and the facts that the India Council have sold five lakhs of bills on Bombay at 1s. 7 17-32d., has helped to increase the demand for bar silver. Although the market was therefore firm, there is no actual change in the quotation of fine bars, as supplies by which the price would have been tested, had any business been entered into, were not available. An amount will, however, come to hand at the beginning of the week, when the Royal Mail steamer Moselle will be bringing consignments of both bars and dollars. In the meantime only a nominal quotation is obtainable for coined silver. The Hong Kong rate for four months' bills is easier at 3s. 9d. Rupee Paper is unaltered at 83¾ to 83¾ for the Four-and-a-Half, and 81¾ to 81¾ for the Four per Cents.

MONDAY.—Bar gold valued at £33,000 was withdrawn from the Bank for the Continent. Besides this movement, about £100,000 of gold which has just come to hand per Lafayette and Moselle, from Central America and the West Indies respectively, has been taken from the open market, the greater part being for Spain, although some portion was secured for India. The Moselle, from the West Indies, has arrived with £148,000 in specie, of which £39,000 is in gold, £39,000 in bar silver, and £70,000 in Mexican dollars. The Gellert and the Germanic, both from New York, have brought £25,500 and £14,000 in silver respectively, and the City of Berlin has left that port with £30,000. The Doric, from New Zealand, with £62,000 in gold, has left Rio for England, and the Orient, from Adelaide, has left Suez with £6,300.

Surgeon General B. Simpson, M.D., goes home at the end of this month on privilege leave, and it may confidently be surmised, will eventually succeed Surgeon General Cunningham, who will be retiring about the time of his return, as Sanitary Commissioner with the Government of India. Dr. Simpson's vacant post may perhaps fall to Dr. Dallas, Inspector General of Prisons, in the Punjab.

His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to sanction the proposal of His Excellency the Commander in Chief to send a team consisting of one European officer, one native officer, and fifteen native rank and file to represent the Bombay Army at the next Bangalore rifle meeting succeeding the one held at Poona in September next. The most successful team at the central rifle meeting will have the first claim to the honour. The travelling expenses will be debited to the grant for the central rifle meeting.

The Government of India have directed that the arrangements by which the commissioned officers of the Ordnance Department in India are placed on one amalgamated list for promotion shall not apply to the warrant and non-commissioned officers of the department, whose names will, as heretofore, be retained on separate presidential lists for promotion. This arrangement will not, however, interfere with the liability of any warrant or non-commissioned officer to serve wherever he may be ordered by competent military authority.

Among the officers who have lately left the Staff College and are now going through the usual course at Aldershot, is Captain Barrow, of the 12th Kilat-i-Ghilzie, who served in Southern Afghanistan with his regiment, and subsequently did such good work at Peshawur under General Wilson, during the cholera epidemic. Captain Barrow has made good use of his time in Europe; not contented with doing brilliantly at the Staff College, and passing the examination in Russian, he has been living for four months at Moscow, making himself thoroughly acquainted with the people and the language.

Colonel W. H. Mackesy, 24th Punjab Native Infantry, has been granted three months' accumulated privilege leave to England. Surgeon D. H. Myles, A.M.D., is transferred from Sialkot to Dalhousie for duty at the Station Hospital. Surgeon Major J. Young is transferred from Mooltan to Nowshera, to temporary medical charge of the 18th Bengal Cavalry, vice Surgeon Shand, transferred to civil employ. Surgeon J. G. S. Lewis, A.M.D., is appointed to the temporary medical charge of the Station Hospital, Meeran Meer, vice Brigade Surgeon Collis proceeding on leave.

Major T. St. C. Clutterbuck, General List, Infantry, who has been employed paying pensioners in the 2nd Pension Section, Allahabad District, has been relieved of the duty, and will shortly leave Allahabad for Rawal Pindi.

A LASKARI DICTIONARY,

OR,
 ANGLO-INDIAN VOCABULARY OF NAUTICAL TERMS AND PHRASES IN ENGLISH AND HINDUSTANI.

Chiefly the Corrupt Jargon in use among Laskars or Indian Sailors.

Originally compiled by Captain Thomas Roebuck, Madras Infantry, Professor of Hindustani, Examplar, &c., in the College of Fort William, Calcutta: Revised and corrected by William Carmichael Smyth, Esq., B.C.S., and now carefully re-edited and enlarged by GEORGE SMALL, M.A. MISSIONARY,
 Formerly of the B.M.S. at Calcutta and Benares, now to the Laskars, &c., in London, in connection with the Asiatic Strangers' Home, Limehouse.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We have received a copy of what we venture to predict will prove one of the most useful books that ever fell into the hands of a ship's officer—a vocabulary of the sea jargon of Indian laskars. In the brief space of eighty-two pages Mr. Small has given us some 1,400 nautical terms, embracing nearly the whole vocabulary of native crews. We congratulate Mr. Small on the completion of a book which, if it is the least pretentious, is, to our thinking, the most useful and the most enduring of all the books he has yet written."

CATECHISM OF SHORTHAND;

Being a Critical Examination of the various Styles, with special reference to the question, which is the best English System of Shorthand?

By
 THOMAS ANDERSON,
 Author of "History of Shorthand," &c.
 "That Mr. Anderson should be able to arrive at a sound and practical conclusion may be inferred from the fact that he has been a writer at intervals of phonography, Melville Bell's, Gurney's, Taylor's, and his own system of shorthand, and has also written a full and valuable history of the art."
Manchester Courier.
 "We must say that there is a great deal of information crowded into small compass. At a time when shorthand is gaining an ascendancy in public attention previously unknown, we are sure that this little book by a practical man and an enthusiastic student of the history of shorthand, will be largely read."
Metropolitan.

THE "VOICE OF INDIA."

TO THE PUBLIC OPINION OF THE PEOPLE
OF INDIA.

THERE are in England large classes willing and anxious to do justice to India, but they find it very difficult to know how to act. They complain that Indian questions are intricate; that the opinions of official experts are contradictory; and that the people of India are dumb, and do not give expression to their needs. This defect is now remedied by publishing FORTNIGHTLY (in Bombay) a magazine somewhat similar in nature to Public Opinion in England, which provides a compendium of all that is most valuable in the native journals throughout India on the leading topics of the day. The Voice of India thus gives forth a clear sound, interpreting between the rulers and the ruled, and making known the true wishes and feelings of the Indian people.

The Magazine advocates no views of its own. It seeks only to reflect with care and accuracy the views set forth in the native press. The Indian people are naturally docile and conservative; and it will be seen that the writings thus brought before the English public are characterised by a knowledge of facts, and generally by practical good sense and moderation. No doubt grievances are from time to time being set forth; but it is a policy of prudence no less than of justice to give these grievances a fair constitutional hearing. Accordingly, it is hoped that this publication will be subscribed for by Members of Parliament and other public men desirous of dealing with Indian questions, and that the facts thus brought together in a convenient form will be of value to journalists and other public writers. It is specially desired to bring the Magazine before the public in Clubs, Reading-rooms, Libraries, and Institutes throughout England, with a view to promote a sustained and intelligent interest in the welfare of our Indian Empire, comprising as it does 220 millions of our fellow-subjects.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE

COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. — Dr. J. C. BROWNE (late Army Medical Staff) DISCOVERED A REMEDY to denote which he coined the word CHLORODYNE. Dr. Browne is the SOLE INVENTOR, and, as the composition of Chlorodyne cannot possibly be discovered by Analysis (organic substances defying elimination), and since the formula has never been published, it is evident that any statement to the effect that a compound is identical with Dr. Browne's Chlorodyne must be false. This Caution is necessary, as many persons deceive purchasers by false representations.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. — Vice-Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was UNDOUBTEDLY the INVENTOR of CHLORODYNE, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to. See The Times, July 15th, 1884.

IS THE GREAT SPECIFIC FOR CHOLERA.

DIARRHOEA, DYSENTERY. GENERAL BOARD OF HEALTH, London, REPORT that it ACTS as a CHARM, and is generally sufficient. Dr. GIBSON, Army Medical Staff, Calcutta, states: "5 DOSES COMPLETELY CURED ME OF DIARRHOEA." From SYMES & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Simla. Jan. 5, 1880.

To J. T. DAVENPORT, London. Dear Sir, — We congratulate you upon the widespread reputation this justly-esteemed medicine has earned for itself all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of DR. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE in Diarrhoea and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhoea, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. J. T. DAVENPORT, 33, Gt. Russell St., W.C.

We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a deliberate breach of faith on the part of the chemist to prescribe and patient alike. — We are, Sir, faithfully yours, SYMES & CO., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is the TRUE PALLIATIVE in NEURALGIA, GOUT, CANCER, TOOTHACHE, RHEUMATISM.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE is a liquid medicine which assuages PAIN of EVERY KIND, affords a calm, refreshing sleep WITHOUT HEADACHE, and INVIGORATES the nervous system when exhausted.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE rapidly cuts short all attacks of EPILEPSY, SPASMS, COLIC, PALPITATION, Hysteria.

IMPORTANT CAUTION. — The IMMENSE SALE of this REMEDY has given rise to many UNSCRUPULOUS IMITATIONS. Be careful to observe Trade Mark. Of all Chemists. 1s. 1d., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. SOLE MANUFACTURER, J. T. DAVENPORT, 33, Gt. Russell St., W.C.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We have received a copy of what we venture to predict will prove one of the most useful books that ever fell into the hands of a ship's officer—a vocabulary of the sea jargon of Indian laskars. In the brief space of eighty-two pages Mr. Small has given us some 1,400 nautical terms, embracing nearly the whole vocabulary of native crews. We congratulate Mr. Small on the completion of a book which, if it is the least pretentious, is, to our thinking, the most useful and the most enduring of all the books he has yet written."—Statesman, Calcutta.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

TUESDAY, AUG. 5, 1884.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 14; Madras and Allahabad, July 13; Calcutta, July. 12

As usual under a Radical Government, here we are under an August sun, and subject to all the paralyzing influences of the immediate approach of the holidays, before any word is heard in Parliament of our Indian Budget! And yet some of our young Indian friends—with that belief in idle promises and professions, which is sometimes the failing of a generous disposition, and which after all is only natural to the truthfulness of youth—still appear to think that the Radicals are the truest friends of India!

We entirely agree with the following remarks, which we take from the new number of the Journal of the National Indian Association. We heartily congratulate Mr. Chuckerbutty and Mr. Palit on the distinguished position they have won for themselves in the list of selected candidates; and hope that the remarkable success won thus early in life will be the prelude, in each case, to a brilliant career of public usefulness.

"The fact that the names of two Indian gentlemen appear in the list of successful candidates for the Indian Civil Service competition of this year is especially gratifying to the members of the National Indian Association, and to all who desire to see an honourable career open to the natives of India in connection with the administration of law and justice among their own countrymen. Mr. Chuckerbutty has achieved the wholly unprecedented distinction of appearing at the head of the list, and Mr. Palit, who is the son of a gentleman already practising with much success in the Calcutta Courts, has also obtained a good place. Both students are, we believe, as young as the regulations of the competition permit. It is understood that the number of candidates of marked ability and high promise was this year exceptionally large; and there is, therefore, all the more reason for congratulating the Indian candidates on the honourable position they have won."

We extract from the same journal the following item of personal intelligence, in regard to our Indian visitors:—

"In the recent open competitive examination for the Civil Service of India, Mr. Arthur G. Chuckerbutty and Mr. Loken Palit were among the thirty-eight successful candidates. Mr. Chuckerbutty stood first in the list, with 2,034 total marks. Mr. Charles Goluknath, B.A., Cambridge (Inner Temple), and Mr. Narendra Natha Mitra (Middle Temple) were called to the Bar on June 25. Mr. Jafarkuli F. Mirza, L.R.C.P. London, of the Bombay Medical School, has passed the Membership Examination of the Royal College of Surgeons. Arrivals—Kumar Bhabendra Narayan, of Cooch Behar. Departures—Mr. Ganga Ram, C.E., and Mr. Balmokand, C.E., Punjab Government Engineering Students; Mr. Adhar Singh Gour, Extra Assistant Commissioner, Central Provinces."

The Indigo and Tea Planters Gazette gives the following interesting account of H.H. the Maharajah of Darbhanga's "house-warming":—

"The warming of H.H. the Maharajah of Darbhanga's new Palace is over, and was from start to finish a great success. There was, of course, the usual parade, the new Adjutant of the Behar Mounted Rifles, Lieutenant O'Meara, making the most favourable impression. Tennis and rackets finished up the first day's fun, the ground being too wet for polo. The same programme was gone through on the second day, and the ground having dried sufficiently, there was a good game of polo in the evening. Afterwards a sumptuous dinner, splendidly served by the Great Eastern Hotel Co., was given by the Maharajah, and then everybody assembled in the magnificent hall, room and warmed up the palace thoroughly. Mr. Price, the popular Collector, made a suitable speech after dinner, but such is the size of the darbar hall in which the dinner was held, that his voice was scarcely audible, and the Maharajah's genial reply was scarcely heard save by his immediate neighbours. Colonel Money's health was then drunk, and the party adjourned to the dancing hall. The entire entertainment reflected immense credit on Colonel Money and those who assisted him in getting it up. Sixty-five guests from all parts of India sat down to dinner, which says a good deal for the hospitality of the residents of this little station, who found room for, and put up with comfort during the hot weather, such a large number of friends."

The Indian Spectator has the following amusing description of Mr. Grant-Duff's recent descent from the heights of Olympus for the enlightenment of the poor toilers of the plains, and of the great man's return to the celestial heights:—

"A miracle was recently wrought at Madras; and the good people there are still lost in bewilderment at it. They are so rapt in amazement they know not whether it was all a spell, a dream, or a real transcendental phenomenon. All of a sudden there dropped from the snowclad peaks of the Neilgherries the provincial Jove! Moved to compassion by the deafening appeal of the unhappy millions sweltering in the plains below, he condescended to leave awhile his bespangled Court at Ootacamund and gladden their hearts for a few short hours by his august presence. Borne with the rapidity of lightening by stout, snorting, steaming, iron horses, on smooth shining rails, but only of steel and not of silver, the deity of the upper air of the Blue Peaks visited awhile the nether earth of dirt and filth, the dim spot of dinginess and squalor which men call Madras. That was the miracle. But the whilom clamorous crowd was stupefied. It forgot all rejoicings in honour of the condescending god. Lost in ecstasy its tongue was paralysed. There was none to sing in loud acclaim the customary Hallelujah. The Mutual Adoration Society's chorus of symphony was conspicuous by its silence. So the provincial Zeus returned to his serene aerial mansion unwept, unhonoured, unsung! No. We must be just. The people were ungrateful enough. Not so Mr. Grant Duff. He sang psalms of praise on the marvels of administrative ability achieved by himself and his colleagues. The Indian world never knows its real great men. It is oftener than not titilled by the small talk of small men. Mr. Duff has genuine contempt for such narrow-minded administrators. And he proved his right to be considered the equal of his most distinguished predecessors, of Munro and Elphinstone, by unfolding the long roll of his numerous deeds! So, embracing the occasion of the opening of the new sewerage works, the gubernatorial prodigy delivered himself of a harangue brimful of profound ideas of practical government and that too in language that might rap the soul of ordinary mortals in Elysium! Great indeed is Mr. Duff—the greatest of small men that ever held the reins of a province."

And our contemporary winds up its article on this subject with the following frithy advice to Mr. Grant-Duff:—

"We might go on at this rate analysing every line of Mr. Duff's speech to prove its apparent insincerity. But it will never do for 'exalted personages' to wrap inconsistencies in a cloud of fragrant incense. And we think the best thing Mr. Duff can do, now that he is an exploded myth, is to retire to a nunnery, there to expiate for his many sins of omission and commission. May Providence save India in the future from administrators of his stamp."

The Statesman, remarking on the Hill Government Scandal which Mr. Grant-Duff so unsuccessfully defends, says:—

"We have never, we think, seen such unanimity in the press as exists on the subject of 'going to the hills.' It is felt to be an abuse by everyone, and the Indian Churchman deserves the public respect for stepping aside from its special journalistic purposes, to notice the matter, which it does as follows:—As a rule, agitations of any sort are not to our taste. But the abuse of 'going to the hills,' by the Imperial Government and every other Government in India, has grown to such gigantic proportions, that we feel quite justified in adding our voice, small though it may be, to the general remonstrance. Our own opinion has for years been that all the benefits which India derived from the Viceroyalty of Lord Lawrence were far outweighed by the injury he did to the whole country when he made his most unfortunate stipulation about residence in the hills. It is emphatically one of those abuses, from which 'the many' suffer that 'the few' may be indulged. As to the expense, great though that evil is, it is by no means the worst of the matter, the real evil being that it effectually shuts out the powers that be from the public opinion and influence of those whom they profess to govern. This is the main evil undoubtedly. At the best, public opinion is very feeble in India, while it vanishes altogether under a system which removes the Government from all nearness to it, or contact with it. Its force is dissipated long before it reaches the hills."

The Englishman gives the following account of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected up to Saturday July 12:—

"There has not been very much doing in our freight market since last mail; vid canal rates for steamers have been steady, but for sailing vessels a decline had to be submitted to for seeds and wheat. Three ships have been taken for London, one for Liverpool, and one for New York. The forward demand for Dundee has apparently subsided for the present. Our unfixed tonnage amounts to-day to 43,000 tons."

We take the following account of the Calcutta Indigo Market from Messrs. W. Moran and Co.'s Report:—

"The reports from Behar are on the whole rather favourable. There has been exceedingly heavy rain in Champaran and Chuprah, which has kept down the yield from the plant, and submerged a great deal of low-lying plant. In Chuprah more especially, where Mahai is only just commencing, the yield from such saturated plant is miserable. Some factories in Tirhoot have had favourable weather, and the yield has improved, but others have had too much rain, and are doing badly. There is but little of interest to report from Lower Bengal. Most districts are at work, but, generally speaking, the yield from the plant is not good, and in several Zillahs pressure from the rivers has necessitated the cutting of urupee plant. The rainfall in the Benares Provinces has also been heavier than usual, but so far prospects in this division, as also in the Doab, continue favourable."

THE same firm gives the following on the Calcutta Tea Market:—

"During the fortnight 11,299 chests have been offered, and about 11,200 sold. The quality of the teas now arriving shows considerable improvement generally on first invoices, and the demand for good liquoring kinds is firm, and likely to continue so. Darjeelings have, until now, not shown such fine flavour as in some previous years, but from samples coming to hand, fine flavoured teas may be expected shortly. The quality of Assam teas has been good, and we expect will be of a higher standard than has been seen for the last two years, but arrivals to date are small. Cachar gardens do not show much improvement on last year's manufactures. Kangras are in request, and if with good flavour and body, sell well. Kumaons are rather neglected, and not in demand on account of thinness in cup. Doars teas have been plentiful, and fetch full values. Chittagongs also sell well with useful liquors, but few have yet come to hand. From Lower Assam complaints reach us of a great want of rain, but from other parts of this district reports are favourable. Blight is still prevalent in Cachar, and in Darjeeling the weather is said to be too cold for the flutes to come out readily. In the Terai the rainfall is much short of that of last year."

THE Times of India gives the following obituary till the departure of the mail, July 15:—

"Mr. Norbert John Ganter, honorary magistrate, Calcutta; Mr. J. Scott, manager of the Rajman tea estate, Assam; Shaik Khairud-Deen, honorary magistrate and member of the municipal committee Umritsur."

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

THE following are the general remarks of the Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ended August 2:—

"Rain in varying quantities has fallen throughout the Madras Presidency. In Mysore the fall is still insufficient for standing crops, but Coorg continues to receive good rain. Showers have fallen in most districts of the Bombay Presidency, but more is generally wanted everywhere to facilitate kharif sowings. In the Berars and Hyderabad there has been very little rain during the week. The Central India States and Rajputana report rain from most parts, but it was deficient compared with that of the previous week. In the Central Provinces good rain continues to fall, and was especially heavy in the eastern districts. Good rain has also fallen in all districts of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, except Furrkhabad, Meerut, and Saharanpur, where the weather is close. In the Punjab the fall has been much below that of last week, and more rain is much wanted, especially in the south-east. British Burma continues to have heavy rain, and in Assam the fall has been above that of last week. The rain appears to have set in throughout Bengal, and heavy falls are reported from several districts. More rain is, however, wanted in places to facilitate transplanting operations. The latest weather report of Meteorological Department, dated the 3rd instant, states that on the 2nd idem there was no rain over the Deccan, the Carnatic and Ganjam coasts, nor over Rajputana, Sind, or a large portion of Central India, but that in all other places there have been falls of more or less importance. Agricultural operations are in active progress throughout India, and prospects are so far not unfavourable. Harvesting continues in Madras, and the standing crops in that presidency and in Mysore are generally in fair condition. Rice is being transplanted in Bengal and Assam, and standing crops are in good condition. In Cachar the prospects of tea continue unfavourable; the plants are suffering from blight, and it is expected that the yield of tea will be much below that of last year. Rice sowings have commenced in British Burma. Cholera and small-pox are generally prevalent throughout the country, but are abating in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Punjab, Bengal, and British Burma. Prices are generally stationary, with local fluctuations."

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

THE following telegram was received from their correspondent by the Times, dated Calcutta, Aug. 3:—

"The contest which has arisen between the Bengal Government and the Calcutta Municipality is exciting much interest. I mentioned some time ago that a memorial had been presented to the Lieutenant Governor, bearing the signatures of a large number of the leading citizens, and calling attention to the defective measures adopted by the Corporation for sanitary improvement and the checking of presentable disease. Thereupon the Lieutenant Governor wrote to the Corporation expressing his grave displeasure at their neglect of the work of sanitation. At the same time he was reluctant to adopt the trenchant measures authorised by law; and accordingly he suggested the appointment of a Commission to consider the sanitary requirements of the city and to advise the Corporation on the subject. The Corporation was invited to nominate two members of the Commission; and it was proposed that any recommendations made should be referred to the Municipality before any further action was taken."

"Last Thursday the Corporation met to discuss the proposal; and the wiseacres who constitute a large majority of the body chose to assume that the proposal was an insult. Speaker after speaker described the Lieutenant Governor's action as 'illegal,' 'unconstitutional,' 'inequitable,' and so on; while one member, who has lately earned an unenviable notoriety as a noisy agitator, poured forth a flood of scurrilous personalities which the chairman weakly allowed to pass unchecked. In the end it was resolved to refuse to appoint any representatives on the Commission, or to co-operate with it in any way. So the matter now stands."

"The next move is with the Government; and it is probable that, as his efforts to hold out the olive-branch have met with a most insolent defiance, the Lieutenant Governor will now adopt the drastic measures provided by the Municipal Act, and nominate a committee of experts to hold a searching inquiry into the shortcomings of the municipality, and compel it (the municipality) to do its duty to the city. It is a favourite argument with the perfervid orators of the Corporation that the Lieutenant Governor's action is an attack on the principle of local self-government. They entirely fail to see that they themselves, by their intolerance of external criticism, impatience on the subject of scientific advice, and desire to arrogate to themselves irresponsible and despotic authority, furnish one of the severest satires on the self-government policy which it is possible to conceive."

"It is believed that the Government, on the motion of the Chief Justice of Bengal, is about to deal with the question of the fees payable on litigation. At present the practice is to charge on every plaint filed in the district or subordinate courts an ad valorem fee so heavy as to be often prohibitive. Sir Richard Garth proposes to substitute a small institution fee, and to distribute the further fees over the different stages of the suit, as the existing practice frequently amounts to a denial of justice. This reform is urgently required, and Sir R. Garth has earned the gratitude of the poorer classes of the community for the persistence with which he has pressed it upon the Government for years past."

"The usual preliminary statement of receipts and issues at the Civil Treasuries, to the end of June, has been published in the official Gazette. The following are the principal features of it. The closing cash balance of June is Rs. 13,11,00,000, against Rs. 14,09,00,000 at this time last year. The total Civil revenue during June was Rs. 5,04,00,000, against Rs. 5,29,00,000 in June last year. There is a falling off of 18 lakhs in the land revenue, which however will be balanced by increased receipts in future months. Opium shows a decrease of 13 lakhs, and customs of 8 lakhs, the latter diminution being due to the lesser export of rice. Railway receipts have fallen off 31 lakhs. On the other hand, the increase in salt is 15 lakhs, in stamps 3 lakhs, and in excise 6 lakhs."

"The reports from the tea districts are on the whole disappointing. Most of the gardens show an out-turn smaller than that up to the same date in last year. The indigo crop reports from Lower Bengal are unfavourable, owing to the continued drought. Prospects are better in Behar and Benares, but even there the out-turn will probably be short.

"The Secretary of State has sanctioned the formation, experimentally, for two years, of an Agricultural Department under the Bengal Government.

"Four men who were recently arrested on a charge of being concerned in the looting of a Hindoo temple at Simla, have confessed to being members of an organised body of Dacoits, fifty-two strong, whose field of operations covered the Punjab, the North-Western Provinces, and the Northern parts of the Bombay Presidency, and who have committed twenty-five gang robberies at various places. Some of the thieves are soldiers from native regiments on leave, others have been living for months at Simla, and pretending to work as labourers on the new public offices. They are chiefly Pathans. The immunity so long enjoyed by them points to the urgent need of a more effective detective policy in Upper India.

"It has been resolved not to hold the camps of exercise which had been projected for next winter at Delhi and Hassan Abdal. The intended despatch of an expedition against the Zhob Valley Kakars is assigned as the reason for this change of plan.

"The Maharajah of Cashmere who has long been in delicate health, is said to be now in a precarious state.

"No reply has yet been received from the Ameer of Afghanistan regarding his arrangements for ensuring the safety of the Frontier Commission, and it is thought that his answer cannot reach Simla before to-day or to-morrow. This delay necessitates a postponement of the departure of the Indian portion of the Commission, which was fixed for the 15th inst. The season is now so far advanced, that should these members not start shortly, it is doubtful whether they can reach Sarakhs in time to get to work before winter makes the operations impossible. There is some prospect of an abandonment of the intention to march via Beloochistan and Afghanistan. In that case Colonel Ridgeway and his colleagues would proceed by sea to Constantinople, and join Sir Peter Lumsden there.

"Some further appointments to the Commission are announced. Mr. Merk, of the Civil Service, goes as Colonel Ridgeway's assistant; and Mr. Griesbach as geologist. Dr. Souly will probably be the second medical officer; and Major Rind the transport officer.

"Colonel Lookhart, C.B., head of the Indian Intelligence Department, will start for Acheen on Friday next. He will receive orders from the English Foreign-office at Penang.

"The Dutch Government has made public additional diplomatic correspondence relative to the Nisero affair, extending down to the 28th of last month. The Algemeen Handelsblad observes that nothing is better calculated to bring the Rajah of Tenom to submission, than the joint action of England and Holland, as the Rajah speculated on a quarrel between the two Powers. In consequence of this joint action he must perceive that no course but submission is open to him. The Handelsblad adds that the enterprising traders at Penang and Singapore will also henceforth not be so ready to furnish arms and munitions to the natives, as these may now be used against British officials and soldiers, and that the co-operation of England and Holland in the Nisero affair will be of service to the whole world."

ENGLAND MUST STAND BACK.

A RECENT incident in the Commons illustrates how imperiously Russia is acting towards England on the Central Asian question. It appears that in all matters appertaining to the Russo-Persian frontier England must not interfere. If she does she must be snubbed, and Russia is well aware that the present advisers of the Queen have not the courage to resent insult. England must now stand back and leave the Cabinets of St. Petersburg and Teheran to settle important points in which this country formerly considered it had primary interests. Down to the ratification of the Berlin Treaty our influence at the Court of the Shah was paramount. Now it has so far been cooled down as to be "below zero," and little heed is taken of remonstrances that may be telegraphed from London. Lord E. Fitzmaurice says that the Government are not aware of any treaty authorising Russia to occupy Sarakhs. Why should they be aware? Russia has driven England out of the Persian Court, and she has been warned not to meddle with matters concerning the Shah and the Czar. Nevertheless Lord Granville knows that a treaty was made between the two Powers in 1882, but it was kept so secret that we are not surprised at the ignorance Lord E. Fitzmaurice displays. Russia takes care to keep England in the dark as much as possible on such matters, and she has acquired such ascendancy at Teheran that she can there compel obedience to her requests.

Hitherto the Commons have been treated by Ministers as men of sagacity, shrewdness, and common sense. Lord E. Fitzmaurice must conclude that they are irrational, childish, and wonderfully credulous, and that "the most intelligent assembly in the world" has become a fools' paradise. In his answer to

Mr. Stanhope he said that a report had reached him that the Russian commander was about to take possession of lands on the right bank of Heri Rud, at Old Sarakhs, and to make them over to the Turcomans. Make them over to the Turcomans!

In the light of known facts such an answer is perfectly ridiculous. The Turcomans, but with one or two unimportant exceptions, are already given over to the Russians, therefore the seizure of land by the Muscovite General means that the property will fall under the rule of the Czar, who recently added to his long list of Imperial titles the designation of "Sovereign of Turkestan," adopting as his arms for that part of the world "a unicorn sable passant, on a field or, with eyes, tongue, and horn gules." In reply to Mr. Bourke, Lord E. Fitzmaurice was unable to say whether there existed a treaty between Russia and Persia with regard to Old Sarakhs, because "the Foreign Office has no information whatever." It is not likely to have information, since Prince Lobanow peremptorily told Lord Granville and Lord Hartington, more than two years ago, that all matters relating to the Persian frontier must be left for settlement exclusively to the Czar and the Shah. We now see that, in consequence of the reticence of the British Government, Russia is putting forward claims to occupy Herat. In Lord Palmerston's time England had so much interest in Herat that she waged war to restore it to Afghanistan. Though we had only just cleared out of the Crimea, and were engaged in crushing the Indian Mutiny, Lord Palmerston would not permit, under Russian persuasion, any interference with Herat. Our forces marched against the old ally of Russia, taking Herat and Bushire, while our fleet sailed up the Persian Gulf, bombarded Mohammerah, and captured the camp and forts there. The Shah was very glad to sue for peace, and the restoration of Herat to the Ameer of Cabul was the result of the expedition.

Hitherto Herat has always been considered of special importance from its geographical position. Apart from its title of being the "Key of India," it is undoubtedly the key to Eastern Persia and Western Afghanistan, and to the roads from the Russian possessions in Central Asia and to the Persian Gulf. It is also the centre of a most fertile region, and of some of the most powerful tribes of Afghanistan, and Englishmen who have anxiety about the future of our Indian Empire may well hesitate before surrendering to a rival Power such a source of strength. Lord Lytton has told us that not only have we fought for Herat, but, until Afghanistan was brought into a position of contentment, we were so zealous about it that it was defended by a British officer. "To yield it now to Russia," writes the noble lord, "would be to falsify all our past policy; to declare wasted the lives and money expended in the Persian war, and to proclaim to the Eastern world that, while prepared to Persia, we are not prepared to fight Russia, for this point." Whatever excuses may be put forward by the present Government, the fact is patent that Russia now holds Sarakhs and she is demanding possession of Herat, at which place her surveyors have already been busily engaged. Russia refuses to give England a place in the Council on the Persian frontier settlement, and she now asks to be allowed to make her arrangements, in relation to the Afghan frontier, direct with the Ameer of Cabul, and without the interference of the English Foreign-office. If we may judge from what has happened during the past two years, Russia will gain all that she demands, for the Government of Mr. Gladstone is too timid to assert the rights of Great Britain over countries about which she has already expended her blood and her treasure. Thus England is obliged to leave a clear path for the Power bent upon destroying our splendid Empire of the East.

A great deal of nonsense is being written for the purpose of excusing the Russian occupation of Sarakhs. We are assured that the invasion of Persian territory by Turcoman hordes has prompted the movement. Russia at Merv is able to cope with that difficulty, and Persia, were she inclined to hold aloof from the Czar's agents, is in a position to defend her frontier. The excuse about the Turcoman hordes is an old one. A similar story was told when the Russians took possession of Khiva. It was repeated in regard to Bokhara. We now have it again in relation to Sarakhs. The whole thing is a ruse to deceive the English people, and the Government of Mr. Gladstone is almost as responsible for the device as the Russians themselves. For the past two years the attention of Englishmen, in relation to foreign affairs, has been centred upon Egypt. But for the Gladstone muddle, brought about by a suicidal attempt to release the Khedive from his difficulties, we should have heard much more about the advance of Russia in Central Asia than we have done. Whilst Englishmen have been thinking about Egypt they have had but few thoughts for Afghanistan. This condition of affairs has enabled Lord Granville to keep Sarakhs in the background. We are now beginning to hear about it when it is too late to avert a change in the position of Russia which bodes no good to English rule in India. The fact is, Lord Granville has known all about the threatened occupancy of Sarakhs for more than two years. He was warned about it from India in the early part of 1882, and his attention was directed to the matter by our representative at Teheran at about the same period.

Describing the influence which the Khan of Khyva, in behalf of the Ozar, was bringing to bear upon the Turcomans, Mr. Thompson, writing from Teheran on Feb. 13, 1882, said that "at no distant date the Turcomans of Merv will offer their submission to Russia, or place themselves under her protection, and when either of these results has been obtained, the Russians will doubtless proceed to occupy the Tejend lands and such parts of the Deraghez and Kelet Ateks as may be necessary to afford them an open road towards Sarakhs, in which district they will, in my opinion, endeavour to establish themselves in a strong position."

Lord Granville, on receiving the above information, had an interview with the Russian Ambassador in London. He remarked that Russia had advanced far beyond the boundary as understood when England retired from Candahar, but this contention was pooh-poohed. Then Lord Granville asked that England, Russia, and Persia should determine the Persian frontier. The head of the British Foreign Office was coolly informed that "if there were occasion to proceed to a delimitation of the frontier in question it was a matter which concerned Russia and the Shah exclusively." During the two years which have elapsed since that interview the Russians have accomplished all that Mr. Thompson foretold. By her action Russia has basely set aside the promises she made when the Liberals surrendered the "scientific frontier" which Lord Beaconsfield had secured. Russia had cajoled Lord Granville before, and she was well aware that she had nothing to fear from him if she again assumed the rôle of trickster. She has played the character with more success than she must have reckoned upon when the performance commenced. Once more England is victimised by the dishonesty of Russia and the cowardice of Lord Granville, and we may ere long have to pay dearly for consequences which courage and firmness might have averted.—Liverpool Courier.

EAST INDIA RAILWAY COMMUNICATION.

THE report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons on East India Railway Communication, was presented to Parliament on July 29. After reviewing the evidence given by the various witnesses for and against the more rapid construction of railways the Committee proceeds:—

Your Committee have given the most careful consideration to the arguments thus summarised, and they consider the evidence in favour of a more rapid extension of railway communication to be conclusive.

With regard to the question of gauge, your Committee are of opinion that all the leading trunk lines, with their principal feeders, should be on the broad gauge, the metre gauge being as a rule confined to tracts of country where that system is already in successful operation, and to local lines where the traffic is likely to be so light that cheapness of construction more than counterbalances the undoubted disadvantage of break of gauge. The witnesses, with singular unanimity, General Strachey and Mr. Rendel being the only exceptions, attached great importance to the avoidance of breaks of gauge.

In considering the means by which a more rapid extension of railway communication may be accomplished, your Committee have given great attention to the merits of State operations as compared with construction and working by the means of companies; and they are of opinion that it is desirable to employ both agencies. State operations are, according to the present practice, limited to the strength of the Public Works Department, the permanent staff of which it is not desirable to increase for reason given before the Select Committee of 1878-79, which reasons your Committee fully endorse. On the one hand, money can be raised more cheaply by the State; on the other, construction and working by companies does not necessarily involve any increase of the staff of the Public Works Department, and it relieves the Government of India of a somewhat onerous charge; besides which the emulation between quasi private enterprise and Government working tends to promote economical construction and management.

Your Committee think that the time may come when new railways will be made in India by unassisted private enterprise, and that this should be kept in view in all contracts made by the State, so that nothing should be done to prejudice a change of system which improved financial results of Indian railways and greater consequent confidence on the part of the investing public might justify. Your Committee are confirmed in this belief by an examination of the last year's railway accounts, which show clearly that, irrespective of loss by exchange, which is a matter really outside the consideration of loss or profit on any particular line, the return on the whole railway investment of India was 5·68 per cent.

The terms on which companies have lately undertaken railways in India are as follows, in all of which the companies have received land free of cost:—

(a) The plan known as the "Bengal and North Western" terms, under which the company makes the line upon its own responsibility and receives the whole of the profits of the undertaking, the line reverting to the State at the end of ninety-nine years. The terms of purchase by the Government under this plan are that, at the end of thirty or fifty years, the Government may buy the company's interest at the rate of twenty-five years' purchase of the average annual net earnings of the line for the previous five years.

(b) The plan known as the "Bengal Central" terms, under which the company receives a guarantee of 4 per cent. on paid-up capital during construction, which advances to be repaid with simple interest by the company to the Government by a contribution of half its net earnings over 5 per cent. The terms of purchase are that at the end of thirty or fifty years the Government may buy the undertaking at the rate £125 for each £100 of stock.

(c) The "Southern Mahratta" terms, under which the company practically acts as agents for the Government, receiving a guarantee of 3½ per cent., plus one-fourth of the net receipts during the currency of the agency, which is terminable after the twenty-fifth year, or at subsequent intervals of ten years, at the option of the Government, while the company, by giving a year's notice, may demand the return of their capital. This guarantee is payable in rupees, such a number of rupees being guaranteed as will insure to the holder of stock a sterling payment in London of 3½ per cent. (plus at least ½ per cent. until 1889), after which the guarantee is the equivalent of 3½ per cent. sterling in London, plus one-fourth of the net receipts, which are payable in India.

In commenting upon these plans, your Committee will point out that each is suitable under certain circumstances.

(a) When a line may be expected to give a considerable immediate return, the Bengal North-Western terms are reasonable.

(b) When the prospect is not so well assured, the Bengal Central terms offer a greater inducement to the investor, by guaranteeing interest on capital during construction.

(c) The Southern Mahratta terms offer a permanent security to investors, which is equal to the security of the Government of India, with the addition of a quarter of the net receipts of the line.

Your Committee, however, think that it is unnecessary to complicate these terms by stating that the equivalent in rupees of a 3½ per cent. sterling guarantee shall be given; and suggest that the guarantee in sterling should be absolute.

They also suggest that, in future contracts, the option of demanding the repayment of the capital of the company by one-year's notice should not be unconditionally given.

Your Committee do not feel justified in recommending which particular lines should be made on particular terms, but they are of opinion that simplicity of terms is of great importance in inducing companies to make new lines; that all possible publicity should be given both in India and in England to the projects which Government wish to be undertaken by companies; that negotiations should be conducted as expeditiously as possible, so as to avoid all unnecessary delays in arranging contracts; and that the accounts of the financial results of railways in India should be kept in such a manner, and so published, as to be easily available to and understood by the investing public.

Your Committee are of opinion that the Government should retain in their own hands a power of fixing or from time to time varying, the maximum of fares and rates, subject to adequate provisions to secure the interests of investors.

Your Committee are of opinion that the technical distinction which has been hitherto made between protective and productive lines cannot be maintained. They recommend, therefore, that railways, needed for protection from famine or for the development of the country, be made as required, whether they be technically considered protective or productive. Your Committee do not approve of the entire removal of the existing check upon the construction of unremunerative railways as suggested by the Indian Government. The evidence even of their own witnesses has been against this revolution of policy. Your Committee are strongly of opinion that the bulk of the lines made should be self-supporting.

The attention of your Committee has been called to the mischief occasioned by constant fluctuations of policy in the construction of railways, and they are of opinion that a careful forecast having been made of future requirements for public works over a considerable term of years, such a scale of expenditure upon railways should be adopted as can reasonably be maintained.

Your Committee are of opinion that the amount proposed to be spent on railways by the Government of India during the next six years is moderate, and that, looking to the experience of past years, and to present prospects, there is a very fair ground for expecting that an extension of the railway system of India on the scale proposed will have most beneficial effects.

Your committee have considered with great care the evidence placed before them as to the expediency of borrowing in India or England. They are strongly impressed with the reasons which weighed with the Committee of 1879, and with the Home Government; and they are of opinion that, if the capital required could be really obtained from Indian sources the advantages of borrowing there, as compared with borrowing in England, would be very great. The growth, too, of the sterling debt in times of war or famine, and the difficulty of repaying that debt, even in prosperous years, has been clearly demonstrated both in the evidence of Sir T. Seacombe before the Committee of 1879, and in Mr. Waterfield's evidence before the present Committee. Your Committee think also that in political as well as for financial reasons, it is desirable that loans should, as far as possible, be raised in India; but they do not believe that rupee loans, which are not really absorbed in India, differ materially in their effect upon exchange from sterling loans, as, if held in Europe, the interest upon them will probably be remitted from India, and will come into the exchange market. They would, therefore, recommend, quoting the words of the Report of the Select Committee of 1879, that, when "the difference between the rates of interest in India and in England is so considerable as to afford full compensation for the great comparative disadvantages which inevitably attend borrowing in this country." The Secretary of State in Council should not hesitate to borrow such moderate sums in this country as will enable the Government of India to complete such public works as shall have obtained his sanction.

With regard to the recommendation of the Government of India that interest on the sum of £11,250,000, to be spent on productive and protective railways, should be partly provided by hypothecating £200,000 of the Famine grant, your Committee are of opinion that any such application of any portion of that grant would be entirely contrary to the purposes for which the fund was created, and they cannot concur in this suggestion.

Your Committee have endeavoured to arrive at some definite conclusion respecting the amount of money which may, on an average of years, and with safety to the finances, be annually borrowed for the construction of public works. But, from the limited field of taxation, and the fluctuations to which the finances of India are liable, they believe it to be impossible for them to form any precise forecast on which to base a definite recommendation on this subject. While expressing an opinion that the present limit of borrowing, fixed by the Committee of 1878-79 at £2,500,000, might safely be enlarged, they think that the full responsibility of deciding upon the amounts to be borrowed from year to year should rest with the Secretary of State in Council.

In making the recommendations contained in this report, your Committee wish most emphatically to endorse the declaration of the Government of India, made by Major Conway-Gordon and Mr. Westland, that the proposed extension of railways should not involve additional taxation.

THE LATE PROFESSOR M'CANN.

A SPECIAL MEETING of the Presidency College Union was held on Tuesday afternoon in the second year hall of the College to arrange for the perpetuation of the memory of the late Dr. M'Cann. Mr. Tawney, Principal of the College, presided, and there was a large attendance of professors and students.

The President, in opening the meeting, said that its object was well known to those present. It was to express their regret for the death of Dr. M'Cann, the late able Professor of this College, and distinguished Secretary of the Asiatic Society, and to consider the best way of commemorating him. It was not necessary for him to say anything with regard to Dr. M'Cann's abilities, energy, and industry, for they were well known to all of those present. He was sure that his colleagues deplored his loss as much as the students who were now about to consider the best means of commemorating the professor they so much admired and appreciated. In order, therefore, not to delay the meeting any further, he would call upon Baboo Aushotosh Mookerjee to move the first resolution.

"Baboo Aushotosh Mookerjee then moved—That this meeting is deeply sensible of the loss sustained by the College by the sudden and unexpected death of Dr. H. W. McCann, and desires that a letter of condolence be addressed to Mrs. McCann on her present bereavement." One face, he said, was missing there that afternoon, one serene countenance beaming with intelligence and radiating in every direction. No person could be insensible of the fact that they met there under circumstances very much changed from those that had attended their assemblies for many days. They had met together that day to do honour to the dead; that in spite of all their personal differences they might unite in expressing their genuine admiration for the wisdom and goodness of the departed. Was there anything to wonder at in that spontaneous manifestation of affectionate regard for the man and love for the teacher? What was the secret of the almost magical influence which he exercised over his students? Was it due to his cheerful and animated conversation, or to the infinite variety and accuracy of his information? No, that was not the reason. There was something nobler in the man. Acute as were his reasoning powers, vast as was his knowledge, tenacious as was his industry, sparkling as was his wit, persuasive as was his eloquence, brilliant as was his proficiency, in mathematics, in science, and classics, and in general literature alike, it was not those qualities, great as they were, which accounted for him the love of his students. It was his wonderful, genial, simple, and generous nature which made him universally popular. They could never forget that, great as was the intellect of the teacher, still greater was the wonderful character of the man; and the involuntary veneration with which his students regarded him was due to that nobility of mind, that passionate honesty by which his thoughts and actions were irradiated as by a central fire. It was that noble generous disposition which induced the students to have familiar intimacy with him, and it was that beautiful intimacy which had made the students receive the news of his sudden and unexpected loss as a terrible shock. It was not too much to say that they regarded it as the loss, not only of their best teacher, but also of their warmest friend, their kindest benefactor. Perhaps he (the speaker) might be permitted to mention one peculiar feature of the deceased's character which he had found in very few of his professors, which was the generous delight he took in helping every one in their work. Such was the character of the man they had unfortunately lost, and it was the character of one in whom, whatever was great and noble in human nature, was so luxuriantly prevalent that it was worthy the imitation of every one present that day. He devoted himself to the noble task of uniting the ruler and the ruled in the irrefragable bond of intellectual sympathy as an enthusiastic member of the Asiatic Society, and devoted his best energies of the best portion of his life for the advancement of that Oriental institution, which had done more for the linking together of the East and West than any other literary institution. As the successful Editor of the Calcutta Review, he materially aided to spread the noble language of Britain among the educated men of this country, and by personal contact with him in those various spheres of action, they had ample proof of the nobility of his soul. They had lost him prematurely. He, the speaker, believed he was only thirty-two years of age when he died. His sun was set before it had reached the meridian of fame. It was, therefore, useless to indulge in speculations as what he might have done for them if his life had been prolonged and he, the speaker, would not indulge in a topic so full of unavailing regret, but they would be false to their professions if they did not express their sympathy with his bereaved widow.

Baboo Horolal Banerjee seconded the resolution. Considering that he had been Dr. McCann's contemporary from the period of his entering the College, and was one of those few who had the singular good fortune to listen to his lectures during the three years of his connection with the College, he thought they would agree with him that he had a good title to know the sterling worth of Dr. McCann's character. He might say, in the language of the poet, that Dr. McCann was "a perfect gentleman nobly planned." How severe should be the bereavement of the lady who having espoused him but a year or two ago, was now left to mourn with only a single baby to comfort her distress.

The first resolution was then put and carried with acclamation.

Baboo Jogendra Nath Mookerjee, M.A., then moved the second resolution:—"That a subscription list be opened for raising a suitable memorial; the form of the memorial to be determined according to the amount of subscriptions realised, and that a committee consisting of the following gentlemen be appointed for the purpose, viz.:—Professors A. G. Gough, M.A., W. D. Webb, M.A., H. M. Percival, M.A., Baboo Gogun Chunder Dutt, M.A., Baboo Aushotosh Mookerjee, B.A., Baboo Manmatha Nath Rudra, Baboo Jogish Chunder Mitra, Baboo Horendra Nath Dutta, and Baboo Satya Chundra Mookerjee; the last named gentleman to be treasurer." He, the mover, thought that the object of the resolution could be better accomplished by the memorial taking the form of something which could remind them at once of them whom they wished to remember; and, as the form of the memorial would be the subject of future discussion, he would only remark that a portrait, in his opinion, would be the most desirable form which the memorial could take; and if their collections were too small for that, the memorial might take the form of a bust or a tablet instead.

The resolution was then put and carried unanimously.

Professor Percival would like too add one word before the meeting dispersed; and that was, that although subscriptions were asked in the name of the Students' Union, that did not for a moment mean that the Professors were to be excluded from subscribing to the memorial. For his own part, he could say that he had never known a more agreeable man than Dr. McCann, and he thought that the presence in the chair of Mr. Tawney showed that his, the speaker's opinion of the deceased was shared by the other professors of the College. He begged to move a vote of thanks to Mr. Tawney for presiding.

The President expressed himself very much obliged to the meeting for the vote of thanks. He could only say that he heartily agreed with the last speaker, and had no doubt that when the subscription lists were sent round they would be able to collect a sufficient sum of money to erect a suitable memorial to Dr. McCann. He was sure that personally he had a great respect for Dr. McCann's character, ability, and cheerfulness.

in work, and he believed that in many other duties that the deceased undertook, in addition to his duties as professor of the Presidency College, his exertions were quite as much appreciated as they had been in the College.

The meeting then separated.—Indian Daily News.

MEETING OF THE LANDHOLDERS OF BENGAL AND BEHAR.

Proceedings of a meeting of the Central Committee of Landholders of Bengal and Behar held at the hall of the British Indian Association on Friday, June 27, 1884.

At a meeting of the Central Committee of the Landholders of Bengal and Behar, held at the hall of the British Indian Association on June 27, 1884, at 4.30 p.m., the following gentlemen were present:—Maharajah Narendro Krishna Bahadoor who was in the chair, Maharajah Sir Jotindro Mohun Tagore, Bahadoor, K.C.S.I., Rajah Poorna Chandra Singh, Bahadoor, Nawab Mir Mahomed Ali, Baboo Joykissen Mookerji, Baboo Peary Mohun Mookerji, Baboo Raj Coomar Surbadhicary, Baboo Kissori Mohun Gossain, Baboo Bejoy Kissen Mookerji, Baboo Saligram Singh, Baboo Grija Sunkur Moojumbar, Baboo Narsing Narain, Agent of the Maharajah Dumraon, and Baboo Koonjoo Lal Banerjee.

Read letters, from the Maharajah of Dumraon, Rajah Hurbullub Narain Singh, and others, intimating their inability to attend the meeting from unavoidable causes.

Maharajah Sir Jotendro Mohun Tagore, Bahadoor, K.C.S.I., Baboo Joykissen Mookerji, Baboo Grija Sunkur Moojumbar, and others, addressed the meeting on the subject of the confiscatory nature of the Amended Bengal Tenancy Bill, and suggested the necessity of memorialising Government on the subject.

The following resolutions were then passed:—

- 1.—That the sub committee be requested to submit within August next their notes on the Amended Bill.
  2. That the draft memorial on the subject on the despatch of the Government of India on the Amended Bill be referred to the sub committee for settlement, and forwarded to the Secretary of State as soon as it is ready.
  3. That Baboo Abinash Chandra Bhattacharjee be appointed the agent of the committee for the purpose of collecting statistics, and securing the co-operation of landholders in the Mofussil.
  4. That the accounts from August to January last be passed.
  5. That circulars be issued inviting the opinions of landholders on the Amended Bill.
  6. That the best thanks of the Committee be conveyed to the Liberty and Property Defence League for the interest they are taking in exposing before the British public the confiscatory and oppressive character of the Tenancy Bill.
  7. That Baboo Peary Mohun Mookerji be appointed Joint Secretary of the Central Committee and of the Sub Committee.
- After a vote of thanks to the Chair, the meeting separated.

RUSSIAN INTRIGUE.

A RUSSIAN journal of some influence opens a bold perspective of the political future which seems to suggest, if any suggestion of the kind were needed, that ambition is not yet banished from the minds of certain subjects of the Czar. The opinion of this journal appears to be that the great ocean is the Mediterranean of the future. Russia, it thinks, will be wrong if it continues to attach too much importance to the mastery of the Bosphorus. What it should do, according to this authority, is to employ every possible means to extend its influence in Central Asia. The harbours and straits of the Black Sea are valuable for the defence of Russia, but to attribute to them any importance in a political sense, it is now urged, would be on a par with the determination to get hold of Genoa or Venice for political reasons in the Seventeenth Century. The future belongs to the Pacific Ocean, and that is the point to which Russia is advised to turn her face, instead of to "little Europe," upon which she has hitherto bestowed so much attention. Central Asia and the Caucasus are represented to have more importance for Russia than dozens of European Governments. This, it must be admitted, is looking ahead somewhat. It is having regard to what the state of things will be in a century and a half hence, when at the present rate of progress, the population of Russia will far outnumber that of the whole rest of Europe. But Europe herself will then be little more than part of a colony. Even now Brazil is more powerful than Portugal and Java is more powerful than Holland. How will things be, asks the Russian paper, a century and a half hence when—say nothing of China and Japan—powerful empires will have arisen in Australia and on the Sanda Islands? The danger, fortunately, is pointed out in ample time, and the present generation will not trouble themselves much about it. But if all this talk about Central Asia means that Russia intends to make a bold move towards India, which is just within the bounds of possibility, we shall have nobody to thank for it but the British Government, who have hitherto allowed Russia to do pretty much as she likes in her approaches towards the great dependency, and have thereby incurred the risk of more daring schemes than would otherwise have been dreamt of.—Yorkshire Post.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

In a few days the conference of district officers, whose opinions on the Bengal Tenancy Bill as it now stands drafted have been called for, will have begun to assemble, and will be presided over in each division by the several Commissioners. The partisans of the measure now regard it as in the hands of experts whose opinion will be conclusive; but it is worth while to consider with what degree of correctness the district officers of the Regulation Provinces can be so styled, and what qualifications they can really bring to bear upon the inquiry into which they are about to enter. Before the year 1870, and in all the previous period since the British accession, there could have been little room for doubt as to their competency. In those days the position of a collector kept him in contact with the ryot in almost every relation which could exist between the latter and his zemindar, and vice versa. But the withdrawal of suits under the rent laws from the old revenue tribunals, and their transfer to the ordinary civil courts, have created a chasm which no later measure has sufficed to fill, nor has any new means of contact been framed to supply the place of that which has been lost. How great the loss is will be experienced now in asking for opinions which, fifteen years ago, each officer's daily routine would have enabled him to give at first hand; while now, in many cases, he must search for their grounds in much the same fashion that the Government itself has to follow, if he does not deliver himself of views based on imperfect knowledge, or derived at second hand or from mere hearsay. The collector of former days not only knew the villager in his home and on his fields, but was also well acquainted with his vicissitudes when pursuer, or, more often, when pursued, in the courts of law, or when rival claimants fought each other over his rents and cultivation. These duties, if they did not bring the collector and his assistants more into contact with bad tenants than with bad landlords, at all events did give them some knowledge of the former class, and of the difficulties with which the landlords had to contend. This opportunity is only given now when the collector stands himself in the proprietor's place in regard to estates, the property of Government or under the Court of Wards, and when, apart from his official prestige, he has special and powerful machinery with which to work. On the other hand, and under the modern system, the only occasions on which he has to closely study the relations between a landlord and his tenantry are when some scandal has occurred, and the complaints of the rayats have called for special inquiry. Such inquiries are made on complaints proceeding from the tenantry alone. It is almost impossible for a landlord in agrarian difficulties however undeserved by him, to put the executive in motion in the same way. To depend on the knowledge so derived for a true estimate of the general relations between the landlords and tenantry of the province would be almost tantamount to looking to a police magistrate's professional knowledge for a true estimate of the morality and character of the general population in his jurisdiction.

It is true that the district officer of to-day spends a longer time in the interior of his district, and is probably better acquainted with its topography than his predecessor. But his duties as supervisor have increased so greatly as to occupy more than all the extra time spent on tour; and with the development of the subdivisional system, and of local funds and agencies, he can work far less, so to speak, with his own hands than did the magistrate collector of twenty years ago. A great part of whose time was spent in trying cases and in other original work. No amount of rapid travelling, or even of casual conversation with intelligent villagers, will give the many-sided knowledge of the people and of the incidents of their daily lives which are brought into strong light in the trial of their ordinary civil and rent cases. The commissioners and many of the collectors who will now be consulted, have, of course, had experience of suits under the rent laws, but with the majority nearly fifteen years have elapsed since, while not a few of the younger colleagues have had no such experience at all. The fact perhaps may account for the prevalent impression that the 'proprietary feeling as it is called, is so much stronger among the senior than the junior members of the administrative service. In the temporarily settled Province of Orissa and throughout Chuttis Nagpur, revenue officers continue to try suits between landlord and tenant. But in neither of these areas have the conditions which are alleged to demand a measure like the Bengal Tenancy Bill yet arisen, while it is respecting these very conditions that the authoritative opinions of district officers are now beings sought. It becomes more than ever necessary to examine the grounds and experience on which those opinions will be given, and to ascertain how the request of the Bengal Government, in its letter of 24th May last, that the practical result in many of the cases arising from the draft Bill may be followed out, will be complied with.

Meanwhile, it is worth remembering that the Bengal Government has had at its own disposal, and in the heart of the Province, an area for experimental legislation of this kind. We refer to the Santhal Parganas, some three-fourths of which, comprising about 4,000 square miles, and affording examples of almost every tenure to be found in Bengal, are under the Permanent Settlement. In this area lie parts of the properties of such prominent landlords as the Maharaja of Burdwan, of the late Maharaja Lilanand Sing of Purniah, of the Messrs. Grant of Bhagalpur, of the Raja of the Great Hitampur estates in Birbhum, of at least one member of the Tagore family, and of other proprietors almost equally well known. The district was removed from the operations of the ordinary provincial laws during the Santhal rebellion of 1855; and in 1873, Sir George Campbell introduced into it many of the provisions which it is now proposed to enact for the rest of the province. The effect of them on the tenantry, as well as on their landlords and on the Government, we propose to consider on a future occasion.—Englishman.

THE PERIODICAL SETTLEMENT OF THE NORTH WESTERN PROVINCES.

THE North West has always been the land of ceaseless experiments in revenue settlements. Our statesmen and administrators have not yet been able to find the standard by which the State demand should be regulated. There have been no less than three settlements in the North West within the last eighty years. Each of these settlements rested on a different basis. The first was based on produce and its value. The English Government inherited the system from the Mahomedan régime, and it was soon demonstrated that the primitive system would not suit the reign of law which was introduced by the British administration. This system after the first twenty years of British rule was abandoned, and a second settlement was made based on gross rents calculated on large areas. It was thought at the time that the principles which guided the revenue officers in making the assessment were absolutely correct, and that it would be impossible to make an appreciable mistake. Long before the term of settlement was over, our administrators began to feel uneasy. Their calculations were wrong. The sufferings of the people were immense. Litigation was the order of the day. The exactions of the village proprietors were almost unlimited. The Government demand in many cases was so excessively heavy that the proprietors had to abandon their villages, and were reduced to poverty and indigence. Hundreds of ancient families were thus utterly ruined, and their descendants actually became tillers of land, driving the plough with their own hands, and earning a precarious livelihood. It was extremely difficult for the Government also to realise the revenue. Legal processes were strictly enforced. The revenue law was strict and the revenue officers were unmerciful. The consequences could be easily imagined. The landlords were harassed and ruined, and the peasants were opposed and impoverished. As soon as the period of settlement was over, the problem was how to find the true remedy for the evil. The gross rent theory had utterly failed. Some other experiment must be made, and the revenue-seekers hit upon a novel theory. The actual produce system is unsuitable to the present age, the gross rent system was unsound. Both these, therefore, must be given up, and a third system, combining the advantages of the two former systems must be taken in hand. Nothing could be said. It was argued, against an assessment which would be based upon special rents paid for individual fields. Learned disquisitions were written on crop rates and field rates, natural rents and customary rents. The whole province was divided into about fifty millions of fields, and a host of settlement officers were directed to inspect every field minutely, and to ascertain the actual capabilities of the soil. The work of settlement was completed in about twenty years, and it cost the State more than a million sterling.

How this system worked will be seen from the remarks of a writer who seems to have thoroughly studied the question: "Great though the cost to the State was, it was probably insignificant when compared with the loss entailed to the people. Through all the weary years when a settlement was threatened or in actual progress, it was to the interest of the landlord to conceal or reduce the assets of his property. Improvements were not to be looked for when they brought about an immediate increase to his taxation, all breaking up of new land or care in cultivation was discouraged. In addition to these, every village was invaded by hosts of amins and other settlement subordinates, and the landlords were compelled to keep at free quarters, and propitiate by presents the men on whom they believed that the amount of their taxation for the next period of thirty years, and their consequent prosperity and ruin, ultimately depended. What the loss to the people was it would be useless to try to estimate." Those who have witnessed the sufferings of the people know what this periodical settlement means. Large estates were so thoroughly involved in debt, that the proprietors were often obliged to sell them. Small estates were irretrievably ruined, and ancient proprietors, whose ancestors owned these estates for centuries, have been cast adrift in the world as vagabonds and adventurers bringing disgrace upon themselves and their ancient ancestry. The indebtedness, or "impecuniosity," of the North-West landlord is a well-known fact. He is so poor, so utterly helpless, that it is a matter of wonder that he can manage to pay at all the Government revenue. The North West has gloried over the Thomasonian Settlement, and politicians of the dead-level school have depicted in glowing terms the "unexampled prosperity which the province has enjoyed." If an impartial observer were to write an account of the actual agricultural conditions of the North West, he would draw a picture whose hideousness would revolt every well-wisher of the country. The distresses of both the landlords and tenants are such that if the Indian Government were aware of the true state of things, it would never allow the people to groan under such misery. As a class the people are all ignorant. They do not even know their rights. They do not know to whom their complaints should be addressed. If they send in petitions they are denounced as wicked men who are dissatisfied with the British Raj, and upon whom the police should keep its eye. What that means is of course known to many of our readers. The poor tenants, and the poorer landholders, believe themselves doomed to suffer, and they suffer in silence.—Hindoo Patriot.

THE EVIL AND ITS REMEDY.

WE have shown that all attempts at periodic settlements have failed. It behoves Government then to fix upon some other principle of assessment, that would remedy the evil which the people so loudly complain of. The only efficient remedy which an unbiassed person would recommend would be a permanent settlement. But the very name of permanent settlement frightens the present generation of radical reformers. Twenty sentimental theorists would at once declare with a voice of thunder that a more absurd remedy could not be proposed. The remedy, they would say, would be worse than the disease. "In Bengal the permanent settlement has been tried; and what good has it done? It is a sham and blunder. It entailed heavy loss on Government, and inflicted a grievous wrong on the tenantry. The people it benefited are a body of intermediate proprietors who have not the slightest interest in the agricultural progress of the country, who always talk of their 'vested rights,' and whose only object is to thwart Government in its noble attempts at reform. If any measure were proposed which would be calculated to confer greater privileges on the cultivators, and give greater security to their rights, the measure would be condemned as revolutionary and as striking at the very root of proprietary rights. The advocates of zemindars would even appeal to the principles of political economy, and have the audacity to teach their rulers that attempts to interfere by statute, as opposed to custom between tenants-at-will and the laws of supply and demand are opposed to all sound principles of legislation. Give the North West any other settlement you please but the very idea of giving it a permanent settlement to the province must be scouted. Government would not listen to such a thing." The pseudo-philanthropists of the day would thus denounce the very settlement which alone can work real reform, and promote agricultural prosperity in the North West. It has been definitely settled that the Government revenue should not be permanently assessed. The question is, what other settlement should be substituted for the system which is now in vogue? It is admitted on all hands that a periodic settlement means depreciation of the value of property, credit affected, heart-burning and irritation, suspicious of the intentions of the Government, litigation, impoverishment, and ruin. "Nothing," says an experienced writer, "can equal the injury inflicted by a slow uncertain settlement, dragging its length along, obstructed by conflicting orders, harassed by successive administrations, and finally threatened by annihilation at the moment when it seemed to have nearly finished its course." Imprisonment of landlords for non-payment of revenue, sale of their personal property nay, even of their brass pots and cooking utensils—are frequent occurrences which every Government is bound to ponder over. The Lieutenant Governor stated, in his Administration Report for 1873, that while travelling he was forcibly struck with the wretched condition of one of the most fertile districts "in which many estates were so depopulated, and so much land had fallen out of cultivation, that the assessment had become very severe." This would show that reform is urgently called for, and it is in contemplation to introduce a measure that would, it is imagined, materially improve the present state of affairs.

It is in contemplation, we understand, to fix upon what is called an initial revenue for certain well-defined areas of land. Every inquiry would be made to ascertain whether this particular area is capable of yielding a certain amount of revenue. If the inquiries are satisfactory, that amount should be taken as the initial revenue. The period of settlement should be reduced from thirty to twenty years and during this period the initial revenue should remain unchanged. At the end of this term the enhancement of revenue should be regulated by the increase of the productive power of the soil, and the rise in prices. Every estate would be divided into certain classes of land according to their productive capacity. The revenue of an estate would be fixed and unaltered if it could be shown that the conditions under which the initial assessment was made remain unchanged. This measure, it is believed, would entirely do away with the periodic record of rights, and harassing settlement operations; and would give a feeling of security to the landlord, and enable him to estimate with certainty his future liabilities to the State.

We have attempted to give a rough sketch of the plan proposed. It will, of course, receive material modifications before it is finally adopted. But we have grave doubts whether the proposed system would give any material relief to the people. We are of opinion that it is nothing but a makeshift. It would do no real good. It would produce no permanent benefit. We know the feeling of the people who would be immediately affected by the measure. They look upon the proposal with suspicion, and think that the periodical settlement of thirty years was much better than this clap-net of twenty years' duration. We would beseech Government not to introduce any imaginary reform that would do more injury than good. The opinions and feelings of the classes immediately concerned should be well ascertained before any revolutionary legislation is determined upon. We have had enough of crude theories and unsound arguments to bolster up foregone conclusions. Every philanthropist who has the true interest of the people at heart would really wish that the country should have rest, and that the agricultural community should be allowed to cultivate their fields, and enjoy the fruits of their labour in undisturbed peace for some time to come.—Hindoo Patriot.

INDIAN MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

(Bombay Government Gazette, July 15.)

Sir Frederick Roberts and staff arrived at Bangalore on the 9th inst.

Captain Sawyer, of the Bombay Staff Corps, has been permitted to return to duty.

Surgeon Major J. E. Eades, 5th Bengal Native Infantry, is off leave on medical certificate.

Lieutenant H. H. Cornell, 3rd Punjab Volunteer Rifle Corps, has been granted three months' leave.

An extension of leave for three months has been granted to Lieut. J. S. Ashby, of the Bombay Staff Corps.

Lieut. G. D. Giles, of the Bombay Staff Corps, has been permitted by the Secretary of State to resign the service.

Lieutenant Colonel H. de G. Watter, Royal Horse Artillery, has been ordered from Meerut to Kirkee for duty.

The permanent location of the transport depot in Soinde, at Kurfaches, has been sanctioned by the Government of India.

Lieutenant H. H. L. Bagott, 2nd Battalion Somerset Light Infantry, has been granted six months' leave on urgent private affairs.

Captain W. R. Routh, Suffolk Regiment, Stationed Staff Officer, Murre, has been appointed Brigade Major at Rawal Pindi.

Mr. John O'Brien, 1st Punjab Volunteer Rifle Corps, has been appointed Lieutenant of D Company, to fill an existing vacancy.

Colonel Charles Scott Elliott and Edward Owen Leggett, Madras Staff Corps, have been removed to the Unemployed Supernumerary List.

The services of Surgeon W. H. Burke, M.D., I.M.D., have been replaced at the disposal of His Excellency the Commander in Chief of Bombay.

Colonel W. H. Mackesy, Bengal Staff Corps, officiating second in command of the 24th Punjab Native Infantry, has proceeded on ninety days' privilege leave to England.

We hear that Lieutenant Colonels Chaldecott and Ommanney, Royal Artillery, Peshawur and Rawul Pindi, have been ordered to proceed to England on their recent promotion.

A new Sub-District Royal Engineer Command has been formed in Natal, the officer in charge of which is to be addressed as the Commanding Royal Engineer, Natal.

Captain G. C. Parker, of the Sind Rifle Volunteer Corps, has been granted six months' leave of absence, and Lieut. W. Aves, of the same corps, has been permitted to resign his commission.

It is stated to be probable that a committee will be ordered to assemble at Calcutta to consider the question of military transport for sick and wounded in the field.

The services of G. J. Shand, M.D., Indian Medical Service, have been placed at the disposal of the Home Department, for civil employment under the Government of Punjab.

It is stated that there is a proposal at present under consideration for the grant of an office allowance of Rs. 50 per mensem to the Assistant Inspector of Gymnasia in the Bombay Presidency.

Surgeon M. L. Bartholomew, Indian Medical Department, has been appointed Honorary Surgeon of the 3rd Punjab Volunteer Rifle Corps, at Sukkur, vice Surgeon R. Monks, transferred to Aden.

The Secretary of State has allowed Colonel Laughton, Superintendent, Poona and Nasik Revenue Survey, and extension of service for six months from the date on which he succeeds to Colonel's allowance.

Medical officers attached for duty to cavalry, artillery, and infantry, during service in the field, are to be allowed to employ, as their servants, soldiers from the ranks of the corps to which they are attached.

Lieut. Col. G. A. Russell and Major J. A. F. Nutt, Royal Artillery, have on their recent promotion been ordered home for duty with the London Division and North Irish Division, respectively.

Lieut. Col. T. C. Georges and Lieut. Col. D. G. S. Grant, Madras Staff Corps, have been admitted to Colonel's allowances from the 13th ult. Col. Grant has been granted permission to reside in Europe.

It has been ruled in Bombay that a hospital assistant, when available, is to be sent (with the customary medical equipment) with every company or half company of the corps of Sappers and Miners detached from regimental headquarters at Kirkee.

The Flintshire and Carnarvonshire Rifle Volunteer Corps are in future to be designated respectively the 1st and 2nd Volunteer Battalions of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers. The 1st Battalion Royal Welsh Fusiliers is at present quartered at Dum-Dum.

Colonel Colquhoun, of the 2nd Battalion Middlesex Regiment, late 77th, now at Secunderabad, it is believed, accepts retirement under the clause of the Royal Warrant sanctioning the same after four years in command; he will in this case be voluntarily retired on retired pay of £420 per annum.

A class for army signalling will assemble at Bangalore, on the 16th inst., for the instruction of twenty selected non-commissioned officers and men of the Madras Native Army. The teaching of native soldiers army signally does not commend itself to the general mind, nor does it accord with the view lately given forth at Simla by a distinguished military officer.

A general order has been issued notifying that warrant officers are not allowed to send or receive letters to or from any of Her Majesty's colonies or foreign possessions at reduced postage, and that this privilege, granted by the Post Office Act, only extends to non-commissioned officers and soldiers, who are reminded that the privilege only applies to letters under half-an-ounce in weight.

LONDON PRODUCE MARKETS.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—826 packages Indian and 111 Ceylon tea were offered at auction to-day, without apparent change in values. The China tea market privately has been very quiet, little business having been done out of recent arrivals. Two fresh vessels, the steamers Glenfruin, from Hankow, and the Ulysses, with the second cargo of Foochow teas, dock this afternoon, samples from which will be offered to-morrow. The China auctions consisted of 652 black leaf siftings, which sold without reserve at 5½d. to 5¾d. per lb.; 1,546 half chests black leaf, common to good common, at 8½d. to 9¾d. per lb., being prices in favour of buyers; 340 half chests fair quality, at 11d. to 11¾d. per lb.; 630 new season's Saryunes realised 7¾d. per lb.; and 6,000 Canton Congous, 9¾d. to 11¾d. per lb.

SUGAR.—A quiet market, with sales of 156 casks crystallised Demerara at yesterday's prices. In auction 1,320 bags Bengal sold without reserve at 8s. 6d. to 9s. 6d. for Brown Dulloah, 200 hogsheads, 109 barrels grocery Porto Rico were bought in at 16s. to 17s. Further business done in Jaggery, including 6,500 bags cane at 9s., and very low quality at 7s. per cwt. Beet inactive at yesterday's quotations. In the Clyde market the demand for pieces is rather active at full rates.

COFFEE.—The small supply of 80 casks, 55 barrels and bags Plantation Ceylon went without change—middling to good middling, 64s. to 65s.; good, 82s. to 84s.; and four cases, 682 bags East India brought very full rates—medium grayish, 60s. to 63s.; bold, 70s.; 157 bags central American sold 54s. to 60s. A quiet market generally.

SPICES.—The only feature in the sales was an improved demand for Penang nutmegs at ¼d. to 1d. advance. 142 packages all sold, small 1s. 8d. to 1s. 9d.; medium to good, 8s. to 7s. to the pound, 2s. 4d.; bold, 3s. 2d. to 3s. 4d. 39 packages mace went barely up to last week's rates; ordinary to fair red, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 3d., one lot 1s. 4d. Black pepper is slow, Singapore to arrive, sold at 7¾d. 1,209 bags in auction bought in; Penang, 6¾d., and 60 bags Singapore 10¾d. No Cochin ginger offered; 371 bags African bought in, 43s. 257 packages Jamaica partly sold, 44s. to 52s. Pimento quiet, 303 bags withdrawn, 388 barrels Zanzibar cloves bought in above value. 92 barrels Bombay cassia sold at 12s. per cwt.

SAGO quiet. 776 Sarawak flour partly sold at 9s. 9d. per cwt. Flake tapioca rather dearer, a third of 3,400 bags Singapore selling 1¼d. to 1½d. per lb. 466 seed pearl—a fourth sold at 11s. 6d. to 12s.; and 220 bags medium at 13s. 6d. to 14s. per cwt.

THURSDAY EVENING.

Messrs. W. J. and H. Thompson say there is no feature of importance to notice in the markets, which generally remain dull as the extremely low quotations fail to restore confidence, and speculation is quite at a standstill. A good demand prevails for crystallised Demerara sugar by the home trade at the depressed rates now current. Other West India has sold to a more moderate extent only on previous terms. Beet continues unsettled on the probability of an abundant yield this season. Dry refined goods sell at very low rates, through foreign competition from various quarters. In the Coffee Market the tone is better, with rather more inquiry for home trade kinds at the heavy decline established during the last four months, and owing to the approaching Bank Holiday there will not be any public sales until the 7th proximo. The latest telegrams from Havre show a recovery upon good ordinary Santos. Our stock here is nearly 9,000 tons under the exceptionally large one of last year, and below the usual average supply. There have been further arrivals of tea. The private contract market remains in the same quiet state as before, and prices at the public sales are again in favour of the buyers. Exporters have been the chief operators this week. Indian tea steady with rates unchanged. At the spice sales yesterday Penang nutmegs met with more competition at rather higher prices. Black pepper does not quite maintain the advance last referred to. White is firm, and dearer for arrival. Rice dull at previous rates. East India Chinchong has been sold on lower terms.

TEA dull, but a fair inquiry for new seasons for export. 1,487 packages Indian sold without any change in quotations 1,030 packages Ceylon representing good invoices from "Kandal Oya" and Rockwood estates brought brisk competition and full prices. 706 packages Java teas generally passed at about previous rates, broken Pekoes and Pekoe Souchongs selling rather easier. At the China auctions prices were fairly steady—New season's black leaf siftings, 4½d. to 6½d. per lb.; 3,877 packages common black-leaf, 6¾d. to 9¾d. per lb.; 1,150 good common, 10d. to 10¾d.; and 600 packages fair to low medium, 11d. to 1s. 1d. per lb. New season's siftings realised 5½d. to 5¾d. per lb.; common to good common red-leaf passed at from 5d. to 6¾d. per lb. The private is very quiet, the trade awaiting fresh samples, ex ships just arrived. Great stagnation has prevailed since the close of the auctions, and hardly a transaction has taken place. The accounts from the producing districts of Lower Bengal and Tirhoot continue unsatisfactory.

COFFEE.—The demand for Plantation Ceylon is steady at yesterday's rates. 267 casks, 110 barrels, and bags sold—middling to good middling, 63s. to 67s.; fine, 69s. to 70s. 6d.; bold grayish, 79s.; fine bold colony, 90s. to 92s.; one lot 10s. No change in East India. Part of 412 casks 1,221 bags sold—fine qualities at high prices from 88s. to 92s.; good bold, 75s. to 76s.; good medium, 59s. 6d. to 60s. 6d., and small in proportion. Costa Rica rather quiet, but held firmly, and 1,445 bags only partly sold; ordinary to good ordinary, 44s. 6d. to 49s.; low middling to middling, 54s. to 6s.; 216 bags Nicaragua sold—good colony, 54s. 6d. to 65s. 6d.; 559 bags Guatemala chiefly bought in, some selling at 46s. 6d. to 53s.; and 50 bags New Grenada, 54s. 6d. to 57s. Of 252 packages Mocha a few lots common mixed sold at 80s. to 86s. per cwt.

SUGAR.—Sales have been limited, including 137 casks refining West India at yesterday's rates. Beet remains quiet. In the Clyde market prices are steady, with a fair demand for good to fine. Subjoined is M. Bertrand Silz's report, dated Paris, July 30:—The Official Journal publishes to-day the assent of the President of the Republic to the new sugar law, and its application begins immediately. The duty of consumption now is 50f. the 100 kilos. of refined. For manufacturers the tax will be optionally reduced from the beet at the rate of six kilos. of refined per 100 kilos. of beetroot for the manufactories working with "la diffusion," and at the rate of five kil. s. for those working with the "pesses continues" or "hydrauliques." For manufacturers who will not have a tax on the beetroot there will be granted to them, on the whole of their production, a bonus of 8 per cent. The French colonial sugars imported directly will have a benefit of 12 per cent. The surtax on foreign sugars of European origin is 7f. the 100 kil. s., with a prohibition for those analysing less than 80 deg. We now find ourselves in this anomalous position, that the sugar at present in stock has to bear the charges for the new law without enjoying any of its favours. As for the market it remains in the hands of "beas," who interpret according to their ideas all the events which take place, however serious they may be, whether they influence the tax on the beet or the prohibitory surtax at the entry in France. Prompt merchandise has been rare the last few days, and by the demands for the end of the month, it has maintained its value, while forward delivery is sensibly lowered.

SPICES.—Pepper quiet. Zanzibar cloves in better demand.

FRIDAY EVENING.

SUGAR.—The market is without change for the week. At the public sales crystallised Demerara brought previous rates, from 19s. to 22s. The week's business in West India amounts to 2,114 casks 8,600 bags &c. Compared with last Friday crystallised is unaltered, but refining kinds easier. 1,400 bags China, by auction, bought in at 9s. 6d. Privately 125 casks Surinam sold at 11s., and some business done in Porto Rico. In the Clyde market a fair demand for pieces. Beet is 3d. to 4½d. lower on the week for prompt shipment.

COFFEE.—There have not been any public sales, nor will any take place until Thursday next. The market is quiet.

BLACK PEPPER is now selling nearly up to the highest rates of last week. Singapore 7½d. per lb.

INDIA'S TRADE WITH ENGLAND.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Edward Watherston, and the other leaders of the agitation against the unfair and one-sided treatment of India by the Radical Government in the matter of the prohibitive English duties on Indian silver goods, are determined not to be cowed by the bullying they received from Lord Kimberley and Mr. Cross. An advertisement has been put forth, stating that the agitation will again be taken up with increased vigour after a few months; and it seems incredible that, with such an overpowering and unanswerable case as these gentlemen can put before the English public, for bare justice to the Indian silver-craftsmen, it can any longer be possible for Mr. Gladstone to mock the demands of India while he lends such a willing ear to the demands of Lancashire on the Indian revenues.

But of even more vital importance to the interests of India—because it involves the creation of an industry capable of enriching India far more than any industry she now possesses—is the proposal, enforced of late in England by Mr. Macfarlane, Mr. Roper Lethbridge, and others, to obtain from the Gladstone Cabinet some fiscal encouragement for Indian tobacco. At present the most costly cigars of Cuba, the most expensive tobaccos of Virginia and Maryland—the profits on which go into the pockets of foreigners, and are therefore sacred in the eyes of your good Radical—are not taxed one penny more for the English revenue, than the cheap and wholesome growths of Rangpur, of Dindigal, and of Burma, the profits of which would go into the pockets of our Indian fellow-subjects. A tax of 3s. 6d. on a lb. of Rangpur tobacco, worth 6d., is a crushing and prohibitive impost. It is only since the Conservative Ministry was driven from power in England that tobacco-growing on any very large and adequate scale has been taken up by British subjects, whether of Indian, English, or Burmese descent. The existing tariff was defensible so long as it was imposed only on the expensive articles supplied us by the Americans and Spaniards; but under present circumstances it is nothing better than a disgraceful protection—protection all the more disgraceful because of the free-trade professions of the present Government by whom it is maintained—of the importers of American and Spanish cigars and tobacco, at the cost of the poor Indian producer, and to the great detriment of the English working-man consumer. We are glad to see some of the most influential and far-sighted of the Indian Native papers taking up this question, and heartily supporting Mr. Lethbridge in his demand for reform. The Hindoo Patriot, in its issue to hand by the last mail, has the following on Mr. Roper Lethbridge's candidature at Whitby:—

“Mr. Roper Lethbridge is a candidate for Whitby. We have read his address to the electors with great interest. It shows that the candidate is a man of large views, who earnestly wishes to do real work. The people of Whitby in electing him as their representative will not only benefit their own borough, but will also do real service to India. Mr. Roper Lethbridge is a true friend upon whom we can rely. He told the electors that he would not consent to enter Parliament as their representative just to come down to Whitby at election times only. He would be a permanent resident of Whitby. ‘The first interest of my life will be to promote the welfare of Whitby and the people of Whitby.’ These remarks show the man. What he takes up he does well and thoroughly. He sets his heart to the work, and infuses life into it. There is one passage in his address which we make no apology in quoting in this place. ‘It was one-sided free trade when this country opened her markets to other nations while those same nations closed their markets to us. Why not throw open our markets to the cheap and excellent growth of Indian tobacco, which would immensely cheapen the supply of tobacco—that poor man's one luxury and comfort—to English consumers. Every fiscal encouragement should be given to it. India could supply it at 6d. per lb., but the Government put on a duty of 3s. 6d. and made it cost 4s. per lb. They were taxed in order that the foreigners' products might come in free.’ If the good people of Whitby elect Mr. Roper Lethbridge as their representative, the people of India, as we have said before, will be sincerely thankful to them. Mr. Lethbridge will not only watch over the interests of Whitby, but will also earn the gratitude of India by his noble exertions in redressing her wrongs.”

THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON INDIAN RAILWAYS.

At last Lord Ripon will be deprived—though only at the fag-end of his Viceroyalty—of the excuse that has served him so well, by enabling him to suspend or starve all railway extension in India, and thereby to hide (to some extent) from the public gaze the enormous extravagance of his administration in other and less permanently productive lines of expenditure. The Report of the Select Committee on Indian Railways has at length been published; and so, it will now be impossible for the Government of India, when warned of the scandalous neglect of the interests of the Empire, of which it has been guilty in the matter of railway extension during the present ill-starred Viceroyalty, any longer to plead that it is “waiting for the issue of the forthcoming inquiry.” In this report, it is stated that the lines recommended for construction by the Government of India have been arranged in two schedules. The first contained thirty-four lines, with a total length of 3,432½ miles, of which the cost is estimated at £24,288,000. These railways are all considered likely to be remunerative, and they are left to be taken up by private companies without any aid from the Government, except the grant of land free of cost. The immediate construction of these lines is not contemplated by the Government of India. The second schedule contains thirty projects, many of which are already under construction, the length still requiring to be made being 3,896 miles, and the cost being estimated at £28,262,450, or, after allowing for the repayment of £630,000 by a company, £27,632,450. These railways are all said to be indispensable for protective or other urgent purposes. It is intended that £13,444,000 shall be borrowed by the Government, £2,100,000 by construction and working companies—that is, companies receiving a permanent guarantee of interest to make a line on behalf of the State, and the £12,040,000 by companies working on their account with a guarantee of advances of interest for a limited term of years, repayable from surplus profits. The remaining £48,450 will be supplied from the provincial balances.

THE INDIAN SECTION OF THE FORESTRY EXHIBITION.—An interesting preface on this section of the Forestry Exhibition has been contributed to the official catalogue by Sir George Birdwood. The greater part of it naturally deals with the origin and labours of the Forest Department of India, which has accomplished so much for the material benefit of the country. It was rather more than forty years ago that attention began to be directed to the ravages which had been going on for centuries in the forests of India and Burmah. The final period of destruction was during the troubles following the decline of the Mogul Empire, when Mahratta and Afghan both did their utmost to devastate the land. Sir George Birdwood points out that the pinch was first felt in connection with ship-building, while it was due to the representations of a meeting of the British Association held in Edinburgh itself that steps were taken to counteract this tendency and to apply a remedy to the complete denudation of Indian forests. But for this salutary check India would now be far advanced on the same road of material deterioration as Afghanistan where, to use the words of the writer, "a once fertile and wealthy country has been converted into an hospitable desert." It is certainly difficult to fix a limit to the benefits accruing from the extension and proper care of forests, but it requires a sanguine disposition to predict by this means "the gradual restitution to the whole of Central Asia of the prosperity it once enjoyed." However, there can be no doubt as to the excellent work accomplished in India, and it is a feat which ought to be appreciated in that country above every other, seeing that the Brahmans have laid down the axiom for ages that "he who plants a tree lives long." Sir George Birdwood's preface is the most interesting part of a catalogue which must be pronounced in every way quite on a par with the best of this kind of production.

THE SILVER MARKET AND THE EASTERN EXCHANGES.

TUESDAY.—The supply of Mexican dollars available to-day consisted chiefly of the amount brought by the Moselle, and this remittance has now been sold for China at 50½d. per ounce. The market for bar silver remains firm, and 50 13-16d. was again obtained, for the greater part of the consignment per Cordillera which had to be dealt with. Indian and China exchange rates are unchanged, and Rupee Paper shows practically no alteration, being quoted at 83½ 83½ for the Four-and-a-Half, and 81½ 81½ for the Four per Cents., with but little business.

WEDNESDAY.—Refined bar silver has advanced to 50½d. per ounce, and a small amount of business was done at that price. The market was firm at the close, owing partly to the announcement that the India Council bills to be tendered for next week will be reduced in amount from 25 to 20 lakhs. Both the Indian exchange rates are now quoted at 1s. 7 17-32d., and this also helped to strengthen the market for silver. Very little business was done in Mexican dollars, but their price is unaltered at 50½d. There is also no variation in the China exchanges, Hongkong and Shanghai being again quoted at 3s. 9d. and 5s. 2½d. respectively. Rupee Paper is firmer, and there is not much stock to be had at present prices. The Four-and-a-Half per Cents. closed at 83½ 83¼ and the Four per Cents. 81½ 81¼.

THURSDAY.—The Silver Market continues firm at 50½d. for bars and 50½d. per ounce for Mexican dollars, but business has been limited. The only movement that has occurred in Eastern exchange rates is an advance of 1-32d. in the Calcutta quotation to 1s. 7 9-16d. Rupee Paper is unaltered at 83½ 83¼ and 81½ 81¼ for the Four-and-a-Half and Four per Cents. respectively. The India Council have sold bills for Rs. 5,10,000 on Bombay, four-fifths of which were taken at 1s. 7 9-16d., and the rest at 1s. 7 19-32d. per rupee.

FRIDAY.—Firmness is still the characteristic of the Silver Market, but transactions continue limited owing to the smallness of available supplies. Bars this evening are again quoted at 50½d. and Mexican dollars at 50½d. per ounce. The Bombay exchange rate has advanced to the Calcutta level, both being now 1s. 7 9-16d. China rates of exchange are unaltered. Four per Cent. Rupee Paper remains at 81½ 81¼, but the Four-and-a-Half per Cents. have risen ¼ to 83½ 83¼.

SATURDAY.—The position of the Silver Market is unchanged as regards prices, and business has been at a standstill, owing partly to the absence of supplies, and also to the approach of the holidays. Rupee Paper and all Eastern exchange rates are also unaltered.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

THE RAJPOOTANA RAILWAY.

In reply to Sir G. Campbell, Mr. CROSS said, The working of the Rajpootana Railway is about to be made over to the Bombay and Baroda Company; and the Government has reserved the power of fixing and varying from time to time both maximum and minimum rates.

LEGISLATION IN MADRAS.

Mr. BIGGAR asked the Under Secretary for India whether attention would be paid to the increasing number of complaints of ryots at the vexatious nature of the recent legislation in Madras, Act 5, of 1882, Forests; and whether it was true that Section 56 declared that all wood, timber, produce, &c., shall be presumed to be Government property, and that in consequence such enormous powers were placed in the hands of low-paid officials that most serious discontent was spreading over the Madras Presidency.

Mr. CROSS: Act 5 of 1882 did not come into force until the 1st of January, 1883, and no report on its working has yet reached this country. Neither have any complaints been received, so far as is known, of the vexatious nature of its clauses. Section 56 provides that when a question arises under the Act whether forest produce is the property of Government, such produce shall be presumed to be the property of the Government till the contrary is proved. The powers reserved to the district forest officers are, in many instances, not capable of being delegated to subordinates, and, in any case, there is no reason to suppose that "enormous powers are placed in the hands of low-paid officials," or that serious discontent has arisen therefrom.

THE DISTRICT OF QUETTA.

Mr. SLAGG asked the Under Secretary for India whether it was the case that certain regiments of cavalry had been added to the Indian forces in connection with the frontier exploits the district of Quetta.

Mr. CROSS said he did not understand what his hon. friend meant when he spoke of frontier exploits in the district of Quetta; but there had been no increase in the Indian cavalry.

NATIVE APPOINTMENTS IN INDIA.

Mr. T. ROGERS asked the Under Secretary of State for India whether he could inform the House what the answer was which was given to a memorial or letter forwarded by Mr. Rungiah Naider Garu in reference to the appointment of Messrs. Tarrant and Thornhill to offices in the Revenue Settlement Department, which offices the writer of the memorial was said to contend were, by the terms of the Royal proclamation, confined to Indian natives; and whether it was the case that the noble lord the former Secretary of State for India desired that such infractions of the proclamation should be pointed out to him.

Mr. CROSS: On the 9th June I informed the hon. member for Cavan county that Mr. Garu's letter had been returned to him for submission through the Government of Madras, in accordance with fixed rules. The Secretary of State in Council has disallowed the appointments of Messrs. Tarrant and Thornhill, which were made by the Madras Government subject to the sanction of the Secretary of State. Natives of India have no exclusive right to such appointments in the Revenue Settlement Department, nor is there any Royal proclamation to that effect.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY.

AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. BOURKE asked the Under Secretary of State for India whether the Russian escort which was to accompany the Commission for delimiting the frontier of Afghanistan was to consist of a battery of artillery, a regiment of cavalry, and a regiment of infantry.

Lord E. FITZMAURICE: No information of that character has been received by Her Majesty's Government.

Mr. BOURKE: Will the Government ascertain before the Commission starts from India what the nature of the Russian escort is to be, and will they make arrangements to have an escort for the British Commission?

Lord E. FITZMAURICE: I think that a question as to an escort for the British Commission would more properly be asked of the Under Secretary of State for India. The question is receiving attention. I have no doubt that Her Majesty's Government will be fully informed as to the advance of the Russian escort.

Mr. BOURKE: Has the noble lord seen a statement in the Bombay Gazette as to the nature of the Russian escort.

Lord E. FITZMAURICE: I have seen a notice in one of the newspapers; it is probably that which the right hon. gentleman refers to.

Mr. COWEN: In the event of a disagreement, what means have the Government of maintaining the frontier after the escort is withdrawn?

Lord E. FITZMAURICE: I stated the other day that while these negotiations were going on it was quite impossible to make a statement on the subject.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—MONDAY.

THE ARMY IN INDIA.

Mr. THORNHILL asked the Under Secretary of State for India if he could state why quartermasters of the British Army serving in India and holding the rank of captain had only received the allowances of that rank from October, 1882, instead of, as in the case of other grades of non-combatant officers, from July 1, 1881.

Mr. J. K. CROSS: I am not aware what other grades of non-combatant officers are meant, but I may state that the Royal Warrant of 1881 did not accord the Indian allowances of captains to quartermasters in India. These allowances were sanctioned by the Secretary of State for India in Council in September, 1882; and in accordance with custom, retrospective effect was not given to the orders which sanctioned them.

THE DEMARCATION OF AFGHANISTAN.

Mr. ONSLOW asked the First Lord of the Treasury under whose protection the commission recently appointed to fix the Afghan boundaries would be; would the Ameer be represented; if so, by how many officers; what would be the duties of the Commission and what orders had been given to them; in case of difference of opinion between our officers and the Russian officers, or those of the Ameer, to what Government would our officers refer; was the escort to be provided to consist entirely of native troops; and what arrangements had been made for constant communication between our officers and either the Home Government or the Government of India.

Mr. GLADSTONE: Communications are still going on with regard to these various points, and I am not as yet in a position to give an answer.

Mr. ONSLOW: Is it true that our mission is to start in October, or, as reported in the Times, that it is to be put off to the spring of next year? This is a very important question indeed.

Mr. GLADSTONE: I agree as to the importance of this commission. All I can say is that I have not heard anything on the question of postponement.

Mr. ONSLOW: I shall put a further question on the subject next Thursday.

Mr. BOURKE: I beg to give notice that on the Appropriation Bill I shall call attention to the whole of this subject.

Mr. ONSLOW asked the Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs whether it was intended that the English Commissioners for the demarcation of Afghanistan should meet the Russian and Afghan Commissioners this year or next.

Lord E. FITZMAURICE replied that it was very difficult to make partial statements while a matter of this kind was proceeding.

The following general rules are laid down for the selection of candidates for the apothecary class and are to be strictly enforced:—Candidates are to be selected from European and Eurasian lads only. Natives of India, Goanese, Parsees, &c., are ineligible for admission into the Subordinate Medical Department as candidates for the apothecary class, in accordance with Government Resolution No. 1199, dated March 26, 1874, Military Department. Every candidate is required to furnish a certificate setting forth that he is either a European or Eurasian, as the case may be, and the place of his birth; his baptismal certificate should also be attached. A certificate according to a prescribed form must be declared and signed before a duly qualified magistrate only and must be attached to the examination papers of the candidate, without which a candidate will be debarred admission into the service.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &amp;c.

A meeting of the Viceroy's Legislative Council was held on July 9, when Mr. Herbert introduced the Khojas Bill, which was referred to a Select Committee. The Punjab Courts Bill was also referred to a Select Committee on the motion of Mr. Barkley. Sir Stuart Bayley presented the Select Committee's report on the Northern India Takkavi Act, 1879, Amendment Bill, and the Council adjourned for a fortnight.

A decision has just been given by Mr. Justice Cunningham, of the Calcutta High Court, in a case which came before him that marriage with a deceased wife's sister in India is illegal.

Copious rain has fallen during the past few days in nearly every part of the country, and the apprehensions of scarcity in consequence of the failure of the monsoon are set at rest.

Official reports show that the sanitary condition of the Bengal gaols continues very bad. The highest mortality recorded was that in the Julpigoree Gaol, where the death-rate was as high as 261.9 per thousand.

The recently circulated memorial praying for the appointment of a Sanitary Commission at Calcutta has now been submitted to the Lieutenant Governor, with upwards of one thousand signatures attached.

The Calcutta Municipality advertises a debenture loan of fifteen lakhs for drainage improvements.

The Maharajah of Burdwan has contributed Rs. 10,000 to be devoted to the improvement of Darjeeling.

The following were the balances held in cash in the civil treasuries of the Government of India and at credit of Government in the Presidency, banks and their branches on the last day of June, 1882, Rs. 14,78,77,000; 1883, Rs. 14,08,62,000; 1884, Rs. 13,10,70,000.

The Government of Bengal are expected to report shortly to the Government of India on the question of stamps on fire insurance policies, and it is said that it is highly probable that the Imperial authorities will give relief in some shape, though the details have of course not yet been discussed.

Mr. F. H. Pellew resigns the Bengal Civil Service.

Deputy Surgeon General Cowie officiates as Surgeon General, Bengal, during Dr. Payne's absence.

Mr. Darrah and Dr. Shand go to Assam and the Punjab, respectively, as Directors of Agriculture.

There has been reasonable weather in Sylhet. Tea is reported backward in some places.

The weather has been very warm in Cachar, and therefore favourable for tea, but the outturn up to date has been short.

Very hot and sultry weather has been experienced in Goalpara.

A few cases of sporadic cholera are reported from Kamrup. The river is rising and the weather is hot.

Occasional storms with hot weather is the news from Darrang. So far this has been favourable for tea.

In Sibsagar the reports regarding tea are more favourable than in Nowgong.

Tea is backward in Lakhimpur. The weather is hot, and cholera prevails.

The prospects of tea in Nowgong are reported not good. The weather has been too cold and deficient in rain. Every garden is behind last year.

We regret much to notice the sad death, from cholera, of Mr. F. C. Prestage, eldest son of the Honourable Franklin Prestage, of Darjeeling. The deceased gentleman was a universal favourite with all who knew him. He was only twenty-three years of age.—Indigo and Tea Planter's Gazette.

The general remarks on the state of the season and prospects of the crops in Assam for the week ending June 19 are:—Weather warmer and rain slightly heavier than last week. The reaping of the early rice crops has begun in some places, and the prospects everywhere are good. The cultivation of the late rice crop is in progress. Tea over the whole province is backward.

It is stated that the Afghan Frontier Commission will probably assemble at Sarakhs on October 1st.

The commission is to be of an Imperial character, and with this view the Viceroy agrees with the Home Government that its chief should be chosen in England.

We understand that the Amir is favourably inclined towards the project. He has not, however yet sent a definite reply, and the question of route and escort remain to be settled.

A Cabul report states that a party of Russians lately crossed the Oxus at Kaoki, and applied to the Meer of Maimana for permission to travel to Herat. The Russians were detained twelve days and then allowed to proceed on receipt of orders from the Ameer.

The £8,000 per annum, for two years, which is to be paid to the Shah for maintaining Ayub Khan and his followers at Teheran, is, it is stated, to come out of the Indian revenues, the arrangement having been sanctioned by the Secretary of State some time ago.

The Ameer of Cabul is plainly determined to strengthen his military position without delay. He has issued orders for the levy of four additional regiments in the Kandahar district.

Twelve new gunpowder mills are to be constructed at Cabul. A regiment of Horse Guards, a thousand strong, is to be raised, in which will be enrolled the sons of the principal Sardars of Cabul and Kandahar.

We also hear from Cabul that numerous arrests have been made of persons suspected of holding communication with Ayub Khan or other refugees of distinction. The Amir is said to desire the introduction of gold coinage into Afghanistan.

The Amir has ordered the new Mustaufi to examine the accounts of all Afghan officials for the last four years. Some eighty Mullahs are said to have been imprisoned for having passed a verdict against smoking.

The Khanates on the Kashmir border seem again to be in a disturbed state. Pahlwan Bahadur, who was expelled from Yassin at the time when Major Biddulph was menaced at Gilgit, is attempting the reconquest of the Khanate. He has taken the small fort of Roshan, and is preparing to attack Yassin itself.

MADRAS.

The Governor of Madras was expected at Bangalore on the 14th ult. to inspect the Fort.

At the Madras High Court on the 11th ult., Mr. James Wallace's application to institute a criminal prosecution of the members of the Madras Government came on for hearing. The Court reserved judgment.

The Madras Government has sanctioned the construction of a new water system at Bangalore.

A new weekly paper is to be published at Mandura, in August, under the style of the Pandiyan Chronicle.

Captain Romilly is in Bangalore, and has taken in hand Colonel Mullin's scheme for a water supply to Bangalore, which has been sanctioned by the Madras Government. The supply will be conducted from the Agram tank, four miles east of the station.

Captain Wicks, the acting master attendant of Tuticorn, arrived at that port on the 5th ult., and commenced making the necessary arrangements for the holding of a court of inquiry into the circumstances attending the loss of the Anchor Line steamer Galatia.

In reply to Professor Monier Williams's appeal, the Madras Government have placed at the disposal of Dr. Bidie the sum of Rs. 400 for the purpose of purchasing articles for the museum to be attached to the Oxford Institute, and have requested the several municipalities throughout the Southern Presidency to aid the collection according to their opportunities.

THE CARMICHAEL CASKET.—The Mail says:—The Hon'ble T. Rama Row, a member of the Legislative Council, announces that the address casket to Mrs. Carmichael is open for inspection at Messrs. P. Orr and Sons. It is a beautiful casket, wrought in silver and silver gilt, and resembles rather closely in general appearance the address casket presented to the Duke of Buckingham. But we fail to understand how the casket can be accepted by Mrs. Carmichael. There are stringent regulations prohibiting the acceptance of presents by officials, or by the wives of officials; and Mr. Carmichael is still a member of the Madras Civil Service, though he has ceased to be a member of Council. A collector whose wife publicly accepted a necklace of pearls from a grateful native community, on his departure from a district, would certainly be required to return the jewels, on the ground that its acceptance by a member of his family involved a breach of regulations. The casket under reference is exquisitely chased, and bears various illustrations, illustrative of the interest taken by Mrs. Carmichael in female education, &c. But we suppose no one would care to say that this massive piece of plate would have been presented to Mrs. Carmichael had she been the wife of nobody in particular, instead of being the wife of the senior member of Council. Mrs. Carmichael took a good deal of spasmodic interest in female education, but there was nothing very surprising in this, and she very properly disclaimed her right to the excessive laudation which was bestowed on her in connection with her benevolence. We do not pretend to say that such a casket is beyond the intrinsic merits of the case; but we may contend that it is a recognition, not so much of Mrs. Carmichael's good nature, as of her relationship to her husband; and it is in regard to the latter point that the acceptance of such a tribute of respect is inexpedient, and, we think, illegal.

KURNOOL LAQUER WORK.—A most superb illustration of this industry in the shape of a table top is now being exhibited in the new gallery of the Madras Museum. The art of applying laquer to industrial and ornamental purposes, has from time immemorial, been followed with great success in the Nandyal taluk of the Kurnool district, but from want of appreciation and interest it has so languished that the work is now in the hands of a single artist. Attention was directed to the industry on the occasion of the Calcutta Exhibition, where a few average samples, exhibited in the Madras Court, met with universal admiration, and the officer in charge received extensive orders for duplicates which, unfortunately, he was not able to execute.

In a return just published by the Commander in Chief Madras Army, 10,244 children are shown as attending the native regimental schools, of whom 3,694 are learning English.

BANK OF MADRAS.—The report of the Bank of Madras for the half-year ending June 30, 1884, shows that the profits for the half-year are Rs. 3,19,356. 8-4 to which has to be added Rs. 39,155 10-4 brought forward in December, making a total of Rs. 3,58,512 2-8. The directors have dealt with this sum as follows :—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Payment of dividend at 9 per cent. ...	2,25,000	0	0
Carried to Reserve Fund ...	1,00,000	0	0
Carried Forward ...	33,512	2	8

Major Lane, Inspector General of Police, Hyderabad Assigned Districts, having proceeded on privilege leave, Mr. Wright, District Superintendent of Police, Oomrattee, is his locum tenens.

MADRAS MILITARY OFFICES.—The several head-quarter offices of the Army and Indian Medical Departments have moved into Fort St. George, and are now located in what were the Adjutant-General's and Quartermaster-General's offices facing the central square.

BOMBAY.

The Bombay Municipal Corporation have confirmed the action of the Town Council in making a grant of Rs. 1,00,000 towards the guarantee fund of the Bombay International Exhibition. The fund now amounts to about eleven-and-a-half lakhs of rupees irrespective of the Government contribution.

The Bombay Government have issued a resolution inviting native chiefs to subscribe to the Exhibition Guarantee Fund.

Mr. James Linnett, manager to Messrs. Watson and Co., Bombay, died in an apoplectic fit on June 8. The deceased was forty-two years of age.

The Bank of Bombay on July 10 reduced its minimum rate to 5 per cent. per annum.

The total cost of the proposed Veterinary College and Hospital at Bombay is estimated at Rs. 21,000.

The net profits of the Bank of Bombay to June 30, amounted to Rs. 9,14,373. A dividend of 14 per cent. will be declared.

The appointment of Mr. W. E. Hart, Chief Judge of the Bombay Small Cause Court, to act as Judge of the High Court, during the absence of Mr. Justice Bayley, has been gazetted.

Mr. Justice Scott, on July 11, signed the death warrant of Visram Gopal Sinday, who was found guilty at the last Bombay Criminal Sessions of the murder of a Hindoo boy, whom he threw into a well after taking possession of his ornaments. The execution will take place on Thursday morning, the 24th in front of the County Gaol.

Mr. Jehangir Dossabhoj Framjee, Assistant Collector of Customs, Bombay, has been allowed an extension of leave for six months on sick certificate.

Our Berar correspondent writes :—“The cotton and jowari plants stand nearly three inches high. Much anxiety is felt on account of the rain holding off.”—Bombay Gazette.

Surgeon J. McCloghry has been appointed to the medical charge of the Roman Catholic Orphanage School, Poona, with effect from June 30.

Mr. M. MacMillan, B.A., professor of logic and moral philosophy in the Elphinstone College, has been appointed to act in the third grade during the absence of Mr. J. T. Hathornwaite.

A revised survey settlement has been introduced into 126 villages in Bagalkot taluka of the Kaladgi Collectorate. The assessments imposed under this settlement are declared to be fixed for a period of thirty years.

On the 4th ult. the Vihar lake contained 49'10 feet of water after a total rainfall of 13'94 inches as against 41'50 feet on the corresponding day of last year after a rainfall of 21'90 inches. In the Tulsi lake there was 29'10 feet of water as against 17'50.

Senhor B. F. D'Costa, the Educational Commissioner at Goa, has been, during the vacation, training some young men in the art of wood-engraving. The progress made by the students is eulogised by the Ultramar, in which some specimens of the engravings have been produced.

Lieutenant Colonel A. M. Phillips, Acting Political Agent at Cutch, has reported, for the information of His Excellency the Governor in Council, that a man, Jort Akhai, was struck dead by lightning on the 28th June while cultivating a field in the village of Kalerao in the Bhachao District.

A new scheme of reforms approved by the Government in Portugal, for execution in the Portuguese possessions in Asia and Africa, has been rejected by the Council of the Governor General of Goa. It is very seldom one hears of such a step on the part of a subordinate Government.

Lieutenant Mackenzie (Ellichpur) and Major Bullock (Amraoti), of the Berar Commission, are expected to return from Europe about the end of the month, when Mr. Knowles and Colonel Grant, who are at present acting as Deputy Commissioners, will revert to their substantive appointment as assistant commissioners.

The following is the official summary of the Bombay Presidency Season Reports for the week ending July 8 :—“Slight rain in parts of nine districts. Badly wanted for sowing operations in almost all districts. River falling in Sind. Cholera in parts of nine districts; fever, cattle-disease, and small-pox in several districts.”

The Pandharpur Municipality in the Sholapore Zilla has applied to Government for permission to raise a loan of Rs. 60,000 for the erection of about forty dhamshalas for the use of the pilgrims who visit the town periodically. The municipal revenues of the town are offered as security. It is proposed to repay the loan by half-yearly instalments of Rs. 5,000, including interest at six per cent., payable half-yearly, so that the sum shall be paid off, with interest, within eight years.

The proposal to erect a mammoth hotel on the vacant ground in front of the Royal Alfred Sailors' Home is receiving a liberal measure of support from capitalists, both here and at home, and during the past weeks the project has made considerable progress towards accomplishment. The preliminary designs and sketches, as prepared by Mr. J. Campbell, have now been sanctioned by Government, and on Tuesday they were sent home, where greater part of the capital is being raised. The hotel, should it ever be built, will be an imposing structure, and may claim to be one of the most magnificent architectural ornaments of the town. The designs are, of course, subject to modification, but at present it is proposed that the hotel shall contain some 140 bedrooms to accommodate about 200 persons. It will cover an area of 7,040 square yards. After reserving space for refreshment and waiting-rooms, &c., it is proposed to divide the ground floor into six shops, each of which will be 78 feet by 36 feet.

THE B. B. AND C. I. RAILWAY.—The increase in goods traffic on the B. B. and C. I. Railway for the week ending the 5th inst. was 13,431 maunds, and in money, Rs. 19,170.

BURMA.

BOILER EXPLOSION IN RANGOON.—Our Rangoon correspondent telegraphs on June 4 :—“William Quinliven, the engineer charged under section 304 A of the Penal Code with criminal negligence in regard to the boiler in a Chinaman's mill which exploded, killing five men, was to-day acquitted by the jury, after three days' trial in the Recorder's Court. The court was crowded with Europeans, who seemed to view the result of the trial with satisfaction.”—Pioneer Mail.

THE BENCH AND BAR AT RANGOON.—Mr. Agnew, Recorder of Rangoon, found in respect of the charges that Mr. Lingham, the Small Cause Court Judge, brought against certain Advocates of misconducting themselves in this Court, that “Mr. Lingham must be labouring under a delusion,” and that the charges were entirely groundless. Mr. MacEwen, the Additional Recorder, who was present at the inquiry, concurred in Mr. Agnew's conclusion.

DABING DACOITY AT PEGU.—Our correspondent telegraphs on the 4th of July :—“A dacoity which took place near Pegu on the Sittang canal three nights ago presents some remarkable features. Three boats, which must have contained eighteen men, were attacked by six dacoits; the boats' crews fled, and the dacoits obtained Rs. 2,000 booty.”—Pioneer Mail.

RANGOON.—Captain Hext, R.N., director of Indian Marine, Major W. G. Cumming, superintending engineer, Mr. Crocker, constructor Bombay Dockyard, and Lieut. Birch, R.A., left on the 7th ult., in the I.G.S. Enterprise, for Port Blair.

The Moulmein Advertiser announces that Mr. F. H. Dobson retires from the service on August 1.

The Travellers' Bungalow here is not an inviting place to put up at. It looks dirty inside and out; the bedding is damp, and the food and attendance nothing like what one would expect for the money charged. The hospital is another public building that requires attention. A similar institution in Shwaydoug, a town nine miles down the river, may well make it blush. In addition to its evidences of cleanliness and comfort, the hospital in the smaller town has a fine garden, which seems to bid the patients be of good cheer.

PROME.—The Commissioner of Pegu here is holding Sessions and the Examiner of P. W. Accounts is also here on his round of inspection.

The erection of temporary stages and sheds for poays across public thoroughfares by the Burmese, so as to block traffic, is a great nuisance. The man who provides the entertainment must have it in front of his own house, and the streets being narrow the whole width of the road is occupied.

CEYLON.

A Ceylon paper says:—"Six thousand miles, from Bhamo to Bagdad, for three farthings, but there is no lower postage than the equivalent of three pence between India and Ceylon, even for the poor coolies and their relatives. But what is worse for us in Ceylon is this. Correspondents in India, accustomed to having their letters carried thousands of miles in their own country for the half-anna stamp, will attach that and no other to letters intended for Ceylon. The result is that a large proportion of the letters we receive are charged with fines, and those fines, by a perverted ingenuity, are charged with reference to the highest steamer postage. The tax is sometimes very heavy. On three letters received a few days ago from India, we had to pay twenty-four cents on one, and thirty cents on each of the other two.—eighty-four cents, or not far short of a rupee, for letters which ought to be delivered free, and which, were we living on the banks of the Tigris instead of close to the Kelani and close to India, would be delivered free. There is no mail by steamer to Tuticorin now, and the substitute is a mail carrying 12 cent letters once a week to Madras. Those on which we had to pay so frightfully came so. The intercourse is less speedy and regular than when the British India steamers were running, and the fines are as heavy as ever. We know that this is scarcely the time to ask Sir Arthur Gordon to abandon any appreciable revenue. But the difference between 12 cents and 4 on the class of letters we are dealing with, including all despatched by coolies, cannot be great, and the sacrifice is worth making to put an end to complications which produce much irritation on both sides, for we have strong complaints from India also."—Rangoon Gazette.

The Ceylon Observer, writing on wild tea, says:—"All who have had experience of tea nurseries must have noticed the curious persistence of the plant so-called (which is not a true tea, although it looks very like it) in apparently claiming affinity to tea by growing up side by side with tea plants. A planter who found that his pluckers had been taking flushes from some of these plants got some leaves gathered and prepared them as tea is prepared. The sample is coarse and the flavour anything but fine, but certainly the substance might be mistaken for coarse tea. As some of the leaf must have gone home in his teas, the planter in question is anxious lest there should be any poisonous property. We have never heard of any."

THE "VOICE OF INDIA."

TO THE PUBLIC OPINION OF THE PEOPLE
OF INDIA.

THERE are in England large classes willing and anxious do justice to India, but they find it very difficult to know how to act. They complain that Indian questions are intricate; that the opinions of official experts are contradictory; and that the people of India are dumb, and do not give expression to their needs. This defect is now remedied
by publishing FORTNIGHTLY (in Bombay) a magazine
somewhat similar in nature to Public Opinion in England, which provides a compendium of all that is most valuable in the native journals throughout India on the leading topics of the day. The Voice of India thus gives forth a clear sound, interpreting between the rulers and the ruled, and making known the true wishes and feelings of the Indian people.

The Magazine advocates no views of its own. It seeks only to reflect with care and accuracy the views set forth in the native press. The Indian people are naturally docile and conservative; and it will be seen that the writings
thus brought before the English public are characterised by a knowledge of facts, and generally by practical good sense and moderation. No doubt grievances are from time to time being set forth; but it is a policy of prudence
no less than of justice to give these grievances a fair constitutional hearing. Accordingly, it is hoped that this publication will be subscribed for by Members of Parliament and other public men desirous of dealing with Indian questions, and that the facts thus brought together in a convenient form will be of value to journalists and other public writers. It specially desired to bring the Magazine before the public Clubs, Reading-rooms, Libraries, and Institutions throughout England, with a view to promote a sustained and intelligent interest in the welfare of our Indian Empire, comprising as it does 220 millions of our fellow-subjects.

CATECHISM OF SHORTHAND;

Being a Critical Examination of the various Styles, with special reference to the question, which is the best English System of Shorthand?

By

THOMAS ANDERSON,

Author of "History of Shorthand," &c.

"That Mr. Anderson should be able to arrive at a sound and practical conclusion may be inferred from the fact that he has been a writer at intervals of phonography, Melville Bell's, Gurney's, Taylor's, and his own system of shorthand, and has also written a full and valuable history of the art."—Manchester Courier.

"We must say that there is a great deal of information crowded into small compass. At a time when shorthand is gaining an ascendancy in public attention previously unknown, we are sure that this little book by a practical man and an enthusiastic student of the history of shorthand will be largely read."—Metropolitan.

"Youths about to learn shorthand should read this Catechism before making a start."—Western Times.

THE DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS

W. THORNHILL & CO., Sole Agents.

The Reputation of the "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS," originally introduced into England by W. THORNHILL and CO., is now permanently established. The success of their enterprise has surpassed their most sanguine expectations. "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS" afford the only instance hitherto attained of the absolutely perfect representation of the real diamonds by artificial means. These remarkable stones, by their purity and brilliancy, support comparison with diamonds of the first water, and are undistinguishable therefrom. They are infinitely superior in every respect to real diamonds of inferior quality. "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS" were exposed side by side with real diamonds of great value in the Paris Exhibition, 1878, and were awarded a Prize Medal and the highest recompense awarded to imitations. They attracted universal attention and admiration, and forthwith became much in vogue with the grande monde and elite of society. They are now worn at the Court balls, and upon all occasions in London, Paris, and St. Petersburg. They are invaluable for intermixing with and replacing parures and other costly diamond ornaments. "DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS" can be worn at all times, even by daylight, with confidence and absolute security. They possess the penetrating brilliancy and lustre peculiar to real diamonds, and the concessionaires guarantee the surprise and pleasure of purchasers. The perfection thus attained is the result of investigations and experiments extending over two generations. The cost, nevertheless, of the DIAMANTE BRILLIANTS is about 1-300th that of real diamonds.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, AUG. 11, 1884.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 21; Madras and Allahabad, July 20; Calcutta, July. 19

DURING the past week has come off that screaming faroe, now an annual event, known as the Indian Budget Debate in the House of Commons—the said debate being so admirably timed by the Government that about a score of members are able to “assist.”

On the day preceding this great event, there was an even greater event at the Westminster Palace Hotel—a real “Conference on Indian questions,” under the presidency of Sir Wilfrid Lawson, assisted by the estimable and kind-hearted Secretary of the Aborigines Protection Society, Mr. Chesson. The Times says that (among others) the “Native Indians” present comprised “Mr. G. Foggo”; and that among “the general guests”—whatever that phrase may mean—was Mr. Wilfrid Blunt, Mr. Seymour Keay, though not mentioned by name in either of these categories, appears to have been present; but all that is recorded of him is, that he “addressed the assembly.” Sir Wilfrid Lawson did not make as many jokes as usual, and was therefore probably disappointing to his hearers. One good one, however, is recorded—“they would shortly,” the Times reports him to have said, “be called upon in the House of Commons to discuss the Indian Budget.” This, spoken on the 7th of August, was in Sir Wilfrid’s best style; and Mr. Lalmohun Ghose afterwards said of Sir Wilfrid’s speech that “such words of comfort as they had heard that morning induced them to hope that better days were in store for them.” Not bad, that; but the rest of Mr. Ghose’s speech was hardly equal to the occasion, being apparently sensible and moderate.

THE Hon. Mahomed Ali Rogay followed Mr. Ghose with the remarkable statement that none of the “executive and legislative councils contained in India a single native member.” If this be so, whence does Mr. Rogay get his title of “Hon.”? And are H. H. the Maharajah of Darbhanga, Mr. Amir Ali and all the rest of our Indian legislators, merely figments of imagination? Mr. Rogay, however, capped this remarkable statement by another even more startling—“as things were,” he went on, “no native was allowed to rise to any position worth more than £20 per month.” After that, “His Highness” the Rajah Rampal Singh assured the meeting that “natives of India were not well treated by Englishmen in India;” and Mr. S. Smith, M.P., concluded the proceedings by assuring his Indian friends that “they would gain far more from the people of this country by wise and sensible speeches of that kind than mere denunciation and abuses and nothing else.” The chairman (who, it will be remembered, presided at one of the wagons in Hyde Park on the occasion of the “Great Reform Demonstration”) in replying to a vote of thanks, observed that “here we were turned head over heels and kicking up such a row all about getting two millions of agricultural labourers or some people of that sort into the Constitution.”

AFTER that, the “Conference” adjourned; but whether to Hanwell or to Colney Hatch, the report does not state.

IN the course of this amusing “Conference,” Mr. Illingworth, M.P., made remark with which we entirely concur, to the effect that it would be a good thing to “get a hindoo to become a candidate for the suffrages of an English Constituency.” But Mr. Illingworth omitted to add that if a Hindoo could be “got” to make this effort, he (Mr. Illingworth) would secure his success by giving up his own seat to him.

MR. CROPPER, appropriately named, thought that India had been treated for generations “as a dependency for enriching Englishmen.” But Mr. Hopwood’s remarks were most remarkable of all for their depth and meaning; he said “they must look to public opinion to correct all these evils which they all joined in recognising and reprobating.” This is a soul-inspiring sentiment. Mr. Cropper, Mr. Foggo, and their friends should inscribe it on their banners, and get Sir Wilfrid Lawson to crack jokes upon it in Hyde-park, they would soon convert Mr. Illingworth, Mr. Borlase, and Mr. S. Smith.

THE Globe of August 8, is rather hard on these “Conference” gentlemen; it calls them “Mischief Makers.” But the whole thing, including Mr. G. Foggo as a Native Indian, seems to have been rather of the nature of an elephantine practical joke. It is impossible to believe that Mr. Chesson looked on either Mr. Foggo, or Mr. Ghose or the Rajah Rampal Singh, as “aborigines” coming within the purview of his admirable Society. It is equally impossible to believe that Mr. Rogay meant his astounding statements to be taken seriously. All these were probably intended to be a series of amusing “croppers.”

SIR JOSEPH PEASE, the chairman of the Peace Society, and head of the Pease Family, made his annual onslaught on the Indian “opium traffic” in the course of the Budget Debate last Friday. Sir Joseph has now got a step further than last year. He declared that the Indian Government is “sinking deeper and deeper in the mire.” He charged Lord Ripon with “debauching the people of Burmah and China;” and regardless of geography, indignantly added that the Government, “not content with that, were prepared to debauch the rest of India.” The prospect of the debauchery of Burmah, China, and “the rest of India” was so appalling that an hon. member promptly rose at this juncture, and moved that the House be counted. Unhappily for the nerves of the speaker, a sufficient number of members, to keep the House listening to Sir Joseph’s horrors, were dragged in from the lobbies; and Sir Joseph then proceeded to show how rich India is, and how easily she can afford to lose the nine millions or so of opium revenue. It is so nice to be philanthropic with other people’s money.

THE Englishman gives the following account of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected up to Saturday July 19:—

“Rates for steamers have had a hardening tendency during the week, and our to-day’s quotations show an advance of 2s. 6d. nearly all round. Our market for sterling tonnage is however flat, and though the ships berthed during the week have succeeded in doing so at last rates, the position is by no means a strong one. The demand for forward Jute tonnage at former rates has quite collapsed. Owners do not wish to accept lower rates, on the other hand shippers prefer waiting and taking up tonnage shows but little difference to the total of last week, viz., 43,000 tons, many ships are due.”

THE Times of India has the following obituary till the departure of the mail, July 22:—

“Honorary Captain Charles John Knott, Quartermaster of the 2nd Battalion of the East Yorkshire Regiment, Bombay; Lieutenant Colonel Henry Allenborrow Yates, 3rd Madras Cavalry; Major Robert Proctor Tickell, R.E., Officiating Superintending Engineer, 3rd Circle, Irrigation Works, N.W.P.

SIR GEORGE CAMPBELL made one of the best speeches he has yet delivered in the House. He aptly reminded the worthy Pease philanthropists of the English revenue from whisky, and of the Biblical maxim about casting out the beam from one’s own eye before meddling with your neighbour’s mote. He denounced the infamous abolition of the Indian import duties on cotton goods by this unscrupulous Government, at the bidding of Lancashire and in opposition to Native opinion, at the very time when the export duties are maintained and when Mr. Gladstone refuses to allow England to reciprocate in the matters of the silver-plate or tobacco-duties. Perhaps the best thing in the whole debate was Sir George Campbell's animated and unanswerable demand for cheaper railway transport for the wheat and other produce of Upper India.

SIR GEORGE CAMPBELL'S remarks might well be commended to the notice of Mr. Fogg, his Highness the Rajah Rampal Singh, and the other gentlemen of the "Conference." If these gentlemen must talk or burst, why not talk on such really practical points as those noticed by Sir George Campbell.

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

THE following are the general remarks of the Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ended August 9:—

"In the Madras Presidency rain fell in all districts during the past week, but more is still wanted in several places, more especially in Bellary and Madura. In Mysore and Coorg the rainfall is still insufficient; in the former province more rain is urgently needed for young plants. Almost all districts of the Bombay Presidency report slight rain during the week, but more rain is much wanted generally throughout the Presidency for the kharif sowings. In the Berars and Hyderabad the fall has again been light, and also throughout the Central India and Rajputana states. Heavy rain continues in all districts of the Central Provinces, and a break would be beneficial in the southern districts, where sowings are impeded. Rain has been general, though somewhat light, in the North Western Provinces and Oudh, and in the greater part of the Punjab. In British Burma the rainfall is nearly up to the average and good falls are reported from the Assam districts. In Bengal the rainfall has been general, but insufficient for transplanting operations. The report of Meteorological Department, dated the 10th instant, shows a cessation of rain in Northern India, but heavier falls on the west coast and over the Deccan, and also in Burma. Harvesting is still in progress in Madras, and the condition of standing crops is generally fair. Ploughing and sowing for the kharif continue throughout the country, but are backward in parts of Bombay, North Western Provinces and Oudh, and Punjab, for want of rain. Cotton plants are above ground in the Berar, and cotton sowing is in progress in Nagpur. In Assam and Bengal the prospects of the standing crops are good, but more rain is wanted for transplanting operations in the latter province. In Assam the prospects of tea are improving. Cholera and small-pox are abating in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and Punjab, and the public health is generally good. Prices are generally stationary."

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

THE following is from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated August 5:—

"We have trustworthy native information that Major Alikanhoff, the Russian Governor of Merv, was at Sarakhs about the 30th of June last, with 200 horsemen, whom he left at Old Sarakhs. On his return to Merv he invited a number of the Salor Turcomans, from Zorabad, in the Persian territory, to settle at Old Sarakhs.

"It is beyond question firmly believed in Herat, Merv, and New Sarakhs, that the Russians have virtually occupied Old Sarakhs.

"There is a conflict of opinion regarding the question of the feasibility of carrying on the work of delineating the Afghan frontier continuously throughout the winter. Some authorities maintain that the climate will necessitate a cessation of the operations for two or three months. Should this view prevail, the departure of the Commission may possibly be postponed till the spring. The Indian Government, however, is understood to favour an early start in order that the Commission may finish the most important section—namely, that between the Tejend and Murghab rivers, by December, after which it would go into winter quarters, if necessary, and take up the section east of the Murghab in the spring.

"The Madras Government has resolved not to remove the Military Accounts Office to Bangalore, a personal inspection having convinced the Governor that the building intended for its accommodation at that station would have to be entirely rebuilt—this requirement making the change very costly."

THE following is the usual weekly telegram from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated Aug. 10:—

"No announcement has yet been made regarding the date of the departure or the route of the Afghan Frontier Commission. The rumour gains strength that the Ameer is unwilling to guarantee the safety of the Commission; and this much, at least, is certain, that no satisfactory reply from him on this point has yet reached the Indian Government. It is now evident that, whatever happens, the work of delimitation cannot begin by October 1, the date originally fixed.

"Reports received from Cabul state that the Russian advance to Merv and Old Sarakhs is watched with a lively sense of apprehension, and that the Governor General of Turkestan is believed to be contemplating a descent upon Afghan Turkestan with 10,000 Russian soldiers.

"Another report current in Cabul is that the proposed Zhob Valley expedition is merely a blind to cover an advance of the British army to Herat. It is also said that the Ameer is meditating a considerable increase of his army.

"An important order has been issued regarding the limitation of the tenure of certain staff and departmental appointments by officers in the Indian army. Henceforward, military secretaries to the Supreme and Presidency Governments military accountants-general, commissaries-general, and some others, will vacate office after five years, or on succession to colonels' allowances. Another class, including deputy judge-advocates and commissaries-general, must also vacate office on promotion to the rank of major-general. A third class, including assistant secretaries in the military department and officers of the Transport department, will continue to be borne seconded on the strength of their regiments. While all expect that few superior officers in the Accounts, Commissariat, and Judge-Advocate's departments will not come under the five years' rule, but will vacate their appointments either on succession to colonel's allowances or on promotion to the rank of major-general, or on attaining the age of 52, an exception is made in favour of officers appointed before January 1st to any post of hitherto unlimited tenure the duration of which is now reduced. There will be allowed seven years from the date of appointment, or such further extension, not exceeding two years, as will enable them to complete 32 years' service.

The lately-published report of the Superintendent of the Thuggee and Dacoity department shows a remarkable increase in the number of crimes of violence since 1880, especially in Rajpootana, Central India, and Hyderabad. The total number of cases reported was in 1880, 146, in 1881, 244, in 1882, 315, and in 1883, 363. The number of Dacoits, or gang robbers, was estimated last year at 13,186, and the value of the property stolen 508,140 rupees. The superintendent believes that these figures, which were for the most part furnished by the Governments of the native States, are largely under the amount of Dacoity that has actually occurred. Twelve cases of theft after drugging were reported; 20 persons being drugged, of whom four died from the effects of the poison, and one was murdered while insensible. But convictions were obtained in only three cases of drugging, and out of the large number of Dacoits only 218 were arrested and but 41 convicted.

"These figures clearly prove the necessity for a system of detective police embracing the whole of India. The Dacoits and Thugs for the most part reside in the native States, whence they make frequent raids on to British territory. They form regular tribes, one of the most notorious of which is the Baori tribe in Rajpootana. Every man of this race is brought up as a robber. The association has complete organisation, and possesses bold and skilful leaders, and its members are masters of the art of disguising themselves. Other tribes have a hardly inferior organisation, and are thus able easily to baffle the police of the native States and to speedily recross the frontier after a successful expedition into British territory.

"The Government of the North-Western Provinces has submitted its remarks upon the report of the Education Commission. It expresses its willingness to aid indigenous schools of the higher order, and agrees with the Commission that in all ordinary cases secondary schools for English should be established—preferably on the "grant in aid" system. Regarding the suggested foundation of a University at Allahabad, Sir Alfred Lyall says that he is ready to give serious consideration to the matter, although it does not fall within the scope of immediate necessity.

"The chairman of the Calcutta Corporation has forwarded to the Government a long defence of the municipality, in which, while refusing to join in the proposed Consultative Commission, he altogether denies that the Corporation has in any respect neglected its duties. The Lieutenant-Governor has not yet announced what course of action he means to adopt; but it is an open secret that it will take the form of appointing a committee to inquire into the alleged shortcomings of the Corporation. Meanwhile, the Corporation, at a meeting held on Monday last, adopted a motion of the chairman, emphasizing the necessity of removing all sources of preventable diseases.

"A meeting assembled under the auspices of the Eurasian and Anglo-Indian Association, was held here on Friday last, for the purpose of protesting against the exclusion of Europeans and Eurasians from the Government service. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Atkins, the delegate sent to England last year, in connection with the Ilbert Bill agitation. Resolutions were carried which described the present policy as unjust to Englishmen, injurious to the best interests of the country, opposed to the welfare of the natives, and contrary to the Queen's Proclamation; and it was also resolved to agitate for a policy more in harmony with the existing Acts of Parliament.

"It is stated that the Commission appointed to consider the details of the scheme for the re-organisation of the civil administration in the Punjab has recommended that the headquarters of the six Commissions now to be formed should be Delhi, Jullundur, Lahore, Rawal Pindi, Peshawur, and Dera Ismail Khan; and that the seven proposed divisional benches should be at Delhi, Jullundur, Amritsur, Lahore, Jhalum, Peshawur, and Dera Ismail Khan.

NOTICES OF BOOKS.

ARMY AND NAVY MAGAZINE.

COLONEL HILDYARD's article in the August number on "Alternative Routes for the Relief of Khartoum," is one that people interested in military matters, or even in passing events, should read and keep by them; for it gives a precis of the information on which the expedition that will probably take place in a month or two, is based. And that expedition—mainly due to cautious or inactive policy after Tel-el-Kebir, when bold policy was requisite—is one of the most serious England has ever undertaken. The march to Magdala, over 400 miles of an unexplored country, sinks into insignificance before a distance of 1,600 miles by river from Cairo to Khartoum, or the laying of a railway 250 miles across a desert to a point then only half way to the objective. In "An Example to the British Admiralty," Mr. Mark Fytton calls attention to the rapid building of an excellent little ironclad for the Brazilian Government by Messrs. Samuda, in contradistinction to the time our ironclads are kept in hand. To a philosophical mind it appears a charming arrangement that our private firms get employment and keep their hands in building ironclads, &c., as we have the advantage of being able to utilise this capacity in case of war. Our forefathers had a little habit of taking ships from the enemy and making use of them; our present seamen are not likely to backslide in this respect when they have before them the Chilean management of the Peruvian "Huesca." Colonel Malleon continues the series of "Ambushes and Surprises" with an excellent and clear account of Hannibal's advance into Italy, and the successful ambuscades culminating in Thrasymene, which made him master of Northern Italy. Few officers would have the opportunity or leisure to thoroughly study Hannibal and the numerous writers on this campaign, but the really chief military points are here laid before them. In an article on "Our Army," a field officer advocates the use of the ballot for the militia, from which, of course, those who chose to put in efficient service as Yeomanry or Volunteers would be exempt. Mrs. Phillips' excellent novel of "Man Proposes" is continued, and the Review considers the "Reminiscences of an Indian Official," by General Sir Orfeur Cavenagh, K.C.S.I.

INDIAN RAILWAYS.

The report of the Director-General of Indian Railways for 1883-4, received by the last Indian mail, contains some figures and facts of more than usual interest, taken side by side with the report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons, the pith of which we reproduced last week. The net receipts for 1883 have exceeded those of the previous year by Rs.73,47,316 and yield a dividend of 5.68 per cent. on the capital expended. Excluding steamboat services and suspense items the return would be 5.91 per cent.—a result which is claimed to be decidedly satisfactory considering that 20 per cent. of the length open for traffic has been in operation less than five years. Of course the good lines have to pay for the bad, but the Director-General contends that the "bad ones" were, as a rule, constructed for other than the primary object of earning dividends. On the whole a return of 5½ per cent. on Indian railways contrasts very favourably with the 4½ per cent. earned on our home system. During the year, 539 miles were completed and opened for traffic. Including the extension of the frontier railway from Sibi to Quetta, this would give the total mileage sanctioned as 14,450 miles, of which 11,025 miles are already constructed. The Select Committee of the House recommends the ultimate construction of 20,000 miles, or 8,975 miles in addition to the present mileage. Assuming the same rate of construction as during last year it would take over sixteen years to accomplish this, but last year can scarcely be taken as an average one, as the effect of the inquiry being conducted here at home has been "to hold in abeyance all proposals for the construction of railways by private companies." The report adds:—"The promoters of about 3,000 miles await with considerable interest the turn of events; and if any satisfactory solution of this problem is found, full compensation for the temporary check now felt will follow." As the recommendations of the Select Committee are favourable, we may therefore look for active railway development in India in the immediate future. The Director-General urges that the Government may safely proceed with construction at a brisker pace, considering the growing nature of the net profits year by year. In 1873, on a mileage of 5,695 miles, the return was only 3.76 per cent., while in 1883, as stated, on a mileage nearly double that, it was 5.91 per cent. With regard to the still debated point whether it is the more prudent to pursue State construction, or intrust to private companies, the report is somewhat neutral. It points out that capital raised on the security of State can be had on lower terms, and that the profit earned over and above the amount required to pay interest on this is a considerable windfall to a poor country like India. On the other hand, the advantage of private construction is that the work goes on without interruption, whereas the works on Government lines are always dependent on the monetary condition of the Exchequer. The report makes no reference to the whether it be more expedient to raise future capital in India or in London, but it quotes figures which are highly suggestive. Up to the present the total amount authorised to be raised on guaranteed and assisted railways is £74,000,000, of which £68,000,000 has been raised in England, against a million and a quarter in India. Not more than 39¼ millions has been paid away in England, against 29½ millions in India, so that arguing strictly on the facts, India has not much reason to grumble. The natives, too, appear to have a fair share in the actual working. Out of a total of 185,261 hands employed last year, no less than 177,287 were natives, against 3,979 East Indians, and 3,995 Europeans. The lines, on the whole, appear to be safely conducted. Only two passengers were killed through causes beyond their own control, and thirty-one through other causes—comparatively small numbers considering that the total number carried exceeded 65,000,000. The reduction of passenger fares and goods rates on the East Indian and other lines, although at first strenuously opposed by the several companies, has been accompanied with the best results. The wheat trade of India appears to be developing to a remarkable extent. Over 20,000,000 cwt. was exported in 1883-84, against 14,000,000 cwt. in 1882. In 1881 the quantity was only 7,000,000 cwt. It is pointed out that this expansion of trade indicates advancing prosperity to the country, every addition to the railway system affording further safeguard against the devastations caused by recurring famines.

CONFERENCE ON INDIAN QUESTIONS.

ON Thursday a number of native Indians resident in London invited several members of Parliament and others to breakfast at Westminster Palace Hotel to confer on matters relating to India. Sir Wilfrid Lawson, M.P., occupied the chair, and the members of Parliament present were Messrs. Borslase, Illingworth, Summers, Woodall, Brogden, Cropper, S. Smith, J. H. McCarthy, and Hopwood. Among the general guests were Mr. Wilfrid Blunt, Mr. F. W. Chesson, the Rev. John Moffat, Mr. Leveson, Major Evans Bell, Mr. Fisher Unwin, and Sir John Corrie. The native Indians comprised his Highness the Rajah Rampel Singh, the Hon. Mahomed Ali Rogay, Lalmohun Ghose, Mr. R. D. Sethna, the Syed Habib Ullah, Mr. M. N. Banerjee, Mr. Banatwala, Mr. M. B. Dadabhoi, Mr. Abdul Majid, and Mr. G. Foggo.

The Chairman, on behalf of the Englishmen present, very cordially thanked their Indian fellow-subjects for inviting them. They had present two or three Hindoo gentlemen of mature age, but most of them were young men. Mr. Disraeli once said the youth of a nation were the trustees of posterity, and those young men would probably in after life take some part in the public affairs of their own country. That seemed to him the noblest occupation anyone could engage in. Many Englishmen would be glad to know that a native of India had just achieved the highest success in a competitive examination for the Civil Service. (Cheers.) They would shortly be called upon in the House of Commons to discuss the Indian Budget. He could assure the Hindoo gentlemen present that it was the wish of the House of Commons to know more about the subject, in order to promote wise, just, and beneficial legislation in that vast country. (Cheers.)

Mr. Lalmohun Ghose, after expressing his gratitude for the kind and sympathetic words just uttered by the chairman, said Indian questions unfortunately were seldom of sufficient interest to engage the attention of the people of this country. Legislative measures of the gravest importance affecting the prosperity and the happiness of many millions were hurried through the sham Legislative Councils of India, even against the unanimous protest of the Indian people. The House of Commons was too overworked to exercise an efficient control over Indian affairs, and the natives were not represented there. But such words of comfort as they had heard that morning induced them to hope that there were better days in store for them. The chief concession demanded was the partial admission of natives to the public services of their country. (Hear, hear.) At present the only way of admission was by means of competitive examination in London, so that a native of India was compelled to take a long journey and to make up his mind for a lengthened stay in England for the mere chance of passing a difficult examination in which he had to compete against English youths in their own language and literature. A very fair proportion of the natives so entered did pass, notwithstanding they were so heavily handicapped. He complained strongly of the manner in which the standard of age had been lowered, because as his countrymen had to learn English and to hold their own in it against Englishmen, they ought to have proper time given them to do it. If the appeal to the sense of justice among the English people were made in vain, an idea might grow up that justice and foreign domination were incompatible. He believed that the time was at hand when the Indian people would put forth a claim to representation of some kind; and he hardly believed that claim would be disregarded.

The Hon. Mahomed Ali Rogay said they had executive and legislative councils in India, and yet none of them contained a single native member. There ought to be at least one native member of the Council, and certainly one native out of the fifteen composing the Indian Secretary's Council in India. As things were, no native was allowed to rise to any position worth more than £20 per month. He hoped to see good feeling promoted between the two countries, but it could only be done by concessions on both sides.

His Highness the Rajah Rampal Singh said that the natives of India were not well treated by Englishmen in India, and they felt it the more on their return to their country, because they were well treated in England. If members of Parliament would countenance them, India would unite with England and show to the whole world that she was worthy of respect, and thus united they could defy the world.

Mr. Wilfrid Blunt said that when in Calcutta he attended a meeting of delegates from various parts of India held for the purpose of discussing the question of the Civil Service examinations, and the general feeling was that the age should be extended, and that the examinations should take place in India itself (cheers); and until that was done it would be impossible to give India fair play in the competition. And that was his own opinion. The Indians were fully our equals in point of intellect, and he believed also in administrative skill, and it was high time that they should be put on a perfect footing of equality, and that they should govern their own affairs. He looked forward with confidence to some day when the whole of the Civil Service of India would be in native hands. There might also be a proper representation of India in our own Parliament, and he hoped the time would come when there would be a Parliament in India. (Cheers.)

Mr. Cropper, M.P., said he should be glad to see natives in the Indian Council of the Secretary of State. India could only be rightly governed by those who governed it for its own advantage, and she ought not to be treated as she had been for generations—as a dependency for enriching Englishmen.

Mr. Illingworth, M.P., thought that their object could be best attained by getting a Hindoo to become a candidate for the suffrages of an English constituency, while

Mr. Hopwood, M.P., said they must look to public opinion to correct all these evils which they all joined in recognising and reprobating.

Mr. Seymour Keay and Mr. Martin Wood having addressed the assembly,

Mr. S. Smith, M.P., said English education was gradually producing a class of native Indians with modes of thought identical with our own. That class was small as compared with the vast mass of the people, but it would rapidly spread. He was one of those who ventured to enunciate twenty years ago that it was absolutely necessary that we should gradually and wisely identify the educated natives with ourselves in the government of that great empire, and build up a joint system in which both nations would be represented. He was pleased with the sensibleness and moderation of the speeches of some of their Indian friends. He could assure them that they would gain far more from the people of this country by wise and sensible speeches of that kind than mere denunciation of abuses and nothing else.

Mr. R. D. Sethna proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman, which was seconded by Mr. F. W. Chesson.

The Chairman, in returning thanks, remarked that we should never do justice to India until we had some form of representative Government among them. Here we were turned head over heels and kicking up such a row all about getting two millions of agricultural labourers or some people of that sort into the Constitution. He was doing all he could for that object, but when he thought of the hundred million of people in India without any representation at all, the state of things did seem extraordinary. It was because the people of India had not that representation that injustice was done to them.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE SIMLA EXODUS.

It is to be regretted that our Bombay friends have taken up the notion that we want to keep the Viceroy in Calcutta, to give importance to this city as the chief seat of Government in India. Thus the Bombay correspondent of the Pioneer writes:—

"Will you let me whisper that the City of Palaces had better put its house in order, in meek acceptance of the situation? The theory that nowhere, but at Calcutta can the Government of India put itself 'in touch' with Indian public opinion will not bear stating. Calcutta has many rivals—none greater than my own city of Bombay—for its old position of the chief representative of the mercantile strength of the British in India. Its intellectual supremacy is flung away when it abandoned itself to an agitation whose published reports make Englishmen tingle with shame down to the tips of their fingers. It still, to be sure, has its Times correspondent, but he, be it said with reverence, is but the wreck of a dissolving dream.

We did not know that Calcutta ever asserted the 'intellectual supremacy' which it is supposed to have flung away, nor is it Calcutta public opinion any more than that of Bombay, of which we complain that the Government loses 'touch' by its long residence at a remote hill station, difficult and costly of access, and at the extreme verge of the empire. The public interests require that the Supreme Government should pass a part of the year in this city, but we have always thought it most desirable that instead of passing this long holiday at Simla, the Viceroy should be required to visit regularly the other presidencies. Poona in the rains has a very fine climate, Bangalore a fine climate at all times, and, instead of oscillating between Simla and Calcutta, it seems to us most desirable that the Viceroy should visit the other presidencies as regularly as he visits Calcutta. What is to prevent the Viceroy spending August and September every year in Poona, and October and November at Bangalore? His residence at Simla may be fairly regarded as bringing him within 'touch' of the Punjab and the North West Provinces. What is manifest enough is the fact that a clique of civilians to whom present arrangements are very pleasant, contrive to isolate the Viceroy for two-thirds of every year at a station where there is no public opinion whatever, and the atmosphere of which is so notoriously unfriendly to earnest, sober statesmanship, that the late Political Secretary at the India office himself affirmed that 'more political insanity' had been begotten thereat, than in any other place in the world. Far from wishing to subject the Viceroy to the influence of Calcutta opinion only, we think it would have a most healthy effect upon public affairs to require him to come into direct contact with that of the other presidencies as regularly as with that of this city. Our Bombay friends have largely mistaken moreover, the nature of the present remonstrances. A practice has been growing up of late years of the Imperial Departments following in the wake of the Viceroy, and absenting themselves for eight months of the year from this city, where their responsibilities can alone be properly discharged while Calcutta remains the seat of Government. If it is thought desirable to change the seat of Government, let it be changed; but this gigantic abuse of the Departments removing their establishments away from their duties to a remote hill station, where they cannot in the nature of things be properly discharged, ought to be instantly corrected. We have before told our readers how General Napier positively refused to disorganise the Ordnance Department in 1878 by removing his headquarters to Simla, in spite of the pressure that was put upon him by Lord Lytton, and the whole body of officials, who felt that his refusal to do so was a very pointed reflection on themselves. The proposal is we understand now made that the Commissariat Department shall be located at Simla, of all other places, all the year round.

If the head-quarters of that department are not conveniently placed at Calcutta, and it is desirable to remove them to the North-West, let the fact be avowed and a removal effected to Allahabad, Delhi, or whatever other station is deemed best fitted for the head-quarters of the department. Is Simla really, we ask, fitted to be that place? Would any one dream of proposing it, but that its 'official' heads wish to enjoy the Simla season? It is in India only that so monstrous an abuse could have grown up as this gigantic 'fitting' twice every year, with all the disorganisation that necessarily attends it. It is greatly to be regretted that our Bombay friends should view this agitation in so intensely provincial a spirit. Thus the writer in the Pioneer proceeds:—

"We are extremely amused in Bombay at the desperate grief Calcutta and Madras are evincing because Lord Ripon and Mr. Grant Duff won't stay with them all the year round. We are fond in our own way of Sir James Fergusson, but we have no thought of grudging him his visits to Mahabaleswar and Poona. We flatter ourselves that our own business goes on in an equable way whether Government is at Parell or not; and we are not so bound up in our selves as to imagine that the business of the empire must suffer because Sir James and ourselves are met in daily contact, and as it is at Bombay, so we fancy it is at Calcutta."

The writer forgets that Bombay and Poona, separated from each other but a few hours by railway, are practically one community. To suggest that Madras and Ootacamund are so, is untrue; still more so to suggest that Calcutta and Simla are so. Both Darjeeling and Nynce-Tal are so far distant from their respective seats of Government that the resort to them is becoming far too general, for the interests of good government; but evil is a minor one altogether compared with the gigantic abuse that 'going to Simla' has become. We are honestly wishful that our chief officials should find their Indian residence as pleasant as it can be made, consistently with their public duties, but the demoralisation and injury to public interests that are arising from this practice of going to the hills are too obvious to escape attention, and our Bombay friends are not showing their usual enlightenment in reducing the question to a matter of 'presidency' jealousy.

It was in the same paper we think, that an attempt was made some days ago to defend the abuse on the ground that the home Ministry at the close of the Parliamentary sessions, retire in the same way from the metropolis to distant parts of the kingdom. Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden or Dalkeith is, we are to understand, away from all contact with public opinion as Lord Ripon is at Simla—that and nothing more. Were this even so, what would be said of Mr. Gladstone's dragging the Treasury establishment after him from Whitehall to Hawarden, Lord Kimberley the India Office establishment, and Earl Granville the Foreign office? All that the members of the Ministry do is to take a few days' 'leave' from their departments which remain in London, while they are all within call of a few hours, in the event of a Cabinet Council being necessary. The writer who can see any likeness between the necessary respite of men so hard-worked as the Ministers during a seven or eight months' Parliamentary session, and whose holiday consists of a few days of casual leave, with their work pursuing them wherever they go, and this long holiday of Chiefs, Secretaries and establishments at Simla, is too obtuse to be enlightened by any force of statement.—Indian Statement.

THE AFGHAN BOUNDARY COMMISSION.

NEITHER Sir Charles MacGregor, nor Sir Oliver St. John, nor Sir Auckland Colvin, nor Sir Lepel Griffin, nor Sir Richard Temple has been chosen to represent British and Indian interests on the Anglo-Russian Commission to demarcate the boundary between Russia's recently-acquired Central Asian territory and the British-protected country of Afghanistan. But the choice, which has been made by the Home Government, has fallen upon General Sir Peter Stark Lumsden, K.C.B., C.S.I., Member of the Indian Council. We are glad that in the choice made, the Government has recognised the value of experience of India, of frontier matters, and, in a special degree, of Afghanistan and its relations to the Indian Government. Sir Peter Lumsden is an officer of 37 years' standing, and has seen service in various Indian frontier affairs, the Central India Campaign under General R. Napier, and in the China war. He served with several expeditions against the frontier tribes between 1852 and 1856; was present as Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General at the action of Punjhaio in April, 1852; at Nowadund, Pranghur, Iskakat, and the operations in the Ranezai Valley in May, 1852; against the Boree Afridis in 1853; at Shah Moosah Khel against the Mohmund tribe in 1854; the expedition against the Meranzie tribe in April, 1855, including the Cavalry affair at Dursummond; against Bussy Khilut Alum in November, 1855; the Meranzie and Kooran expeditions in November, 1856 (for which he received the special thanks of the Local and Supreme Governments). He was a member of the Special Military Commission to Afghanistan in 1857-58, and again received the thanks of the Supreme Government, and was awarded a medal, with clasp. He accompanied the expedition to China in 1860, and was present at the actions of Singho and Jangchow, the assault and capture of the Taku Forts, and the advance on Peking, in connection with which operations he was mentioned in despatches, received a medal with two clasps, and obtained his Brevet of Major. His latest active service was with the Bhootan Field Force in 1865, where he gained an additional clasp.

No fault can be found with Sir Peter Lumsden's experience of Afghanistan or of the frontier tribes; and yet the selection will be recognised in India as anything but a happy one. For some reason or other, the name of Lumsden is distasteful to the Afghans: This was clear from the marked coldness shown to Sir Peter Lumsden himself by Ameer Shere Ali when at Umballa in 1869. Sir Peter is almost as unfortunate in the brusqueness of his manner as Sir Charles MacGregor, while he does not possess the latter's soldierly keenness. He has a most enlarged bump of self-appreciation; and if his vanity be only flattered sufficiently, he will be found like wax in the hands of the Russian moulder. His knowledge of our north-west frontier is great, and his belief in that knowledge is greater. But it may be doubted if he has that large and comprehensive acquaintance with Afghan history and politics which should be a qualification indispensable in any British Commissioner. At the same time, it is certain that he is not a man of tact, whilst he is a man who mistakes obstinacy and uncouthness for resolution. Altogether, he was not successful at army headquarters, and we shall be surprised if he give satisfaction in the new post to which he has been appointed. The proper man to represent both India and England would have been Sir Auckland Colvin, with Sir Charles Macgregor as his military adviser and colleague.—Indian Daily News.

THE SALARIES OF HIGH INDIAN OFFICIALS.

IT has been our duty from time to time to point out that there is a growing determination in the country, should the Government continue to turn a careless ear to the universal outcry against the exodus to the hills, to insist upon a revision of the very large salaries now drawn by the superior officers of Government. When the present rate of emolument was fixed, the English imagination still pictured an Indian career as involving not only life-long exile from home and friends, but residence in a country of a malarious climate, and one whose chief inhabitants, it is no exaggeration to say, were supposed to be tigers and snakes. Men were naturally considered to require monetary encouragement to undertake life under conditions such as these. Had the facts of Indian life been known with a greater approximation to accuracy, it may, we venture to think, be regarded as extremely doubtful whether the present high standard would have regulated the salaries of these Indian officers. Astonishment would have been very great could it have been foreseen that in India, covered with railways, enjoying a weekly mail service with England, distant from that country by a journey of but three weeks, where existence can now be sweetened by most of the luxuries and conveniences of European life, the same standard as to the emoluments still prevailed. Still greater, we imagine, would have been the surprise could the possibility have been supposed that an arrangement would shortly be developed whereby the superior officers of Government would set the example of combining Indian rates of pay with residence amid surroundings as to society and the pleasures of life that most of them would lack even in England, and in a climate which has no parallel for salubrity.

It may not be commonly known that the Secretary of State has power by Act of Parliament to reduce the salaries of Indian officials should he think fit so to do. That functionary does not shrink from putting his power into execution, as was recently shown in a notable instance, when without sufficient reason and by a purely arbitrary exercise of authority, he reduced the salaries of the Judges of the High Court of Calcutta. There were special circumstances in that case rendering the action of the Secretary of State extremely impolitic, but it was no new thing for the supreme authority to reduce the pay of superior Indian officers, and it would be no novelty were a general scheme of revision of Indian salaries now entered upon. So far, indeed, is such a process from being an innovation, that the novelty is rather to be found in the long period which has been allowed to elapse since last the pruning knife was generally applied. It was the policy of the East India Company from time to time to revise the scale of emoluments of their servants. We find Lord William Bentinck reducing with unsparing economy the perquisites, which, in the form of innumerable special allowances, swelled the ordinary salary of the Indian officer in his day. Even the Governor-General did not escape, and the present rate of the Viceroy's salary dates from the economic campaign of Lord William Bentinck. The reduction in this case was from thirty to twenty thousand sicca rupees. In another fourteen years the subject of Indian salaries again called for attention, and in 1854 Lord Dalhousie addressed himself to it with his usual vigour. It was principally the enormous allowances of the superior officers of the Government that attracted notice and called for reform, and some extensive reductions were then made. The salary of the Commander-in-Chief in India was cut down from fourteen thousand rupees a month to its present rate of Rs. 8,333; and that of a member of the Supreme Council from a lakh a year to Rs. 80,000. On Lord Dalhousie's recommendation also the Private Secretary to the Viceroy received in future Rs. 2,000 a month in place of his former salary of Rs. 3,000. For thirty years the salaries of the superior officers of Government have remained untouched; what they drew in Lord Dalhousie's time, they draw now. During those thirty years the conditions of life in India have been entirely changed. We need not recapitulate a tale familiar to all. Lord Dalhousie's economies were carried out on the ground that the circumstances of Indian life had largely altered for the better, and that the altered times required a revision of salaries which had been fixed under a less tolerable condition of things. There had been changes in India between the eras of Lord William Bentinck and Lord Dalhousie. In the opinion of Lord Dalhousie and of the Board of Control of those days, these changes were sufficient to warrant the reductions then enforced. What shall we say of the revolution which has been worked since 1854? It seems to us that the time has come when, in accordance with these historical precedents, an enquiry should be instituted into the scale of salaries of Indian Officials, and more particularly of superior Government officers. It seems questionable whether any reduction would be feasible or desirable in the allowances of the hard worked district officer. He at least bears the heat and burden of the day, and needs a recompense of the high pressure at which the more complicated machinery of the State now compels him to work. Those who evade an important condition of their service by a flight to the hills at the earliest approach of summer can claim no such indulgence. It would we fancy, be difficult to maintain that their work is more laborious than that which fell to their predecessors, and it can be done under conditions to which their predecessors were unfamiliar. If the annual exodus to the hills is to become a recognised system in the Government of India, it is time the altered circumstances of Indian Government and their approximation to the European model should also be acknowledged in the matter of Indian salaries and their assimilation to the European Standard.—Englishman.

WHERE ARE OUR REINFORCEMENTS?

It seems to be pretty certain that there is not much hope of the deficiency in the British Army in India being made good. Last year the deficiency on the establishment, although not accurately known to the public, was very great. An expedient was adopted of offering a large bounty to short service men to renew their engagements for India. By aid of this measure, which must be regarded as extraordinary, the deficiency in the establishment was to some extent remedied temporarily, because a number of men who would otherwise have been lost to India were retained in this country. But this kind of thing cannot go on for ever. Even if a bounty is offered next trooping season, it does not follow that the same number of men will accept it, and the limit must be reached in a year or two, as the same men cannot be marched round and round like the supers in a theatre. Consequently, India must look for the completion of the British army in this country to its full strength to drafts from home. But, according to recent information, recruiting is by no means in so satisfactory a condition as could be desired. In 1883, 33,000 recruits were obtained, but it looks as if the Recruiting Serjeant would by no means drive so good a trade during this year. We are told by a writer, who is certainly one of those who regards with favourable eyes the changes which have taken place during the last thirteen or fourteen years, that many of the battalions at home are not only weak in themselves, but that their foreign service battalions are also in a bad state. This is not a time—whether we look at the state of affairs in Egypt and the Soudan, or turn our eyes to Central Asia—at which we can afford to look contentedly at large deficiencies in the establishments of our battalions, by no means too numerous for the work that has to be done.

The taxpayer and the Government of the country have a very permanent interest in this question. At the present time India pays to England for raising and training the recruits for the British Army in India, which ought to number over 61,000, and for non-effective services, such as half-pay, pensions, &c., an annual sum of £1,130,000. Now, considering that the whole of the charges for that portion of the British Army which is in India is defrayed from the revenues of this country, and that not a single charge on that account falls upon the revenues of England, this is not a very small sum to pay for the privilege of not being furnished with recruits. Of course, from the sum we have mentioned a large amount must be deducted for the non-effective services. The English army estimates are famous for concealing as much as possible, and it cannot be ascertained from them what it costs India for the training of the recruits for the regiments in this country. Nor can it be ascertained what the cost for the training of recruits for the home battalions is. But it is very doubtful whether India does not pay, even when the supply of men does not fail, a much larger sum than is reasonable. Little however, would be said if India received a sufficient number of men annually to replenish the British battalions in the country. But at the present time India pays for what she does not receive. Whether the way out of the difficulty is to have a long-service army for India and the Colonies, and a short-service army for Home service, or to have a purely local army in India, it is quite evident that the present arrangement is as regards India extravagant and inefficient. The War Office receives money for failing to supply men to India, and India has to pay out of her own pocket to tempt men to stay on in this country. In brief, she pays heavily for a system which is not suited to her wants, and which does not give her the article for which she is paying. The Government of India and the India Office, doubtless, have plenty to do, and any number of schemes practical and theoretical, are always before them; but the question we have touched on is one which admits of no delay, which must be settled as soon as possible, and, if difficult of solution, presents no obstacles which military statesmanship ought not to be able to overcome.—Indian Daily News.

BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

The Government of India have expressed their objection to the removal of the Madras Military Accounts Offices, to Bangalore, on the ground that the latter station is foreign territory.

The Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, in answer to the memorial of the citizens of Calcutta, has determined to appoint a Sanitary Commission to report on the whole sanitation of the capital, composed as follows:—Two municipal commissioners, one engineer, one medical man, one non-official, and one secretary.

The High Court of Calcutta have proposed to Government that the strength of the Bench should be permanently increased by the appointment of three additional Judges.

Sir Alfred Lyall arrived at Agra on Thursday morning, July 17, from Muttra, whither he had been to open the new railway bridge.

Dr. D. Cunningham has been placed on special duty to follow up the researches of Dr. Koch into the origin of cholera.

The Government of India has sanctioned the introduction of important changes into the organisation of the Subordinate Medical Department.

The Simla Fine Art Exhibition will be opened on Saturday, the 27th September.

The Postmaster General of the Punjab shortly goes on leave. Mr. Maconachie, of the Punjab Civil Service, will act for him.

There has been a defalcation of eleven hundred rupees in the General Post Office at Lahore. One of the officials is suspected and is likely to be prosecuted.

Lord Garmoye has returned to Muree from his trip to Cashmere. On the 16th ult., his lordship assisted at a ball given in the station by "a few residents of the club."

The amount contributed to the Lahore Cathedral Building Fund, as the result of the Simla Bazaar, will, it is hoped, be about Rs.3,000. Of this, Rs.2,600 has already been paid into the Fund, and there is more to follow.

His Highness the Rajah of Chumba having reached the age of eighteen years, the Government has conferred upon him full power over his state. The date of the installation is not fixed yet. His Highness wishes, it is said, to retain the services of the superintendent—for a time at any rate.

The Government of India has asked for information regarding the methods adopted by the agricultural population of the Punjab for stacking hay or storing fodder.

The Punjab Government is endeavouring to arrange for the purchase of Persian sword blades in Teheran, for presentation to native chiefs and gentlemen, as presentation swords of European make and pattern are seldom worn by the recipients.

Some time ago the Government gave permission to the Ameer of Afghanistan to order 2,000 rifles and carbines in England. The arms are shortly expected in this country, whence they will be forwarded to Kabul.

The Ameer has expressed his willingness to render all assistance to render all assistance in his power to the Frontier Commission, which is now expected to start very soon.

It is believed that the Zhob expedition will be divided into two columns, one starting from Thul Chotali and the other from Dohra Ismail Khan, and that the force will be nearly twice as strong as was originally contemplated.

Ten men were killed and eight wounded at Cabul recently by an explosion at the Ameer's Gunpowder manufactory.

His Highness the Rajah of Chumba, having reached the age of eighteen years, the Government has conferred upon him full power over his state.

The gross profits of the Alliance Bank of Simla for the last half-year amounted to Rs.1,61,793; the divisible balance, to 21 per cent. on the Bank's capital. A dividend at the rate of 10 per cent. has just been declared. The deposits of the Bank now stand at something over 32 lakhs.

The Maharajah Scindia is now on a visit to Allahabad, having proceeded thither for the performance of religious ceremonies.

It is settled that Dr. Cowie acts as Surgeon General of Bengal during Dr. Payne's absence.

A certain number of European and Eurasian apprentices are to be employed in the photographic, lithographic, and engraving offices of the Survey of India at Calcutta.

The Hon'ble Douglas Straight Officiating Chief Justice of the Allahabad High Court, is gazetted to three months' privilege leave from the 4th November.

It is rather early to make positive statements about the Viceroy's winter programme. But those who assert that His Excellency has no intention of visiting Calcutta seem to forget the Bengal Rent Bill, which is pretty certain to become law during the next legislative session.

The tea prospects in Sylhet are fair. The weather has been hot.

The prospects of tea are fair in Kamrup. The weather is hot.

Tea is backward in Lakhimpur. The weather has been seasonable.

The season is regarded as favourable for tea in Sibsagar. The weather is hot and sultry with light showers.

The crops are doing well in Goalpara. During the first part of the week the weather was cloudy and wet, the latter part was hot and sultry.

Tea is backward on most gardens in Darrang. The weather has been hot and close, with a few showers. More rain is wanted all over the district.

Very warm weather is the news from Cachar. The prospects of tea are not very favourable. Red Spider is very general, and the yield is much behind last year; the results for June are very poor.

MADRAS.

The Governor of Madras arrived at Bangalore on the 14th ult., and on the following day made an inspection of the premises intended for the location of the Madras Military Accounts Offices.

The charges against Mr. Brecks Atkinson, of the Madras Civil Service, who has been suspended pending an official investigation, relate to the borrowing of money from people in the district under his charge.

The Madras Government have issued a resolution sanctioning the retirement of Mr. Justice Kindersley on a pension of £1,200 per annum.

Nine of the witnesses, on whose evidence a great many of the Salem rioters were convicted, have just been tried for perjury before Mr. Parker, C.S., District and Sessions Judge, Coimbatore. One case broke down, one prisoner was acquitted on the plea of drunkenness and seven were convicted and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

A large meeting was held at Madras as the 14th ult. for the purpose of presenting a congratulatory address to the Rev. W. Miller on his appointment to the Companionship of the Indian Empire.

ILLNESS OF MR. OVERBURY, C.S.—We regret to learn that Mr. E. Overbury, the Civil and Sessions Judge of Salem, is suffering from inflammation of the liver, and has been obliged to place himself under treatment in the General Hospital. We are glad, however, to hear that he is progressing favourably.—Times.

MR. W. F. GRAHAME, C.S.—We regret to learn that during the North Tanjore Sessions, which began last Monday, Mr. W. F. Grahame, the District and Sessions Judge of North Tanjore, was suddenly attacked by what is said to be cholera; but we are glad to hear that, at the time our informant despatched his message, he was much better and on a fair way to recovery.—Ibid.

CHOLERA AT CHIDAMBARAM.—We learn by telegraph that cholera has broken out in a severe form at Chidambaram, and that several deaths are reported daily. In consequence of this, Patheappah's school at Chidambaram has been temporarily closed.—Times.

MADRAS MUNICIPAL MORTUARY REGISTER.—From the 5th to the 11th instant, three East Indians, four Native Christians, 223 Hindus and 25 Mahomedans died in Madras, making a total of 255 persons. The average of the corresponding week for the ten previous years was 258. The deaths are thus classified: nine from small-pox, two from measles, 84 from fever, nineteen from dysentery, ten from diarrhoea, and 131 from other diseases. The death-rate in the week under notice was 33·2 per 1,000 per annum. The mean of the ten previous years was 33·7 per 1,000 per annum.

It is stated that arrangements will shortly be made by the Pondicherry Government, to suitably accommodate the Burman Prince, and a specially furnished house will be placed at his disposal.

Thirteen persons were killed by the recent accident at Pondicherry. Only four bodies have yet been recovered.

The appointment of Mr. H. R. Grimes, superintendent of the Coimbatore Gaol, to be inspector of gaols, vice Colonel Tennant is gazetted. This explodes the rumour that the Governor intended appointing Captain Awdry to the post. Mr. Grimes is an uncovenanted man.

The Madras-Penang Cable was restored on the 21st ult. The break was found on the Coral Reef near the Nicobar Islands. The Cable Company's repairing steamer Agnes grappled and recovered the cable three times during the past fortnight, but, owing to very rough weather, it snapped, and on each occasion at the bow of the vessel, while repairs were being effected.

The Rev. C. B. Ward has been testing the question of the possibility of going among the people of India as the seventy went out in Galilee. Dressed as a sanyasi and accompanied by a single native brother, he made a tour of five days among the villages of Hyderabad, during which time he was fed by the people. He believes that the experiment can be repeated to almost any extent, and is greatly encouraged to preserve in this course.

BOMBAY.

In connection with a letter received by H.E. Sir James Fergusson from H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, inviting the co-operation and assistance of the Bombay Government in the matter of the Indian and Colonial Exhibition of 1886, a Government resolution has been issued intimating that a committee will be appointed to forward the objects of the Exhibition, and that a grant will.

At a large and influential meeting held at Poona on Sunday, under the presidency of Sir William Wedderburn, it was resolved to establish a high school for native girls at Poona, for education in English, Sanscrit, &c.

The East Deccan section of the Southern Mahratta Railway will be opened for goods traffic in a few days.

The Bombay Government have decided to abandon the tax levied on katcha wells in Guzerat.

The Maharajah Holkar has issued a circular order withdrawing all powers from the Bala Sahib, and calling upon his subjects not to obey orders emanating from him. The wealthy bankers who have been imprisoned by his Highness for refusing to pay large sums of money, alleged to be due, have been released.

The Annual Exhibition of the Western India Fine Arts Society will be opened at Poona on August 25.

Mr. W. E. Hart, on Wednesday, July 16, took the oath before Sir Charles Sargent, Chief Justice, as an Acting Judge of the High Court.

Mr. Justice Scott presided in the Insolvency Court on Wednesday. Mr. Justice Hart, who has been appointed to act for Mr. Justice Bayley, took his seat on the bench on Thursday.

Messrs. Pears and Co., the celebrated soap manufacturers, are about to establish a branch "house" in Bombay.

The last issue of the Bombay Government Gazette contains a list of candidates who have passed the examination for the first and second years' agricultural course.

The health of Bombay continues very satisfactory. There was only one death from cholera during the week, and this was the case of a person who arrived in the city from Baroda suffering from the disease. The general death-rate was 23·04 per thousand.

The Statesman understands that arrangements have been almost completed for the introduction into Calcutta of the system of a Bankers' Clearing, which ought to prove a great improvement on the present slow system of collecting cheques by the respective banks.

A list of rules regulating throughout the Presidency, except in Sind and the Panch Mahals, the election of members of local boards other than elections under sections 6 (c) and 7 (c) of the of the Bombay Local Boards Act, 1884, is published in yesterday's Bombay Government Gazette.

The following notification was issued as a Bombay Government Gazette Extraordinary on Friday evening:—"Under instructions from the Government of India, the quarantine imposed under the Notification of the Bombay Government, No. 1,411, dated May 1, 1884, at Aden, on vessels arriving from Bombay, has been withdrawn."

"Under the title of 'Epics of the Ancient World,' Professor Macmillan, of the Elphinstone College, is republishing in the Madras Christian College Magazine the lectures he delivered in Bombay when he held the Wilson Philological Lectureship. The first number deals with the 'Homeric Problem,' and appears in the Magazine for July.

At a general meeting of the Poona Hunt, held at Poona on Thursday, under the presidency of H.E. the Commander in Chief, it was decided that the Bheema Cup should be run for at the end of August (weather permitting). Should a postponement then be necessary, the Cup will be run for in the beginning of October. Due notice will be given by the honorary secretary of the actual date.

Mr. J. G. Cordery, the Resident of Hyderabad, and Colonel Hastings Fraser, his military secretary, arrived in Bombay by the last mail.

The guarantee fund of the Bombay International Exhibition now amounts to Rs. 11,97,000.

BURMA.

Captain J. Hext, R.N., Director of Marine, is still on his tour of inspection in Burma and the Andaman Islands, but will return to Calcutta in the course of the next fortnight.

The marine establishment at Rangoon, which is of considerable importance, has now undergone thorough inspection by the Director of Marine, who has also by this time paid a flying visit to and inspected the gunboat Quangtung at Port Blair. From Rangoon Captain Hext intended to return to Calcutta via the Burmese coast ports, Kyauk Phyo Akyab, and Chittagong being the principal places he will visit in Burmese and Arrakanese territory. On the Director's return to Calcutta, the Government Dockyard, Kidderpore, will undergo official inspection by him, previous to his return to Bombay.

The recent ceremony of crowning the Paya Gye Pagoda at Mandalay was witnessed by King Theebaw and his Queen, who took occasion to make a royal procession through the city. This is the second public appearance of the King. The people going from Lower Burmah were given passages free.

News via Rangoon of the Colquhoun exploring expedition represents the enterprise as proceeding slowly but satisfactorily.

The Sergeant Instructor at the head-quarters of the Volunteer Administrative Battalion was hitherto allowed a free railway pass to enable him to travel to and from Insein whenever occasion required. This has now been withdrawn and the Volunteer funds must bear the expense in future.

It is reported from Bhamo that the Kachyens are getting troublesome again, and more troops have been despatched thither from Mandalay. Great discontent prevails amongst the soldiers, and the palace servants are clamouring for their pay, which is twelve months in arrears. The Ministers are divided amongst themselves as to the wisdom of courting France. People are everywhere in favour of any change. The excitement regarding the Meingoon Prince was intense, but has lessened.

RE-ORGANISATION OF THE SECRETARIAT OF THE N.W.P.—The Secretary of State has given his sanction to the re-organisation of the secretariat of these provinces, as proposed by Sir Alfred Lyall. Instead of one secretary to the Government there will henceforth be three, the senior being entitled Chief Secretary and the two others Secretaries in the Judicial and Financial departments respectively. The Under-Secretaries at the same time are reduced in number to three. The posts in the newly-constituted secretariat have now been filled up by the Lieutenant-Governor. The place of chief Secretary is, of course, taken by the secretary to Government, Mr. J. R. Reid. The judicial secretaryship goes to Mr. J. Woodburn, up till now the Secretary for Oudh, and the financial secretaryship to Mr. R. Smeaton, who has been a conspicuous success during the busy times of the last three years in the post of junior secretary. The three under-secretaries in order of seniority will be Messrs. Connell, Stoker, and Miller. The reform described is one that must have come sooner or later. The work of the Secretariat of the united provinces is already enormous, and as it tends constantly to increase, it was inevitable that the distribution of work should be recast more or less after the fashion followed in other Governments. The plan of having but one secretary to Government, through whom all business had to pass, threw an amount of labour and responsibility upon the shoulders of that officer that was more than a fair burden for any one man, however capable; and the Oudh Secretary, though holding an independent position, was unnecessarily fettered by the local association. The new arrangement places the establishment on a much more reasonable and efficient footing, and as the soundness and despatch of the Secretariat is one of the first conditions of a successful provincial administration, the reform just effected is not the least of those by which Sir Alfred Lyall's tenure of office will be remembered.—Pioneer.

The Bombay Port Trustees at their last meeting had under consideration a Government resolution forwarding an enquiry by the Secretary of State, as to whether the trustees were prepared to provide dry-dock accommodation for the larger class of Her Majesty's vessels of war, and if so, on what conditions. It was resolved that the state of the case should be explained to Government with the intimation that it would not suit the plans of the trustees to provide the dry dock required by the Admiralty.

The following changes are, the Pioneer states, about to occur in the Financial Department—Mr. E. J. Cooke joins his substantive appointment in Allahabad as Deputy Accountant General, being replaced in Calcutta by Mr. T. H. Biggs from the office of Comptroller, India Treasuries. Mr. H. J. Brereton, Assistant Accountant General, Allahabad, takes a month's privilege leave from the end of this month. Mr. Westland, the Comptroller General, is not expected back from England before the end of September or the beginning of October, as he takes six weeks' privilege leave from the time his duty with the Parliamentary Committee on Indian Railways is finished. Mr. R. Ray, M.A., returns from three months' privilege leave to the Comptroller General's office, and Mr. R. E. Hamilton from the same leave to the Comptrollership of the Central Provinces, displacing Mr. C. E. Crawley, who is, we believe, likely to take leave himself. Dr. G. W. Cline, Assistant Accountant General, Madras, who recently went home on six months' sick leave, is likely, we are informed, to resign the service.

INDIAN MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

(Bombay Government Gazette, July 22.)

Lieutenant W. J. Ross has resigned his commission in the Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps.

Dr. Edward Greenhill has been appointed Honorary Surgeon to the Calcutta Volunteer Rifle Corps.

Captain A. E. Wainwright, of the Mussoorie Volunteer Rifles, has been permitted to resign his commission.

The Oudh Volunteers are increasing under the fostering care of Lieutenant-Colonel Charsley Thomas.

Lieutenant W. J. Peyton, of the 4th Regiment N.I., is to be temporarily employed in the Political Department.

Captain G. W. Powell, 1st Battalion Essex Regiment, has passed his final examination for the Army Pay Department at Madras.

The Musketry School at Poona was opened on the 16th instant under the superintendence of Lieut.-Col. Thomas, the Adjutant General for Musketry.

Lieutenant-Colonel the Hon. L. H. Bayley, Commandant of the Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps, has been granted leave of absence to England for four months on medical certificate.

Lieutenant R. W. E. Carnegie, R.A., has been appointed to be Aide-de-Camp to Major-General Carnegie, Commanding the Northern Division. The appointment takes effect from March 19.

The following appointments have been made in the Sind Volunteer Corps:—Lieut. G. N. R. Lambert to be Captain, and Mr. Henry Batty to be Lieutenant, vice Lieut. Lambert.

The Government have sanctioned the retention of Colonel G. F. Worsley, Royal Artillery, in his appointment of Assistant to the Inspector-General of Ordnance, Bombay, for a further period of six months.

Surgeon-Major Arnott has been granted an extension of leave for ninety-nine days, and Major J. I. Tinling (Infantry) for six months, the former on private affairs and the latter on medical certificate.

Captain Loftus Thackwell, of the Royal Fusiliers, a probationer for the Army Pay Department, having passed his final examination, will probably be posted to the 14th Hussars, at Secunderabad.

Sergeant McCulloch, 1st Battalion Berar Rifle Brigade, has been appointed Sergeant Instructor of the B or Cdpn Higgins' Company at Akola in the room of Sergeant Privat. The latter officer, it may be remembered, committed suicide a few months ago.

The following officers have been permitted to return to duty:—Lieutenant-Colonel J. Grierson, Bombay Staff Corps, Captain W. W. B. Whiteford, R.E., Lieutenant J. W. Gordon, Staff Corps, Lieutenant G. F. N. Tinley, Staff Corps, and Surgeon-Major D. E. Hughes.

Captain E. R. Freeborn, of the Bombay Volunteer Rifle Corps, and Lieut. G. N. R. Lambert, of the Sind Volunteer Rifle Corps, have been granted four and three months respectively. Captain Freeborn sailed for England in the P. and O. steamer Carthage on Tuesday.

Lieutenant-Colonel M. Clements, Bengal Staff Corps, has been appointed Deputy Advocate-General, vice Colonel Nedham placed on the unemployed list; and Captain W. H. F. McMullin, Squadron Officer, 18th Bengal Cavalry, has been appointed Deputy Judge Advocate, vice Clements.

The requirements of the Veterinary Establishment at present maintained in India having been found inadequate, the Government of India has asked the Secretary of State for India to send out eight Veterinary Surgeons, who on arrival at Bombay will be detailed for duty where their services may be required.

A special committee has been ordered to assemble at Headquarters, Simla, for making out and drawing up detailed instructions for execution of brigade and divisional movements of cavalry. The committee consists of Colonel Bushman, C.B., 9th Lancers, President; Lieutenant Colonel Davidson, 15th Bengal Cavalry, and Captain Baden-Powell Adjutant, 13th Hussars, as members.

A regiment, warrant, or non-commissioned officer joining a department in which the sergeants are eligible for promotion to the warrant grade must, if of higher rank than colour-sergeant, sign a certificate to the effect that he voluntarily reverts to that rank. Colour-sergeants appointed orderly room or paymaster sergeants to convalescent or other depots will not be required to revert to sergeant.

Lieutenant Colonel G. A. Laughton, Bombay Staff Corps, succeeded to the colonel's allowance from the 3rd instant. Colonel Laughton served in the Persian Expedition of 1856-57, assault and capture of the fort of Bushire, surrender of Bushire, expedition to Borazjoon and attack of Khooshub, Indian Mutiny, 1857-58, as staff officer to the force on the Goa frontier and North Canara. Medal and clasp for Persia, and medical for the Mutiny.

If the proposed camps of exercise at Delhi and in the Rawul Pindi division are sanctioned—and of this there is little doubt—efforts will be made to get as many troops as possible together, and to work them hard for about three weeks only.

as the military authorities do not wish to interfere with the musketry and other training which must be carried out during the winter months. The maximum of work will be done in the camps with the minimum of useless show and parade. Those who expect picnics will be grievously disappointed.

Some modifications will take place in the scheme of reliefs for British Infantry regiments during the coming season. The Durham Light Infantry, originally destined for Aden, will stand fast at Allahabad, the 1st South Lancashire (old 40th), from Peshawur, going in their stead to the coveted station at the mouth of the Red Sea. The Connaught Rangers, now at Ranikhet and Shahjehanpore, who were under orders for Allahabad will of course be affected by this change, but their destination is at present uncertain.

The Secretary of State for India, in consultation with the War Office, has decided that soldiers embarking for India on and after 1st May last shall only receive twenty-five days' pay as an advance, from which the value of ships rations shall not be deducted in England, but will be left for adjustment in India. As the troopships have not yet been able to establish an average run between England and India of less than thirty-three days, it is not apparent why twenty-five days have been fixed for the advance, unless with a view of preventing the payment in British currency at Bombay, of any surplus sea-pay.

SOME important changes have been lately made in the Artillery commands in this country. Three of the Lieutenant-Colonels placed upon an unemployed list, after having completed their five years in that rank, have been nominated for the higher commands formerly held by full Colonels in the "Royal Regiment," a rank which was abolished in 1881. These three officers are Lieutenant-Colonels Woodward, Taylor, and McCausland, and they will be posted to Lahore, the Presidency, and Aden respectively. This will send Lieutenant-Colonel Smithett back to Jubbulpore from the Presidency, and Lieutenant-Colonel Wilson to Campbellpore from Lahore; Lieutenant-Colonel Sadleir, commanding at Jubbulpore, will be posted to Meerut.

Captain Mason (B.S.C.), Squadron Officer 2nd Cavalry (Hderabad Contingent), Hingoli, has obtained six months' leave on private affairs within Indian limits. Lieutenant J. W. B. Meade (E.S.C.), Squadron Officer and Adjutant, 3rd Cavalry, at Mominabad, has obtained one year's furlough to Europe. Lieut. Colonel W. J. Bell, Commandant 2nd Cavalry (now on furlough), has been promoted to Colonel from the 8th ult. Lieutenant A. H. P. Turner, R.A., Commandant Horse Field Battery, received his Captaincy on the 11th inst. Lieut. F. J. Winter, R.A., having proceeded on furlough, Lieutenant M. Walker, R.A., has been appointed Officiating Subaltern No. 1 Field Battery.

It is notified for information that the Government of India have approved of the relief of the 13th and 27th Madras Native Infantry being carried out during the ensuing movement season as follows:—The 13th Madras Native Infantry (leaving a detachment of five native officers and 220 non commissioned officers and sepoy, for station duties) will march from Jubbulpore on October 15, and will arrive at Bellary about January 11, 1885. The 27th Madras Native Infantry will march from Bellary on October 15 for Jubbulpore, where it will arrive about December 31. The detachment 13th Madras Native Infantry will leave Jubbulpore by rail about December 31, on relief by the 27th Madras Native Infantry, and will arrive at Bellary about January 6, 1885.

The Government of India have had recently under their consideration the subject of the district command of Quetta, and as a result of their deliberations they have decided, according to an up-country paper, that as the garrisons to be maintained there must as a rule form a mixed force from all three Presidencies, the command must be treated on the same principle. With this view, the district will not be considered as belonging to any particular Presidency, but will constitute a separate and detached command; and the nomination of the brigadiers and general staff will rest with the Commander in Chief in India, whose selection will extend to all officers of the three armies, who are deemed qualified for employment on the brigade staff, whether they belong to the British or to the Indian service—both services being held to be held to be equally eligible. The same paper learns that the Quetta command has been definitively established as a permanent military district and placed wholly under his Excellency's orders, except as regards certain minor questions of supply and discipline, for which special arrangements have been made with the Governments of Madras and Bombay.

The following instructions have been received from the Secretary of State for India on the subject of the distinguishing flags to be flown by vessels of the Indian Marine, and by vessels belonging to Local Maritime Governments and Port Trusts:—1. The vessels and boats of the Indian Marine shall fly the blue ensign of Her Majesty's fleet, with the Star of India on the fly thereof. These vessels shall also wear the union flag of Great Britain and Ireland, with a border of blue of one-fifth the width of the flag, as a jack at the bowsprit end. 2. Vessels and boats belonging to Local Maritime Governments, and the departments subordinate to them, shall fly the blue ensign of Her Majesty's fleet, with the old device of the East India Company on the device thereof, viz., a lion ramant regardant holding a crown, or. These vessels and boats may also fly at the bow a triangular flag or pendant, with the name of the department or duty on which they are employed inscribed thereon as a distinguishing mark. 3. Vessels and boats belonging to Local Port Trusts shall fly the red ensign of Her Majesty's fleet, together with such distinguishing pendant or burgee at the bow as may be approved of for each Trust.

COURT MARTIAL.—At a European District Court Martial held at Poona on 9th July, Private (Lance Corporal) Arthur Greaves, 2nd Battalion Royal Lancashire Regiment, was arraigned upon the following charges:—First, Drunkenness on duty, at Purandhar on the 14th of June; secondly, conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline when in command of the quarter guard, by allowing an excessive quantity of malt liquor to be brought to the guard room; thirdly, conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline when in command of the quarter guard, he allowed No. 36,212 Driver George Boyes, D Battery B Brigade Royal Horse Artillery one of the guard in his charge to get drunk; fourthly, conduct to the prejudice of good order and military discipline when, in command of a quarter guard, he made a wilful false report to Lieutenant W. Houghton, 2nd Battalion Royal Lancaster Regiment, the Orderly Officer of the day, by reporting the guard as all correct, one man at the rear, he well knowing such report to be false, and that the man reported to be at the rear was lying drunk on a cot in the guard room. The Court found the prisoner guilty, and sentenced him to be imprisoned for eighty-four days.

The National Mahomedan Education Committee of Oudh, Lucknow, held two meetings lately, at which it was resolved that a Mahomedan school, to be called the "Madriassah Islamiyah," should be opened, which should consist of two sections, one for religious, and the other for secular, instruction, the former being sub divided into two classes for the instruction of the Sunnis and the Shi'ahs separately. Rs. 1,82,500 have already been subscribed for the proposed Madriassah, of which Rajah Mahomed Amir Hosein, Khan Bahadur, has contributed a lakh and a half.

The attention of all heads of departments and offices in the Punjab has recently been directed to the rules regarding admission of persons of advanced age to the public service. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor desires that in future the rules shall be observed more carefully. On more occasions than one, lately, the Government has refused to sanction the retention in their posts of men appointed when beyond the age of twenty-five years. To avoid the necessity of this in future, it is hoped that the rules of Pension Code will be closely followed. The official circular on the subject adds that approved service under a Municipal or District Committee will not be considered a sufficient qualification in itself for the appointment of persons of an advanced age to posts under Government.

It sounds strange to read in the Pioneer such a remark as that which we now give:—"The Viceroy, we are certain, will receive the unqualified support of his Council in any strong course of action he may adopt in the matter, even to the ordering of a Commission to assemble at Indore." How surprised and gratified India will be to find Lord Ripon taking a strong course! The waters have been let out about the Holkar affair, but the effectual dealing with this difficult question will assuredly be left, like everything else, a part of Lord Ripon's inconvenient legacy to his successor.

The Madras Municipality are making arrangements at the request of Professor Monier Williams, for collecting specimens for the museums of the Indian Institute at Oxford, which is to be opened early in October next. The presidents of the various district municipalities of the Madras Presidency have also been desired to use their local influence in obtaining a complete collection of typical objects for the new museum. All the collections of the Madras Presidency will be received at the Government Central Museum, where they will be examined by Dr. Bidie, and then forwarded to Professor Monier Williams.

ERUPTIONS IN JAVA.—Latest advices from Batavia (31st May) state that official reports had been received of increasing volcanic activity of late in different portions of the Archipelago, mainly in Sumatra and Celebes, where shocks of earthquake have been frequent recently, while in Mid Java unmistakable signs of an approaching outburst from the Merapi volcano have become more and more alarming. Strong detonations betokening an eruption have been heard at Chandi and Salatiga.

PURE INDIAN TEAS.—Two kinds (both very good), at 2s. 6d. and 2s. 6d. per lb., are sold at the Pure India Tea Depot, Ennerdale-road Richmond Tn superintendent (Lieut. Col. MONEY, the Author of the standard work and prize essay on "Tea Cultivation and Manufacture in India"), who is a large producer, sells at the above low prices 25 per cent. below usual ones because no middleman's profits are incurred. ## THE INDIAN BUDGET FARCE.

"I do really hope that next year, if it should be my lot to speak on the subject again, we may be able to enter upon the consideration of the many important questions arising in an Indian debate at such a period of the session as will enable us to discuss them with credit to ourselves and advantage to India."

SUCH, once more, is the miserable confession with which a Radical Under Secretary of State, in the fifth year of a Radical Ministry's administration, has to conclude his summary of Indian finance. To those who are accustomed to accept Radical promises, and to dwell upon them with as much pleasure as if they were Radical performances, it may be some consolation to note Mr. Cross's admission that the five Indian Budget debates, to which Mr. Gladstone's Government has so far treated us, have been so arranged by that Government as to bring neither credit to the British Parliament nor advantage to India. It will doubtless be some further satisfaction, to these easily satisfied folk, to observe that Mr. Cross at length "really" hopes that "next year" Mr. Gladstone will turn over a new leaf. But, surely, to the world at large, to practical men of common sense, it must be increasingly evident that, however lavish may be Radical promises, however effusive may be the confessions of error and pledges of amendment, somehow or other the fulfilment of these pledges is always to come "next year." How happy would be the condition of this Empire of ours under a Gladstone Ministry, if we could only, for once in a way, jump into the middle of next year, and enter at once upon the fruition of that promised millennium which always recedes from us as time advances! "This year, next year, sometime, never"—that is the vanishing series that seem always to recur in the history of Radical promises. In India, as in England, the supporters of the present Government have to content themselves with profuse assurances, of which there is always a plentiful supply, that the pathway of the Gladstone's Ministry is paved with good intentions.

Even Sir Wilfrid Lawson was compelled to admit that the Budget debate, as now arranged by the Government, "partook very much of the character of a farce." Brought on in the very last hours of the dying Session, when every petty matter of home interest has been attended to and settled, and when the recess had already commenced for all except such robust members as Sir Wilfrid Lawson and such industrious and conscientious ones as Mr. Edward Stanhope, the average attendance during the debate was from ten to fifteen. Nor can the the Ministry fall back on the well-worn excuse that members will not attend on nights devoted to Indian questions, for there was a very different attendance when Lord Beaconsfield brought on the Indian Budget in May; and the influential character of such meetings as that in St. James's Hall on June 25, to oppose the Bengal Tenancy Bill, clearly proves that our public men do take an interest in Indian questions, and will attend to discuss them, if only they are allowed to do so at a seasonable time of the year.

It will hardly be alleged that Mr. Cross's financial statement was of such a satisfactory character as to excuse the hole-and-corner way in which it has been laid before the British Parliament and the British public. There is, indeed, a nominal and untrustworthy surplus—there always will be, so long as supplementary estimates are the order of the day. But the utterly illusory nature of the pretended surplus was evident, even from Mr. Cross's own words. The Under Secretary was obliged to warn us, not only of a probable diminution of railway receipts in the coming year, but also of frontier entanglements—the natural outcome of our pusillanimous policy after the fall of Lord Beaconsfield—that, as Mr. Cross oracularly observes, "may affect in some degree our financial calculations." They may, indeed! There is, already certain, the cost of the Russo-Afghan frontier Commission, for which no provision is made, for the obvious reason that the Government cannot make up its mind to settle anything about that very unpleasant subject. There is the Quetta State Railway, which Mr. Gladstone and Lord Ripon there up to show what superior persons they were to Lord Beaconsfield and Lord Lytton; like children in a pet, they "broke the crockery," and now the Indian taxpayer has to pick up the pieces and mend them at a vast cost. There is the pleasing haziness about railway prospects—largely the result of the starvation forced on our railway feeders by Lord Ripon's extravagance in other directions: And lastly, there is the glorious uncertainty that must always attach to such a hand-to-mouth policy as that now in vogue at Simla. The pretended surplus is clearly a huge deficit, even with the obligations that we know of, and ought to have provided for; but if the Empire should be overtaken by war, famine, or pestilence—by any of those calamities against which no Government can be secure, and to which a weak and improvident Government must be especially liable—all that Mr. Cross seems to be able to say is, "Heaven help us, for we cannot help ourselves!"

It is all very well for Mr. Cross to attach an absurd and ridiculous importance to the grotesque statements of Mr. Seymour Keay about the financial condition of India, and then to proceed to demolish those statements with as much blowing of trumpets as if he had vanquished some serious and responsible critic. Mr. Keay's magazine articles may well be left to answer themselves; the only interest that attaches to them is based on a somewhat idle curiosity, as in the case of the fly in amber, as to how they ever got into the Nineteenth Century. But the reasonable apprehensions of Mr. Edward Stanhope on the one side, and of Sir George Campbell on the other, are left altogether unreplyed to. Mr. Borlase's representation of the wish of the English-educated natives in regard to the limits of age for the Civil Service, was met with the snub direct—he was referred “to the reply given to a deputation sometime previously.” As we have often pointed out, it is undoubtedly a misfortune to the young Indian gentlemen whose interests are mainly affected, that their advisers have been so unwise as to entrust their cause to the advocacy of such men as Mr. Borlase, profoundly ignorant of Indian topics, and absolutely certain to be thus “snuffed out.” On the other hand, the question is one on which there is so much to be said on both sides that we think it would have been to the public advantage if Mr. Cross had condescended to explain, clearly and satisfactorily, the grounds on which the Government based their reply to the deputation. In these columns we have supported the highest limit of age, twenty-three, on general grounds, applicable alike to English and Indian candidates; we have always maintained that from the Indian point of view any lowering of the age ought to be compensated by some substantial concessions to Indian candidates—and that, if Lord Lytton's most liberal concessions in this direction should prove by experience to be at all unworkable or unsatisfactory, their just and generous intentions should be carried out by other measures of similar character. The amazing short-sightedness and ingratitude that have marked the way in which the cause of the English-educated Indian community in this question has been urged by one or two of its advocates—notably by the Indian Mirror, which has heaped contumely on its best English friends for their very efforts in the cause!—have undoubtedly invited, and indeed rendered inevitable, the snub now administered by Mr. Cross. But we are of opinion that such a question as this, demands the fullest and most courteous explanations from the responsible authorities. However conclusive, to Mr. Cross's mind, may be the grounds on which the decision of the Government is based, those grounds ought to be clearly and amply stated and explained.

The amounts allotted were—inbills on Calcutta, Rs.7,12,500, average rate 1s. 7½d.; Bombay, Rs.5,66,000, average rate 1s. 7½d.; and Madras, Rs.1,90,500, average rate 1s. 7½d. In telegraphic transfers—Calcutta, Rs.7,25,000, average rate 1s. 7½d., or a total of Rs.21,94,000. Tenders for bills on all Presidencies at 1s. 7½d. and for telegraphic transfers on Calcutta at 1s. 7 9-16d. will receive 25 per cent. and above in full. Later in the day bills for Rs.47,000 on Madras were sold at 1s. 7 17-32d. From April 1 to August 5 the total amount of remittance sold had reached Rs.6,29,92,967, and realised £5,176,190.

OBITUARY.—Lieutenant General Archibald Richard Harenc, of Kimpton House, Herts, died on Tuesday, August 5, at Langton House, Dorset. The youngest son of the late Mr. Benjamin Harenc, of Foot's Cray Place, Kent, he was born about the year 1824, and entered the army in 1842. He became a captain in 1854, and served with the 97th Regiment in the Indian campaigns in 1857-58, taking part in the actions of Nusratpore, Ohanda, Ummeerpore, and Sultanpore, and also in the siege and capture of Lucknow. He was promoted to lieutenant colonel in 1864, colonel in 1869, major general in 1879, and lieutenant general in 1881.

THE BOMBAY EXHIBITION.—In connection with the exhibition to be held at Bombay, it may be stated that little more than the preliminaries have yet been arranged. Even the year has not been finally determined upon, although it is understood that the exhibition will be opened during the cold weather of 1886-7. It has been suggested that it would be advisable to postpone it for another twelve months, partly in consideration of the fact that the year 1886 will witness the celebration of an Indian Exhibition in London, and partly in order to gain the greater clat as being coincident with the close of a half century of the Queen's reign. Several discussions have recently been held in Bombay as to the formation of a guarantee fund, and, while the municipality has been moved to promise a subsidy of one lakh, several prominent individuals have more or less definitely consented to raise nine lakhs in addition. Should the guarantee fund reach this total, the success of the undertaking would be simply a question of administration. For the efficient control of the exhibition it is proposed to appoint a single Commissioner with full powers, and the names of Mr. Arthur Crawford and Colonel Merriman have been mentioned in connection with the post, but many of the most influential natives in Bombay would like to see the appointment offered to their long-proved friend, Sir George Birdwood. Steps have also been taken towards the formation of a strong London Committee, and Sir Richard Temple, as an ex-Governor of Bombay, of exceptional distinction, has naturally been approached in the first instance with a view to his accepting the presidentship of any committee that may be formed. Sir George Birdwood has also been requested to take a part in initiating the necessary steps in England for the success of the enterprise. It is felt to be most desirable that the valuable co-operation of Sir Philip Cunliffe Owen should also be secured, especially as the subject of health is to form a leading feature in the exhibition.

BENGAL TENANCY BILL.—The report of the Committee of the Legislative Council of India upon the Bengal Tenancy Bill was issued on Friday last, as a Blue-book.

THE SILVER MARKETS AND THE EASTERN EXCHANGES.

TUESDAY.—Both the Indian exchange rates are 1-32d. easier at 1s. 7 17-32d. for bar silver, and Mexican dollars are unaltered at 50½d. and 50d. per ounce respectively, the market being very scantily supplied. Business was consequently very limited. China exchange quotations remain at 3s. 9d. in Hongkong and 5s. 2¼d. in Shanghai, and Rupee Paper has been inactive at 83½ 83¾d. for the Four-and-a-Half per Cents., and 81½ 81¾d. for the Four per Cents.

WEDNESDAY.—The Indian demand for bar silver at the moment is small, but the price is maintained at 50½d. per ounce, owing to the absence of supplies. Mexican dollars are nominally quoted at 50¾d. per ounce, and Eastern exchange rates as well as Rupee Paper are unaltered.

THURSDAY.—The Indian banks are not buying bar silver at present, but a small amount has again been sold at 50½d. per ounce. A few Mexican dollars also changed hands at 50¾d. All exchange rates from the East are unaltered, but Four per Cent. Rupee Paper is dull at 81¾d. to 81¾d., the Four-and-a-Half per Cent. remaining at 83¾d. 83¾d.

FRIDAY.—The bar silver brought by the Cuvier from the River Plate has been sold at 50 13-16d. per ounce, the greater part having been secured for India. The price obtained to-day is thus 1-16d. below the recent quotations. Mexican dollars remain nominally at 50¾d. per ounce, but there has been no business worth mentioning. Indian and China exchange rates and Rupee Paper are all unaltered.

SATURDAY.—Scarcely any business has been done in the silver market, and the prices for bars and dollars remain at 50 13-16d. and 50¾d. per ounce respectively. Rupee exchange rates and Rupee Paper are again unaltered.

At a meeting of the new Municipal Committee at Lahore on Thursday, Nawab Nawaish Ali Khan was elected president. There were some votes for Rai Kanyah Lall and Mr. Dick. The Nawab is the leading rais of Lahore, and his election was fully expected. He is a person of much influence, but unfortunately has no knowledge of English. The election is subject to the approval of the Commissioner.

Rai Mela Ram, the railway contractor of Lahore, has offered to subscribe for the whole of the seven per cent. debentures, amounting to a lakh and a half of rupees, upon which it is hoped that the funds required for the new Town Hall at Simla will be raised. The Municipality are, however, unwilling to accept this sporting offer altogether, and the public also will be allowed a look in.

INDIA IN PARLIAMENT.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—FRIDAY.

THE AFGHAN FRONTIER COMMISSION.

Lord FORBES who had a notice on the papers to ask Her Majesty's Government for some information regarding the Afghan Boundary Commission, said that the problem which had to be solved in Central Asia has, for a long time, been a matter of very deep interest, coupled with some considerable amount of alarm. The advance of Russia in Central Asia has been of a steady character, and he had seen it stated that she was now within 110 miles of Herat. It was evident that some period must be put to the onward march of Russia. He would like to put four questions to Her Majesty's Government. The first was whether they had been in direct correspondence with Russia with regard to the boundary line beyond which Russia should not go; secondly, whether it would be possible for Her Majesty's Government to lay on the table of the House a map showing the boundary which they proposed; thirdly, supposing a boundary line were drawn, what penalties would attach to the transgression of that line; and, fourthly, he would ask for some information as to the numbers of the escort which was to accompany the Boundary Commission, and whether it was an adequate one, in view of the importance of the undertaking. He had seen it stated that it was to consist of 100 cavalry and 100 infantry. He did not want to excite unnecessary alarm, but this matter had been of the deepest interest to him, and he thought that it was a matter which concerned, not only themselves, but those also who were to come after them.

The Earl of KIMBERLEY thought that the noble lord had adopted a somewhat unusual proceeding in asking for "some information," which was a vague term. The noble lord had then proceeded to ask four questions of which no notice had been given. Her Majesty's Government has been in correspondence with the Russian Government concerning the north-west frontier of Afghanistan. As to the question of laying a map on the table of the House as the noble lord had suggested, he thought that when they were entering upon negotiations with respect to the frontier, it would be a very unusual proceeding to lay such a map on the table beforehand. With regard to the escort, he had to say that the subject had not been finally determined, but he thought it probable that the escort would consist something like the number to which the noble lord referred. It would, he thought, be sufficient for the purpose, but the question was still under consideration. The noble lord had not asked him one question which he should have been glad to mention. It was, what was the positions of affairs generally. They had been in communication both with the Russian Government and with the Ameer and the Government of India. The Ameer desired and approved the Commission, but communications were still going on. So far, however, the matter has made satisfactory progress.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—TUESDAY.

FLOGGING IN INDIA.

Mr. BIGGAR asked the Under Secretary for India whether he would cause inquiries to be made into the statement made by Mr. C. Pritchard, barrister-at-law, Salem, to the honourable the judges of the High Court, Madras, in his letter to them bearing date Feb. 16, 1884, that a lad named Mariappen, aged ten, was sentenced by Dr. Maclean, district magistrate at Salem, on Sept. 26, 1882, to receive twenty stripes, though on the day previous—viz., Sept. 25—he (Mr. Pritchard), as counsel for the lad, had procured an adjournment of the case; and whether he would cause inquiry to be made into Mr. Pritchard's statement.

Mr. J. K. CROSS said: The India Office has no information beyond what may be derived from the newspapers as to the letter referred to in the hon. member's question or the circumstances with which it deals. The letter appears to have been addressed to the judges of the High Court in last year, and as that court has therefore had an opportunity of considering the statement which it contains, it does not appear to be necessary to call on the Government of Madras for a report. I have no reason to believe that it is customary that persons not yet convicted are forced to witness floggings; and Mr. Pritchard, in his letter, expressly states that in this instance the prisoners were not detained to witness the flogging.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—THURSDAY.

THE RUSSO-AFGHAN BOUNDARY.

Mr. STANHOPE asked the Under Secretary of State for India whether it had been decided when the Commission for the delimitation of the Russo-Afghan boundary was to commence its work; and whether he could state the probable period and time during which it was expected that the work would continue.

Mr. J. K. CROSS: It is proposed that the Commission shall proceed with the delimitation this autumn, so as to make definite progress before the winter steps in, when it may be difficult to carry on the work. But I am unable at present to state the precise date when it will commence its work, or the period during which it will continue.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—FRIDAY.

THE INDIAN BUDGET.

On the motion that the Speaker leave the chair to go into Committee on the Indian Accounts,

Mr. Cross made the usual statement on the finances of India. Taking, as usual, a survey of the last three years—viz., the actual accounts of 1882-3, the revised estimate of 1883-4, and the Budget estimate of 1884-5, he stated the revenue for the current year at £70,564,000, which, with an expenditure of £70,241,000, leaves a surplus of £319,030. The actual taxation imposed on the people of India amounts to £40,361,000, and if the land rent of £21,888,000 be deducted it leaves a total amount of taxation of something over eighteen millions, or an average of 14 annas 9 pies per head. Examining the separate heads of the revenue, he mentioned that there is a reduction of £1,378,000 on the opium revenue, and gave an interesting account of the forests revenue and the steps which are being taken to improve it. In regard to the expenditure, he pointed out that there is a gradual reduction of the charge of the debt, the reduction in the last year being £306,000. There is an increase on the telegraphic service, and the cost of law, justice, police, and education are also growing. The cost of the Army, he said, had not greatly increased, the gross charge for 1883-4 being £16,121,000 and the estimate for 1884-5 being £15,200,038. During the year from £60,000 to £70,000 had been spent in bounties of 120 rupees per man to meet the deficiency in the army owing to the slackness of recruiting, and to the large number of men who have taken their discharge, and from 7,000 to 8,000 had re-engaged. As to the exchanges, they had been subject to great fluctuations, the decrease in 1882-3 being £476,003, followed by an increase of £779,000, and by a decrease of £322,000. Into the complicated details of this subject, and into the manner in which the accounts are affected Mr. Cross went at some length. Passing then to the Department of Public Works, Mr. Cross described the ordinary and productive works separately. The gross charge of the ordinary works for the three years under review is £20,094,000 (the net cost for the year 1884-5 being £5,171,000) and the gross receipts are only £2,575,000, the cost to the Indian Government being £17,519,000 for the three years. A detailed examination of the items shows a heavy expenditure, but it is not increasing, there being a reduction of rather over half a million during the current year. As to productive public works, the gross receipts for 1884-85 are estimated at £13,631,000, there being progressive increases of £746,000 and £661,000 in the receipts of the last and current years. The charges, which include everything but loss by exchange, are estimated for 1884-85 at £1,088,000, which gives an advance in net receipts of £606,000 in two years, this being due to an increase in the earnings of East Indian and State railways. Mr. Cross next discussed in detail the question of railway extension in India and the report of the recent Select Committee, insisting strongly on the necessity of a continuous policy and an adherence to the policy that railway extension shall not subject the people of India to increased taxation. Before dealing with the state of the debt, and in connection with the extension of railways, he examined the question of borrowing in India and England, concluding that, in order to carry out the policy of railway extension, it is more than probable the Indian Government may have to come to Parliament next year for power to borrow in England. The total amount of the debt he stated at £246,948,000, against which may be set public works, guaranteed railway loans to native States and municipalities, and other assets, of the value of £182,367,000, leaving uncovered liabilities to the amount of £64,581,000. After some remarks in answer to recent pessimist magazine articles, which, he contended, would not bear the test of facts and figures, Mr. Cross concluded the financial portion of his speech by stating that, according to the latest telegrams, the revenue of 1883-84 will exceed the revised estimate by half a million—the results of the railways being better, and the cost of the army some £100,000 less than estimated. These financial calculations, however, he said, might be affected by our frontier arrangements, and though he could not say how far we may have to improve the communication with and between our outposts, it was better that necessary steps should be taken now rather than be subject to enormous expenditure under the influence of panic at some future time.

Mr. ARNOLD moved an amendment against imposing on India the charge of the Consular expenditure on the Persian Gulf and the Tigris and Euphrates, which, after a brief reply from Lord E. Fitzmaurice, was negatived without a division.

Mr. STANHOPE then made some general remarks on the financial statement, insisting on the necessity of completing the Quetta Railway, and of taking measures to keep the Indian Army up to its full strength; and the usual discussion on the opium traffic was introduced by Sir J. Pease, who, in a speech consisting chiefly of extracts, maintained that India could well spare this source of revenue, and that other crops would pay the cultivator better, and Mr. S. Smith spoke at length on the effect of the opium traffic on the people of China.

In the discursive conversation which followed, Mr. Cropper and Sir W. Lawson concurred in Sir J. Pease's condemnation of the opium traffic; Sir T. Colebrooke touched on the salt duties; Mr. Reid advocated the appointment of a Select Committee on Indian finance; and Sir J. Campbell expressed alarm at certain features in the present state of India, especially the growth of government by agitation, and combatted the suggestion that the growth of opium should be prohibited in India. Mr. Buchanan complained of the shelving of the Simla Army Report. Sir E. Wilmot, Colonel Milne-Home, Mr. Borlase, and Mr. Warton also spoke. Mr. Cross replied, and in Committee of the whole House the usual resolutions were agreed to.

LONDON PRODUCE MARKETS.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—The China market generally re-opened to-day. Privately only a small business has been done, and that chiefly in blackleafs from 1s. 0½d. to 1s. 2d. for medium, and 1s. 4d. to 1s. 9d. for good medium to fine grades, for export. The auctions comprised 3,574 packages now season's blackleafs; common sold 7d. to 8½d. per lb., and one parcel good common at 10¼d. per lb. No public sales of Indian teas have been held.

SUGAR.—The market is exceedingly flat, most of the West India in public sale being withdrawn. Only 24 casks have sold on the spot. Floating, two cargoes of Porto Rico are reported, at 13s. 9d. and 14s., Liverpool quay terms. Beet closes at 13s. prompt shipment, and 13s. 6d. for new crop forward. In the Clyde market inferior qualities of pieces are lower.

COFFEE.—The Dutch Trading Company advertise 100,340 bags Java and 341 cases Padang for public sale on the 13th inst. The market continues without animation.

COCOA.—There have not been any public sales this week.

RICE.—Several cargoes of Saigon have recently sold at prices not reported.

SPICES.—The public sales have been small—131 bags rough Cochin; ginger went lower, at 44s. to 47s., being the only change to notice 115 bags Bengal, a few bags sold at 32s., and of 58 barrels Jamaica sold at 43s. to 53s. per cwt. Part of 527 bags Singapore black pepper at 7½d.; 33 bags Singapore white, at 10¼d. to 10¾d.; 656 bags pimento all sold at 2½d. to 2¾d. for common to good; nine cases Penang cloves bought in at 1s. 4d.; eight cases Penang mace sold at 1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d.; 22 packages nutmegs, 6s. to 5d. to 1s. 6d. for small; 11 cases Penang ditto, one case sold, average 84 to the lb., at 3s. 4d. per lb.

SAGO.—In auction, 89 bags medium sold at 13s. 6d.; 255 bags small chiefly bought in at 11s., and 60 bags large at 14s.; 463 bags medium pearl tapioca, about a third sold at 13s. 6d. per cwt.; and 1,680 bags flake, a fourth sold, Singapore, at 1¾d. per lb.

THURSDAY EVENING.

Messrs. W. J. and H. Thompson states that the Bank Holiday has further unsettled business during the week, and operations in the produce markets have been upon a smaller scale than usual. Public sales of coffee were resumed to-day, when a moderate supply brought forward partly found buyers at last week's rates. The market is steady but quiet, and desirable home trade qualities maintain the firmer tone previously quoted. 100,340 bags Java and 341 cases Padang are declared for public sale on account of the Netherlands Trading Company on the 13th instant, good ordinary Java being valued about 28 cents. against 29½ to 30 per cent. obtained in July. Santos in Havre is firmer, but other foreign markets generally dull. At the public sales of China tea, prices have ruled easier for new season's black leaf congous. The demand by private contract is inactive, and little business has been done. Indian teas with very small supplies have been steady. The total delivery in July were nearly 19,000,000lbs., a considerable increase as compared with last year. There is no change to report in cane brown sugar, which continues exceeding flat, and German beet for prompt shipment has sold at 12s. 9d. per cwt. f.o.b. The quotations of refined in some instances show further weakness. Black and white pepper firm at the recent high rates, stocks being much reduced, and the markets chiefly influenced by speculative operations. The limited supply of nutmegs at public sale was chiefly held for better prices and taken in. Nothing of interest has transpired in the rice market, which is quiet.

TEA.—At the Indian sales 3,324 packages nearly all sold at steady prices; good liquoring Souchongs were in strong demand at some improvement in price. All kinds under 1s. per lb. were firm. 146 packages Ceylon, of fine quality from the Loolcondra garden, brought extreme prices. The China sales comprised 7,195 packages, of which 5,040 were new season's black leafs. Common were a shade easier at 6½d. to 8½d. per lb., but good common to fair from 9d. to 11¼d. per lb. showed firmness. Privately the China has been quiet. Samples of fresh Foochow teas, per s.s. Ningchow, are coming up slowly, and very few contracts have been so far effected. From Messrs. Hawes and Hertz's fortnightly report: "Indian.—Of the the total quantity 10,051 packages catalogued during the fortnight nearly half were of the new crop, which, as a rule, sold readily at the reduced quotations given in our last report. The average quality has been indifferent, the only fine tets offered being an invoice from Kangra Valley, which brought high prices, viz., orange Pekoe, 1s. 10d.; Pekoe 1s. 5¼d.; broken orange Pekoe, 1s. 9d. to 1s. 10¼d.; Pekoe souchong, 1s. 4d. Of the old season's offered, a large proportion were flat, and sold but slowly. A good demand prevailed for the better grades of Pekoe and broken broken Pekoe, and the few parcels with style and liquor were well competed for. Souchong kinds show no change, good liquoring sorts being scarce. Brokers are dull of sale at late rates. Ceylon have been in better supply, and the quality on the whole is fair, though fine invoices are much more scarce than at the same time last year. The demand continues good for all kinds, and prices are realized showing a higher range than for similar grades of Indian growth. Java.—1,285 packages ex Dorunda and Prins Hendrik, were brought to auction, and sold readily at the low rates now current for common descriptions, of which a considerable part of the offerings consisted. Fine liquoring teas are wanted, and would sell well, but recent arrivals have been hardly up to their respective average standard of quality in cup. Pekoes continue in active inquiry, chiefly for export. 999 packages, ex Prinz Frederick and Dorunda, s.s., are printed for sale next week. The following prices were obtained at sales, 29th and 31st ult.:—Pekoes, 9d. to 1s. 8¼d.; broken Pekoe, 8d. to 1s. 6¼d.; Souchong and Pekson, 5½d. to 8¾d.; Congou, 6d. to 6¾d.; broken tea, 5½d."

SUGAR continues depressed, with very dull demand. To-day's business in West India amounts to 119 casks refining kinds. In the Clyde market pieces are dull with a small business. Beet closes at 12s. 9d. per cwt., prompt shipment. M. Bertrand Silz, writing from Paris on the 6th inst., made the following remarks:—"The last eight days have been very animated, and important transactions have taken place daily. The July liquidation has been rather heavy on account of uncovered sales existing up to the last minute. The 'bears' had a pay up to 43.25f. for prompt, whilst they could only get 42.75f. for August. The month of August has begun with a very appreciable firmness, rising up to 44.375f., falling yesterday to 43.115f., and coming back to-day to 44f. These fluctuations arise from the very large engagements on this month and on September, and we must expect still greater and more important movements. According to the report received from the beet districts the next crop does not look quite so well as it has done hitherto."

COFFEE.—Public sales were held to day. East India sold at steady rates—296 casks 433 bags sold, small and common, 47s. to 50s.; good and fine medium, 65s. 6d., to 68s. 6d.; bold and Peaberry, 67s. 6d. to 80s.; 87 half-bales Mocha, long berry, bought in about value; 1,571 bags Costa Rica went slowly—fine ordinary, 48s. 6d. to 50s. 7d.; low middling, 53s. to 59s.; 712 bags Guatemala sold steadily at 46s. 6d. to 48s. 6d., for good and fine ordinary; foxey greenish, at 54s. for low middling; 448 bags fine Honduras brought very high prices—grayish, 73s. 6d. to 79s. 6d.; superior bold color, 93s. 6d. to 96s., one lot, 107s.; 1,271 bags Nicaragua sold at 46s. to 48s. 6c.

PEPPER.—Further sales to arrive at the advance already quoted.

FRIDAY EVENING.

TEA.—The China market has been occupied to-day with the samples ex the Ningchow from Foochow. A public sale was held at eleven o'clock, consisting of 5,040 packages of red leaf, ex this ship. Siftings realised 5d. to 6¼d. per lb.; common to good common packings, 8¼d. to 11½d.; and 1s. 4½d. for good medium; Padroes, 8½d.; Soomoos, 7¾d. to 8d.; and Oolongs, 10d. to 10¾d. per lb. A considerable business has also been done privately in Ching-Wos at 1s. 1d. to 1s. 3d. per lb.; Soomoos, 7½d. to 9½d. per lb.; Suey Kuts, 1s. 2½d. to 1s. 3d. per lb.; Souchongs, 1s. 9½d. to 1s. 11s. per lb.; and packings, 10½d. to 1s. 4½d. per lb. The following telegram dated from Foochow, eleven o'clock this morning and received this afternoon by a leading firm in Mincing-lane reports:—"Cannot ship at present, because Marine Insurance Companies refuse to take risk on crafts, fearing desertion of coolies."

SUGAR.—At the public sales crystallised Demera part sold at 17s. to 23s. for low brown for fine bright, and prices are 6d. lower than on Friday last, except for the fine. The week's total is 413 casks, 5,300 bags, &c.; 2,300 bags Mauritius part sold 12s.; 350 hlds. Porto Rico and 2,800 bags China withdrawn. A cargo of 540 casks Porto Rico reported sold at 14s. for Liverpool. Beet sugar is again easier, viz., 12s. 7½d. prompt shipment. In the Clyde market a limited business in pieces at easier rates.

COFFEE.—Plantation advanced several shillings for fine bold lots, and also went dearer for other qualities. Middling 59s. to 64s.; good middling to rather bold, 67s. to 75s.; good and fine bold, 81s. to 96s.; superior, 96s. to 105s. 6d. 1,400 bags foreign, few lots sold. Guatemala, foxey greenish, 46s. to 48s.; Central American, 46s. to 55s. 6d.; Columbian, 60s. to 66s.

WHITE PEPPER.—Singapore has sold at 10¼d.

RICE.—During the week a cargo of Rangoon off coast, about 1,200 tons, has sold at 7s. 6¾d. for the Continent. Sales on the spot are limited.

The Pioneer says:—A good deal of capital has in past years been made out of what is called our expensive annexation of territory west of the Indus, more particularly in the direction of Quetta; but those who have raised the outcry have really no idea of the real facts of the case. Here are some figures which may surprise those rash agitators who demanded the evacuation of Quetta and the withdrawal to our old post at Jacobabad. Sabi, which yielded Rs.10,000 revenue yearly to the Ameer, now gives us Rs.1,25,000, and the annual revenue of the Quetta District has grown under our care from Rs.20,000 to Rs.1,50,000. Trade also has increased enormously, and the extension of the railway to the Pishin plateau will probably result in the returns being trebled in five or six years.

THE BOMBAY EXHIBITION.—The Bombay Gazette, of the 5th instant, says:—The Guarantee Fund of the International Exhibition is still increasing satisfactorily, and yesterday amounted to Rs.8,10,500. A deputation of the Special Committee consisting of the Hon. Mr. Forbes Adam, Mr. Namahoy Byramjee Jeejeebhoy, and Dr. Thomas Blane, who, with Mr. Ollivant and other members of the Committee had been working during the last few days in Bombay with much zeal and energy, proceeded yesterday afternoon to Poona with the object of securing additional guarantors.

INDIAN WHEAT.—The Indian Agriculturists referring to some remarks in an American paper on the subject of the Indian wheat trade, says:—"There may be, and probably are, as asserted by those who take a sanguine view of India's position as a food-supplier, millions of acres yet to be brought under the plough; and this land—which is probably, from its being the last to be cultivated, inferior to the soils first broken up—may be devoted to the production of inferior food grains, whilst older cultivated areas are devoted to growing wheat or other staples for export. But it deserves careful consideration whether India does really offer an unlimited field for the extensions of the export trade, compared with the practically unlimited areas of virgin soil in North West America. There are Indian districts, we know, yet untapped by railway communications, where the price of wheat is so low that in plentiful years it hardly pays the ryot to reap it. But there must be very soon a limit to expansion in this direction; and the only hope of increasing the exports will lie in a corresponding increase of production. Is there any evidence that as yet the productive powers of the soil in India are being increased? Is it not rather a matter of constant complaint that they are decreasing, in spite of Agricultural Departments spread broadcast over the land?"

THE STATE OF INDORE.—The Times of India publishes further particulars of the cases of oppression which have occurred at Indore, and states that the Indore Agent of the Bank of Bombay, being suspected of giving information regarding recent events to the papers, has received notice from his landlord to quit the premises occupied by the bank. Business is at a standstill and all prominent Europeans go about armed with revolvers.

From the Mauritius papers we learn that the French have definitely and effectually blockaded the principal ports of Madagascar. Much sickness is also said to prevail amongst the French troops.

THE RESIDENT AT HYDERABAD.—Sir Oliver St. John, who left Hyderabad a few days ago, with the minister for Gulbarga returned on the 2nd inst. Rumour has it that the trip to Gulbarga was for the purpose of choosing a site for a new cantonment for the Hyderabad Contingent, in lieu of the proposed one at Raichore.—Deccan Times.

BETWEEN TWO FIRES.—There is a scare at Puna with regard to hydrophobia, and in consequence the authorities have decided that the Cantonment Police should be supplied with six-chambered revolvers for the purpose of shooting all stray dogs. The public, however, strongly object to such performances being allowed in the streets, as the police are not considered to be by any means proficient in pistol practice at present.

NATIVE MARRIAGES.—The Indian Mirror says:—"A Bengali pleader of the Central Provinces, in receipt of some Rs. 500 a month, is about to marry the daughter of a well-to-do Mahomedan gentleman, an ex-police inspector. On Tuesday last, a Mahratta Brahmin widow-marriage was performed at Jubbulpore. The happy bridegroom was Mr. Vishnu Pant, the head-master of the Male Normal School, Jubbulpore, the bride, now no longer in weeds, a Brahmin widow, aged twenty-six, from Poona. Another Brahmin widow-marriage is on the tapis, and will be celebrated very shortly."

THE "VOICE OF INDIA."

TO THE PUBLIC OPINION OF THE PEOPLE
OF INDIA.

THERE are in England large classes willing and anxious to do justice to India, but they find it very difficult to know how to act. They complain that Indian questions are intricate; that the opinions of official experts are contradictory; and that the people of India are dumb, and do not give expression to their needs. This defect is now remedied
by publishing FORTNIGHTLY (in Bombay) a magazine
somewhat similar in nature to Public Opinion in England, which provides a compendium of all that is most value-able in the native journals throughout India on the leading topics of the day. The Voice of India thus gives forth a clear sound, interpreting between the rulers and the ruled, and making known the true wishes and feelings of the Indian people.

The Magazine advocates no views of its own. It seeks only to reflect with care and accuracy the views set forth in the native press. The Indian people are naturally docile and conservative; and it will be seen that the writings
thus brought before the English public are characterised by a knowledge of facts, and generally by practical good sense and moderation. No doubt grievances are from time to time being set forth; but it is a policy of prudence, no less than of justice to give these grievances a fair constitutional hearing. Accordingly, it is hoped that this publication will be subscribed for by Members of Parliament and other public men desirous of dealing with Indian questions, and that the facts thus brought together in a convenient form will be of value to journalists and other public writers. It is specially desired to bring the Magazine before the public in Clubs, Reading-rooms, Libraries, and Institutesthroughout
England, with a view to promote a sustained and intelligent interest in the welfare of our Indian Empire, comprising as it does 220 millions of our fellow-subjects.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE

COUGHS, COLD,
ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE.—Dr. J. C. BROWNE (late Army Medical Staff) DISCOVERED a REMEDY to denote which he coined the word CHLORODYNE. Dr. Browne is the SOLE INVENTOR, and, as the composition of Chlorodyne cannot possibly be discovered by Analysis (organic substances defying elimination), and since the formula has never been published, it is evident that any statement to the effect that a compound is identical with Dr. Browne's Chlorodyne must be false. This Caution is necessary as many persons deceive purchasers by false representations.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE.—Vice Chancellor Sir W. PAGE WOOD stated publicly in Court that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was UNDOUBTEDLY the INVENTOR of CHLORODYNE, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to. See The Times, July 13th, 1884.

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY.
GENERAL BOARD OF HEALTH, London, REPORT that it ACTS as a CHARM, one dose generally sufficient. Dr. GIBSON, Army Medical Staff, Calcutta, states: "2 DOSES COMPLETELY CURED ME OF DIARRHŒA."

From SYMES & CO., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Simla, Jan. 5, 1880.
To J. T. DAVENPORT, London.

DEAR SIR,—We congratulate you upon the widespread reputation this justly-esteemed medicine has earned for itself all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported, and we shall be glad to hear of its doing a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of DR. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. J. T. DAVENPORT, 33, St. Russell St., W. G.

We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a deliberate breach of faith on the part of the chemist to prescribe and patient alike. We are, Sir, faithfully yours, SYMES & CO., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CHLORODYNE IS THE TRUE PALLIATIVE IN

NEURALGIA, GOUT, CANCER, TOOTHACHE, RHEUMATISM.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE is a liquid medicine which assuages PAIN of EVERY KIND, affords a calm, refreshing sleep WITHOUT HEADACHE, and INVIGORATES the nervous system when exhausted.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S
CHLORODYNE rapidly cuts short all attacks of

EPILEPSY, SPASMS, COLIC, PALPITATION, Hysteria.

IMPORTANT CAUTION.—The IMMENSE SALE of this REMEDY has given rise to many UNSUBSTANTIAL IMITATIONS. Be careful to observe Trade Mark. Of all Chemists. 1s. 1d., 2s. 9d., and 4s. 6d.

COCOATINA,

Anti-Dyspeptic Cocoa or Chocolate Powder

GUARANTEED PURE SOLUBLE COCOA

Is of the Finest Quality, with the excess of fat extracted. The Faculty pronounce it "the most nutritious, perfectly digestible beverage for Breakfast, Luncheon, or Supper, and invaluable for Invalids and Children."

Highly commended by the entire Medical Press. Being without sugar, spice, or other admixture, it suits all palates, keeps for years in all climates, and is four times the strength of Cocos THICKENED, YET WEAKENED with Arrowroot, Starch, &c., and, IN REALITY CHEAPER than such Mixtures.

Made instantaneously with boiling water, a teaspoonful in a Breakfast Cup costing less than a Halfpenny.

COCOATINA A LA VANILLE is the most delicate, digestible, cheapest Vanilla Chocolate, and may be taken when richer Chocolate is prohibited.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, AUG. 18, 1884.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

Our advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, July 28; Madras and Allahabad, July 27; Calcutta, July 26.

We entirely agree with the Indian Daily News estimate of the vaticinations of the Pioneer in regard to the Bengal Tenancy Bill. Our contemporary writes:—

"The Pioneer says the Bengal Rent Bill 'is pretty certain to become law during the next Legislative Session.' But before then the Government may have its hands full of other work than playing at revolution."

SURELY, when Mr. Chamberlain talks of 100,000 Birmingham men "marching on London," the Gladstone Government is going far enough in the direction of "playing at revolution" at home, without extending the game to India. With the collapse of the Egyptian Conference into which Mr. Gladstone was entrapped by his dear Russian friend, Baron Mohrenheim—with the whole of the Press of Europe ridiculing Lord Northbrook's mission as the climax of Gladstonian impotence—with the most delicate questions pending between Russia and England as to the Russo-Afghan frontier—with British troops being withdrawn from India to Egypt to make up Mr. Gladstone's blundering there—it seems a peculiarly inopportune moment for Lord Ripon and Mr. Ilbert to insist on vivisectioning and ruining the most loyal community in India.

The only intelligible reason that can be assigned for such amazing perversity is, that Lord Ripon and Mr. Ilbert desire to take advantage of the distractions of the English body politic, caused by a revolutionary Home Government, to work their own wicked will on the peaceful and orderly classes in Bengal. But they forget the important fact that the wide-spread ruin they propose to effect will injure not only the great and wealthy landholders who are the special aversion of Mr. Borlase and their Radical English allies, but also the whole vast body of petty proprietors who form the backbone of the country in Bengal. Can anything too severe be said of the wanton folly of rulers who, at such a serious crisis in the fortunes of the Empire, can persist in disquieting and outraging a contented and loyal community of this kind?

THE Indian Statesman says:—

"The premature death of Dr. McCann is a heavy loss to Indian journalism. We congratulate the proprietors of the Review, however, very sincerely on the announcement that Mr. G. A. Stack has undertaken its editorship. We have been reflecting upon ourselves for months for not calling attention to the admirable conduct of the Review under Dr. McCann, when his disease was suddenly announced. The last number of the Review (April) seemed to us a singularly able one, and the July number now before us more than sustains its reputation. We hope to notice its contents at length in the next few days."

We heartily join the Indian Statesman in congratulating the proprietors of the Calcutta Review, both on the admirable work shown by its late lamented editor, who has done so much to add lustre to the annals of his distinguished service, and also on the fortunate chance which has enabled them to secure such a worthy successor to Dr. McCann.

It is pleasant to observe the signs of the growth of a spirit of mutual respect between the great Hindoo and Mohammedan communities of Bengal. We quote with entire approval the following paragraph from the Hindoo Patriot on a recent educational reform sanctioned by Mr. Rivers-Thompson on the recommendation of his able and judicious director of Public Instruction:—

"We are glad to see His Honour the Lieutenant Governor has at last acceded to the prayer of the Mahomedans of Rajshye by retaining the junior classes of the abolished Madrassa as a branch of the Rajshye College, at a monthly cost of Rs.200, to be defrayed out of the Moshin grant. The cost of the college classes of the Madrassa hitherto paid from the Moshin Fund will be charged to General Revenues as is done in the case of the college classes of the Sanskrit College, because there is no reason why the support accorded by the Government to English Education in the Calcutta Madrassa should stop short at the entrance standard, leaving all education of a higher class to be provided for from Mahomedan endowments, which would deprive Rajshye of such assistance as the needs of the people required. The transfer of the Rajshye grant from the Moshin Fund to the Calcutta Madrassa was an act of injustice to the Mahomedans of the district, and gave rise to great disappointment and displeasure among them. We hope the proposed arrangements will be every way satisfactory to them. There is a proposal to repay to the Moshin Fund Rs.20,000 being nearly two-thirds of the cost of the Rajshye buildings which will now be partly devoted to the use of the Rajshye College and partly used as a hostel by the Madrassa students. But owing to some difficulties this proposal will have to be probably deferred to the next financial year."

We regret to announce the death, from an attack of paralysis, of Roy Shama Churn Dey Bahadur, Vice-Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality. The Statesman, in noticing the death, says:—

"We regret to announce the death, from paralysis, of Babu Shama Churn Dey Roy Bahadur, Vice-Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality. The deceased gentleman had been ailing for some months past, and had returned to a villa in Cossipore, where a sudden attack of paralysis on Friday last proved fatal. Babu Shama Churn was educated at the Hindu College, and began life as a clerk in the Civil Paymaster's Office, now known as the Accountant-General's Office, on a monthly salary of Rs.40. His official career was somewhat remarkable. By sheer force of his abilities, he had risen at the time of his retirement to the position of Assistant Comptroller-General of Accounts. His services were frequently acknowledged by Government, and he was selected to give evidence before the Indian Finance Committee that sat during the Session of 1872-73. He retired from the Government service about four years ago, when the title of Royal Bahadur was conferred upon him, in recognition of the many services he had rendered to Government. He was soon after elected Vice-Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality, which place he worthily filled to the last. He was known as a thoroughly upright and honest man, and his genial nature won the affections of every one he came in contact with. His death will be mourned by a large circle of friends, both European and Native."

THE Parsi Punch of Bombay styles Mr. Grant Duff as "The Grand Puff of Madras."

THE Bombay Gazette says:—

"The Bombay Sub Committee for the furtherance of the Frere Memorial Fund has been called together by Sir Frank Souter. The Bombay contributions to this fund are, we hear, likely to prove a valuable addition to the amounts being raised elsewhere."

THE Pioneer says:—

"The Bartle Frere Memorial Fund seems to have been more warmly taken up at Hyderabad than at most places in India. The subscription there now amounts to 2,625 Halli Sicca, or about 2,290 Company's rupees, his Highness the Nizam heading the list with a contribution of Rs.500. Considering what he did for the Western Presidency and for its capital, the memorial has not so far been received, in Bombay notably, in the spirit that might have been expected."

THE Englishman gives the following report of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected up to Saturday July 26:—

"We have no change in steamer rates which are very firm for early loading. Our market for sailing tonnage is, however, depressed, and fixtures during the week show a decline of 1s. 3d. for London. Arrivals have been very free, and our unfixed tonnage stands increased to 49,000 tons."

We take the following account of the Calcutta Indigo Market from Messrs. W. Moran and Co.'s Report:—

"Prospects in Lower Bengal are on the whole less favourable than they were a fortnight back. Most districts want rain, and the plant is backward and stunted, while others have had too much and are being pressed by the rivers; the season is a late one nearly everywhere, and the yield from the plant generally indifferent. In Behar, on the whole, prospects are much the same as at the date of our last issue. In Champaran, Chuprah, and to the south of Tirhoot the weather has been exceptionally hot and dry, and although produce has improved at a few factories, it is still far from good at most places, and heavy rain is now everywhere wanted to bring on the plant, and give the Khoontes a start. In Chuprah, more particularly, the yield from the plant is sadly disappointing. To the north of Tirhoot the rainfall has been sufficiently heavy, and some factories have had more than they needed. In the Benares Provinces generally there has been sufficiency of rain, and prospects continue fairly favourable. In the Doab rain is now very much needed; the crop is undoubtedly large, but is generally backward, and manufacture is likely to be late.

The same firm gives the following on the Calcutta Tea Market:—

"Since the date of our last report there has been a considerable fall in values; the quality of the teas offered has rather improved, but owing to telegraphic advices from London having reported an unsettled market and probably lower tendency, competition here was not so brisk, except for teas showing particularly fine quality. Offered during the fortnight, 17,348 chests, sold 16,322. Returns from the manufacturing districts are, on the whole, disappointing as regards autumn, and most gardens (with the exception of those not yet in full bearing) show to date an outturn smaller than that of last year."

The Times of India has the following obituary till the departure of the mail, July 22:—

"The Hon. Kristodas Pal, C.I.E., editor of the Hindoo Patriot; Lieut. F. W. L. Birdwood, R.A., No. 1 Mountain Battery; Mr. E. Ludlow, Assistant Conservator of Forests in the Garrow Hills; Captain Anundrao Atmaram Pandurang."

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

The following are the general remarks of the Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ended August 16th.—

"Rain has fallen in varying quantities all over the Madras Presidency, but it has been deficient in the Ceded Districts and in the south. In most districts the crops are in want of rain. In Mysore rain continues to be insufficient, and the deficiency is beginning to be felt everywhere. There was heavy rain in Coorg in the week under report, but it is still insufficient for planting operations. In the Bombay Presidency rain has fallen in all districts and has been beneficial for the khari sowings, which have been resumed everywhere, except in parts of the Deccan and Southern Mahratta Country, where more rain is needed. In the Berars and Hyderabad, and in the Central India and Rajputana states, the rainfall has been heavier than that of last week. Heavy rain is still reported from the Central Provinces, and is proving unfavourable in places for the khari and cotton sowings. At Khandwa damage to the railway is reported. Good rain has fallen in most districts of the North Western Provinces and Oudh, but in some places the fall was light, and more is urgently needed. In the Punjab there was rain in many districts, but the fall is still insufficient. In British Burmah the weather continues to be seasonable. In Assam the fall has been below that of last week. In Bengal rain continues to be general, though it has been insufficient in places for agricultural operations. In the Behar districts the fall was generally heavy, and a break in Sarun and Hajipore would be beneficial. In his report for the 17th instant, the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India states that rain is reported from by far the greater part of the country, the only regions without any rain being a portion of the Carnatic and the provinces of Behar, the Punjab, and Sind. Harvesting continues in Madras, and standing crops are generally in fair condition. Khari sowings are in progress in Bombay, the North Western Provinces and Oudh, Punjab, the Central Provinces, and other parts of the country."

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

The following is from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated August 14:—

"The First Battalion of the Royal Irish Regiment and the Second Battalion of the East Surrey Regiment have been ordered to proceed to Egypt; the former leaving Bombay on the 20th inst., the latter on September 6. It is stated that the Government of India was opposed to the withdrawal of any British troops from this country, but eventually yielded, as both the battalions named would, in any event, have been relieved next winter."

"The members of the Afghan Frontier Commission have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to start at twenty-four hours' notice. The necessary commissariat and transport arrangements have been made for proceeding by way of the desert; but their are still hopes that this trying and hazardous route may be avoided."

The following is the usual weekly telegram from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated Aug. 17:—

"The Agricultural Department of the Government has issued a memorandum on the wheat harvest of the current year from which it appears that the yield in the North Western provinces was somewhat below the average, owing to the deficiency in the autumn and winter rains; while in the Punjab and Bombay the average was slightly exceeded, and in the Central Provinces the harvest was excellent, being fully 15 per cent. above the average. The total yield of these four provinces is estimated at 24,500,000 quarters. Reports have not yet been received from Bengal or Rajputana, but it is evident that the total outturn of India will come up to what is supposed to be the annual average—namely, 30,500,000 quarters. And if this year's autumn rains do not fail, at least one-fifth of that quantity should be available for export, without materially enhancing the price. The wheat expenses have been of moderate amount since January last, and it is believed that a considerable quantity is now in stock."

"A week ago very grave anxiety was beginning to be felt regarding the harvest prospects throughout Bengal. Fairly plentiful rain has now fallen in the districts near Calcutta, but it is not yet known whether it has fallen generally. There is, however, reason to hope that it will be sufficient to ward off all danger until the end of September, when the rice crop approaches what is perhaps its most critical stage. In most other parts of the country the monsoon rains have so far not been unfavourable."

"The statistics of the working of the Indian railways during the half-year which ended on December 31st show that 20 broad gauge lines were at work with an aggregate of 7,261 miles open. These lines earned Rs. 6,04,22,188, and there was expended a sum of Rs. 3,11,75,775, leaving a balance of net earnings of Rs. 2,92,46,413. The narrow gauge lines, 14 in number, with a length of 3,148 miles, earned Rs. 1,12,64,467, against an expenditure of Rs. 71,61,613; the balance of net earnings being Rs. 41,62,864. Taking all the lines together, we find that there were 10,410 miles open, on which the total capital expended was Rs. 1,42,36,71,978, and which gave in the half-year a balance of net earnings amounting to Rs. 3,34,09,267."

"The Lieutenant-Governor has answered the letter of the Calcutta Corporation in which that body refused to co-operate with the proposed consultative committee on the sanitation of the town. Mr. Rivers Thompson quotes the opinion of the Advocate-General to show that his proposal was not illegal, and that the members of the Corporation had misunderstood the duties imposed upon them and the nature of the control vested in the Government by the Municipal Act. He sees no reason for altering the views which led him to the conclusion that the public interest demands a full inquiry into the sanitary condition of the city and the preparation of a scheme for an effective conservancy. He earnestly desires to attain this end without even the appearance of antagonism to the Corporation; but as it has rejected his proposal, that proposal falls to the ground. He has, therefore, no alternative save that of appointing a Commission of Inquiry as provided in the Act. The Commission will consist of the Hon. Mr. Beverley, the Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal, and a third member to be nominated by the Corporation, unless that body as seems possible, should carry its obstinacy to the extent of refusing to make a nomination."

"It is stated that the Government has at last done an act of tardy justice to the Anglo-Indian and Eurasian community by rescinding what is known as the Roorkee resolution—that is, the order passed last year which practically closed the engineering college at Roorkee and its subordinate branches in the Public Works Department to all except pure Asiatics. There has lately been some agitation on the subject, especially among the railway employés, and several meetings have been held in connection with it at Calcutta and elsewhere. The Government has acted wisely in no longer attempting to maintain this indefensible race disqualification."

"A telegram received yesterday announces that a crowded meeting has been held at Rungpore for the purpose of denouncing the Rent Bill. The speeches made and the resolutions passed were very similar to those with which the public has been made familiar by the reports of previous meetings during the past twelve months."

"The appointments to the staff of the Zhob Valley expeditionary force have been gazetted. Sir Oriel Tanner commands, and the staff has, for the most part, been selected from the captains and subalterns of the Bombay Staff Corps. The 1st Native Infantry, which was to have formed part of the now abandoned Punjab column, is ordered to join General Tanner's column. The force will leave Quetta on September 12, marching to Thull Chotiali, and thence probably to Luki, in the Luni-Pathan country. From that point the Zhob Valley can be easily reached. The recent reports from Quetta are to the effect that Shah Jehan, the Zhob chief, has assumed a much humbler tone, and that it is believed he would now be glad to make his submission.

"The route and date for the departure of the Afghan Frontier Commission are still uncertain. Captain Maitland, the intelligent officer, has gone to Quetta, it is believed with the intention of arranging for a march via Muskhil and the Desert route to the Helmand, in case the Ameer refuses to agree to the adoption of the march by way of Candahar and Girishk. It is possible also that neither of these routes may be taken, and that the Commission may proceed by sea to Persia, or even to Constantinople. At present, however, it would appear that the Desert route will most probably be selected. It is said to present no great difficulties, having been partially explored by Sir Robert Sandeman last winter. Ibrahim Khan, assistant superintendent of police at Peshawur, has been sent on a special mission to Cabul. It is supposed that the object is again to press the Ameer to consent to the adoption of the Candahar route. Dr. Sully, who was originally appointed medical officer of the Commission, is unable to go. His place will therefore be taken by Dr. Aitchison, who to his other qualifications adds that of being a skilled naturalist. It is now stated that the escort will consist of 400 men, and that 600 followers will accompany the Commission.

"It is believed that the 13th Hussars, whose period of Indian service expires next winter, will be sent to Egypt, in addition to the Royal Irish and the East Surrey Regiments."

SELECTED ARTICLES

THE ZHOB VALLEY KAHANS.

In last Thursday's issue of the Yorshire Post a leading article appeared criticising the policy of the present Administration in South Africa and India. On Indian affairs the writer remarks:—

"The shirking of duty and vacillation of conduct mark Liberal administration. Lord Ripon's policy and procedure in India are not altogether without merit, although the Ilbert Bill was a gigantic and disastrous mistake. But about one point of policy in Indian affairs there has hitherto never been any question. When robber tribes or hostile clansmen have descended from their hills or left their valleys to molest the subjects or protected allies of the Sovereign of India, an expedition has been formed to chastise the aggressors, to protect the subjects or allies of the Sovereign, and to maintain the Imperial authority. But the present Government, without openly avowing a belief that colonies and dependencies are more trouble to us than they are, worth, act as if that were the case. 'It is possible,' wires the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, 'that the intention of sending a column from the Punjab to co-operate with the Quetta column against the Zhob Valley Kahans may be abandoned, owing to the expected opposition of the Suleiman Kheyl tribesmen.' Is this the way in which to govern and maintain an empire? When it becomes known in the bazaars of India that a little combination among the tribes will secure immunity to aggressive and plundering bands, the condition of Northern and Central India will become intolerable, and Russia will have a ready-made army of allies only waiting for the word to make India too hot for England to hold. Truly does the Times correspondent add: 'This abandonment would be a lamentable confession of weakness on the part of the Indian Government.' It would not be the first confession of weakness. But Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues exhibit no strength where strength is needed. In plundering landlords and discouraging loyalists; in jockeying Parliament and abusing their opponents, they exhibit a boldness and skill worthy of a better cause. But when it comes to strengthening and developing a great empire, Ministers display an incapacity and wrong-headedness which are really remarkable. They have allowed the Russians practically to annex Merv, and they are going to allow a Russian company to forestall the 'Euphrates Valley Project,' which might have been carried out with the money proposed to provide M. de Lesseps with for a second Suez Canal. Whatever, then, may be thought of the domestic policy of the Government, their foreign and colonial policy is a policy of vacillation and helplessness, a policy of procrastination and doing nothing; a policy which might be expected from imbeciles, but which, in the hands of the party in power in a great country, is a policy of declension and disaster."

THE LATE DOCTOR HUGH McCANN.

At the close of the Asiatic Society's meeting of the 2nd instant, the vice-president, Dr. Waldie, delivered a very graceful eulogium on the memory of its late Honorary Secretary, Dr. Hugh McCann, whose untimely death is so widely mourned amongst us. We regret that we have not space for Dr. Waldie's sketch of his career in extenso. His academic success seems to have been very distinguished indeed, almost unique;

He was born in 1853 at Kirkcubright in Scotland, and was educated in the Liverpool Institute. In 1868 he came out first of the first-class of the Oxford senior local examination. In 1869, at the age of sixteen, he entered into the first competition for the Whitworth scholarship, and though he failed in the main, he surpassed many candidates within two years his senior. In the following year, 1870, he brilliantly distinguished himself. Not only did he obtain a scholarship at, I believe, the lowest age at which one has ever been taken; but in the examination in mathematics he gained first-class honours in each of the three grades, and in the two higher was first in order of merit. The extraordinary nature of this achievement will be appreciated when it is considered that of the thousands who in the last fifteen years have competed for these scholarships, only one has equalled Dr. McCann's success, and he was three or four years his senior. In June of the same year, he matriculated at the University of London from the Liverpool Institute; his name appears first in order of merit in the honour list.

In 1871 he took his first B. S. degree with honours at the University of London, standing first class in mathematics and mechanical philosophy. In the same year he obtained a minor scholarship at Trinity College, Cambridge. In 1876 he was elected a scholar of Trinity. He was prevented by illness from going up for the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1875; but he was bracketed seventh wrangler in the examinations of 1876. He was for some time a Master at Harrow; and also took an active part as lecturer under the University Extension Scheme.

In 1879 he received an appointment in the Bengal Educational Department. In 1881 he was elected Honorary Secretary of the Asiatic Society. He was for some time a Trustee of the Indian Museum on the part of the Society. In May, 1882, he was appointed to officiate as Secretary to the Central Committee for the management of the Economic Museum. In this capacity very heavy work devolved upon him. He had to "work off the arrears which had accumulated in the financial and routine business of the office, and to put the specimens into general order, previous to throwing the Museum open to the public." This was effectually done, and the Museum was thrown open to the public in July, 1882.

To Dr. McCann's professional work there were added so many labours which his enthusiasm and sympathy led him to undertake, that it is almost with passionate regret we read Dr. Waldie's statement that "he was no doubt a little over-worked for the last two months of his life."

On Friday the 20th June, he went to Raneeunge for change of air. On the 21st, he addressed a letter to a member of the Society, in which he said that he was sadly in need of rest, but expressed a belief that two or three days' indolence would make him fit for work again. On the night of Saturday he was seized with cholera, and died in the middle of the day on Sunday.

A great and noble life has been stricken down amongst us "by the distracting nature of his various occupations, the only special assistance he received being that of a clerk in making abstracts of the correspondence," in which his multifarious labours involved him. "It is a marvel," adds Dr. Waldie, "that he completed so difficult a work in so short a time." We know the love with which the College students regarded him, and feel ready to be angry that he was permitted to do so much.—Indian Statesman.

SPIRIT OF THE INDIAN PRESS.

THE BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

IN continuation of the remarks in our issue of July 1, we proceed with an examination into some of the effects of those provisions of the proposed Bengal Tenancy Bill which have been already tried in the Santal Parganas. The district is generally looked upon as an area covered with forest, and inhabited only by wild tribes. The few sportsmen who have attempted to profit by the first notion have returned grievously disappointed. Mr. Bourdillon's Census Report shows that, in 1881, the population was, in round numbers, a million-and-a-half souls, of whom less than a third were Santals. The bulk of these Santals inhabit the Government estate, the Daminikoh, and some of our readers may remember being puzzled when the published correspondent of Sir George Campbell's time first made known this Persian name as applicable to a tract, not in Afghanistan, but in Lower Bengal. The district, intersected as it is by both the chord and loop lines of the East Indian Railway, is better served by rail than any in the province, while from the published resolutions on the annual Administration Reports of the Commissioner of Bhagalpur, it appears to have long had the best system of roads of any district in that division. A traveller from Calcutta, on reaching the wayside station of Pakaur, one of those Bengali villages which just stop short of being towns, would be surprised to learn that it was the head-quarters of the wildest sub-division of Santal Parganas, or indeed that he had passed into a tract governed by a different regime from that of the country through which his journey had hitherto lain, since the outward appearances had in no way changed. On the chord line, the country traversed south of Lakshmi Saria is hilly and forest clad, and full of sylvan beauty, but it belongs to the regulation districts of Monghir and Bhagalpur, and it is only when close to Baidyanath, whence the first railway ever constructed wholly by private enterprise in India runs to the neighbouring town of Beoghar, that the Santal Parganas are reached. The next station within them is the well-known railway depot and plains sanitarium, Madhupur, a place as civilised in its features and surroundings as any in the entire length of the line.

The district is a very large one, its area being considerably over 5,000 square miles. Running through it as a sort of backbone are the Rajmahal hills, forming with their valleys and part of their skirts, the Government estate of Daminiokoh; and as they did not come under the Permanent Settlement, their area does not fall within the scope of our present remarks. From a resolution of the Bengal Government published in April, 1880, it appeared that a settlement of the estate had then been just concluded. The resolution indicated some of the peculiar rites under which it is managed, and it reiterated the order prohibiting any but members of the primitive races for which it was reserved from settling in it without permission, and refused to make an exception even for the East Indian Railway Company, who had remonstrated against the restriction on behalf of their employees. It only remains to be noticed that the Government expressed great satisfaction at the Settlement, which had secured a large and immediate enhancement, governed by none of the limitations now proposed to be provided, on the previous rental of the estate. Also that, from the resolution on the administration of civil justice in the Santal Parganas published last year, and briefly noticed at the time in these columns, it is to be gathered that, not only is subletting prohibited on this estate, but also the transfer of cultivators' holdings, all these holdings being occupancy holdings as defined in the new Tenancy Bill. The exclusion rules already referred to will account for further accurate information regarding the system of the Daminiokoh not being readily available.

The rest of the district which has come under the Permanent Settlement lies round the Rajmahal hills, and is over 4,000 square miles in extent. We have said that it affords examples of almost every kind of tenure to be found in the Province, and the reasons for this are easily explicable. Within it is the junction of four of the seven Hindu divisions of India, Mithila, Magadha, Barendra, and Rarh, the portion of each still retaining its peculiar economic and lingual characteristics. It is in fact that border land so vividly described by the author of the "Annals of Rural Bengal." On the north lies the fort and pass of Tiliagarhi, which by tradition and actually is the gate between Bengal and Behar or Hindustan. East of it is Rajmahal, once the Muhammadan capital of Bengal and transferred as such from Gaur on the north of the Ganges. The transfer affected the surrounding country, in which prevail many of the large jots supposed to be peculiar to Northern Bengal, while their holders and the subordinate peasantry, unlike the tenantry elsewhere in the district, are nearly all Mussulmans. In this tract are large areas of alluvial land which change under the Ganges action every year. There is extensive indigo cultivation, with several factories, while on the Ganges banks is grown some of the finest wheat known in the world, and these wheat lands are generally found in peculiar tenures in which the rent, though a money one, is paid according to the crop grown. The low country east of the hills used to belong to the Murshidabad district, from which no natural boundary separates it, and is representative of Central Bengal.

The south was part of Birbhum till 1855, and is indeed that part of it to which Mr. Hunter's well-known "Annals" particularly refer. On the west Deoghar, which is described in the same work, and the country surrounding it belong distinctively to Chutia Nagpur in every physical, social, and ethnological feature. The rest of the district consists of parts of the immense Kharakpur estate of the Banerji family, which lies also in the Monghir and Bhagalpur districts, and of the large pargana of Bhagalpur, which is wholly detached from its capital town, and from the district to which it gives its name. This north-west side of the Santal Parganas is undistinguished from the rest of South Behar, and till the recent settlements was, equally with it, marked by the prevalence of rents paid in kind.

Notwithstanding the exclusion from the operation of the general law in 1855, the system under which the rent rules and the relations between landlord and tenant were administered by Sir George Yule and his successors seems to have differed little from that followed elsewhere in the province, at least in the permanently settled parts of the district. The principles, if not also the details, of Act 10, 1859, were closely followed. Occupancy rights were as hard to acquire as elsewhere, and, when acquired, carried no greater privileges. In 1872 Sir George Campbell revolutionised the land system by having enacted for the Santal Parganas the principle of the settled rayat almost as now defined in the new Tenancy Bill. This was by Regulation 1 of 1872, which empowered a land settlement to be made to secure the peace and good government of Santal Parganas. In the proceedings which followed, the power to transfer the settled holdings thus created was either granted to their occupants or allowed to spring up, and after a few years' experience of it, the local officers are found so vehemently protesting against its results that the Bengal Government, in the Resolution on the Administration of Civil Justice in 1882 to which we have already referred, had begun to consider if the rule which forbade such transfers on their own estate should not be extended to at least some classes of ryots in the district at large; while, in their letter of September last to the Government of India, they expressly accepted the Santal Parganas when arguing for the general creation of the right of transferability of occupancy holding. We have pointed out that the Santals are, in the Santal Parganas, but a third of the whole population, while in the permanently settled portion of the district their numbers are comparatively insignificant.

In our previous article we referred to the fact that, as many prominent landholders held property in the district, their reticence on the point last noticed, and on others connected with it, is a curious feature in the discussions which have taken place. But Mr. G. H. Grant of Bhagalpur has alluded to the enormous increase in litigation which succeeded Sir George Campbell's measures, even in so primitive a tract as the Santal Parganas are supposed to be. A glance at the Quarterly Civil List for Bengal, and at the large staff shown by it to be maintained in the district, and at the powers with which the members of that staff are invested, suffices to show how well founded was Mr. Grant's allusion, and we hope to continue our examination into his reproach, as well as into its connection with the transferability of occupancy holdings, which, so far as it has been tried as a venture, has been so signally condemned.—Englishman.

THE SIMLA EXODUS.

It is very desirable, we think, that some one should publish the "minutes" that have been recorded at intervals in the last twenty or thirty years on the subject of "going to the hills." We believe that a simple record of this kind would do more to correct the abuse, than any remonstrances on the part of the press. The subject has been under formal discussion on several occasions, but the public has no access to the official "minutes" upon the records. We have seen what Sir John Kaye wrote about it, and a day or two ago we stumbled upon a minute of Sir Henry Durand upon the subject written in 1868, from which we quote the following passage:—

"If time be of any moment in the affairs of this world and age Simla would tie down the Government to the most unfavourable position that could well be selected with regard to postal and telegraphic communications. It is difficult to choose a point on the map of India that shall more successfully solve the problem of being as remote as possible from Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Kurrahee, and, of course, England. Three or four marches in the mountains, and on the left bank of the Sutlej, its position secures its being cut off from Lahore and the Punjab during the rains by the Sutlej and Beas, and secures a maximum of delay in communications with Lahore and Peshawur.

"It is not however solely in the matter of communications that the position of Simla is objectionable. The annual migrations thither from Calcutta involve the loss of two months out of the twelve in the transaction of ordinary current business. . . . For two months there is a bona fide paralysis of work. Besides this, another result issues which is very serious. For obvious reasons, the main part of the Legislative work has to be got through in Calcutta, and the necessity of condensing into four or at the utmost five months, and those very busy months for the Executive Government, puts a strain on all concerned that is in my opinion unfavourable to the satisfactory consideration and execution of this very important part of the functions of Government."

The italics are our own. Until we lighted on this minute, we were not aware that our complaint of two months being lost every year by the disorganisation of everything while the Departments are in transit, had been officially noticed. Sir Henry Durand confirms our statement, and adds: "from the time that the move from either end commences, to the time that the offices are reassembled and work again in full swing at the other terminus, a month elapses." We knew that it must be so, and that an abuse of this kind should have lasted so long is unhappily evidence enough of the demoralisation which has seized upon the Indian service generally.

No testimony could be more explicit than that of Sir Henry Durand as to the disorganization of work that the exodus occasion, and the unsuitableness of Simla, from its remoteness, to be the seat of Government for so long a period of the year. Sir Henry Durand when he wrote this minute had had nine years' experience of the practical working of this exodus, and appears to have held the same views on the subject as ourselves, instead of confining the annual tour to Simla, the Viceroy ought to visit the other presidencies regularly. Sir Henry points out that the tour necessitates the condensing into four months' labour a mass of work that should be spread equally over the year, and has a damaging effect upon its quality; that for two months of the year during which the Government and its departments are in transit, there is an absolute "paralysis" of all work, and finally that the geographical position of Simla "three or four marches in the mountains," makes it a singularly ineligible resort for the Government at any time. It would be difficult indeed, he says, "to choose a point on the map of India," more remote from all other points, and more inaccessible.

Whether Colonel Durand's attention was ever directed to the question of the expense attending the "exodus" we cannot tell, but we repeat our conviction that were Lord Ripon to call for a return of the "minutes" that have been officially recorded on this subject since the Mutiny, with the special correspondence that has taken place on the subject at intervals during the period, the return would be found to condemn the practice absolutely. The outbreak at Meerut took place on May 10, 1857, while the Commander-in-Chief, General Anson, was at Simla. The news reached Umballa on the 11th, and a son of General Barnard was dispatched with it post-haste to Simla. Had General Anson realised its vast importance, he would have been far down the road to Umballa the very next day, picking up every company of troops on his way, and straining every nerve for an instant march upon Delhi. Umballa is the great military centre of the district, and yet General Anson arrived there only on the 15th, five days after the outbreak. The demoralisation that springs from this holiday service in the hills was seen clearly in the feebleness and languor of every movement at the time. Arrived at Umballa, and Meerut within easy reach, a dash upon Delhi would in all probability have captured it. Instead of the nerve and vigour which the emergency called for, General Anson did not arrive at Umballa until the 15th, and then began to talk of "intrenching himself," which elicited the famous message from John Lawrence by wire, "Clubs not spades are trumps." Inaction at Meerut had lost us Delhi—inaction at Umballa might lose us India. This was the burden of all Lawrence's despatches. We know that he regarded the delay of the Commander-in-Chief as fatal, and no man can doubt but that General Anson's inaction, consequent on his being at Simla, destroyed the last hope there was of crushing the Mutiny at its birth. He moved out of Umballa on the 25th of May, and on the 26th lay death-stricken at Kurnal, the victim of cholera. Fortunately for India Lord Canning was in Calcutta, instead of being isolated at Simla, and cut off there from all communication with the rest of the empire. If this question once gets fairly raised in Parliament, the abuse to which the practice has led will certainly receive a heavy check.

BENGAL TENANCY BILL.

THE following resolutions were unanimously carried in a large and influential meeting of the Maharajas, Rajas, and other zemindars of Gaya, held on the 13th instant, in the premises of Raja Run Bahadur Sing, Tickari, for making a protest against the provisions of the revised Bengal Tenancy Bill. First; that the landlords and cultivators of this district have read with much alarm and distress the different provisions of the revised Bengal Tenancy Bill, which, far from conferring any substantial benefit either to the landlord or to the tenant, open a wide door to ruinous and unnecessary litigation, and besides being subversive of the rights of the parties, override the long revered custom law of the country. Second; that the landlords and tenants of this district have been surprised to notice that the peculiar circumstance of this district and the tenures obtaining here are little known to the members of the Council who framed the bill, and that the provisions of the bill regarding the Bhanli tenure which is the life and soul of the agricultural community of this district, have been framed in total misconception of its nature and incidents, and the rights and liabilities of the parties thereunder, and would, in effect, prove detrimental to the cause of agriculture and ruinous to both the classes. Third; that the proposal made in the bill to take away from joint owners, in cases of breach of the peace, the management of their estates is subjecting them to a sort of forfeiture for an offence for which the Penal Code of the land has provided no forfeiture, while the ryots similarly situated under similar circumstances are left to be dealt with according to the Penal Code. Fourth; that the zemindars are not properly represented in the Select Committee where the great majority is composed of officials and of those non-officials who had already declared themselves in favour of the principles of the bill. Fifth; that however desirable it may be to make a price list table of rates and record of rights, the practical working thereof is surrounded with so many difficulties as to make it impracticable, and that it will entail heavy costs to landlords as well as tenants. Sixth; that the unlimited power of transferability which the bill endeavours to give to the occupancy ryots is giving them, thoughtless and improvident as they are, a bait to run themselves headlong into ruin and destitution. This association thinks it right to note that Government itself in their khas and escheated mehals have been protesting against the alienation of this right. Seventh; that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department.

Among those present in the meeting we noticed the following:—Raja Run Bahadur Sing, president; Babu Ambica Prasad Sing, son-in-law, and delegate of Maharani Rajpur Koer, of Tickari; Munshi Parbhu Dial, manager and delegate of the Raja of Deo; Babu Nem Narain Sing; Rai Ram Narain Sing; Babu Drignal Lal; Babu Duli Chand; Babu Maha Sing; Munshi Jawahir Lal; Babu Beharilal Barik Gayawali; Babu Sojiwan Lal; Babu Bhupen Sing; Babu Harihar Nath; Moulvie Mazhar Imam; Babu Sital Prasad; Babu Nagwant Sahay; Babu Sham Behari Sing; Rai Shamlal Mitter; Babu Khubi Sing; Babu Thakur Sing; Babu Tilakdhari Sing; Babu Harkhu Sing; Babu Gokul Chand Prohit; Munshi Gopal Lal, delegate of Babu Taral Narain Sing; Elahi Baksh, delegate of the zemindars of Kohan; Babu Mahtab Lal, manager of Raja of Maksudpur; Babu Chotalal Sijwar, C. I. E.; Babu Chotin Lal; Babu Balkissen Dass; Mirza Dostmohamed and others.—Englishman.

NATIVE SOCIETY AND THREE OF ITS LEADERS IN BENGAL.

NATIVE society is very much concerned at the illness of some of its leading men, such as the Honourable Kristo Dass Paul, Maharajah Komul Krishna, and Dr. Rajendralala Mitra. Whatever honest differences of opinion we may have had with Babu Kristo Dass Paul on certain public questions, in regard to which by his peculiar position he is in a great measure helpless, we yield to none in our respect for him personally. His abilities are of a high order, and it will be difficult to find another man to fill his place. But we respect him more for the good that we know he does by stealth to his fellow-countrymen whenever it is in his power to do so. We believe that Babu Kristo Dass Paul's rise has been due as much to his talents as to the good he has always sought to do others. We do not much wonder at the rapid ascent he has made in public life, when we come to know the amount of benefit he has conferred on his fellow-men. He has never been slow to do a good turn whenever a case of trouble or distress has come to his notice, provided it lay in his power to do so. Babu Kristo Dass's life should impress us with one important fact, and that is that no man can expect to be great, who is not prepared to benefit others in the pursuit of his own aims of life. The grand doctrine of pure Hindooism—we do not mean the corrupted form of the Hindooism of later times—is that every man is born to do good to others, whether he benefits himself or not, and without any expectation of a return, which, however, will come of itself. It also teaches us that, in labouring for the general good, individual good will, as a matter of course, be the general result. Babu Kristo Dass Paul is another instance of greatness combined with unaffected simplicity. The high position he had unquestionably attained in the world has never turned his head, as it has often done in the case of other men. His mind is too evenly balanced for such a thing. This is no ordinary compliment to such a man.

Maharajah Komul Krishna is the present respected head of the Hindu community. He is a worthy representative of the late Maharajah Nubkissen, whose name is as familiar as a household word in Bengal. He also belongs to the old school of Hindus, and has all the good traits of the typical Hindu of the olden time. He is probably now the last link in Calcutta between the old and present generations of Hindoos. He is one of the few patrons now living of Sanskrit learning, as represented in the Brahmin Pundits of Bengal of the present day. Those who know him know too well the loveable character of his heart, and the noble mind that he possesses. We think it does one good even to see a Hindu of the olden type, as in the person of Maharajah Komul Krishna. He has never taken an active part in the political movements of the day, but he has always borne a patriotic heart, as he has shown by the free use of his name and purse in furtherance of any object of public utility. As a descendant of Maharajah Nubkissen, it is only natural that he should have given constant proofs of his staunch and inflexible loyalty to the British Government.

Dr. Rajendralala Mitra upholds the literary reputation of India. He is as good an Englishman as an Oriental scholar. He is one of the few Native antiquarians now to be met with, who enjoys a wide European reputation. Antiquities do not seem to be of much interest to modern Hindus, but a more interesting subject of study cannot be conceived, and should find a large number of students among our educated countrymen, if only by acquiring a greater knowledge of our past history we shall be enabled to mould and direct our future destinies. The present generation of Indians, of all people in the world, should most devote themselves to researches into Indian antiquities; and our Universities should make it a point to give more prominence, and attach more value, to this class of studies, which is not unfortunately included in their present curriculum at all. The path chalked out for himself by Dr. Rajendralala Mitra should be more largely followed by the present generation of educated Hindus.

The active literary habits, by which he has always been distinguished, also deserve the widest imitation. Not confined to antiquities alone, his versatile talents have been constantly seeking useful employment in other departments of literature in which his deep and varied erudition has helped him much.

Especially at the present moment, when India needs the services of all her best and most gifted sons, we cannot afford to lose any of the three gentlemen, whose illness has caused so much anxiety to the Native community; and we earnestly hope and pray that all three may be speedily restored to full health and the power to serve their country and countrymen, each in his own way.—Indian Mirror.

DEATH OF THE HON. KRISTO DAS PAL.

THE Indian Daily News, in the course of a leader dealing with the deceased's career, says:—"The man's heart was as tender as it was great—as loving as it was strong to do battle with the great problems which it fell to his lot to work out. But what was it that gave him so unique a place amongst the European as amongst the native community? Why did people turn naturally to learn his opinion on public questions, whilst these followed him with a trustfulness which never faltered or doubted? We take it, the secret of his wonderful influence with both sections of the community was a rare judgment—a judgment, indeed, which amounted to a genius for seizing upon what was best, and what was certain of accomplishment. It was this most rare gift, accompanied by a solid strength of intellect, and a peculiar faculty of thoroughly mastering any subject he took in hand, which made Kristo Das Pal, in spite of all disadvantages, a true statesman, and which will unite both communities in the preparation of a memorial to do him honour which no native of India ever more honestly earned, whether we regard his great talents or the splendid service he has rendered to his country."

Native Opinion says:—"Times seem to be out of joint just now with Bengal, nay with the whole of India. The Honourable K. Pal is no more! The honourable gentleman was seriously indisposed for the last few months. Hard work, coupled with some constitutional ailment, brought about this calamity. Well may India mourn! She has lost in the late K. Pal one of her brightest and noblest sons. It will be long ere we shall see his like again."

The Bombay Chronicle, referring to the deceased, says:—"He was a self-made man, equally respected in private and public life. He aspired to be useful to his country, and his commendable aspirations were realised to the satisfaction of himself and those around him. He lived a life that will form an example worthy of imitation, a great way, by such of his countrymen as wish to attain to opulence and honour by laudable industry, and steady, active pursuits. He has died regretted by all who knew anything about him. He has left vacant in native society a place that it will not be easy to fill up suitably from among the class to which he belonged. That peace be to his soul and honour to his memory, will be the sincere prayer of all true-hearted educated natives of India, faithful to their country and loyal to the British Government."

The Indian Spectator says:—"Though scarcely full of years, the father of the native press dies full of honours such as never before fell to the lot of the journalist, Indian or European. The Hon. Rai Kristodas Pal, C.I.E., was at heart a people's man. But circumstances drifted him into a position in which he had often to do battle for a particular class. It does not, however, follow that his advocacy of the landed interest any way interfered with his active sympathy for the mass of his countrymen. Still, as we have said, the position was one of peculiar difficulty, which he managed to keep with credit to himself and advantage to his country."

The Rast Goftar says "That in him India has lost one of its greatest sons. The deceased was known to be a great debater, a fluent speaker, and a terse writer. It was mainly through his exertions that the Hindoo Patriot became the leading native paper of India. He was held in high esteem by Government in consequence of the moderation he exercised in the discussion of important public questions.

RIGHT AND LEFT.—Few sportsmen have had the good fortune to kill two tigers, as if they were mere quail, in few seconds. Mr. Charles Barlow, of Mussoorie, is one of the fortunate exceptions. Lately, when in the vicinity of Khiree, Mr. Barlow, who was out after tiger, bowled one over with a bullet from the right-hand barrel of his rifle; just then another animal rose and received his quietus from the left-hand barrel.—Hills Advertiser, July 18.

PURE INDIAN TEAS.—Two kinds (both very good), at 2s. 6d. and 2s. 6d. per lb., are sold at the Pure India Tea Depot, Ennerdale-road, Richmond. The superintendent (Lieut. Col. MONEY, the Author of the standard work and prize essay on "Tea Cultivation and Manufacture in India"), who is a large producer, sells at the above low prices 25 per cent. below usual ones because no middleman's profits are incurred. ## BENGAL, UPPER INDIA, &c.

The Viceroy has received from the Prince of Wales a letter, in which his Royal Highness expresses a hope that India will take part in the forthcoming Colonial Exhibition to be held in London, in 1886. Measures will probably be shortly set on foot to arrange that India may be well represented at the Exhibition.

Lady Ripon will probably spend the greater part of next month at Mushobra for change of air.

At a meeting of the Viceregal Legislative Council on Wednesday, July 23, the bill amending the Northern India Takavi Act, 1879, was passed.

The British Postal Money Order system will come into force in India on the 1st of October next.

The Hon. Kristo Das Pal, C.I.E., the well-known editor of the Hindoo Patriot, died at Calcutta, on Thursday, July 24.

A subscription has been set on foot in Calcutta, for the purpose of providing funds to prosecute an appeal against the recent decision of Mr. Justice Cunningham in the case of Lopez v. Lopez, in which the learned judge decided that marriage with a deceased wife's sister is illegal in India.

A public meeting was held in Calcutta on the 26th ult. for the purpose of protesting against the recent action of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal in appointing a commission to consider the sanitary condition of the city.

The Calcutta Trades Association, following the example of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, have forwarded a memorial to Government on the subject of the present block in the high Court of Calcutta.

Typhoid fever has broken out at Simla, amongst the cases being one in the family of the Commander in Chief and another in that of Sir M. J. Biddulph.

The Austrian Sgardelli, who was charged with causing the death of a native at Hooghly, was acquitted on the 22nd ult.

Dr. Dallas's acting appointment in the place of Dr. Simpson as Surgeon General of the Punjab has been sanctioned by the Government of India from the 25th ult.

The arrangements for the Zhoob Valley expedition are settled; and it will start on September 15.

It is proposed to relieve the deadlock in the High Court of Calcutta by appointing three additional judges.

Fever prevails to a large extent in Goalpara. The weather is damp and cloudy.

Tea prospects are fair in Kamrup, the weather is hot and dry. Cholera prevails in portions of the district.

In Darrang tea is very backward. The weather is hot and loudy. Cholera is abating, but cattle disease is still prevalent.

In Lakimpore tea is still backward. Cattle disease and small-pox are reported from North Lakimpore.

Cloudy and warm weather, with heavy showers, is the news from Sylhet, tea prospects are improving.

H. H. The Maharajah of Cooch Behar is not only by far the most gentlemanly and advanced in ideas of all his Indian peers, but above all, he is not sufficiently weak to allow mere cyphers to hold the leading positions in the management of his estate, and in choosing Babu Preonath Dutt as his agent, he has shown discriminating judgment.—Indigo Planters' Gazette.

It is said that Dr. Douglas Cunningham, who is to be attached to the Sanitary Commissioner's Office in order to follow up Dr. Koch's alleged discovery of the cholera germ, will probably have associated with him a professional microscopist, whose services will be obtained from home.

The Bucephalus, the first of the new line of steamers between Calcutta and Australia, reached Melbourne on June 26.

Lieut. Col. P. D. Henderson, Superintendent of Operations for the Suppression of Thaggi and Dakaiti, is shortly going on tour in Rajputana and Central India.

Brigadier General Wilkinson, commanding the Presidency Division, with some members of his staff, has proceeded to Darjiling for a short time on inspection duty.

The Government of India has made a grant of Rs. 10,000 during the current year, to supplement the local grant of Rs. 17,000 for the preservation of ancient monuments in the Panjab.

The negotiations with the Ameer in regard to the Delimitation Commission are not making very satisfactory progress. One paper says that Abdul Rahman apparently thinks that a concession of money will be granted him if he remains perfectly obstructive regarding the safe conduct of the escort from India through Afghanistan.

A Sepoy, of the 2nd Biluch Regiment, has been arrested at Peshawar with four Henry-Martini Rifles, which are believed to have been stolen from the Gloucestershire Regiment last month.

The Shinwaris continue to give trouble to the Ameer. Three weeks ago some sections of the tribe revolted, and now it is stated the Governor of Jellalabad, acting under instructions from Kabul, has sent two regiments against them.

It is rumoured that Mr. J. R. Reid, Chief Secretary to the N. W. Provinces Government, who is taking furlough in April next, will retire in the following autumn.

The Indian officers who have been appointed to the Afghan Frontier Commission have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to start immediately. It is expected that they will rendezvous at Quetta and advance as soon as the arrangements have been concluded.

Emissaries have arrived at Peshawur from the Ameer with letters for the Viceroy.

Fifty men have been despatched by the Ameer's orders from Kandahar to Quetta to receive a present of stores and ammunition forwarded by the Government of India.

United India, a new native paper published in Calcutta, has entered the field of competition for scurrility, and the chances are that it will bear off the palm of superiority in this particular line. The following is one of its maiden efforts:—

"To a Jain the life of a mosquito (sic) is as much precious as the life of a man. This is one extreme. To an Anglo-Indian the life of a native is as worthless as the life of a mosquito. This is the other extreme. The one considers his religion to be as merciful to the meanest insect as he should be to himself, the religion of the other is to be as careless of native lives as those of the mosquitos. India is the traditional abode of religious sects, and it is not strange that we have got another new sect in the Anglo-Indians. The fundamental principle of this new religion is to hate the natives as they hate their enemies and to murder them as they would shoot a snipe (sz.) or a wild buffalo. The Anglo-Indian editors are the gurus of this new sect, and the Defence Association their new religious council to settle their faith. The followers are all over the land and vigorously carrying into action the principles of their new religion"—Times of India.

"An appeal to the Educated Hindoos," signed by Pramatha Bhushana Dewa Ray, of Naldanga, has reached us. It has apparently been printed for circulation. The object is to prevail upon educated Bengalis to divert some of the time and attention they now devote to fostering crude and impossible political aspirations, to remedying the social evils existing among them, and which urgently call for reform. Special emphasis is laid on the necessity for ameliorating the condition of unfortunate Hindu widows by abolishing the caste rules against their marrying again.

MADRAS.

A DONATION.—His Excellency the Nawab Munir Ul Mulk Bahadur has made a donation of Rupees 250 to the Mouegar Choultry.

The hearing of the charges against Mr. Breaks-Atkinson, of the Madras Civil Service, commenced at Tinnevely on the 21st ult. The charges relate to the borrowing of money from natives resident in the district of which Mr. Atkinson had charge.

At the Madras High Court, on the 21st ult., Mr. Wallace's application for the criminal prosecution of certain members of the Madras Government was dismissed.

CUSTOMS REVENUE.—During last month the amount of duty collected at the Sea Custom House on goods imported and exported, was Rs. 30,674 3-11. In June, 1883, the amount was Rs. 42,676 6-7.

EXPORT OF COFFEE, TEA AND COTTON.—The total shipments from Madras during the past month of coffee aggregated 2,481 cwt., valued at Rs. 1,06,164; tea, 21,665 lb., valued at Rs. 21,645; cotton, 30,727 cwt., valued at Rs. 7,12,172.

SURGEON GENERAL.—We learn from a reliable source that Dr. Furned will succeed Dr. Cornish as Surgeon General, and that Dr. Bide will be appointed Sanitary Commissioner for Madras Presidency.—Ooty Observer.

THEFT IN A TEMPLE.—About two weeks ago it was discovered that the temple of Terrukutchin in the Chingleput district, had been broken open, and jewellery to the value of Rs. 7,000 stolen therefrom. Information was given to the police, and three men were arrested the other day in the Flower Bazaar, Black town, who were seen offering some of the jewels for sale to a shroff. The men admitted having stolen the jewels from the temple.

THE ROYAL TIGERS.—This Regiment, (late 67th) now stationed at Cannanore, will march to Secunderabad next January, to which station they have been posted. They will pass through Bangalore, where they were extremely popular when garrisoned there a few years ago.

CHOLERA IN MYSORE.—Nine fatal cases of cholera have been reported from the Shimoga District and seven from Devangiri Taluk, all within eighteen miles of Bangalore. The military authorities are taking special precautions to prevent an outbreak among the troops.

BANK OF MADRAS.—At a meeting of the Directors of the Bank of Madras held on the 24th ult., the rates of interest and discount were reduced one per cent. a round.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR AT THE HIGH COURT.—His Excellency the Nawab Munir-ul-mulk Bahadur, son of the late Sir Salar Jung, visited the High Court on the 24th ult., accompanied by his staff. Mr. Justice Kernan escorted His Excellency round the various courts.

MUNICIPAL ELECTION.—The following is the result of the polling for the election of a commissioner for the 6th Division:—For Mr. F. G. R. Branson there were 15 votes; and for Mr. J. Higginbotham one vote. As less than 20 votes were recorded for Mr. F. G. R. Branson, there is considered to have been no election.

At the Mysore Criminal Sessions of Bangalore on the 21st ult. nineteen dacoits were sentenced to penal servitude for life on charges of committing a series of gang robberies in the Tumkur and Chitaldroog districts.

Madras has its white elephant in the shape of a Tenancy Bill as well as Bengal and official opinion seems, generally speaking, to be against the Bill in its present form. The principal objections also bear some resemblance to those taken to the Bengal Bill. A Revenue officer writes as follows to a Madras paper:—"On a careful perusal of the Bill called 'The Madras Tenancy Bill,' I am inclined to believe that the principles on which the Bill is based will not secure the object aimed at, and that they are incorrect and unsound. Its provisions appear (1) to create new circumstances; (2) to destroy the sacredness of legal and lawful contracts, solemnly entered into with all the formalities and sanction of the law and immemorial usage after incurring costly expenses; (3) to unsettle a good deal which has been admitted on all hands as undisputed; (4) create bad blood between the owners of land, the farmers of Revenue and the cultivators of the land; (5) render the position of the latter worse than it is now; (6) increase the difficulties of the farmer; (7) add to the work of the over-worked local Revenue officers; and (8) do no unmixed good to anybody.—Englishman.

AN AUTHOR'S SUIT.—A suit which is likely to interest publishers of educational books was fixed for hearing on the 15th ult. in the High Court, the plaintiff being Mr. R. S. Sheppard, B.A., Acting Professor of Mathematics in Pachappah's High School, and the defendant, the proprietor of the Empress of India Press (Mr. Shunmoogappa Chetty) on Popham's Broadway. The hearing of this suit, however, has been adjourned owing to Mr. Auanda Cuarlui, B.A., and B.L., the vakil for the plaintiff, being absent at Nellore. Mr. Sheppard entrusted the defendant with the printing and publishing of only a certain number of copies of his English Text Book; but according to the plaint filed in Court the defendant printed extra copies and disposed of them, the plaintiff suffering loss and damage thereby. The defendant, it would appear, alleges that he printed only fifty extra copies, and these because the formes came to grief, necessitating the reprint. Mr. Sheppard has produced copies of his work different in typographical arrangement from those issued among the number ordered by him. The case will be heard as soon as counsel are prepared to go on with it.

PAYMENT TO PIONEER CORPS.—At the last Camp of Exercise, the 4th Pioneers at Bangalore were employed in clearing the site for the various camps, and Colonel Hodding, commanding the regiment, submitted a bill for working pay. The Controller of Military Accounts has, however, we hear, refused to sanction it in the case of any Pioneer corps in Madras. This seems hard lines. When Pioneers are engaged on special work other than regimental duties, of a laborious character, they surely should receive batta. The new military entrenchment at Bangalore is being constructed by the Pioneers, who will certainly expect working pay; but unless the Government pass a special scale of payment for such cases, the Controller will probably refuse to sanction it.

A VALUABLE SUGGESTION.—His Excellency Mr. Grant Duff left Bangalore, on the occasion of his recent visit, without any salute being fired in his honour. On inquiring into the cause of this omission we learned that His Excellency has resolved to economise as much as possible in powder, the amount thus saved to go towards defraying the extra cost of living on the hills. If his Excellency stayed at Ooty altogether, for the remainder of his term of office the saving in the one item of powder would be considerable. We think we are entitled to an invitation to the next cheap entertainment at the Leaky Palace, for this last valuable suggestion.

BOMBAY.

The total sum subscribed for the guarantee fund of the Bombay International Exhibition now amounts to Rs. 12,51,000. The Bank of Bombay has reduced its minimum rate to 4 per cent. per annum.

A portion of the silver stolen from the Bombay Mint has been accidentally found buried in the compound. Several arrests have been made.

Colonel Sir O. St. John having handed over charge to Mr. Cordery, left Hyderabad on the 18th ult. for Bombay en route to Simla. There was a large attendance at the station, including ministers and officers of the garrison, to wish him and Lady St. John farewell.

DEATH OF DR. ANUNDRAO ATMARAN PANDURANG.—We regret to announce the death of Dr. Anund Rao Atmaran Pandurang, son of Dr. Atmaran Pandurang, which took place at Rajkote last week at the age of 32 years. When about 19 years of age the deceased was sent to England to receive his education, and by dint of hard study was able to acquire the degrees of M.B. and B.Sc. of the London University, and successfully competed for and obtained four gold medals in different branches of medicine. He was the first native on this side of India who obtained these degrees and distinctions. Shortly after his arrival in Bombay, about two years ago, symptoms of consumption manifested themselves, and the disease eventually caused his death. Great sympathy is felt by the native community for the deceased's father in his bereavement. The deceased gentleman held numerous testimonials from eminent medical men with whom he was associated in England, all of whom spoke of his professional attainments and social qualities in the most flattering manner.—Times of India.

BURMA.

A Rangoon telegram to the Madras Mail, dated July 22, says:—"A fracas occurred yesterday between two officers, one an Aide to the General commanding, and the other a barrister accused of persecuting a young lady with unwelcome devotion. The barrister being requested to cease his attentions, refused, when an assault followed a general scrimmage."

Proposals for aiding the Burma Trading Company, which consists of Burmans and Chinamen, to make thirty-five miles of railway from the Pegu river, near Syriam, to Kadonbow, in the Kyauktan sub-division, are being submitted to the Government of India for sanction. The Government is also to be asked to hasten the commencement of the Bassein-Henzada Railway either as a State line or aided line undertaken by English concessionaires.

The Burma State Railway is increasing in prosperity. During the first half of 1884, as compared with 1883, the net earnings were 6¼ lakhs, being an increase of two lakhs and six thousand. About half a lakh of net earnings is due to the new line to Pegu, which is equal to 5 per cent. per annum on the capital fairly debitable to that section. The line to Pyuntaza was opened on July 3, and although this is the slack season and the country round Pyuntaza is neither thickly peopled nor well cultivated, the trains on that section during the first fortnight earned enough to cover working expenses. These facts show that any well-chosen line in Burma will pay.

RANGOON.—The Cantonment Committee have placed Rs. 1,800 at the credit of the executive engineer, to be expended on works in cantonments. The money will be chiefly spent in repairing the roads.

The Indian Daily News asks:—What has become of the British merchant seaman? He seems to be generally approaching the position the dodo occupies in natural history. A case was before the Rangoon Police Court the other day, in which the crew of a British barque had to be examined. There was some difficulty in arriving at what they had to say. A German was sworn as interpreter, but was not able to do much towards clearing up matters, one man being a Russo-Fin, another a Dane, and so on. At last, a paragraph in a local paper tells us a man was found who had a very hazy idea of German. What is the object of British shipowners in employing such crews? Is it really that British seaman cannot be found, or that foreigners can be got for less pay.

A large stone slab covered with ancient inscriptions has been brought over from the village of Kyauktoo, near Maulmain. It is to be placed in the Phayre Museum.

"An attempt is," the Pioneer states, "to be made to assist the Government of British Burma in dealing with the convict difficulty. One hundred of its criminals are at once to be imported into India, with the necessary complement of Burmese warders, to be distributed over the jails in various parts of the country. Fifty or sixty more convicts will follow annually, until the new Central Jail, which is to be built in or near Rangoon, and improved police administration—for that is at the root of the evil—enables local resources to provide for their own bad bargains independently of help from without."

INDIAN MILITARY INTELLIGENCE.

Lieutenant Colonel Henry Doveton Battye, Bengal Staff Corps, retires from the service on the 26th August. He is residing in England.

Captain W. B. Ferris, of the Bombay Staff Corps, and Major W. H. Haydon, Royal Engineers, have been permitted to return to duty.

Lieutenant E. Dolphin, 2nd Battalion Royal Lancaster Regiment has been granted fifteen months leave to England, on private affairs.

Captain Sir R. S. Riddell, Bart., the 1st Battalion East Surrey Regiment, is about to proceed to England on leave on urgent private affairs.

Honorary Lieutenant W. P. Carsen, of the Ordnance Department, Simla, has been appointed Lieutenant in the 2nd Punjab Volunteer Rifle Corps.

Major G. W. Sawyer, Bombay Staff Corps, Military Account Department, on return from furlough next month, proceeds to Madras as Pay Examiner.

Lieutenant H. A. S. Ried, South Yorkshire Regiment, Wing Officer on probation 1st Goorkhas, has been granted leave to Bombay for six months to study the native languages.

Major N. St. K. Carter, East Indian Railway Volunteer Rifle Corps, has been promoted Lieutenant Colonel, and Captain C. H. Denham, has been promoted Major, vice Carter.

Lieutenant C. H. Crofton, F Battery A Brigade, Royal Horse Artillery, has been sent home on medical certificate, having lost his eyesight through an accident at gun drill.

It is believed that Captain Simpson, Marine Battalion, Bombay, is likely to be appointed officiating wing commander, 3rd Beluch Regiment, during the absence of Major Bulkley with the 27th Native Infantry.

Lieutenant Owen Wheeler, Leicestershire Regiment, attached to the Intelligence Branch, has been appointed Secretary to the United Service Institution in India, vice Major Gowan, whose term of office has expired.

Captain R. K. Ridgeway, V.C., 44th Bengal Native Infantry, has been appointed to officiate as Assistant Quartermaster General of the Presidency District, during the absence on extended furlough of Lieutenant Colonel Hanna.

Lieutenant Clement Maitland Edwards, 1st Battalion Worcestershire Regiment, and Lieutenant David Birwood Thomson, 2nd Battalion East Yorkshire Regiment, have been appointed probationers for the Bombay Staff Corps.

The Quetta Brigade is henceforth to be under the immediate command of the Commander in Chief in India, but it is not yet known whether the accounts of the command will remain under Bombay, as at present, or be placed under Bengal.

Captain John Fordyce, Military Account Department, Paymaster Punjab Circle, has been granted privilege leave from the 15th July, to the 30th September, his duties during his absence being taken up by Lieutenant G. A. Williams, the Deputy Paymaster.

The Inspector of Army Schools, Lower Circle, Bengal, Captain W. Robinson, has been retired from the 12th July, and will proceed to England about the 1st proximo. Captain Robinson served for a long time in the Madras Presidency, attached to the 2nd Battalion 10th Foot.

Owing to the increasing importance of the Frontier commands, the Commander in Chief has recommended, and the Government of India has approved, that the Thull Chotali command be considered a 4th class station command with an allowance of Rs.200 attached to it.

Lieutenant Colonel H. de G. Warter, lately promoted from the command of the G Battery A Brigade, Royal Horse Artillery at Meerut, and posted to Kirkee, for duty, will not join at the latter station until about the middle of August, as he is detained on duty of a confidential nature at Mossoorie.

Major Robert Proctor Tickell, Royal (late Bengal) Engineers, Superintending Engineer, 3rd Circle, Irrigation Works, North-West Provinces, died at Paricha, near Jhansi, on the 10th July, aged forty-three. The date of his first commission was 9th December, 1859; he was promoted Major under the Warrant of 24th June, 1881. The decease had no war services.

Brigadier General H. C. Wilkinson, C.B., Commanding the Presidency District, was to proceed to Darjeeling, on inspection duty, on the 25th instant, accompanied by Major J. Cook, Deputy Assistant Adjutant General. The command of the garrison of Fort William and Alipore will devolve on Colonel E. J. McNair, 4th Bengal Native Infantry during the absence of Brigadier General Wilkinson.

Colonel Robert Mallaby, of the Bombay Staff Corps, succeeds to his allowances on the 3rd proximo. He joined the Staff Corps from the 13th Bombay N.I., obtaining his lieutenant-colonelcy on 3rd August, 1872, having entered the service on that day, 1846. Colonel Mallaby, who has been doing general duty at Bombay since last November, is in possession of a good service pension, which he will relinquish. He served during the Afghan War of 1880.

The Commander-in-Chief in India has published an order directing that whenever an officer of the British Army is granted leave of absence out of India, in anticipation of His Excellency's sanction, no period of absence is to be specified in this local order authorising the officer's departure, which should merely state that the officer is permitted to proceed in anticipation of the leave which will hereafter be granted him by the Commander in Chief.

The Secretary of State for India having laid down some new principle for the Indian reliefs, the same has been accepted by the Governor General in Council, who has now sanctioned the 1st Battalion of the South Lancashire Regiment being placed under orders for Aden, instead of the 1st Battalion Durham Light Infantry, which corps (the 68th) will stand fast at Allahabad for another year. The 1st South Lancashire Regiment (the 40th) is at present stationed at Peshawur.

The Furukabad Volunteer Rifle Corps has obtained a high degree of efficiency. In forwarding the report of the inspection to the Government of the North-West Provinces, the Adjutant-General states that in the Commander in Chief's opinion the report is very satisfactory, as showing that the corps, though very small, is individually well trained to the use of arms, and that the arms, accoutrements and clothing, have all been well cared for. The figure of merit 119.95, shows a marked degree of efficiency, and the percentage of extra-efficients, 95.00, is very high.

SIR JOSEPH PEASE ON OPIUM.

SIR JOHN STRACHEY in the chapter on Opium in his book on "The Finances of India," applies to the opium abolition the powerful words of Condorcet, "L'enthousiaste ignorant est la plus terrible des betes ferores." It has been reserved for Sir Joseph Pease, the Radical member for Durham, to show how fully he merits the title of an ignorant enthusiast on the subject of opium. In the recent farcical debate on the Indian Budget he made his annual attack on the Opium Revenue, and having repeated the usual stock arguments on the subject, he produced one new argument which perhaps appeared to him to be likely to tempt the cupidity of a Radical Administration. But it is in the old story that what is true is not new, and what is new is not true: His new argument is that "if the cultivation of the poppy is suppressed, the Government of India would derive an increase of the revenues from the soil now dedicated to the poppy."

It would be interesting to learn on what authority or on whose information Sir Joseph Pease made this novel and utterly inaccurate statement. He seems to imagine that the land on which the poppy is now grown is the property of Government, and that it would be in the power of the local Governments to prescribe that the fields should be cultivated with grapes or thistles, with flax or indigo, with sugar-cane or onion, instead of the poppy which is now grown on them. To those who have had some experience in connection with the Bengal Tenancy Bill as to the ignorance of the British public regarding Indian land-questions, it may not be surprising that the honourable member for Durham should have thus exposed his own ignorance. But such ignorance is not excusable on the part of one of our legislators who professes to have made the opium question the subject of his special study. Does he know who the zemindars of Behar and Bengal are? And has he never heard that under the Perpetual Settlement made by Lord Cornwallis, in 1793, the proprietary right in the land was solemnly and deliberately vested in the zemindars? Is he aware that the cultivation of the poppy is favourably regarded by the zemindars, and by those hereditary cultivators of the poppy who with their wives and families, to the number of about a million souls, live happily and well by the cultivation of the poppy-crop? Sir Joseph Pease may be assured that however much the suppression of the poppy would injure the present cultivators and the zemindars, it would never add a shilling to the land revenue of the Government of India.

THE BRITISH TROOPS WITHDRAWN FROM INDIA FOR EGYPT.

THE telegraph announces that two regiments are under orders to proceed at once from India to Egypt. It is stated that these regiments would, in any case, have been included in the reliefs of the coming season; and this statement is put forward as if it were a full and valid excuse for what looks very like a little bit of trickery on the part of the Government, and for what is at any rate, a roundabout and unsatisfactory arrangement. The statement is made with so much official authority, that we suppose it may be assumed that the reliefs for these regiments will be sent out from this country to India with as little delay as may be compatible with the other trooping arrangements. It will be a little hard on the relieving regiments, who will be hurried off an inclement season of the year to the heat of the Red Sea and a first arrival in India, without the compensating advantage of any chance of taking part in the next of the long series of Mr. Gladstone's little "gunpowder and glory" affairs. This, however, is a very small matter; like the Napiers, the British soldier is "ready, aye ready," whenever duty calls, however scant may be the consideration meted out to him by a peace-loving, war-making Government. But the question that will occur to every one is, why, when British troops are wanted at Suez, should we bring them from Bombay to Suez, in order to take others from England via Suez to Bombay? It is idle to talk of acclimatisation; for experience teaches that a long tour of service in India is by no means the best preparation for an arduous campaign in a hot climate. The meaning of the operation is simply this, that Mr. Gladstone thinks that Sir Wilfrid Lawson and Mr. Labouchere will not notice his bloodthirsty operations if they are carried on from the Indian side—and also that it is safer, during the period that must elapse before the despatch of reliefs, to deplete the Indian garrison, rather than draw troops from England. But have Lord Ripon and his military advisers no word to say on this point? On the night of the Indian Budget debate, when Sir George Balfour pointed out how far below its normal strength the Indian Army is at present, Mr. Cross was most anxious to assure the House that such a state of affairs would be remedied before April next. Will the confidence of our Indian fellow-subjects in the honesty of Ministerial professions, and in our determination to defend the Empire from foreign aggression, be increased by the announcement, within a week from the date of Mr. Cross's speech, that two more British regiments are to be withdrawn from India for service in Egypt?

HOME NEWS.

COUNCIL DRAFTS ON INDIA.—The tenders for Rs.20,00,000 in bills on India were received on Wednesday at the Bank of England. The amounts allotted were—In bills on Calcutta, Rs.2,32,500; on Bombay, Rs.9,62,000; and on Madras, Rs.1,57,500, the average rate in all cases being 1s. 7½d. In telegraphic transfers—On Calcutta, Rs.8,00,000, average rate 1s. 7½d. 25d., making a total of Rs.21,52,000. Tenders for bills on all Presidencies at 1s. 7½d., and for telegraphic transfers on Calcutta at 1s. 7 9-16d. will receive 50 per cent. Subsequently bills for Rs. 50,000 on Calcutta, and Rs.7,500 on Madras were sold at 1s. 7 17-32d. Between April 1 and Wednesday night remittances for Rs.652,33,967 were disposed of, realising £5,358,547.

AFGHAN DISTRICTS UNDER ENGLISH RULE.—Some interesting particulars are given in an Indian paper received by last week's mail as to the consequences of the establishment of English administration in the districts of Quetta and Sibi, of which the latter contributed an annual revenue to the Ameer of Afghanistan. It is a matter of figures. Sibi used to furnish the Afghan ruler with a sum each year of Rs.10,000, it now yields us Rs.125,000. Quetta never provided the exchequer of the Khan of Khelat with a greater sum than Rs.20,000; we derive from it Rs.150,000. The larger increase in the case of Sibi is no doubt due to the presence of the railway. If the experience of these places may be applied to the districts of Afghanistan proper, and there is no reason why it should not, less ought to be heard in the future than has been written in the past about the impossibility of raising a sufficient revenue in that country to pay for its efficient garrisoning and administration.

THE LATE SIR BARTLE FRERE.—An address from the Mayor and Town Council of Durban, Natal, has been forwarded to Lady Frere, conveying the following resolution, carried unanimously at a meeting held on June 4, viz.:—"That this Council has heard with the deepest regret the sad intelligence of the death of Sir Bartle Frere, and desires to place on record its sense of the great services rendered by him to Natal and South Africa during the period in which he held office as High Commissioner, and further to convey to Lady Frere and her family its expression of profound sympathy in the loss they have sustained." Resolutions were also carried at a public meeting at Aliwal North, Cape Colony, on the 2nd of June expressing a sense of the great loss the Empire has sustained "in the demise of a man whose sound and far-seeing political judgment, whose ready sympathy with colonial difficulties, and whose personal qualities, both as a gentleman and as a Christian, have endeared him to all who knew him, and rendered him the best Governor the Cape Colony ever had," and condoling with the relations of the late Sir Bartle Frere in their bereavement. In addition to the many addresses previously mentioned, Lady Frere has received addresses expressive of profound regret and condolence on the death of Sir Bartle Frere from, among others, the Mayor and Town Council of East London, South Africa; the Mayor and Municipality of Grahamstown, South Africa; the University of the Cape of Good Hope (of which Sir Bartle Frere was Chancellor); and the Royal Northern Star Lodge, Aliwal North, South Africa; and also letters of condolence and very deep sorrow from the President of the Orange Free State; and from India, from many native gentlemen, and also native ladies.

THE SILVER MARKET AND THE EASTERN EXCHANGES.

MONDAY.—Bar silver has been very quiet at 50 13-16d. per ounce, and the price of Mexican dollars is nominally quoted at 50 3/4d., pending the receipt of the consignment per the Ville de Brest. The Eastern exchange rates remain at 18. 7 9-16d. in Calcutta, 18. 7 17-32d. in Bombay, 3s. 9d. in Hong Kong, and 5s. 2 1/4d. in Shanghai. Four and-a-Half per Cent. Rupee Paper closed 1/4 higher at 83 3/4 83 3/4, but the Four per Cents. are unaltered at 81 3/4 81 3/4.

TUESDAY.—The market for bar silver is easier in tone, but 50 13-16d. per ounce is still the nominal quotation. The Mexican dollars per Ville de Brest have yet to be received, and in the meantime business in coined silver is suspended, the nominal price for it being 50 3/4d. per ounce. Eastern exchange rates are somewhat lower at 18. 7 17-32d. in both Calcutta and Bombay, and 5s. 2d. in Shanghai, Hongkong remaining at 3s. 9d. Four and-a-Half per Cent. Rupee Paper has lost yesterday's advance and closed at 83 3/4 83 3/4, the Four per Cents. leaving off at 81 3/4 81 3/4.

WEDNESDAY.—Transactions in bar silver have been very limited, as they only comprised a trifling amount received per Medway. This was secured for, India at 50 3/4d. per ounce, showing a fall of 1-16d. Mexican dollars are nominally quoted at 50 3/4d. per ounce, the bulk of the arrival per French packet Ville de Brest having reached the Bank too late for shipment by this week's steamer to China. No exchange advices have been to hand from India, as there was a holiday in both Bombay and Calcutta to-day. China exchange rates and Rupee Paper are unaltered.

THURSDAY.—Business has again been done in bar silver at 50 3/4d. per ounce, but the market was easy at the last, the Indian exchange rates being weaker at 18. 7 1/2d. The unsold balance of Mexican dollars ex the French packet which was on hand last night is still offered, and the price of coined silver remains nominally at 50½d. China exchange rates are unaltered, and so is Rupee Paper at 81½ to 81¾ for the Four, and 83½ to 83¾ for the Four-and-a-Half per Cents.

FRIDAY.—Bar silver is not very much wanted at 50½d. per ounce, the current price, and the market has been very inactive all day. The remainder of the Mexican dollars received per Ville de Brest has been cleared at 50½d. Indian telegraphic transfers rates are quoted at 1s. 7 15-32d. in Calcutta and 1s. 7½d. in Bombay. Rupee Paper has been quiet at previous quotations, and China exchange rates are unaltered.

SATURDAY.—All the recent arrivals of both kinds of silver having been cleared there has to-day been an almost complete absence of business. The prices of bars and dollars are unaltered at 50½d. and 50¾d. per ounce respectively. Eastern exchange rates show no variation. Dealings in Rupee Paper have also been extremely limited. The Four-and-a-Half per Cents. remain at 83½, and the Four per Cents. are ¼ lower at 81¼ 81½.

LONDON PRODUCE MARKETS.

TUESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—Little business has been done by private contract. 9,562 packages were offered without reserve at the China auctions, 8,038 being new season's black and red leaf Congous. 2,450 half chests common to good common black leaf sold, at from 7¼d. to 9¾d. per lb.; 864 packages good common to fair, 10d. to 11¼d. per lb.; and 240 half-chests fair medium at 1s. 1¾d. per lb. Red siftings passed at 4¾d. to 5½d. per lb.; common Padroes, Sarymus, and Soo-Moos, at 6¼d. to 7¾d. per lb.; good common to fair, 8d. to 11¼d. per lb. Past season's black leaf sold at 6d. per lb. The Indian sales were small, comprising only 1,600 packages, of which 892 were second hand parcels of old season's imports, printed "without reserve." Generally prices are unchanged, but some of the old season's teas went much in favour of buyers. About 6,600 packages tea, chiefly new season's, were sold without reserve to-day. 2,433 half-chests good common to fair black leaf Congous realised steady rates—7¼d. to 10½d. per lb. Red leaf kinds, from 6¼d. per lb., sold in favour of buyers. Red leaf siftings brought 4¾d. to 5½d. per lb. Further extensive auctions of chiefly Foochow teas are announced for to-morrow and Thursday.

SUGAR.—The market is so depressed that scarcely any business has been done, and the supplies brought to auction were all bought in or withdrawn, and no transactions reported in West India privately. Some brown China, ex last week's sale, have sold at 9s. Since Friday beet has declined 1½d., and is quiet. In the Clyde market a steady inquiry for pieces of fair quality at full rates.

COFFEE.—In auction, 109 casks, 24 barrels and bags Plantation Ceylon found buyers at very high rates for fine coloury kinds; bold, 93s. 6d. to 104s.; fine middling, 74s. 6d.; middling grayish, 62s. 6d. to 63s.; 912 bags Guatemala went at about previous rates; mixed to good ordinary foxy greenish, 43s. to 46s.; fine ordinary, 48s. 6d. to 49s.; 62 bags Savanilla, 51s. to 53s. 6d.; part 347 bags Honduras, 66s. 6d. per cwt.

COCOA.—A rather improved market, 1,552 bags Trinidad chiefly sold at steady rates, common to middling, 68s. 6d. to 76s.; good to fine, 78s. to 83s.; superior, 92s. 1,045 bags Grenada sold—Common, rather dearer, at 63s. to 66s.; middling to good, 1s. to 2s. higher, 68s. to 73s. 6d.; fine and superior, 75s. to 79s. 74 bags Ceylon, few lots, 75s. 6d. 1,251 bags Guayaquil were partly realised at 74s. to 76s. 6d. for fair gray Aribi; and 144 bags Surinam at 70s. to 76s. per cwt.

RICE.—Saigon afloat has sold at 6s. 9d. to 6s. 9¾d., including a steamer cargo of 2,900 tons for Bremen at the latter price.

PEPPER.—No change reported.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

TEA.—More general business has been doing on the private market, chiefly in fair to medium grades of red leaf. In auction, 8,128 packages passed "without reserve," 7,900 being new season's red and black leaf of common to good common qualities, which sold occasionally in favour of buyers, but generally without any quotable alteration in values. 1,500 half chests broken leaf and siftings sold at from 5¼d. to 6d. per lb. For to-morrow, 9,524 packages red leaf and 1,892 packages black leaf are catalogued for auction, 3,441 packages Indian were offered at to-day's sales, and 441 Ceylons. Many breaks of old season's teas were withdrawn, but the new seasons sold without alteration in prices.

SUGAR.—Business in raw sugar is still suspended, and beet has fallen to 12s. 3d. for prompt shipment. In the Clyde market the lower qualities of pieces have sold at easier rates.

COFFEE.—The Dutch sale having gone under valuations, the tone of the market is quiet. At auction, part of 283 casks 57 barrels and bags Plantation Ceylon was bought in. Fine and bold qualities, however, brought late high rates from 83s. to 103s.; other grades dull. 109 casks 3,227 bags East Indian part sold—medium to bold Coorg, &c., 64s. to 73s. 6d.; fine, 95s.; Naboodatum, 68s. to 68s. 6d.; Mysore, bold, 89s. to 99s. 6d.; medium, 64s. to 65s. 6d.; 80 half-barrels Mocha brought in, 86s. to 88s., 397 bags Manila at 46s.; and 268 bags Guatemala withdrawn.

SPICES.—The public sales have gone flatly. All the black and white pepper offered was brought in. Cut Cochin ginger sold steadily, small to good medium 51s. 6d. to 50s.; mixed to good bold, 68s. 6d. to 81s.; fine selected, 97s. to 105s.; rough, at 44s. 6d. to 49s. showed barely last week's rates. A lot or two Bengal sold 30s., and Jamaica 49s. to 51s. der cwt. A small quantity Pimento sold 2¼d. to 2¾d. Zanzibar cloves at 5½d. to 5¾d. A few cases mace 1s. 3d. to 1s. 4d. per lb. 650 barrels cassia lignea bought in at 28s. per cwt.

11s., and bullet pearl tapioca at 14s. per cwt. Flake tapioca, 1¾d. to 2d. per lb.

RICE.—A cargo of 1,270 tons Necranzie off the coast has sold at 7s. 1½d. near port. To-day, two of Bassein, at 7s. 9d. Liverpool, ex quay.

THURSDAY EVENING.

Messrs. W. J. and H. Thompson state that a very dull tone is prevalent in the markets for imported produce, as the general state of trade remains unsettled, and some of the sales effected have been at even lower rates than yet quoted. Good to fine descriptions of coffee adapted to the home trade have realised fully the late advance, but other kinds are inactive, partly influenced by the unfavourable result of the Dutch Trading Company's sale yesterday, when good ordinary Java sold at 26¼c. to 27c., or 1c. to 1½c. under the valuations given last week. Prices are weaker in Havre, the stock there showing a further increase during the month of July. There has been no improvement to report in the tea market. Common to fair grades of new season's Foochow Congou by auction went easier. Indian met with a steady demand at former prices. Fine and finest Ceylon teas realise full quotations. Some rice cargoes have sold upon last week's terms, or slightly under. For sugar rather lower rates are again accepted without leading to any return of confidence, and the market closes without signs of improvement. Refining Jamaica sold at 10s. 6d. to 11s. 6d., a quotation never before heard of. For German beet, prompt shipment, 12s. accepted, and new crop quoted 12s. 7½d. to 12s. 9d. per cwt., f.o.b. Nothing of interest has transpired in cocoa. The next public sales of cinnamon will be held on the 25th inst. Black and white pepper are firm at the high rates last quoted, but sales are of limited extent. Other spice is without change. Cinchona unsettled, and 2d. to 3d. lower.

TEA.—To-day's auctions comprised 11,416 packages new season's Congous "without reserve," 1,734 half-chests black leaf Congou sold steadily from 7¼d. to 9¾d. per lb.; 5,132 qt.-chests red leaf realised from 6d. to 9¾d.—irregular and occasionally lower rates; 100 chests red leaf siftings brought 5d.; 700 qr.-chests, 4½d. to 4¾d.; Souchongs, 6¾d. to 7d. common, 1s. 3¼d. medium; Oolongs, qr.-chests, 10d. to 11¼d.; boxes, 11½d.; S. O. Pekoes, 1s. 3½d. to 1s. 5½d. per lb. From Messrs. Hawes and Hertz's Fortnightly China Report:—"Black Leaf. Common to fair have tended in favour of buyers, and medium to good medium, especially at auction, sell irregularly and at weak rates. The demand for better grades has been very moderate for home consumption, and in some instances, where sales have been forced, reduced prices have been accepted. Some few transactions in Kintuck and more numerous ones in fine Ningchow show fully previous rates, the latter being chiefly for export to Russia. Red Leaf.—Quotations for the lower grades have not been materially affected since our last, but show an easy and irregular tendency. A fair business in better grades was taking place until the last few days, when the larger offerings at auction have chiefly engaged the trade's time and attention. The bulk of transactions privately have passed at about the following rates:—For Seumooos, 101. to 1s. 1½d. per lb.; Soey Kuts, 9½d. to 1s. 3½d. per lb.; Panyongs, 1s. to 1s. 4d. per lb.; Packlings, 9s. to 11d. and 1s. 4½d. per lb.; Pecco Congo, 1s. 6d. to 1s. 8d. per lb.; Souchong, 1s. 1d. to 1s. 5d. and 1s. 7d. to 1s. 10d. per lb. The demand for Russia has continued on a fair scale, especially for Ningchows, at from 1s. 5d. to 1s. 10d. per lb. Flowery Pekoes.—Further arrivals have come to hand, but the demand is very slack. Contracts have been passed for a few small lines at from 3s. 4d. to 4s. 5d. per lb. for finest and choicest quality. New Makes:—Only about 5,000 boxes have been ordered privately during the fortnight, prices being firmer, at 7¼d. to 9d. for common to good common, and fair 10d. to 1s. per lb. Oolongs.—The few samples shown have mostly been wanting in liquor and point. Common to good common we quote 10d. to 11½d.; medium to good medium, 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d.; fine to finest, 1s. 8½d. to 1s. 10d. per lb. Scented Teas.—Canton long leaf scented orange Pekoes are unchanged in value. Scented Capers are selling freely at about 7½d. to 8d. per lb. for common, 10d. to 10½d. for fair to medium. Better grades from 11d. to 1s. 2d. are difficult of sale and easier; fine to finest are scarce, and range from 1s. 5d. to 1s. 8d. Foochow Pekoes show a downward tendency all round, especially noticeable in the finer grades. Fair to medium have been selling freely at from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 4d. per lb. Capers are poor in quality, and sell slowly from 1s. to 1s. 4d. per lb."

SUGAR continues in a very depressed state, with tendency to even lower quotations. Yesterday 1,800 bags inferior brown China sold at 8s. To-day best offers at 12s. prompt shipment. In the Clyde market a fair demand for pieces at yesterday's rates.

COFFEE.—The market has been dull without further change in prices. Common kinds of Plantation Ceylon are easier to buy; 169 casks 21 barrels and bags partly sold—middling 61s. 6d. to 63s. 6d.; rather bold, 72s. to 77s.; good to fine bold, 80s. to 96s. Fine Mysore and bold East India brought very high rates, the former 101s. to 120s. 6d., with small in proportion; 232 casks 1,151 bags part sold. Part of 213 packages Jamaica mixed, 38s. to 41s.; good ordinary, 43s. to 45s. 6d.; 97 half-barrels Mocha and 3,057 bags foreign chiefly withdrawn.

PEPPER firm but quiet.

FRIDAY EVENING.

TEA.—Privately very little business has passed in the China market, and no Indian sales have been held. A small public sale of 3,043 packages, 200 half chests black, and 2,362 packages red leaf passed as follows:—Common Puklings in boxes realised 7½d. to 7¾d. per lb.; siftings, 5¼d. per lb.; broken leaf, 6d. to 6¼d. per lb.; common to good common Kaisows and Padroes, 7d. to 9¼d. per lb.; fair to medium Ching Wos and Pecco Congous, 1s. 1¼c. to 1s. 3d. per lb.

SUGAR continues to decline. Part of the crystallised Demerara by auction sold at 6d. to 1s. under last Friday's quotations. Other kinds are 6d. and beet fully 1s. lower for the week. The total sales of West India reaching 598 casks, 2,150 bags; 1,269 bags Natal, 2,339 bags

Manila, and 142 bags Egyptian, in public sale, were withdrawn. Beet closed 11s. 6d. prompt, and 12s. to 12s. 3d. new crop. In the Clyde market prices quiet at yesterday's rates.

COFFEE.—The public sales have been small, prices without change, and the market is dull. 147 casks 99 barrels and bags Plantation Ceylon sold—middling to good middling, 62s. to 68s.; bold, 73s. to 78s.; coloury ditto, 88s. to 93s. 76 half-frazils Mocha bought in, at 82s. 133 bags washed Rio, sold at 43s. to 48s. 6d.; and part of 180 bags Central American, at 44s. 6d. per cwt.

BLACK PEPPER.—Business has been done for arrival, including Singapore, at 7d. per lb.

RICE.—For arrival is dull. Coast cargoes rather easier for the week.

THE "VOICE OF INDIA."

TO THE PUBLIC OPINION OF THE PEOPLE OF INDIA.

THERE are in England large classes willing and anxious to do justice to India, but they find it very difficult to know how to act. They complain that Indian questions are intricate; that the opinions of official experts are contradictory; and that the people of India are dumb, and do not give expression to their needs. This defect is now remedied
by publishing FORTNIGHTLY (in Bombay) a magazine
somewhat similar in nature to Public Opinion in England, which provides a compendium of all that is most value-able in the native journals throughout India on the leading topics of the day. The Voice of India thus gives forth a clear sound, interpreting between the rulers and the ruled, and making known the true wishes and feelings of the Indian people.

The Magazine advocates no views of its own. It seeks only to reflect with care and accuracy the views set forth in the native press. The Indian people are naturally docile and conservative; and it will be seen that the writings
thus brought before the English public are characterised by a knowledge of facts, and generally by practical good sense and moderation. No doubt grievances are from time to time being set forth; but it is a policy of prudence, no less than of justice to give these grievances a fair constitutional hearing. Accordingly, it is hoped that this publication will be subscribed for by Members of Parliament and other public men desirous of dealing with Indian questions, and that the facts thus brought together in a convenient form will be of value to journalists and other public writers. It is specially desired to bring the Magazine before the public in Clubs, Reading-rooms, Libraries, and Institutes throughout
England, with a view to promote a sustained and intelligent interest in the welfare of our Indian Empire, comprising as it does 220 millions of our fellow-subjects.

FIFTY-SEVEN.

SOME ACCOUNT OF THE ADMINISTRATION OF INDIAN DISTRICTS
DURING THE REVOLT OF THE BENGAL ARMY.

By

HENRY GEORGE KEENE, C.I.E., M.R.A.S.,

Author of "The Fall of the Mughal Empire," &c.

"The author breaks new ground. He essays to inform us how the different districts in the North West were preserved from anarchy by their civil administration during such a stupendous catastrophe as the revolt of the army, upon which the support of social order, in a great measure, depended. The task involves stories of adventure and pluck, which never come amiss to the many readers who have read of the same in the pages of fiction. The author's narrative is written in a clear, concise, and unobtrusive style, and is a most valuable contribution to the history of the Indian Civil Service, and to the knowledge of an English gentleman."—World.

"Mr. Keene tells us the civil officers of the North West, who, in the face of the most desperate and bloody rebellion, maintained the order, largely by their own individual influence, and by the aid of the loyal and brave native subordinates. He describes the events which culminated in the final suppression of the revolt of the North West Provinces and Dergal. His narrative is unpretentious in style, but it clearly shows that the courage, devotion, and self-sacrifice were displayed among the members of the Indian Civil Service, as well as by the British troops who stormed Delhi, relieved Lucknow, and avenged the crimes of Cawnpore."—Scotsman.

"This work claims our hearty recognition of its thoroughness. It gives us a most readable and trustworthy recognition of the reports of eye-witnesses, always the most valuable to the student of history. It has a special interest from the fact that Mr. Keene was himself one of those district officers who honourably held their ground during those fearfully exciting times."—Literary World.

"Mr. Keene writes to give somewhat tardy honour where it is due—viz., to the civilian officers who, during the period of the Indian Mutiny, remained at their posts, and in many instances, deprived of military aid, had themselves to raise and command troops for the protection of the district."—Illustrated London News.

"A volume which seems to us to break new ground, and to supply a want felt by those who have ever endeavoured to study the subject. The matter is, for the most part, new, and it treats of incidents in themselves fairly entitled to attention, and calculated to give interest to the reader. The fights, the rides, and the surprises and the escapes are all related in picturesque language."—Home News.

ALLEN'S INDIAN MAIL.

MONDAY, AUG. 25, 1884.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

OUR advices by the overland mail are, from Bombay, Aug. 4; Madras and Allahabad, Aug. 3; Calcutta, Aug. 2.

THE following important telegram was received in London on Friday last, August 22, dated Chupra, Aug. 22:—"A monster meeting was held here yesterday August 21, to protest against the Bengal Tenancy Bill, His Highness the Maharajah of Hutiya being in the chair." The Maharajah, in opening the proceedings, showed, by facts taken from the Administration Reports of the Southal Pergunnahs, that the proposed introduction of transferability of occupancy rights will sweep away the present ryots, and will introduce a new class of Mahajan middlemen. A resolution was carried unanimously, condemning the Bill, and pointing out that Free Sale should not be conceded, since the dangerous tendency of Free Sale is admitted by Government, and the proposed safeguards are insufficient. The grant of extended powers to the Collector is wrong on principle, and contrary to the spirit of the Regulations. The Bill is subversive of zemindary rights without conferring any benefits on the tenants. It was further declared that the provisions of the Bill are unworkable, whilst ruinous litigation will be inevitable at every step. It was resolved that action should be taken in concert with the Central Committee of the Landholders, with the Indian Constitutional Association, and with the Behar Landholder's Association.

A HIGHLY-IMPORTANT movement has, we are glad to learn, been set on foot in Calcutta for facilitating the re-admission of "England-returned" Hindoo gentlemen into the social body-politic of their native country. The question is one that has long pressed for an enlightened and amicable solution, and we heartily wish the movement every success. As in all such matters, a satisfactory and permanent settlement can only be secured by a liberal spirit of compromise on "give and take" on both sides, and we believe that the following suggestions, which we take from the Hindoo Patriot, are well worthy the attention of all parties concerned:—

"We are glad to learn that some of the leading members of the Kayastha community of Calcutta have set up a movement having for its object the re-admission of young men into society who may have returned from England or may do so in future, on their performing certain prescribed ceremonies and agreeing to follow Hindoo habits and customs in their daily life. The prescribed ceremonies will, we are told, be as simple in their character as is consistent with the requirements of the Shastras. It gives us great pleasure to see that Hindoo Society is gradually awakening to the necessity of taking those young men back into its bosom who may have travelled to England or other foreign countries for purposes of education; these young men by their training and education form an important class of the community, and cannot for that reason be very well spared. We hope the gentlemen who have returned from England will not be slow in taking advantage of the facilities that will be afforded them for re-entering society, and will not be reluctant to perform the harmless ceremonies that society may require of them. But the question remains, are those young men for whose benefit the movement is being made at all anxious for it? Can they accept any terms of compromise? and have they hitherto evinced any disposition to do so? Civil society is governed by certain very arbitrary but well-understood rules, and until those rules be at least generally accepted no reconciliation can be possible. Take for instance a very trifling matter. It is not permissible for a son to smoke in the presence of his father, and if a young man should insist on his pipe before his father, Mrs. Grundy will permit no reconciliation, and the scandal will be intolerable. The same may be said of a peg in such company. Again, society cannot hold on when a travelled youngster talks to his father and relatives as 'you natives,' with sneer of pity in the tone that can only provoke a violent retaliation. If our England-returned young men will show a tolerant respectful demeanour to the society they wish to rejoin, they may rest assured they will be received with the greatest alacrity."

WE want, for the success of this movement, a generous Conservatism on the one side, meeting an unaggressive and considerate Liberalism on the other.

COLONEL EWART, of the Punjab Police, has submitted to Government an elaborate scheme for the establishment of an efficient and comprehensive detective organisation for the whole of India. The remarkable increase of violent and organised crime, of which we have lately heard from the telegrams of the Times, conclusively proves that some such counter-organisation as that proposed by Colonel Ewart, is urgently needed. We publish elsewhere the criticism, generally favourable to the scheme, which the Hindoo Patriot offers on Colonel Ewart's proposal.

THE Indian Daily News says:—"His Highness Rajah Runjeet Singh, of Rutlam, takes great interest in the affairs of his State. He daily holds court for several hours, patiently listening to, and adjudicating on, all complaints and cases brought before him. He is exceedingly anxious to govern well, and Rutlam promises to be one of the best managed States in Central India. The financial state of the Chiefship is reported to be good, the Rajah being extremely prudent in expenditure and carefully supervising all sources of income. His Highness pays great attention to the important subject of education, and there are twenty-nine schools in the State including four zenana ones, all well attended and carefully looked after."

THE Times of India says:—"We are glad to hear on very good authority that Sir Frederick Roberts has just sent in a scheme for the retirement of senior officers in the Madras Army. The block there is without parallel in the history of the Staff Corps. There are 214 Lieutenant-Colonels, 68 Majors, 37 Captains, and 175 Lieutenants. Things are not quite so bad in Bombay. But an acceptable retirement scheme can scarcely be devised for Madras that would not be welcomed in Bombay also."

THE Englishman gives the following account of the Calcutta Freight Market, corrected till Saturday, August 2:—

"Steamer rates have continued very firm throughout the week, and for wheat a further advance has lately been obtained. Sailing vessels, on the other hand, have again been neglected, and the market is without animation—rates so far are maintained. Our unfixed tonnage stands at 45,000 tons."

THE Times of India gives the following obituary till the departure of the mail, Aug. 5:—

"Rev. Henry Pope, Madras Ecclesiastical Establishment; Lieutenant Colonel G. K. Shaw, 1st Battalion Durham Light Infantry, Commandant of the Kussowia Depot; Mr. S. A. L. Corrigan, Assistant Engineer, P.W.D., Punjab."

THE WEATHER AND THE CROPS.

THE following are the general remarks of the Agricultural Department on the state of the season and prospects of the crops for the week ended August 23. —

"There was rain in all the districts of the Madras Presidency, but, except in Ganjam, Kistna, and Malabar, the fall was light. In Mysore slight rain fell during the week, and in Coorg there has been a break in the monsoon, which is unfavourable for agricultural operations. In Bombay there was rain throughout the Presidency, but more is still needed in parts of Poona, Sholapur, Nasik, Ahmednagar, Belgaum, Dharwar, and Kaladgi. In the Berar and Hyderabad there has been good rain, and in the Rajputana and Central India States the rainfall has been heavier than that of last week. In the Central Provinces there was heavy rain in Raipur, Jabalpur, and Hoshangabad, but elsewhere the fall was lighter than that hitherto recorded. A further break would, however, be beneficial for young crops and for the kharif sowings. In the North Western Provinces and Oudh there was rain in most districts, but the fall was generally a light one, and more is needed in several places. In the Punjab there has been a decided increase in the rainfall, and prospects have improved. The rainfall continues seasonable in British Burma, but in Assam it is still somewhat insufficient. In Bengal the fall, except in a few districts, was generally light, and more rain is wanted everywhere, especially in Beerbhoom and Darbhunga. The report of the Meteorological Department for the 24th inst. shows no material change in the Deccan or in the Madras Presidency, where the rain is still deficient. Rain, however, has been general in Northern and Central India. Harvesting continues in some districts in Madras but the outturn is below the average. Standing crops are in want of rain in several districts. Kharif operations are in general progress in Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Punjab and the Central Provinces. In places in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh they are, however, retarded by want of rain, while in the Central Provinces a break in the rains would be beneficial for them. In Assam rearing of aus and transplanting of sali crops continue, and the prospects of tea are more favourable. In Bengal transplanting operations have been retarded by want of rain; the prospects of standing crops are still good, and harvesting of aus and cutting of jute have commenced in places. In Central India and Rujputana prospects have been improved by the recent rainfall. The public health is generally good. In Tanjore the mortality from cholera continues high. Prices are generally stationary with local fluctuations.

TELEGRAPHIC INTELLIGENCE.

The following is from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated August 21:—

"Contradictory reports have been received from the Mangal country, but apparently the Mangals are sorely pressed by the Ameer's troops, and would be glad to come to terms. They have asked the neighbouring tribes to stand security for their good behaviour in the future, hoping that the Ameer would then withdraw his troops. The result of the negotiations, however, is unknown.

"Fighting has been proceeding among the Gbilzais. They were on the point of rising, but have been reconciled to the Government by a remission of taxes.

"The delay in the start of the Afghan Frontier Commission is owing to the question of the route remaining unsettled. The matter now rests with the Ameer. The desert route will probably be adopted, unless the Ameer guarantees the Candahar route. It is hoped that the Commission may be able to leave Simla at the end of the week."

The following is the usual weekly telegram from the Calcutta correspondent of the Times, dated Aug. 24:—

"The seditious and scurrilous tone which too often displays itself in the writings of the native newspapers has become so much more marked during the last few weeks that many moderate and liberal-minded men are beginning to ask whether the re-enactment of Lord Lytton's "gagging" act is not a matter of absolute and pressing necessity. The carefully selected and expurgated articles collected for readers in England and published in a magazine called The Voice of India, give but a faint idea of what native journalists are actually writing. In order to get at the whole truth it is necessary to go direct to the fountain head. A few examples will show that it is no exaggeration to describe the tone of some of these newspapers as distinctly seditious. The recent revelations of them, rule in Indore, for instance, have afforded a text to some writers who, overlooking or careless about the misery which his grinding tyranny imposed upon his helpless subjects, have elevated Holkar to the position of an innocent victim of the despotic British Government. A Bengalee journal writes:—

"A brave Prince like Holkar could have been easily avenged upon the English for the humiliation of his family by taking the leadership of the rebels during the mutiny. Had he done so it would not have been easy to quell the mutineers. But Holkar restored peace in his State, showing skill in defending the residency and in saving the lives of Englishmen and Englishwomen. This display of heroism, which presents a striking contrast to the cowardly behaviour of Colonel Durand, has made narrow-hearted Englishmen his enemies."

"The following quotation shows how a native journal teaches its readers to appreciate the efforts of the Indian Government in the relief of famine:—

"The fiendish Englishmen say laughingly that the people of Madras died of starvation because they were improvident. If those whom they have robbed of everything lament, the fiendish Englishmen call them rebels. To beg for employment is impertinence. They call men idle if they cannot work on account of weakness caused by insufficient food."

"The Dacca Prokash, a Bengalee newspaper has, perhaps surpassed all its contemporaries. It observes in the issue of July 27 last:—

"Foreigners have taken possession of India and are sucking her dry. The people of India look on in a helpless manner. Their best interests are sacrificed for the benefit of the English. Over and above this the innocent natives are insulted and killed. At every step the people send up a cry for succour, when the English whip or the English kick falls upon them. The demons are engaged, heart and soul, in violating the chastity and taking the lives of Indian females. What a heart-rending scene! It is matter of regret that the people of India do not gird up their loins to get rid of the oppression of white men."

"Did space permit I might give many examples of a similar nature. It may, perhaps, be said that writings of this description defeat themselves by their extravagance and scurrilousness. That would doubtless be so if those journals circulated only among the educated classes. But the great mass of their readers are peasants, men who rarely see Englishmen, and whose untutored minds readily absorb the poison which irresponsible and unscrupulous writers deal out to them weekly."

"Nor is it for the vernacular press alone that censorship is required. Some Anglo-Native newspapers go to nearly equal lengths; and certain Calcutta journals, which profess to represent the younger generation of educated natives, day after day publish columns of inventions and insinuations, which the writers must know to be as false as they are cowardly. Here, for example, is a sentence culled from the account of a recent trial in the Calcutta High Court:—

"Justice Norris did not hesitate even to perjure himself on the Bench. Perjury did we say? Yes; for did not Justice Norris take oath to be a conscientious Judge when he accepted his appointment?"

"The dispute between the Calcutta Corporation and the Local Government has come to a crisis. At a meeting held on Tuesday, the Corporation resolved to record its respectful protest against the appointment of a Commission of Inquiry, as implying a harsh and unmerited condemnation of their sanitary administration. The Chairman then proposed that, while recording that protest the Corporation should exercise its right of appointing one member of the Commission. After some discussion it was arranged that the further consideration of this motion should be postponed.

"It is now announced that thirty-one members of the Corporation have resigned. The reason which they assign for this step is that the action of the Government in appointing a Commission of Inquiry is based upon inadequate grounds, and practically supersedes the Corporation, making it impossible for its members to continue in office with any self-respect or hope of usefulness. As a matter of fact, the action of the majority of the Corporation in this last step, as throughout the controversy, has been due to childish petulance and impatience of criticism, and has done more to discredit local self-government than anything that has been said or written by the strongest opponents of that policy.

"It is absurd to suppose that the Lieutenant Governor in insisting upon the proper sanitation of the city was actuated by any desire other than that of promoting the welfare of the inhabitants, and especially that of the poor and unrepresented classes. But the sensitive vanity of the Municipal Commissioners has taken alarm, and now they talk grandiloquently of an appeal to the constituencies. All this would be amusing had it not also a serious side—a side to which the spread of the cholera in Europe, and the generally recognised fact that that disease has its birthplace in Lower Bengal, giving more than local importance.

"An interesting experiment is about to be tried in Bombay. The Government has resolved to allow the ryots discount on revenue payments made in advance. In case of the advance of the current year's revenue the discount will be 3½ per cent., and will increase proportionably for more advanced payments. The Government of Bombay will report fully on the experiment after two years' trial.

"The announcement that the so-called 'Roorkee Resolution' imposing disabilities on domiciled Europeans and Eurasians had been rescinded turns out to have been premature. The Government is now corresponding with the India Office on the subject, and there is some hope that the Secretary of State may be induced to withdraw or modify the resolution.

"The Bombay Exhibition committee has passed a resolution strongly recommending that the opening of the exhibition shall be fixed for December, 1886.

"The Ameer's reply to the last letter sent him on the subject of the Frontier Commission has not yet reached Simla, but its purport is known. He cordially agrees to the suggestion that the Commission should march from Quetta via Muskhi and the Helmund to Herat, and thence to Sarakhs, and promises to make the necessary arrangements with regard to supplies and to furnish an escort. It may therefore be regarded as practically settled that the Commission will not take the Candahar Ghiehk route—a decision which is certainly a matter for regret, and is not unlikely to be interpreted as a proof of weakness on the part of the British Government. But there is this much to be said for the Muskhi route, that it will give an opportunity, of which the Commission will doubtless avail itself, for settling some boundary questions between Afghanistan, Beloochistan, and Persia, which were left open by General Goldsmid's Seistan mission.

"Colonel Ridgway will leave Simla for Quetta on Tuesday next, and the remainder of the party will follow by September 1. The escort will probably consist of 150 men of the 11th Bengal Lancers, and 200 of the 20th Punjab Infantry. The only new appointment announced last week was that of Captain William Peacocke, R.E., who will be second intelligence officer. The interests of geological and botanical science will be looked after respectively by Mr. Griesbach and Dr. Aitchison; but although the commission will pass through a country which is believed to afford a rich field for the zoologist, no special representative of that branch of science other than a native collector will be sent. Possibly it is not yet too late to repair this unfortunate omission. The best hope lies in the chance that scientific men at home may bring pressure to bear on the India Office.

THE WORKING MAN AND THE CENTRAL ASIAN QUESTION.*

MR. ROBSON, who is well known in the south of England as an energetic lecturer on foreign and colonial topics, has published, in the form of a pamphlet, one of his recent lectures bearing the above title. This was addressed to the working men of Portsmouth, at whose request it has been published; but we trust that it will have a wide circulation throughout the length and breadth of the country. It is sometimes said that party literature is the production of a few individuals at the head of a faction; but however true this may be in the case of the Radicals, who possess a regular manufactory at the Reform Club, we venture to say that it does not apply to the Conservative party, in support of which contention there could not be a better proof than that afforded by Mr. Robson's case. Such efforts, we might add, should always be encouraged at the Conservative headquarters, for now that the working man's vote exercises such a decisive influence on election, no means should be neglected to serve it. One of these means is certainly indicated by Mr. Robson's example. A person who is constantly lecturing to working men, and living in the provinces in their midst, is obviously more likely to be acquainted with their modes of thought than one, however brilliant, only occasionally seeing them. But while this is exemplified in Mr. Robson's case, and he adopts the plain simple language best known to them, he imparts a considerable amount of valuable information. From the contents of his pamphlet, it is clear that he has studied the subject deeply, particularly through the recent words of Mr. Charles Marvin, to whom the lecture, we may mention by the way, is dedicated. Mr. Robson is a thorough Imperialist. He will not tolerate a half and half policy. Russia, he rightly opines, is taking the utmost advantage of the Egyptian complications to push the conquests in Central Asia, with a view to reopen the Eastern Question. Vacillation on the banks of the Nile means increased danger on the Heri Rud. It was when our hands were full with the East Soudan war, that Russia seized Merv; if the present faulty and feeble expedition collapses at Khartoum, she may make a dash at Herat. These considerations give special significance to Mr. Robson's lecture, and we trust, in view of the impending general elections, that it will have a large circulation among the working men of England. On this account Mr. Robson has done good service in reprinting it, and we are glad to give prominence to the fact.

THE LATE SIR E. C. BAYLEY.

WE deeply regret to learn from a Reuter's telegraphic message of last week the sad intelligence of the death of one of the best and truest civilian friends of the Mussulmans of India. The Hon. Sir Edward Clive Bayley, K.C.S.I., and C.I.E., breathed his last in England, on Wednesday, 30th April. The sorrow and grief with which we are filled at the loss of the deceased is too deep and fresh to permit our doing more than merely jotting down a few principal events of his career.

Born in 1821 and brought up in the old Haileybury College, he came out to India as a civilian about 1842. He married, shortly after, a niece of the late Lord Metcalfe, and eldest daughter of the late Sir Thomas Theophilus Metcalfe, Bart., Resident at the Court of Delhi. After the second Sikh war in 1848, Sir Edward was Under Secretary under Lord Dalhousie in the Foreign Office, and then after a few years' administration-work in the Punjab, North-west and elsewhere, he rose under Lord Elgin to the Home Secretaryship, which office he held for a considerable period till the Vice-royalty of Lord Northbrook, when he was appointed Member of the Supreme Government in the Home Department. During the absence of Lord Lytton in Madras, Sir Edward was invested with the powers of the Governor-General, and acted as President of the Supreme Council. At the Imperial Delhi Assembly of 1877, he was made a Knight Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India, and was also amongst the first batch of the members and companions of the Order of the Indian Empire. For more than six or seven years Sir Edward Clive presided with eminent ability over the educational movements and progress of these provinces, as Vice-Chancellor of the Calcutta University, and for several years also he held the office of President of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, which owes much to his valuable numismatic researches and other scholarly labours in the fields of Oriental literature, which we believe did not cease to interest him and engage his attention even after his retirement from this country. He retired from the Supreme Council towards the early part of 1878, when the Earl of Lytton held a state banquet as a mark of special regard and honour, and made on the occasion a splendidly able and complimentary oration, which together with Sir Edward's modest reply, breathing genuine and warm sympathy for the people of India, is still ringing in our ears.
